[2d SESSION.

LIST OF POST OFFICES, AND THE RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES TO JANUARY 5, 1790.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, APRIL 27, 1790.

GENERAL POST OFFICE, New York, April 26, 1790.

Sir:

I do myself the honor to enclose, agreeably to the order of the honorable House of Representatives, of the 15th instant, a return which shows the route by which the mail is carried within the United States; the emoluments to each of the Postmasters; the incidental expenses and the nett revenue of each office; also the nett revenue of the Department, and expense of transporting the mail, for one quarter ending the 1st of January; and an estimate of the expense of supporting posts on the several cross roads. There are several ports of entry with which there is no communication by posts. The Secretary of the Treasury has mentioned Bermuda Hundred and Tappahannock as the most important. It appears by the statement that the revenue arising on the cross roads is considerably short of the expense of transporting the mail. Should others be established, it is not probable that the revenue will bear a greater proportion to the expense than it does on those already established.

SAMUEL OSGOOD.

The Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives.

Return of Post Offices in the United States, showing the amount of moneys received in each office, the emoluments of the Postmasters, incidental expenses, and nett revenue, for three months, commencing October 5, 1789, and ending January 5, 1790; also the expense of transporting the mail for three months, agreeably to the contracts for the year 1790.

No. 60.

[1st SESSION.

EXTRA ALLOWANCE MADE TO A MAIL CONTRACTOR.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, MARCH 13, 1826.

Mr. JOHNSTON, from the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads, to whom was referred the petition of John Donly, made the following report:

John Donly was the mail contractor from Nashville, Tennessee, to Columbus, in Mississippi. In 1820, the mail having greatly increased, so as to require one, and often two additional horses to transport it, application was made to the Postmaster General, Mr. Meigs, and, in consideration of all the circumstances, the fidelity and vigilance of the contractor, but particularly the increased size of the mail, and increased difficulty and expense of carrying it, it was agreed at the Department to extend to him an additional allowance of $1,000. Mr. Meigs, in a letter dated 5th of July of that year, to the Hon. Newton Cannon, a member of the House of Representatives, remarks:

“In reply to your letter of the 3d, on behalf of John Donly, I have the honor to observe, that when I contracted with Mr. Donly, I made him an allowance of $1,000, to compensate him for a led horse; and his mail has manifestly so much increased as to require another led horse, and sometimes two led horses, or one led with each of the three mails. I am satisfied it will be proper to make him, for this year, a further allowance of $1,000 a year; the additional allowance to take date January 1, 1820.

“R. J. MEIGS.”

On the authority of this letter, Mr. Donly inferred that the allowance made to him was not merely for the year 1820, but would, in fact, be continued during the years 1821 and 1822; for which his present application is made. Besides this, he states that Colonel Cannon assured him that such was the intention and design of Mr. Meigs. Thus impressed, he continued to carry the mail, and knew nothing against the impression he had received from Colonel Cannon and the letter of Mr. Meigs until the latter part of the year 1821, when Mr. Bradley informed him the allowance heretofore made could not be extended for that year. In consequence of this, shortly afterwards Mr. Donly informed the Department that he would be unable to carry the mail, and requested that their agent in Tennessee might be instructed to make a new contract, and to discharge him.

John Donly

6 Stat. 345, 20 May 1826

CHAP. LXXXIV.—An Act for the relief of John Donly.

Be it enacted, &c., That the Postmaster-General be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed, out of the funds arising from post offices, to pay to John Donly two thousand dollars, in full discharge for transporting the mail from Nashville to Columbus, in Mississippi, during the years one thousand eight hundred and twenty-one and twenty-two.

APPROVED, May 20, 1826.

John Donly

What happened?

Mail contractor, Nashville (TN) to Columbus (MS), 1 Jan. 1818 to 31 Dec. 1822.

He needed an additional $1000 annually for additional horses, in 1820-22.

Written authorization from the PMG was indecipherable, so only one year was paid.

Donly petitioned the Senate, Feb. 1825, for the other two years.

Congress agreed, telling the Post Office to pay, 20 May 1826.
