CLAIM OF A MAIL CARRIER FOR A DISABILITY CONTRACTED IN THE DISCHARGE OF HIS DUTY.

communicated to the house of representatives, march $23,1810$.
The Postmaster General, to whom was referred, by order of the House of Representatives, on the 22d day of December last, the petition of Samuel Gordon, of Schenectady, in the State of New York, respectfully reports:
The petitioner was employed in conveying the mail as a driver of the mail stage, on the 2d of March, 1804, between Albany and Schenectady, when he was overtaken by a violent snow storm, which prevented the passage of the stage, and he took the mail on his back and conveyed it to the Post Office. From the violence of the storm and a cold which it produced, he wholly lost his eye sight, and has become dependent upon public charity.

The petitioner is highly commendable for his exertions, and the unfortunate result is to be regretted. But it does not appear to the Postmaster General that this case is to be distinguished from that of other citizens who have been disabled while engaged in their ordinary pursuits.

The circumstance occurred in a settled country, where there is already provision for the unfortunate poor, and where there is no occasion to encourage persons to enter into the public service with the hope of pensions, in case of disability. The case of Webb, which probably gave rise to this petition, is materially different; by passing throngh the Indian nations he was exposed to extraordinary hazard from the savageness of their habits, and his wound and disability proceeded from that extraordinary source of injury; his disability also occurred where there was no provision for the poor; and not within any State jurisdiction, and Congress were, of course, the only regular authority to whom he could apply for relief.

The Postmaster General is, therefore, of opinion that Samuel Gordon ought not to be provided for by Congress. All which is respectfully submitted.

GIDEON GRANGER, Postmaster General.
General Post Office, Maich 23d, 1810.
