nation; that, in consequence of incorrect information relative to the naturalization laws, he was under the impression that they required a residence of eight years in the United States previous to a foreigner being permitted to take any steps towards being naturalized; that, confiding in the information thus received, he never made a declaration of his intention to become a citizen of the United States, as required by law, and in consequence thereof, although he had resided in the State of Maryland nearly eight years previous to the late declaration of war against Great Britain, he is precluded from the benefit of the act of Congress of the 30th July, 1813. Under this statement of his case, (which the committee believe to be correct,) the petitioner wishes a law to be passed to naturalize him. By virtue of the provisions of the act of Congress, of the 6th July, 1798, the petitioner "is liable to be apprehended, restrained, secured, and removed, as an alien enemy;" and although Mr. Owen appears to be a man of fair and unsuspected character; yet the committee think it would be impolitic and inexpedient to exempt him from the provisions of the act of the 6th July, 1798, by passing a law for his naturalization. The committee also think there should be very strong circumstances to induce the Legislature, in any case, to pass a special act of naturalization, when there are general laws on the subject. They, therefore, are clearly of opinion that the prayer of the petitioner, so far as it asks for a special act of naturalization, ought not to be granted.

The petitioner, however, wishes, in case Congress should think it inexpedient to pass an act for his naturalization, that a law may be enacted to authorize a patent to issue to him for the discoveries he has made in the manufacturing of hemp and flax. On this point the committee should not hesitate to report favorably, if they were of opinion that there was no provision for the case by existing laws. The act of Congress of the 21st February, 1793, entitled "An act to promote the progress of useful arts, and to repeal the act heretofore made for that purpose," confines, it is true, the benefits of patents to citizens of the United States, and by this law the case of Mr. Owen is not provided for. But by the act of the 17th April, 1800, entitled "An act to extend the privilege of obtaining patents for useful discoveries and inventions to certain persons therein mentioned, and to enlarge and define the penalties for violating the rights of patentees," it is enacted, "that all and singular the rights and privileges given, intended, or provided to citizens of the United States, respecting patents for new inventions, discoveries, and improvements, by the act entitled 'An act to promote the progress of useful arts,' &c. shall be, and hereby are, extended and given to all aliens who, at the time of petitioning, in the manner prescribed by the said act, shall have resided for two years within the United States, which privileges shall be obtained and enjoyed by such persons in as full and ample manner, and under the same conditions, limitations, and restrictions as by the said act are provided and directed in the case of citizens of the United States." Under the last mentioned act of Congress, the committee are of opinion that the case of Mr. Owen is provided for, and that he can obtain a patent. They think it altogether unnecessary to pass a special law for this case. They, therefore, submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioner have leave to withdraw his petition.

13th Congress.]

No. 370.

[2d Session.

LIST OF MINISTERS AND CONSULS APPOINTED IN THE RECESS OF THE SENATE.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, APRIL 9, 1814.

To the Senate of the United States:

APRIL 9, 1814.

I transmit to the Senate a report of the Secretary of State complying with their resolution of the 2d instant.

JAMES MADISON.

SIR:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, April 8, 1814.

In compliance with the resolution of the Senate, of the 2d instant, I have the honor to transmit lists of the ministers and consuls of the United States who have been appointed, since the adoption of the constitution, by the respective Presidents of the United States, in the recess of the Senate; distinguishing the cases in which the respective appointments had not been before filled from those which had been previously filled; and specifying, by the dates of the letters of recall, when the latter became vacant, in the case of ministers.

Although, strictly construed, the resolution did not appear to carry the research back to a period anterior to the commencement of the present Government, yet the journals of the old Congress have been carefully examined, and notice taken of appointments made under the confederation, of ministers and consuls to Governments and places, to which appointments were afterwards made under the present Government.

places, to which appointments were afterwards made under the present Government.

To these lists are added copies of the commissions granted to Albert Gallatin, John Q. Adams, and James A. Bayard, to negotiate and sign a treaty of commerce with Great Britain, and a treaty of commerce with Russia.

With great respect, I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

JAMES MONROE.

The PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.
