From the numerous applications which have been made for land warrants since the destruction of the War Office in the year 1800, three hundred and forty have been satisfactorily substantiated; of this number, one hundred and twenty-seven remain to be issued.

Since the first of April last, ninety applications have been made for warrants; of which number, probably about sixty will appear to be well founded, and will form the subject of a report to Congress during its present session, should not the law now in contemplation supersede the necessity.

I cannot for a moment hesitate in giving my opinion, that the principles of justice and good faith entitle those applicants who have exhibited well supported claims, though not formally decided on, to a fulfilment of the contract on the part of the United States.

I am, sir, with respectful consideration, your obedient servant,

H. DEARBORN.

CLAIMS IN THE DISTRICTS OF VINCENNES AND KASKASKIA, AND THE LOCATION OF CERTAIN GRANTS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES APRIL 5, 1806.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 3, 1806.

SIR: I have the honor to enclose the copy of a letter received from the land commissioners for the district of Kaskaskia. The claims laid before the commissioners of Vincennes are also very numerous, and some of them of great magnitude. It is, therefore, believed that, as they will be employed at both places much longer than had been expected, some additional compensation may be necessary. I have, at the same time, every reason to believe that the business will be completed before next winter, and that the lands found vacant may be offered for sale in October or November next.

A difficulty, however, occurs, which may impede the sales. Several grants had been made by former resolutions and acts of Congress for settlement or head rights, and also to persons called on militia service. A number had been ascertained and located, and patents issued by the former territorial Governors, but many remain yet to be located. Although it had been clearly provided that those grants should be laid out in certain tracts of country, to be laid out by the Governors, the holders of those which remain unlocated seem to think that, in cases where those tracts of country have not been thus laid out, or are not sufficiently large to satisfy all the claims, they have a right to locate any where, even on portions of country to which the Indian title was not extinguished till very lately. As that pretension does not appear just, and would be injurious to the public, unless early discountenanced, and as a provision seems at all events necessary, permit me to suggest the propriety of authorizing the commissioners to lay out proper tracts of country for that purpose, where it may be necessary, so that the remaining lands may be cleared from all claims, and offered for sale next autumn.

I have the honor to be, respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

ALBERT GALLATIN.

Hon. ANDREW GREGG, *Chairman, &c. in Congress.*KASKASKIA, February 24, 1806.

SIR: We feel it to be a duty, both to the Government and ourselves, to inform you that it is impossible for this board to make its return during this session of Congress.

We are now confident it will be as much as we can do to complete our business by the close of next summer.

It would be trifling, sir, to observe that we have more business to do than either of the other two boards established on the northwest of the Ohio, since we have much more than both. The number of claims thrown in upon us, in consequence of the extension of the time of entering with the register, by the law of last session, is enormous. From the character of the witnesses, and the complexion of the evidence adduced in support of a very great number of these claims, we are obliged to proceed in our examination of them with much slowness and caution; the public interest imperiously requires that we should do so; and we flatter ourselves, sir, that, in the result, you will discover that no inconsiderable quantity of land has been saved to the United States, by a careful and anxious scrutiny into those claims which, on a first examination, appeared to have been well supported.

Under these circumstances, sir, and knowing, as the Government must, from the representations of others, that the expenses of living are not trifling in this country, we persuade ourselves that Congress will make to this board a further allowance for our support during the time in which we must necessarily be employed in this very laborious business. As no person has yet arrived authorized to survey the lands claimed by individuals, and as no surveys which can at all be depended on have been made, except the inconsiderable quantity of land confirmed by the Governor, it will necessarily happen that many of the claims affirmed by us will be found to clash with respect to their boundaries as returned to this board, in plats of private survey. Could not the surveyor be empowered to settle these disputes on the spot at his discretion, or under the direction of this board?

There is a class of claims which have been presented to this board by the inhabitants of Pioria, (a village on the northern side of the Illinois river.) The Governors, we perceive, have acted on some of them; but have we this authority? We have thought not; that country being without the limits fixed by the treaty with the Kaskaskia tribe of Indians.

In passing over those claims which have been confirmed by the Governors, as we have traced up the claimants' right no further than the confirmation, so we have not traced down the line of assignments, and subsequent conveyances, and affirmed to the present claimant, being the assignee of the person to whom the confirmation was made by the Governor; thinking that this confirmation was always followed by the issuing a patent to the Governors confirmed, and that this patent being recorded as a starting point of title, the territorial laws might provide rules to regulate subsequent conveyances; but, from a perusal of a copy of the Governor's records, sent us in November last, we find many instances where confirmation has taken place, and no patent (if we can believe claimants) has issued. What is to be done in such a case? For us to trace a claim thus confirmed, down through its various subdivisions, (as it often happens that there are such,) and confirm its several parts to the several assignees who apply to us, would seem to be endless. And, if we do not do so, how is the holder of such right to be supplied with evidence of title, public, legal, and capable of being recorded in the country where the land lies? Will the United States issue patents where the Governors have not? But it is impossible for us to discover where patents have or have not issued; the records sent us are silent; and a claimant before us may choose, in certain cases, to rest his claim on the record of a vague confirmation, and withhold his patent, which may be more definite. The issuing of patents by the United States, in all cases, would seem to be recommended by the following facts: 1st, That many of these patented grants (it is believed) will be found to clash. 2d. That one half of the patents we have seen are so vague in their descriptions, that they may as well be taken to cover one tract of land as another.

In your late communications you seem to have supposed that all confirmed militia rights were located within a certain tract set apart for that purpose. It is not so in this district. The Governor has permitted single rights of this description to be located adjoining other confirmed lands, or on lands where there was a mill-seat, or any where, provided the holder or holders would lay five of them together.

Donation rights (to heads of families) are by the law of 20th June, 1788, directed to be located within certain parallelograms by that law described. It is now pretty clear that this mode of location is impracticable, most of the Mississippi bottom being covered by ancient grants, and some of those rights being already located by the Governor's permission on mill-seats, &c.

As these rights were to have been located on the prime lands in the country, viz. the river bottom, the holders will not think it justice, after waiting twenty years, to be pushed back, and obliged to take their several portions of land under former regulations; nor, perhaps, will the United States be willing, without some compensation, to suffer them to take their choice in single tracts of the whole country.

May we suggest that, if a law were to be passed valuing these militia and donation claims, (say at two dollars for each acre they call for,) directing this board to issue certificates on their ultimate confirmation, and permitting the holders of these certificates to purchase public lands with them at this rate, at the auction which is directed to be holden when the lands shall have been surveyed, these claimants would be satisfied, and the public interest would not be likely to suffer; since a competition among so great a number of certificate holders would certainly raise the lands bidden for far above their minimum price.

We are ready to confess, sir, that, on this point, we feel an interest; since by law we are entitled to a commission on the sales. But when it is considered that it would be unreasonable to give to these claimants poor lands for the best; (which they can now claim as a right;) that the effect of the measure proposed would be to take some of the best of the public lands out of the cash market; and, of consequence, that we should be injured if we were not allowed our commissions on the sale of them; that the whole advantage arising from their rise at auction above their cash price, owing to the admission of this species of payment, would accrue to the United States; that this measure would, in some degree, be only anticipating the revenues of officers, whose regular salaries (considering the distance they have come from their homes, and their property, and their necessary expenses of living) are very trivial; and, lastly, that the effect of this measure would be an acceleration of the population of so important a point of the Union; and that, in consequence, the residuary lands would soon sell; we persuade ourselves that this circumstance will not be thought an objection to the measure, and that the measure will not be thought an unreasonable one.

We have the honor to be, sir, with sentiments of respect, your most obedient servants,

E. BACCHUS.
MICH. JONES.

P. S. We hope, sir, you will excuse the incorrectness of this communication. It has been written in much haste, and we have not a moment's time to copy it.

No. 130.

1st SESSION.

CREDIT ON PUBLIC LANDS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES APRIL 5, 1806.

Mr. GREGG, from the Committee on Public Lands, to which was referred a resolution, on the 26th day of March, directing them to inquire into the expediency of repealing all such parts of the several acts providing for the sales of the lands of the United States, as authorize a credit on any part of the purchase money of said lands, made the following report:

The public lands are now sold in sections, half sections, and quarter sections, that is, in lots of six hundred and forty, three hundred and twenty, and one hundred and sixty acres, at not less than two dollars per acre, the purchaser paying one-fourth of the purchase money before he can procure a certificate descriptive of the tract purchased, or be considered as a purchaser; another fourth part in two years, another fourth part in three years, and the remaining fourth part in four years from the time of making the purchase. No interest is charged if the instalments are punctually paid as they become due; but, in case of failure in punctuality of payment, interest is calculated from the time of sale. If full and complete payment is not made for any tract within one year after the last instalment has become due, such tract is to be sold by the register of the land office, at public vendue, for a price not less than whole arrears due thereon, with the expense of sale, provided it will sell for so much; but if it will not, then the land is to revert to the United States, and the purchaser forfeits all he may have paid.

By a reference to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, made on the 10th of December last, it appears that the balance due from purchasers of public lands in the State of Ohio, amounted, exclusively of interest,

On the 1st of October, 1803,	to	1,092,390	dollars.
Do. do. 1804,	to	1,434,212	do.
Do. do. 1805,	to	2,094,305	do.

From this statement, it appears that the debt, in the course of the two last years, has nearly doubled, and it must continue to increase, not only in proportion to the increase of sales, but from an accumulation of arrears, arising from failure in punctuality of payment.

By a letter and statement received from the Secretary of the Treasury, and which are hereunto annexed, and to be considered as part of this report, it appears that there was due on the 1st day of January last, on account of purchases made prior to the 1st day of January 1801, upwards of two hundred and twenty-nine thousand dollars, which, according to law, must be paid in the course of the present year, or the lands be exposed to sale. This sum, as appears by the Secretary's letter, is due from three hundred and nine persons. Although no sales have yet taken place, there is no doubt but some must be made, or the lands revert to the United States, if the law is rigidly executed. A very large proportion of the debtors, whose lands are thus to be sold, or to revert, in the course of the present year, are no doubt inhabitants of the State of Ohio. It appears doubtful whether, under these circumstances, an attempt to sell would be attended with success. Judging from what has happened in similar cases in other States, a strong presumption arises that a sale of the lands cannot be effected so as to raise the money. Few men are willing to incur the resentment of their neighbors, by bidding for their property at public vendue, even when other neighbors are the creditors; and, when the public is concerned, scarcely a man will be found hardy enough to do it. The lands will, therefore, in many instances, revert to the Government, encumbered by the occupancy of a tenant, who ought to be evicted before another sale should be made. It might be added, that few strangers would run the risk of bidding for property at a vendue, when the united interest of the whole neighborhood was opposed to the sale.

Should this, on experience, prove to be the case, and the increase of the number of debtors bear any proportion to the increase of debt, as, under the temptation held out by the preest system of credit, it no doubt will, there is reason to apprehend that, in a few years more, there will be serious cause of alarm, not only on account of the debt due, but even for the lands which may remain unsold in that section of the Union. Strongly impressed as the committee are with this opinion, and believing, as they do, for the reasons assigned by the Secretary of the Treasury, in his letter herewith submitted, that, in abolishing the credit given by the present system, and hereafter selling the public lands for ready money only, the actual receipts into the Treasury from this source, would be very little, if at all, reduced, and the revenue, of course, but little affected, they feel themselves constrained to adopt the opinion that it would be expedient to abolish the present system.

In expressing this opinion, the committee feel some diffidence. The present system was adopted on mature deliberation, and so far has succeeded very well in its operation: but, by the accumulation of debts, the evils which were dreaded now begin to unfold themselves, and certainly wear an unpleasant aspect.

It is not believed that the proposed change of system will operate any serious inconvenience to persons whose circumstances furnish them any prospect of becoming purchasers. The small tracts in which the lands are now offered for sale place them in the reach of every person who emigrates to that country with a view of purchasing; and, unless the price should be greatly reduced, moneyed capitalists will not be induced to engage in that extensive speculation in land which some years since prevailed so generally in every part of the country, and from which so many mischiefs have resulted.

The committee, on a full consideration of the subject, are induced respectfully to submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is expedient to repeal all such parts of the laws respecting the sale of the public lands as authorize a credit on any part of the purchase money.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

March 28, 1806.

SIR: I had the honor to receive your letter of yesterday, requesting such information as may be connected with the proposition to repeal so much of the existing laws as authorizes a credit on any part of the purchase money of the public lands.

It will be seen, by recurrence to the report made by this department on the 10th December, 1805, (statements G and C) that the balance due by purchasers of public lands in the State of Ohio, amounted, exclusively of interest,

On the 1st of October, 1803, to	- - -	$1,092,390
1st of October, 1804, to	- - -	1,434,212
1st of October, 1805, to	- - -	2,094,305

The debt has, therefore, been increased one million of dollars, or nearly doubled in two years, and it will every year be augmented, not only in proportion to the increase of sales, but also on account of the accumulation of arrears which may not be punctually paid.

It also appears, by the enclosed statement, that the sum due on the 1st of January last for purchases made prior to the year 1802, and which ought to have been completely discharged before the end of the year 1805, is, exclusively of interest, two hundred and seven thousand four hundred and nine dollars and eighty-two cents. The interest due on that sum is estimated at about twenty-two thousand dollars; the number of persons by whom it is due is three hundred and nine; and it is estimated that this sum, including interest which is due by persons who have paid only the first instalment, is	- - - - -	$166,000

By persons who have paid the first two instalments,	- - - - -	28,000
By persons who have paid the first three instalments,	- - - - -	35,000
Making, for principal and interest, as above,	- - - - -	$229,000

In every case where those arrears will not be paid at the end of five years from the date of the purchase, (which, for the above sum, will be at various dates, but all in the course of this year,) the land will, according to law, be sold, or revert to the United States; but there is little danger of that contingency taking place in cases where the first two or three instalments have already been paid.

I feel no hesitation in repeating the opinion, which was expressed two years ago to a committee of the House, that sales for cash only would, in every respect, be preferable to the present mode.

Although no symptoms of that kind have yet appeared, the accumulation of a debt of two millions of dollars, due by more than two thousand heads of families, and which is every day increasing in amount, and extending to a greater number of persons, may ultimately create, in that section of the Union, a powerful interest, hostile to the Federal Government, and which would endanger both the outstanding debt and the lands unsold.

The revenue will not be affected by the change, for, although a less quantity of lands will be sold, the actual receipts will continue to be in proportion to the existing means of payment: for such is the demand for the public lands, that the sales are limited only by the resources of the inhabitants and emigrants.

Nor is it believed that the measure will ultimately be injurious to the persons who intend to become purchasers. Although some may thereby be prevented from purchasing, the number of actual delinquents shows that the credit allowed often induces individuals to make purchases beyond their means, and is not less prejudicial to themselves than to the public. It must also be observed that, though the nominal price on which lands are sold on credit be two dollars per acre, the cash price, supposing the whole payment to be made at the time of the purchase, is only (on account of the discount of eight per cent. a year on the last three instalments, which is allowed for prompt payment) one dollar and sixty-four cents per acre. A quarter section, containing one hundred and sixty acres, will, therefore, cost only two hundred and sixty-two dollars and forty cents. Prior to the act which authorized the sales of lands in quarter sections, no man could become a purchaser, unless he paid, within three months thereafter, three hundred and twenty dollars, if he had purchased an entire section, and one hundred and sixty dollars, if his purchase was for half a section. This shows that, under the proposed alteration, it will require only one hundred dollars more in hand to become a purchaser, than was necessary under the former system. Should, however, that be considered as a formidable objection, I would think a moderate reduction in the price of lands less injurious than a continuation of the present mode.

I will only add that, if credits shall not be allowed hereafter, some indulgence, in point of time, may be given to those former purchasers, whose lands will otherwise be sold during the course of this year, on account of their not having completed the payments within five years from the time of purchase. Should the present system be continued, a more rigid enforcement of the law will be necessary.

I have the honor to be, respectfully, sir,
Your obedient servant,
ALBERT GALLATIN.

APPLICATION FOR LAND ON TERMS DIFFERENT FROM THOSE ESTABLISHED BY LAW.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES DECEMBER 8, 1806.

Mr. BOYLE, from the Committee on Public Lands to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of Ovid, in the State of New York, made the following report:

The petitioners request that a law may be passed by Congress, granting to them the privilege of purchasing a whole township of land on the White river, or Wabash, in the Indiana Territory; that, by their compact settlement thereon, they may be the better enabled to aid each other in the support of schools and religion. The petitioners have not expressly stated their desire to have the privilege of purchasing on more favorable terms than those provided by the existing law for the sale of the public lands; but, as by a compliance with the terms of sale, they may, under the existing laws, purchase an entire township, with the exception of the reserved sections, and it is presumable they are not ignorant of this circumstance, it is to be inferred that their request can be satisfied only by granting to them the land upon other and more favorable terms, than those upon which the public lands are offered for sale.

This is so obviously unreasonable, that the application could only have proceeded from a want of reflection upon the sound principles of policy which have governed the United States in the disposition of their lands. To grant lands upon every application of this kind is utterly incompatible with the general system adopted by Congress, and would tend directly to its total subversion. General uniform terms, of which all may equally avail themselves, is a mode of sale both more equitable as it regards individuals, and less convenient and expensive to the Government, than any other mode that could be devised. And, since we have adopted this system, it ought to be inflexibly pursued, and a departure from it never indulged, only for the purpose of attaining some great object of national utility.

The committee have, therefore, no hesitation in submitting the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

LAND CLAIMS IN THE DISTRICT OF VINCENNES.

COMMUNICATED TO CONGRESS DECEMBER 23, 1806.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, December 20, 1806.

SIR: I have the honor, in conformity with the several acts making provision for the disposal of the public lands in the Indiana Territory, to enclose the report and transcript of decisions made by the commissioners appointed to examine the claims to land in the district of Vincennes.

Those claims may be arranged under three general heads, viz:

1. Claims allowed by Governors, by virtue of former acts of Congress, and which, except in one instance, where the grant appeared to have been surreptitiously obtained, have been considered by the commissioners as already fully confirmed. A list of those claims, arranged according to their nature, will be found in the statements A, B, and C, accompanying the commissioners' report.

On that class of claims two questions may arise: First, whether the rejected claim shall be admitted. Secondly, whether it will be necessary for those who had obtained patents from the territorial Governors to receive patents confirming the same from the President of the United States; for this is believed to be the only instance where final grants of public lands have been issued from any other officer than the President.

2. Claims allowed by the commissioners. These are contained in the transcript of decisions, marked D, required by the act. They are sixty-five in number; none for a quantity of land exceeding four hundred acres, and amount altogether to thirteen thousand nine hundred and fifty acres. It remains for Congress to determine whether the decisions thus made by the commissioners in favor of the claimants shall be confirmed.

3. Claims rejected by the commissioners, which consist of three classes: First, claims filed with the register, but unsupported by any kind of evidence, a list of which, marked F, is annexed to the report. Secondly, claims filed with the register, and which, if properly supported, would have been embraced by the acts of Congress; rejected, either because the evidence was insufficient, or because they had been already decided upon by the territorial Governors; or because the improvement was not deemed sufficient, or had been interrupted by the Indians. The substance of the evidence given in support of each claim, and of the cause of rejection, will be found in the statement E. Whether any of these ought, notwithstanding the rejection by the commissioners, to be confirmed, remains to be decided by Congress.

Thirdly, claims not embraced by any act of Congress. These, as will be seen by statement G, consist of certain large grants made by the county court to members of that court, and of the Indian purchasers claimed by the companies known under the names of Wabash and Illinois. As these had often applied to Congress, and the nature of their claim was understood, a copy of the proclamation of 1763, which appears conclusive against the claim, was transmitted by this Department to the commissioners.

Four special cases have been reported upon by the commissioners, in the statement H, and the copy of a letter from Judge Vanderburgh, in relation to two of those, is also transmitted.

I have the honor to be,
Very respectfully, sir,
Your obedient servant,
ALBERT GALLATIN.

The Hon. the PRESIDENT of the Senate.

NOTE.—For statements A, C, and D, referred to in this report, see No. 136.

COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE, VINCENNES,
 March 25, 1806.

SIR :

The commissioners for examining claims to land in the district of Vincennes, in pursuance of the act of Congress of 26th March, 1804, entitled "An act making provision for the disposal of the public land in the Indiana Territory, and for other purposes," beg leave to report :

That they have arranged the said claims under the three following heads, viz :

1st. Those which have been decided on and confirmed by the Governors.

2d. Those which have not been decided on by the Governors.

3d. Those which are not embraced by any act of Congress.

The first class is again subdivided into, 1st, claims founded under ancient grants, or possessions under the French or British Governments ; 2d, claims founded on supposed grants from the courts ; 3d, claims to the donations of four hundred acres, as heads of families, on or before the year 1783 ; and, 4th, claims to the donations of one hundred acres, as militia men, enrolled in the militia on the 1st day of August, 1790, and had done militia duty.

The powers of the Governors to confirm or grant lands being vested in them by law, the commissioners have accordingly considered their grants or confirmations (except in one solitary instance, explained in document H, No. 1, where the grant appears to have been surreptitiously obtained) as sufficient evidence of title.

In the confirmations made by the Governors, it has not always been practicable to distinguish those founded upon French or British grants and possessions from those made in virtue of court deeds and improvement. The commissioners, therefore, have been obliged to consolidate the claims of the first and second class under one head, in document marked A, which contains the names of the original claimants, the quantity confirmed to each, and the names of those who have entered their claims thereto with the register, as assignees or otherwise.

The document marked B contains, 1st, the names of those heads of families who were entitled to the donation of four hundred acres, to whom, or to whose assignees, the same were respectfully granted by the Governors ; 2d, the number of the tract allotted to each ; and, 3d, the names of the present claimants.

The first column of document marked C contains the names of the militia men originally entitled to the donation of one hundred acres ; the figures in the second column denote the number of the tract allotted to each in the general militia donation, on the south side of White river ; and, where there are no such figures, the different donees have, by permission of the Governors, had their respective tracts surveyed or located on their improvements ; and the third column contains the names of the present claimants.

The second class admits of a similar subdivision.

Document D contains a list of the confirmations made by the commissioners, exhibiting under the different columns the names of the persons originally entitled, the quantity claimed, the present claimants, the quantity confirmed, and the names of those to whom confirmed.

Document E contains the rejected claims, the substance of the evidence adduced in their support, together with the commissioners' remarks thereon.

Document F is a list of claims, in support of which no evidence having been exhibited, they have consequently been rejected.

To the third class belong claims founded upon Indian purchases, and unusual grants made by the court.

Document G contains those species of claims, observations thereon, and rejections of the same.

Document H contains special cases.

Document I is a plat as well of the tracts confirmed by the Governors in the upper prairie, with the continuation thereof, claimed under purchases from Indians, as of the one hundred and fifty acres granted by the act of 3d of March, 1791, to the several persons then in possession thereof.

The commissioners beg leave to observe that, from about the end of the year 1785 until about two years after the treaty of Greenville, the country about Vincennes, completely surrounded by hostile Indian tribes, and cut off from every means of relief, was placed in a situation highly dangerous. That the attempts to form settlements and make improvements were faint, hazardous, and most generally frustrated. They are, therefore, sensible that, bound as they were by the act of 1791 to confirm no claim of that description, except such as had been actually improved and cultivated, their decisions, made conformable to that principle, must be severe, and bear hard upon numbers of individuals, who have remained ever since in the country, and have yielded only to the imperious necessity either of exposing themselves to savage barbarity, or of abandoning their lands, which they could neither cultivate nor defend.

To these observations it may be added that, even when cultivation has been proved, it was not, in most of the cases that have come before them, of such a nature as to bring them strictly within the full meaning of actual improvement and cultivation, by which Congress seems to have meant the necessary work to support a family. This, under the circumstances above related, but very few were able to do. Consequently, the line of distinction between improvements attended with or without cultivation is too minute to distinguish them from each other, in as satisfactory a manner as could be wished.

The improvements and cultivation made on those few spots where forts or stations had been erected, and where the harassed inhabitants were obliged to take shelter, are almost the only ones that can come within the full meaning of the act. Thus, besides the advantages the owners of those places obtained in point of security, they derived from the labors of their less fortunate neighbors a better claim to their respective lands.

In one instance, alone, have they departed from the general principle which has governed them in their decisions, namely, that of William Shannon, assignee of John Howell, wherein the land claimed has been confirmed (for want of a regular chain of transfers being exhibited) to the heirs or assigns of John Howell, the original claimant, on proof being made of the building of a house, (actual residence,) and the establishment of a tan-yard. They considered the importance of those improvements, though not attended with cultivation, as bringing the case within the equitable powers vested in them by law.

Some few notices were filed with the register by the representatives of deceased persons, who claimed militia donations under the act of 1791. On examining the evidence, it appeared that the persons under whose rights the claims were made were dead before the 1st of August, 1790, although they were of full age at the time of their death, and duly enrolled in the militia. Even some instances may be cited of persons having been killed by Indians in defence of the country, and have never received any donation of lands from the United States. The commissioners, had it been in their power, would have confirmed one hundred acres to each of those claimants ; but, as the law is positive that they must have been enrolled on the 1st day of August, 1790, they were obliged to reject their claims.

All which is respectfully submitted by your obedient servants,

JOHN BADOLLET,
 NATHANIEL EWING,
 Commissioners.

The Hon. ALBERT GALLATIN,
 Secretary of the Treasury.

A list of the donations of four hundred acres of land given to the heads of families in Vincennes, in the year 1783; with the names of the present claimants, and the number of the lot drawn by each, as laid off by order of the Governors.

[The first column of the following table contains the names of the several persons to whom donations of four hundred acres each, of land, were given by the resolve and act of Congress of 29th August, 1788, and 3d March, 1791, as heads of families in Vincennes, on or before the year 1783; and which, conformably to the directions of the said resolve, have, by the different Governors, been allotted and laid out to each of them. The second column contains the number of the tract so allotted to each; and the third column contains the names of the several persons who have entered the same in the register's office, as present claimants.]

A report on land claims rejected on their merits.

VITAL BOUCHER, brother and heir of Joseph Boucher's claim to a donation of four hundred acres, as head of a family in Vincennes, in the year 1783.

It appears from the depositions of Charles Delisle, Pierre Querré, and Joseph Chartier, that Joseph Boucher, in the year 1783, lived with his two brothers in Vincennes, and that Charles and not Joseph Boucher was the head of that family; wherefore, the commissioners reject this claim.

DANIEL SMITH claims two hundred acres, in addition to two hundred acres granted him by the Governor, in right of his own improvement, and one hundred acres, in addition to three hundred acres granted him by Governor Harrison, as assignee of John Murphy, in right of improvement.

It appears to the board that these two claims have been acted upon by Governor Harrison, who granted the several quantities of land mentioned in the notice of claim; and, being of opinion that the Governor's decisions thereon are conclusive, they do, therefore, reject both these claims.

JEREMIAH MAYES claims two hundred acres of land, in addition to two hundred acres granted to him by the Governor, in right of improvement.

This claim, is in every respect, circumstanced like those above laid in by Daniel Smith; and is, for the reasons therein mentioned, rejected by the commissioners.

ANTOINE PETIT, dit Lalumiere, and wife, sister, and heir of Jean Baptiste Villeray, deceased, claim fifty acres of land, as sugar camp right.

The deposition of Josette Pagé, widow, taken in support of this claim, is as follows: "That Jean Baptiste Villeray was her son; that he occupied a sugar camp below the village, before the Americans took this country; and that he was at that time eighteen years old." But the commissioners find, on examining the church records, that he was but thirteen years old at the time this country became a part of the State of Virginia. If, therefore, he was but eighteen when he first established the sugar camp, it must have been in the year 1784, and too late to come under the ancient customs; wherefore, they reject this claim.

ANTOINE PETIT, dit Lalumiere, claims four hundred acres of land near Raccoon creek, in right of improvement.

Josette Pagé, who was the only evidence produced to support this claim, proves nothing more than that she heard it said that the claimant made an improvement near Raccoon creek, but she never saw the improvement, nor does she know of her own knowledge that any was made; claim, for want of proof, is rejected.

ANTOINE PETIT, dit Lalumiere, claims a donation of four hundred acres, as head of a family in Vincennes, in 1783.

The claimant did not produce any evidence to prove that he was the head of a family in 1783, but acknowledged that he was in that year a resident of Canada, and did not come to Vincennes until the year 1784; consequently, he is not entitled to a donation under the act of Congress; and, therefore, his claim is rejected.

The heirs of JEAN BAPTISTE CONSTANT, deceased, claim fifty acres of land, in right of a sugar camp.

It is proved by Pierre Querré, that, in the year 1784, said Constant took up a sugar camp near Fort Apparent, and cultivated it. The commissioners being of opinion that this claim cannot be considered as coming under the description of an ancient title, the country being then a part of the United States, do therefore reject it.

RENE GODER claims a donation of four hundred acres, as head of a family in Vincennes, in 1783.

It is proved by Pierre Querré and Amable Bolon, that René Goder was not married until the year 1786, and that he lived with his father until that time. The commissioners, being of opinion that he does not come under the description of those entitled to a donation under the act of Congress, reject this claim.

JOHN DECKER claims four hundred acres of land on ———, in right of improvement.

It is proved by the oaths of Moses Decker and Joseph Decker, that the said Moses Decker, father to the said John Decker, in the year 1786, took up a tract of land for the said John, his son, who was then but one year old, and laid the foundation of a cabin on the land. The commissioners are of opinion that it was not the intention of the Legislature to grant lands in right of improvement to persons who were too young to make any; and no cultivation having been proved, they do, for both those reasons, reject this claim.

MOSES DECKER, jr., claims four hundred acres of land, in right of improvement on ———.

It is proved by the oaths of Moses Decker and Joseph Decker, that the said Moses Decker, father of the said Moses Decker, jr., took up this tract of land for his son (the claimant) in the year 1786, who was then seven years old, and that he laid the foundation of a cabin thereon. The commissioners, for the reasons given for rejecting the preceding claim, do reject this one.

The heirs of JACOB DECKER, deceased, claim four hundred acres, in right of improvement, on ———.

It is proved by the oaths of Moses Decker and Jacob Decker, that, in the year 178—, the father of the said Jacob Decker (who was then between eight and eleven years old) took up this tract of land for the said Jacob Decker, his son, but that no improvement was made thereon. The commissioners reject this claim for the reasons given for rejecting the two preceding ones.

JACOB MINOR, assignee of Luke Mattson, claims four hundred acres, in right of improvement, on the waters of White river.

It is proved by Jonathan Conger, that he went with Ralph over White river to hunt horses. That, on their return, the said Mattson deadened some trees on the tract claimed, and told the deponent it was an improvement for his son Luke. The commissioners are of opinion, that this cannot be considered as an improvement and cultivation; and, therefore, reject the claim.

JOHN SMALL, assignee of Nicholas Baillarjon, claims three hundred acres, at the black grounds on the River Embarras, by a court deed dated 14th February, 1782.

Josette Pagé proves that, about the years 1783 or 1784, Nicholas Baillarjon went with her husband to make improvements on lands severally granted to them. That they stayed some days, and, on their return, informed her they had done so, and built cabins on their lands; but she never saw the improvement. Jean Baptiste Barrois proves that he saw a cabin, and less than an arpent cleared on the land claimed by Nicholas Baillarjon, but does not know who did the work. The commissioners are of opinion that the first deposition is but heresy evidence, and that the second does not prove any cultivation; wherefore, they reject the claim.

MICHEL BORDELEAU claims a tract of one hundred and thirty-six acres, at the little village, in right of improvement.

An affidavit of Louis Seguin, deceased, has been filed and recorded, stating that Michel Bordeleau cleared, cultivated, and settled on a piece of land at the little village, in the year 1768. The claimant acknowledged, in presence of the commissioners, that he is now but thirty-eight years old, and that the said clearing was made by his father Antoine. A mistake in the christian name is here evident; and, as Antoine Bordeleau has claimed and obtained a confirmation of the same land from the commissioners, they, therefore, reject this claim of the son.

RENE CAMPEAU claims a donation, as head of a family in Vincennes, in 1783.

Antoine Lefevre proves that the claimant was married in 1788 or 1789, and cannot recollect that he was head of a family in 1783. As it is not proven that he was the head of a family in 1783, the commissioners reject his claim.

The heirs of ABNER PRIOR, as assignee of Jean Baptiste Constant, claim a donation as head of a family in 1783.

It is proved by Pierre Querré, that Jean Baptiste Constant was a head of a family at Ouiattonon and Vincennes, before and after the year 1783. That he was an Indian trader, and came to settle for good in Vincennes in the year 1785, his wife having till then remained at Ouiattonon.

The ambiguity of that part of the above testimony which states Jean Baptiste Constant to have been head of a family both at Ouiattonon and Vincennes, before 1783, is removed by the statement which follows, viz. that his wife remained at Ouiattonon until the year 1785, whereby it sufficiently appears that he was head of a family at Ouiattonon, and not at Vincennes. The commissioners are of opinion that this case is not embraced by the acts of Congress; therefore, reject the claim of the said Abner Prior's heirs.

FRANCOIS CAMPAGNOTTE claims four hundred acres of land near the Dry Wood swamp in right of improvement.

Louis Delaurier proves that claimant, twenty years ago, marked some trees on a piece of land adjoining James Johnson's tract: that he neither built nor cultivated, and does not know of its ever having been granted by the court.

Here appears neither improvement nor cultivation; the claim is, therefore, rejected by the commissioners.

FRANCOIS CAMPAGNOTTE claims one hundred and thirty-six acres of land below Racoon creek, in right of improvement.

Louis Delaurier proves that claimant, eighteen or twenty years ago, took up a piece of land below Racoon creek, built a cabin, and planted some fruit trees; but could not stay there on account of the Indians. Neither improvement of the land nor cultivation is here proved; the claim is, therefore, rejected.

DANIEL SULLIVAN's heirs, who was assignee of Pierre Cartier, claim one hundred and seventy acres on Mill creek, in right of improvement.

Four hundred acres of land have already been granted by the Governor to John Small, assignee of Pierre Cartier, in right of his improvement, which, by subsequent sales, have come into the possession of Henry Vanderburgh and James Ledgerwood, as will appear by the statement of claims heretofore confirmed, document A. And as no one person can be entitled to two different tracts of land by improvement right, this claim is, therefore, rejected.

MICHEL BORDELEAU, in right of his wife, only heir of François Duquointe, deceased, claims fifty acres of land, in right of a sugar camp.

By the deposition of Joseph Chartier, it is proved that François Duquointe occupied a sugar camp thirty-eight or nine years ago. That Jean Chabot, who married said Duquointe's widow, kept possession of it, and continued to make sugar thereon until his (Jean Chabot's) death. By reference to document A, it will appear that this sugar camp has been granted by the Governor of the Territory, and is now claimed by Alexander Valle, as assignee of the heirs of the said Jean Chabot. From those circumstances, the present claim must be considered as having been heretofore decided on and satisfied, and is rejected on that ground.

THOMAS JONES, as legatee of Charlotte Ducharme, widow and heir of Joseph Ducharme, deceased, claims one hundred acres of land, in virtue of a verbal grant from Mr. Ste. Marie, British commandant, to said Joseph Ducharme, and improvement made thereon.

The commissioners observe that this tract has already been granted by the Governor of the Northwest Territory to the above named Joseph Ducharme, and is now claimed by the heirs of Colonel J. Francis Hamtramck, as his assignee. (See document A.) They, therefore, reject this claim.

ABRAHAM DECKER claims four hundred acres of land, in right of improvement, on ———.

As this claim has been already decided on by the Governor of the Northwestern Territory, who granted the said Decker two hundred acres, therefore, (see document A.) it must be rejected.

The heirs of JACOB DREMIM, deceased, claim four hundred acres in the forks of the River Embarras, by a grant of the court, dated April 10, 1786, and improvement.

Jonathan Conger proves that, in the year 1786, he went with Jacob Dremim to show him land on the waters of White river; that he (Dremim) built the foundation of a cabin, deadened the timber of about three-fourths of an acre, and planted some corn. He continued about forty days in the country, and then went off. The deponent adds that he was informed the said Dremim was killed on his return home. Jacob Dremim's short residence in the country repels the idea of an intended permanent settlement. Moreover, the small improvement, such as it was, was made on a different tract from the one supposed to have been granted by the court deed; the former being on the east, and the latter several miles on the west side of the River Wabash. From the above considerations, the commissioners are induced to reject this claim.

The heirs of JEAN BAPTISTE DUCHESNE, deceased, claim fifty acres of land, a sugar camp right.

The commissioners observe that a tract of fifty acres has (see document A) already been granted by the Governor to the said Jean Baptiste Duchesne, in right of a sugar camp, and is now claimed by Abraham Kiykendall, as assignee. This claim must, therefore, be rejected.

JAMES FERNSLEY claims three hundred and forty acres on Wilson's creek, by a deed from the court, dated 1st August, 1785, and an improvement. It is proved by John Martin that James Fernsley, in 1785, cleared about an acre of land on Wilson's creek, partly built a cabin, sowed timothy and turnip seeds, and planted corn thereon; he had no family, never resided on the land, and left the country. The deponent adds, that the claimant, on his return to this place in the spring following, with his family, was forced back by the Indians. An actual improvement and cultivation being required by the act of 3d March, 1791, in order to be entitled to the confirmation of a supposed grant, must, in the opinion of the commissioners, imply a permanent residence, not a transient one of a few days, evidently for the purpose of making an improvement. The commissioners, therefore, for want of such actual residence, reject this claim.

ABRAHAM F. SNAPP, assignee of Thomas Foreman, claims four hundred acres, in right of improvement.

It is proved, by an affidavit of Philip Devore, that Thomas Foreman had liberty from the French commandant, in the year 1785, to improve four hundred acres of land; that the Indians prevented the making any improvement on the land; that said Foreman remained in the country, living on and improving the land of others, for several seasons. Foreman having been a resident in the country for some seasons, and employed in improving the lands of others, cannot, in the opinion of the commissioners, entitle him to a tract of land, which, it is admitted, he not only neither improved nor cultivated, but did not so much as designate the situation or position of. For these reasons, this claim is rejected.

PIERRE GRIMARRE claims one hundred and thirty-six acres of land, on the west side of the Wabash river, in right of improvement.

By François Languedoc, the clearing of between half an acre and an acre, on a piece of land below Racoon creek, by claimant, about fifteen years ago, is proved; but it is further proved that he neither ploughed nor cultivated. This claim is, therefore, rejected.

CHARLES GRIMARRE claims one hundred and thirty-six acres of land, below Racoon creek, in right of improvement.

The same deposition having been made in support of this claim, as in the preceding, it is also rejected.

LAURENT BAZADON, assignee of Charles Grimarre, claims a militia right of one hundred acres.

René Campeau proves that Charles Grimarre is now but twenty-five years old: as, consequently, he was but ten years old in 1790, and, therefore, incapable of doing militia duty, this claim is rejected.

ROBERT REYNOLDS, assignee of John Garland, claims four hundred acres in right of improvement, on the east of Wabash, fifteen miles above Vincennes. The same, as assignee of Matthew Garland, for the same quantity, in right of improvement, on east of Wabash, fifteen miles above Vincennes. The same, as assignee of Moses Orth, for the same quantity, in right of improvement, east branch of White river, fifteen miles below the trace to the falls. The same, as assignee of Adam Orth, for a similar quantity, in right also of improvement, east branch of White river, fifteen miles below the trace to the falls.

In support of the four above claims, the depositions of Daniel Thorn and Solomon Thorn, taken before John Beard, in Randolph county, have been filed and registered, proving the improvements and cultivation respectively made in the year 1787, by John Garland and Matthew Garland, of two tracts of land between fifteen and twenty miles above Vincennes, and the same facts respecting two other tracts lying on the east of White river, about twenty miles below the trace leading from Vincennes to the falls of the Ohio. Two depositions, signed by James Chism, taken before John Edgar, esquire, in Randolph county, have been also filed and registered, stating the same circumstances as above.

Daniel Thorn, one of the subscribers to the first deposition, being examined before the commissioners, made oath that he never knew either John or Matthew Garland, Adam or Moses Orth; that he never made or put his mark to the depositions recorded in the register's books; and on being shown the mark of his brother Solomon affixed thereto, asserted that his brother knew how to write, and always used to write his own name.

From the above circumstances, and from the neglect of the claimant to have other depositions in support of his claims taken before the persons appointed by the commissioners for that purpose, as he was by them required to do, there arises in the minds of the commissioners an irresistible presumption that the whole is a forgery; and, therefore, they reject the four above claims.

CHARLES GUELLE claims one hundred and thirty-six acres of land, on Racoon creek, in right of improvement.

François Languedoc proves that claimant, about fifteen years ago, cleared three or four acres of the tract claimed, and that the same was never ploughed or fenced. On the ground of want of cultivation, this claim is rejected.

JAMES HENRY claims three hundred and forty acres, near River Du Chis, by grant of the court, dated May 12th, 1785, and improvement.

Luke Decker, esquire, proves no more than the cutting of wild grass by Moses Henry, on the tract claimed; and, also, that James Henry never was in the country. On the grounds of the want of residence, cultivation, and improvement, the claim is rejected.

THOMAS JORDAN claims four hundred acres in right of improvement, on Racoon creek.

Joseph Decker proves the cultivation of, and the raising a crop of corn on a piece of land in the lower prairie, but no kind of work done on the land claimed below Racoon creek. For want of cultivation and improvement, the claim is rejected.

N. B. The notice of claim was entered with the register as having been confirmed by the Governor; but, on examining the records, no such confirmation could be found.

JOHN JOHNSON, heir of Richard Johnson, claims two hundred and fifty acres, in addition to a grant of one hundred and fifty acres already made.

This claim having been acted upon by the Governor, who granted a hundred and fifty acres thereon, and which are now claimed by Jacob Minor, (see document A,) therefore, it is rejected.

JOHN JOHNSON claims four hundred acres, in right of improvement, on the head of the Half-moon pond.

John Martin proves that, in the fall of the year 1790, the claimant planted corn and apple and peach trees, in an open piece of woods, near the head of the Half-moon pond. The planting of corn in the fall, with a few apple and peach trees, in the open woods, cannot bring this case within the meaning of the act of 1791, which requires actual improvement and cultivation. The claim must, therefore, be rejected.

MARIAMNE LAFORREST, in behalf of herself and the other heirs of Joseph Lafcuillade, deceased, claims four hundred acres, a donation as head of a family.

In support of this claim, an inventory of the property of the said Joseph, left at the time of his decease, was produced, wherein it is declared that he died the 12th of May, 1769; and François and Charles Languedoc prove his having died about the same time. As Lafcuillade died before this country was taken possession of by the State of Virginia, he could not be entitled to the donation made by the resolve of Congress; therefore, this claim is rejected.

GEORGE LEECH claims three hundred acres of land, in addition to one hundred acres already confirmed to him, in right of improvement.

This claim having, as stated in the notice, been acted upon by the Governor, and being of opinion that the decision made thereon is conclusive, the commissioners reject this claim.

The heirs of NANCY LEVINS claim four hundred acres, in right of improvement, on Mattson's spring run, the waters of White river.

The deposition of Richard Brown, now living in Brooke county, Virginia, establishes no other fact than the confession of Nancy Levins, of her intention of going to Vincennes, from whence she had removed on account of the Indians, and the deponent's knowledge of the said Nancy's having, with that view, sold her possessions in Pennsylvania. Moses Decker proves a set of house logs to have been cut by said Nancy's son on the land claimed; that there were no other improvements made; and that her son was afterwards killed by the Indians. Luke Decker, esquire, proves that the trees of about an acre of the same land had been deadened; that small trees and house logs had been cut, and brush heaps made; and that the same was reported to have been done by Nancy Levins. As no actual cultivation had been proved, the claim is rejected.

PAUL LABRECHE, or LABRACHE, claims four hundred acres, as a donation to the heads of families.

François Racine Ste. Marie proves that claimant, about twenty-eight years ago, was at Vincennes; thinks he was here afterwards, but is not positive; that he was an Indian trader, and never married. As claimant was not the head of a family, his claim is rejected.

The heirs of WILLIAM PERRY, assignee of Joseph Lamoreux, claim four hundred acres on Mill creek, in right of improvement.

Joseph Chartier proves the building of a cabin and clearing of a few acres of ground, by Joseph Lamoreux, on the land claimed, which is now included in the donation, and that he did not reside thereon on account of the Indians. As no actual cultivation has been proved, the claim is rejected.

The heirs of JACQUES LATRIMOUILLE claim one hundred and thirty-six acres at the Little village, in right of an ancient grant.

As this land has already been confirmed by the governor to the said heirs, and four-fifths whereof are now claimed by B. D. Price as their assignee, (see document A,) this claim is rejected.

FRANCOIS LANGUEDOC claims one hundred and thirty-six acres on Racoon creek, in right of improvement.

Jean Baptiste Moise proves the clearing of about half an acre, on the land claimed, about fifteen years ago, by claimant, in company with, and assisted by, deponent; but no kind of cultivation. It being proved there was no kind of cultivation, the claim must be rejected.

JEANNE CARDINAL, widow Montplaisir, alias Tougas, alias Lavoilette, legatee of Joseph Melville, deceased, claims four hundred acres donation, as head of a family.

Pierre Querré proves that Joseph Melville and Duchesne died in the year 1775 or 1776.

As Melville died some time before this country passed into the possession of the State of Virginia, his representative cannot be entitled to the donation made by Congress; consequently, this claim is rejected.

LUKE DECKER, assignee of William Mason, claims one hundred acres, a militia donation.

Moses Decker proves that William Mason came to this country in the fall of the year 1790, and went that same fall on the expedition against the Indians, under the command of Major Hamtramck. As Mason did not arrive in this country until the fall of the year 1790, he came too late to be entitled to a militia donation under the act of Congress; the claim is, therefore, rejected.

WILLIAM MCGOWEN claims one hundred acres, a militia donation. A certificate of Pierre Gamelin, deceased, proves that claimant belonged to the regulars under the command of Captain McCurdy, and was discharged on the expedition against the Wabash Indians, under the command of Major Hamtramck; which expedition is proved by Luke Decker, esquire, to have taken place in the fall of the year 1790.

McGowen being in the regular service of the United States in the fall of 1790, could not have been enrolled in the militia on the first day of August preceding. His claim is, therefore, rejected.

ABRAHAM JOHNSON, assignee of Frederick Mehl, claims three hundred and forty acres at the Old Woman's pond, by grant of the court, dated June 9th, 1785.

The court deed grants the land to one Martin Mehl, and not to Frederick Mehl, as stated in the notice; and said Frederick Mehl proves that the court deed was obtained by him in the name of his brother Martin, who never was in the country, and that the transfer of the said right was also made by him in his said brother's name to Elias Bidle; who transferred to claimant. As the tenor of the rest of the deponent's evidence goes to prove that the land was neither cultivated nor improved, the claim is, therefore, rejected.

EDWARD MILLS claims three hundred and forty acres on the forks of the River Embarras, by court deed, dated 10th April, 1786, and an improvement.

Jonathan Conger proves that claimant, in the year 1786, laid the foundation of a cabin, deadened some trees, and planted some corn on the waters of White river, and not on the land claimed; and that claimant left the country in about forty days afterwards, and never returned. The land claimed was not attempted to be improved and cultivated, and the claimant never was, or manifested an intention of becoming, an actual settler. His claim is, therefore, rejected.

The heirs of ANTOINE MARIE, deceased, claim one hundred and thirty-six acres on a run above the Little Rock, by a court grant, dated February 4th, 1785.

Pierre Querré proves that this land was the only compensation that Antoine Marie ever received for his services as an Indian interpreter during Clarke's expedition. As no improvement, cultivation, or settlement is proved, or even suggested, and as the court deed is dated in February, 1785, and Clarke's expedition did not set out until October, 1786, this claim is rejected.

The heirs of MARGARET BOLON, wife of Antoine Marie, claim one hundred and thirty-six acres adjoining the preceding tract, by a court grant, dated February 4th, 1785.

The same deponent states the same circumstances as above. The only difference is in the tenor of the deed, which mentions this grant to be made to her as compensation for services as an interpreter. To Congress alone belongs the right of going into the merits of this case; and, as cultivation has not been proved or suggested, the commissioners are obliged to reject the claim.

The heirs of RACHEL MURDOCH claim four hundred acres on the waters of the River Du Chis, in right of improvement.

Jonathan Conger, in his deposition, filed and registered, states that he, deponent, cut logs, deadened trees, laid the foundation of a cabin, and made several brush heaps for Rachel Murdoch, on the land now claimed, and could do no more, on account of the Indians. When brought before the commissioners to be examined, visa voce, he stated that Rachel Murdoch employed him to clear about one acre of the land claimed; that he planted it in corn and fruit trees; that she lived about four years in the country, when she went to the Illinois, where she was killed by the Indians.

The above recited depositions are so contradictory in circumstances, so very material as cultivation, that they are, in the opinion of the commissioners, entitled to no credit; and, therefore, they reject the claim.

CHARLES MOISE claims one hundred and thirty-six acres below Racoon creek, in right of improvement.

Jean Baptiste Valcour proves that he was hired by Charles Moise, about fifteen years ago, to go with him to work at Racoon creek; that they cut the timber off five or six acres of ground, heaped the brush, and cut logs for a cabin, but did not build it; that they worked there about fifteen days, and never returned. In this case, there appears a considerable improvement; but, as there was no actual cultivation, the commissioners must reject the claim.

WILLIAM PAGE, devisee of Joseph Pagé, claims one hundred and thirty-six acres to the northeast of the village, in right of improvement.

Auguste Tougas, in a deposition filed and registered, proves that, in January, 1790, Joseph Pagé took up the tract claimed; that the improvement consisted in making perogues and sugar, for seven years. In other words, the claimant was seven years busy in injuring the land of the United States. There appears no reason for confirming this claim, and, therefore, they reject it.

AUGUSTE TOUGAS claims one hundred and thirty-six acres adjoining the above tract, in right of improvement.

William Pagé proves exactly the same circumstances in support of this claim as Tougas proves above, in support of Pagé's. This claim is rejected, for the same reason as is given for rejecting the preceding one.

WILLIAM PAGE, devisee of Joseph Pagé, deceased, claims four hundred acres on Racoon creek, in right of improvement.

Josette Pagé's deposition, filed and registered, states that she heard her husband say her son had surveyed the land claimed, and cleared a small part of it, and that her husband had seen a small cabin, and some trees deadened thereon.

This statement, being only hearsay testimony, cannot be admitted as evidence; the claim must, therefore, be rejected.

JEAN FRANCOIS PERRY, assignee of John Richardson, claims three hundred and forty acres on the River Du Chis, by court deed, dated 1st March, 1786.

JEAN FRANCOIS PERRY, assignee of William Richardson, claims three hundred and forty acres, on the River Du Chis, by court deed, dated 1st March, 1785.

James Johnson, esq., proves that the two tracts of land now claimed were, respectively, granted by the court to William and John Richardson, and surveyed; that there was not, to his knowledge, any improvement on either; that John Richardson remained eighteen months in the country, but William Richardson never was in it. These claims are rejected.

WM. MCINTOSH, assignee of the heirs of Peter Rimbault, sen., claims a donation to the heads of families.

Francois Languedoc proves that Pierre Rimbault moved to New Orleans before the Americans took possession of the country, and never returned since.

Pierre Rimbault, never having been an American citizen, could not be entitled. His claim is, therefore, rejected.

The heirs of FRANCOIS RACINE claim the donation to the heads of families.

Pierre Querré proves that Francois Racine died in 1764. He could not then be an American citizen. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

The heirs of ANDREW ROY claim four hundred acres, in right of improvement, near the Dry-Wood swamp.

Louis Delaurier proves that Andrew Roy, about twenty years ago, marked some trees on the land claimed, but that he neither built nor cultivated. The claim is rejected.

DANIEL SMITH, heir of William Smith, claims four hundred acres on the waters of the Wabash, in right of improvement.

John Martin proves that William Smith built a cabin and enclosed a piece of ground, in the commons near Vincennes, but did not know of his having made any kind of cultivation.

William Smith's heir cannot be entitled; and, moreover, the cabin built appears to have made a part of the village of Vincennes. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

JACOB TWEBAUGH claims four hundred acres, in right of improvement, on the waters of Mill creek.

Jacob, Charles, and Daniel Thorn prove that claimant cleared about two acres on the land claimed, in the year 1787, cut some house logs, but made no cultivation. For want of actual cultivation, the claim is rejected.

The heirs of SAMUEL WORTMAN claim four hundred acres, in right of improvement, above the Grand Rapids.

Michael Thorn proves that Samuel Wortman had this land surveyed in the year 1785; that he deadened some trees on it, left the country in the spring of 1789, and was killed on his return in the spring following. Here appears but little cultivation and no improvement. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

THOMAS WELLS claims four hundred acres of land on Mattson's spring run, by court deed, dated 20th May, 1784, and improvement.

Sebastian Frederick's deposition, filed and registered, proves that the trees of about two acres of the land claimed were deadened, some house logs cut, and that he assisted in carrying the chain in the surveying of it.

Here appears no kind of cultivation. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

GEORGE WALLACE, assignee of the heirs of Peter Barrickman, claims fifty acres, a sugar camp right.

George Wallace has entered this claim as already confirmed by the Governor, and, as evidence thereof, filed an order of survey directing the public surveyor to survey for the heirs of Peter Barrickman fifty acres of land, granted them by the Governor, in right of a sugar camp, signed by John Gibson, Secretary of the Territory. The Secretary, after an examination of the records of the Territory, certifies that no such grant was ever made, and that the above order of survey was given through mistake. This claim is, therefore, rejected.

ANDREW CEARHART's heirs claim four hundred acres, in right of improvement, on the head waters of the River Du Chis.

Frederick Berger proves that there was an acre cleared on said land in 1787, peach and apple trees growing, and a cabin built; that the Indians having that evening killed a man in the neighborhood, he was obliged to abandon his improvement, and retire to the village; that he was a single man, and was afterwards drowned in White river. Benjamin Beckes, esq., proves that he knew Andrew Cearhart, who lived with him several months; that he showed to said Andrew, in 1785, the land on which he improved; that he, Beckes, frequently saw the improvement, which consisted of a turkey pen, and three-fourths of an acre whereon the trees had been deadened; that he never saw any peach trees growing, and that he was, in 1786, drowned in White river, on his return home.

From the circumstances of the general alarm created by the murder of a man by the Indians before Frederick Berger saw the improvement whereon this claim rests, and the lateness of the hour, it appears that his observations must be transitory and imperfect. The deposition, then, of Benjamin Beckes, who saw the place frequently, and at his leisure, must be chiefly relied on, and nothing is therein contained that can bring the present case within the meaning of the law of 1791, requiring improvement and cultivation. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

ANTOINE LEFEVRE, jun., claims four hundred acres, as a donation to the heads of families.

Pierre Querré proves that he knows claimant from the year 1762; that he was not married until 1787; but that, in the year 1783, he had a house in this town, his own property, and supported his father and mother, who lived with him.

Though, by an equitable construction of the second section of the act of 1791, the benefit thereof has been, by former decisions of the Governors, extended to single men who kept house themselves, yet this case is by no means similar; for the father of the claimant was, in fact, the head of the family of which the son made a part, and has been considered as such, for his children have received, as his heirs, the donation to which he was entitled. (See document B.) Two heads of a family could not exist at one and the same time. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

WILLIAM MCINTOSH, assignee of Louis Pluchon, called St. Louis, claims the salt spring on the Saline creek, emptying into the Ohio.

The spot laid claim to by William McIntosh does not lie within the district of Vincennes. The commissioners, therefore, decline expressing any opinion on this claim; and, moreover, they will observe that no evidence has been adduced in support of it.

LOUIS DELAURIER claims fifty acres, a sugar camp right.

François Campagnotte proves that, about twenty years ago, claimant had a sugar camp on land now of General Gibson and James Johnson, esq.; that he made sugar thereon for ten years, and until obliged to abandon by the persons living on the land.

The origin of this claim cannot be traced up to the time of the British Government; it cannot, therefore, come under the description of an ancient grant. The claim is rejected.

ANTOINE QUERRE claims one hundred and fifty acres on Muddy run, in right of improvement.

Louis Frederick proves that claimant made an improvement in a vacancy of about one hundred and fifty acres, lying between Louis Frederick, John Reed, Jeremiah Mayes, Peter Frederick, and Frederick Lindy, about two years ago, of about one acre; that he built a house, wherein he has lived for these twelve months.

This improvement being made posterior to March, 1791, cannot, notwithstanding his subsequent actual settlement and residence, entitle the claimant. This claim is, therefore, rejected.

FRANCOIS HAMELIN claims one hundred and thirty-six acres on the northwest side of the Wabash, in right of improvement.

Pierre Querré proves that François Hamelin has lived on the land claimed, for the space of eight or nine years, and has cultivated it ever since. This improvement, cultivation, and actual settlement, would have entitled the claimant to this land, if begun previous to the 3d March, 1791; but, being posterior to that date, it cannot come within the purview of the act of Congress. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

The heirs of JEAN BAPTISTE RACINE claim fifty acres, a sugar camp right.

Charles Delisle proves Jean Baptiste Racine to have made sugar several years ago, but he cannot state when he began, above the Little Rock, on the east side of the Wabash.

This claim is not proven to have originated either under the French or British Government, and is, therefore, rejected.

CHRISTOPHER WYANT, assignee of Pierre Cartier, claims fifty acres, a sugar camp right, near where Abel Westfall now lives.

Alexander Vallé proves that, at least twenty-five years ago, Pierre Cartier had a sugar camp at the above described place. This cannot be considered as an ancient possession, the only ground on which a sugar camp right can be confirmed. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

The heirs of JEAN BAPTISTE POTEVIN, alias HARPIN or ARPIN, claim one hundred and thirty-six acres below the Lower Prairie, in right of improvement.

Joseph Charrier proves that, about eighteen years ago, he cleared about an acre and a half of the land claimed, for the said Jean Baptiste Harpin, deceased.

This claim, for want of proof of cultivation, is rejected.

JAMES GILBREATH, assignee of James Strong, claims four hundred acres, in right of improvement, on Mehl's run.

Daniel Thorn proves that he knew one Strong in 1786, who made an improvement on Mehl's creek, consisting of a cabin built nearly to the joists, planted peach stones, sowed apple seed, made brush heaps, and planted half an acre in corn; that there was no other person in the country of the name of Strong, to the deponent's knowledge; he had a family who never were here; left the country the following year, and never returned.

The want of residence, although some kind of cultivation, proves that Strong never seriously intended to become a settler in the country; and to persons of that description alone can the benefits of the act extend. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

ROBERT BUNTIN, assignee of Bonaventure Derozier, claims four hundred acres, in right of improvement, about two leagues northeast of Vincennes. An improvement claim of Bonaventure Derozier has already been acted upon by the Governor, who granted one hundred and thirty-six acres thereon, and which are now claimed by Benjamin D. Price. (Document A.)

From every information that has been obtained on the subject, a strong presumption arises that the improvement on which the Governor made the grant, and the one now claimed, are one and the same improvement. This claim is, therefore, rejected.

The heirs of JOSEPH LAFEUILLADE, jun., claim one hundred acres, a militia donation.

François and Charles Languedoc prove that Joseph Lafeuillade, jun., was drowned in the year 1786, then of full age.

Though Joseph Lafeuillade was, at the time of his death, liable to militia duty, yet the letter of the act of Congress making it necessary to have done militia duty, and to be on the roll on the 1st of August, 1790, lay the commissioners under the necessity of rejecting this claim.

ALEXIS ADELIN claims one hundred and thirty-six acres, in right of improvement, on Racoon creek.

In support of this claim, an affidavit of François Languedoc has been filed, proving that, in the year 1790, deponent saw claimant at work upon land claimed; that he had cleared about one acre, and marked said land. This claim, for want of cultivation, cannot be granted by the commissioners. It is, therefore, rejected.

DANIEL SMITH, as assignee of Alexis Edeline, and the said Alexis Edeline, in his own right; each of them claim a militia donation of one hundred acres for the said Alexis. In support of this claim, the deposition of François Potvin has been filed with the register, stating that he saw Alexis Edeline on the parade, with his arms, in the month of August, 1790.

The commissioners, on examining the church books, find that Alexis Edeline was, at that time, thirteen years and four months old. No proof is adduced that he was on the roll on the 1st of August, 1790, or had previously done militia duty. Both the said claims are, therefore, rejected.

ABRAHAM FRY SNAPP, assignee of Simon Spring, claims three hundred and forty acres, by a court grant, dated September 17th, 1783, between the rivers Marie and Bosseron.

Moses Decker proves that he knew Simon Spring in 1786; that he continued here about two years; that he has heard that Spring had made an improvement at a place called the Plumb Orchard, but he never saw it. Louis Severe proves that Spring, in the year 1785, showed him an improvement, said by Spring to have been made by him on a tract of land, between the rivers Marie and Bosseron, belonging to him; that the improvement consisted of a cabin, more than an acre of ground cultivated, fenced with a rail fence, and peach trees planted.

The first deposition can have no weight, being but hearsay evidence. The second only proves that the improvement was declared by Spring to be his own, and made by him, which he might have said of any other spot; and this deposition is still less conclusive than the first, being the assertions of an interested person. The claim is, therefore, rejected.

LOUIS DELAURIER claims one hundred and thirty-six acres, in right of improvement, on the western bank of the Wabash, below Racoon creek.

François Compagnotte proves that, eighteen or twenty years ago, claimant took up four by forty arpens, (one hundred and thirty-six acres,) built a cabin, and planted fruit trees; no cultivation being proved, the claim is rejected.

Cases not embraced by any act of Congress.

No. 1. The United States Wabash and Illinois Land Companies claim a tract of land, lying between the mouth of a rivulet emptying into the Wabash river, about thirty-two leagues above Vincennes, and a place called Pointe Coupée, about twelve leagues above the said village, extending forty leagues eastward, and thirty leagues westward of the Wabash. Another tract of the same dimensions, from east to west, between the mouth of White river and the mouth of the Wabash. Both said tracts conveyed to Louis Viviat, for himself and associates, by deed signed by a number of the Piankeshaw Indians, therein called chiefs and sachems of the Piankeshaw nation of Indians, dated 18th October, 1785.

As a small part of the aforesaid tracts lies within the district of Vincennes, the commissioners are under the necessity of taking notice of the claim.

It appears to the commissioners that this purchase was a private transaction between the Indians and an individual, in direct violation of the proclamation of the King of Great Britain, dated 7th October, 1763, and, consequently, illegal. And as no provisions are made in any of the laws of the United States for claims of this nature, the commissioners reject them.

No 2. The French inhabitants of Vincennes claim a tract of twenty-four leagues square, joining the two tracts claimed by the Illinois and Wabash Land Companies. The only evidence in support of this claim is a reservation contained in the above mentioned deed, from the Indians, of the intermediate space between the above two tracts, for the use of the inhabitants of Vincennes. This reservation can be no more than the manifestation of the intention of the Indians to make the grant, and cannot be considered as a real transfer. But admitting it was, the deed itself being illegal and void, this claim must be rejected.

No. 3. Upper Prairie.—The several persons to whom or to whose assigns the several tracts of the upper prairie have been confirmed, (as will more fully appear by reference to a map of the prairie, document I, wherein the name of the respective claimants are inserted,) have claimed the several tracts contained within the lines AB, BC, the elm road CD, DK, the line KI, and the Wabash, known by the denomination of continuation, held under Indian deeds and in quiet possession of the several owners thereof, for at least twenty-five years.

The original titles to the several tracts here alluded to, being derived from Indian purchases unauthorized by law, the Governors have refused to act upon such claims, under the impression that those cases did not come within the powers delegated to them; and the commissioners being of the same opinion, with regard to the authority vested in them, refer the whole to Congress, the only competent tribunal to decide thereon.

They will, however, observe that the present claimants may plead the same length of possession, by which Congress was induced to grant, by section 3d of the act of March, 1791, the Indian fields to the several possessors thereof, and beg leave to suggest the propriety of legislative interference.

N. B. The contents of the several tracts alluded to above, and claimed as continuations, amount in the whole to two hundred and forty-three acres and one hundred and one perches.

No. 4. The heirs of Francois Bosseron and Ambrose Dagenet claim an uncertain quantity of land, by a grant from the court to Francois Bosseron and Ambrose Dagenet, dated November 20th, 1783; beginning on the north-west side of the Wabash, opposite Pointe Coupée, about three miles from the Wabash; thence, running at right angles with the Wabash, until it strikes the River Embarras; thence, down the said River Embarras, to within three miles west of the Wabash; thence, up the said Wabash, and parallel with the several courses thereof, at the distance of three miles therefrom, to the place of beginning; granted by order of Nicholas Perrott, Pierre Gamelin, and Pierre Querré, magistrates, and signed by Gabriel Legrand, clerk of the court.

Thomas Flower claims an undivided third part of an undivided seventh part of the above entire grant, as assignee of the heirs of the aforesaid Francois Bosseron.

Thomas Flower, assignee of Ambrose Dagenet and Bosseron, claims an uncertain quantity, part of the aforesaid grant.

Thomas Flower claims an undivided third part of an undivided fourth part of a grant made by the court to Pierre Querré, father, and Pierre Querré, son, of a tract beginning at the River Marie, to White river, and about ten leagues deep; excluding from the said grant any land they may have already granted, as assignee of Pierre Querré, father.

The heirs of Isaac Decker, assignee of Pierre Querré father, claim two thousand acres, part of the preceding grant.

Jonathan Purcell, assignee of Pierre Querré, claims five thousand acres, part of the same grant.

Thomas Flower, assignee of Pierre Querré, claims twenty thousand acres, part of the same grant.

Thomas Flower claims an uncertain quantity, as assignee of the said Pierre Querré.

Thomas Flower claims an undivided third part of an undivided moiety of an entire grant from the court to Pierre Gamelin and Nicholas Perrott, dated 20th November, 1783, lying between Pointe Coupée and River Marie, ten leagues deep; excluding from the said grant any land that may have been already granted, as assignee of Pierre Gamelin.

Thomas Flower, as assignee of Pierre Gamelin, claims forty-one thousand acres, part of the preceding grant.

Jonathan Purcell, assignee of Pierre Gamelin and Nicholas Perrott, claims twenty-seven thousand five hundred acres, part of the foregoing grant.

William Purcell, assignee of Pierre Gamelin and Nicholas Perrott, claims one thousand acres, part of the same grant.

Andrew Purcell, assignee of Pierre Gamelin, and Nicholas Perrott, claims one thousand acres, part of the same grant.

Without dwelling on the extraordinary circumstances of the above recited supposed grants, wherein the members of a court of justice have made to each other such unusual donations, and appropriated to themselves such a large and valuable part of the country, the commissioners will observe that the State of Virginia never authorized the courts to grant lands. That after the cession, Congress, taking into consideration the hard case of a number of inhabitants, who, under the impressions that these grants were good, had moved into Vincennes and the Illinois country, benevolently stepped in, by the act of 1791, and directed the Governors of the Territory to confirm claims of that description, provided the land claimed had been actually improved and cultivated, not exceeding four hundred acres to any one person. Considering, therefore, the present claims as grounded upon a transaction fraudulent ab initio entirely unusual, (the same court never having before granted more than four hundred arpens or three hundred and forty acres, with a clause of actual settlement thereto annexed,) and not contemplated by the act of 1791, reject, in toto, all the foregoing claims.

H.

Special Cases.

No. 1. The two following cases, being so peculiarly confused and blended together, put the commissioners under the necessity of making a special report thereon, giving therein a circumstantial history of the whole, stating the inferences they draw therefrom, and finally suggesting their own decision.

Amongst the claims contained in Judge Vanderburgh's notice, entered on the first day of January, 1804, as settled, and written in his own hand, is to be found the following, viz:

A. "23. One other tract of one hundred and sixty arpens, joining the two last mentioned tracts, confirmed and ordered to be surveyed by order of the Governor of the Territory, for Angelique Racine, only heir of Jean Baptiste Racine, called Beauchain, her father, and by the said Angelique and L. Denoyon, her husband, assigned to the said Henry Vanderburgh."

To which is annexed the following general certificate, written in the same hand, and signed by the Secretary of the Indiana Territory:

SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
December 31, 1804.

B. "I, John Gibson, Secretary of the Indiana Territory, do certify that I have carefully examined the foregoing claims to land, from number one to number thirty-four inclusive, the property of Henry Vanderburgh, esq., and that they have all been confirmed and ordered to be surveyed by the different Governors of the Territory, as appears on record in the said office.

Given under my hand at Vincennes, the day and date above written.

"JOHN GIBSON,
Secretary Indiana Territory."

The same Henry Vanderburgh entered on the same day a notice written and signed by him, with the name Angelique Racine, in the words following, viz:

C. "Notice to, &c. of the land claimed by Angelique Racine, as heir to her father, Jean Baptiste Racine, dit Beauchain.

"A tract of one hundred and sixty arpens, confirmed and ordered to be surveyed by the Governor of the Territory, a certified copy of which is herewith delivered."

Here follows the location.

Enclosed in the above notice, and in support of the last and foregoing claims, was the following certificate in the same Henry Vanderburgh's handwriting, except the words "alias Beauchain," and signed by the Secretary of the Territory.

D. "I certify that there is an order of the Governor of the Territory in my office, to survey for Angelique Racine, as heir of her father, Jean Baptiste Racine, one hundred and sixty arpens of land. Also, one other tract for one hundred and sixty arpens of land to the said Angelique Racine, as heir to her said father, Jean Baptiste Racine, alias Beauchain.

"JOHN GIBSON,
Secretary Indiana Territory."

Underneath the said certificate is written, in the same handwriting, as follows, viz: "One of the above tracts has been conveyed to Henry Vanderburgh, and is entered with his claim."

In the record of Winthrop Sargent's entries of claims to land, made in 1797, book B, are found the following entries, respectfully numbered by number fifty-one and one hundred and twenty-nine, in the handwriting of the said Henry Vanderburgh.

E. "Angelique Racine, four arpens by forty at the Big Hill, which was granted and allotted to her father, François Racine, upwards of thirty years ago. Pierre Cartier and Jean Baptiste Potevin prove the grant, allotment, and cultivation, in which they aided, in company with said Racine. The land is three miles east of the village, or thereabouts. Decotteaux also proves the above."

F. "The heirs of Jean Baptiste Beauchain, one of the first settlers of this country, claim one hundred and sixty arpens of land joining the donation. The land has been called for more than forty years Beauchain's côte, after the owner's name. This land, from the best information, though not positively proven, seems to have been assigned him by the Governor of this place upwards of forty years ago. The claim, therefore, appears to have gained strength from its great antiquity; and, from this consideration, we are induced to recommend it to your particular attention. Beauchain died in the country, and never owned any other land."

When these claims were exhibited, Henry Vanderburgh was acting with others, as commissioner, to receive land claims, by appointment from Colonel Sargent.

In consequence of the foregoing entries, the following orders of survey were issued, as recorded in Winthrop Sargent's book C, containing warrants of survey, pages 24 and 34.

G. "Angelique Racine, four arpens by forty, at the Big Hill; granted and allotted to her father, François Racine, upwards of thirty years ago, about three miles eastward of Vincennes."

H. "The heirs of Jean Baptiste Beauchain one hundred and sixty arpens of land, joining the donation. Survey the same, agreeably to ancient boundaries, it appearing to have been very early in the family."

The first order of survey, marked G, is not executed; the land being included in the donation tract, is located on the west side of the Wabash, and is alluded to in the entry C, of Angelique Racine, who therein calls her father Jean Baptiste Racine, and not François.

The second order of survey H, has been executed; the land surveyed, in consequence thereof, lies some distance south from the donation tract, and is alluded to in the entry A of Henry Vanderburgh, the present claimant, wherein he called Angelique Denoyon's father Jean Baptiste Racine, alias Beauchain. That the father of Angelique Racine should be named by the same person in one place, A and C, Jean Baptiste Racine, dit Beauchain, in another, G, François Racine, and in a third, H and F, Jean Baptiste Beauchain, were circumstances calculated to awaken suspicion, inasmuch as Henry Vanderburgh is son-in-law of Angelique Racine, formerly Mrs. Cornoyer, now Mrs. Denoyon, and could not be supposed to mistake the name of the father of his wife's mother.

The Secretary of the Territory, to whom these suspicious were communicated, went into an examination of the books of Colonel Sargent, and sent to the commissioners the following letter, to which were prefixed the two orders of survey, marked G and H, verbatim, as they stand on Colonel Sargent's record, properly certified and subscribed by him.

To the Commissioners of the Land Office for the district of Vincennes.

"GENTLEMEN: On the 26th of December, 1804, I signed a certificate, of which the following is a copy," viz: [Here follows the certificate alluded to, inserted above, and marked D.] "This certificate was given at the solicitation of Judge Vanderburgh, who assisted me, as Secretary of the Territory, to compare the contents thereof with the original record in my office. I have since found that it was not conformable to the record, but that the confirmation to the two tracts of land therein mentioned, made by Colonel Sargent, were in the words and figures first above written, (see G and H.) As the former certificate is erroneous, and done this mistake, I beg you will make the necessary alterations therein, so as it may comport with the original record.

"I am, gentlemen, &c.,

JOHN GIBSON,
Secretary Indiana Territory."

With a view to throw some light on a subject involved in such obscurity, the commissioners examined François Racine, son of the late commandant, who, upon his oath, made the following answers to a series of questions put to him by the commissioners.

That the name of Angelique Racine's father was François Racine, called Beauchene.

That the name of his own father was Jean Baptiste Racine, called, for distinction sake, Ste. Marie, formerly commandant under the British Government in this place. That François Racine never was called Jean Baptiste.

That the hill above Abraham F. Snapp's mill was called the Grand Côte and Côte à Beauchene, and was one and the same place: that he never knew a man by the name of Jean Baptiste Beauchain.

From which it appears evident that a grant of one hundred and thirty-six acres (one hundred and sixty arpens) was made to Angelique Racine, in right of her father, François at the Grand Côte, the Big Hill: that the union of the christian name of Jean Baptiste Racine, alias Ste. Marie, the ancient commandant at this place, with Beauchene, the additional name of François Racine, and making the Big Hill and Côte à Beauchene, which are one and the same spot, two different places, a second grant has been obtained for a person who never had existence. That the two notices entered by Judge Vanderburgh, for himself, as assignee of Angelique Cornoyer or Denoyon, in right of her father Jean Baptiste Racine, alias Beauchene, for one hundred and thirty-six acres, and by himself for the same Angelique, in the same right, for a similar quantity, tally only with the certificate surreptitiously obtained from General Gibson, and not with the record of Winthrop Sargent, mentioned above.

The commissioners are, therefore, of opinion, that the grant made to Angelique Racine, as heir to her father Francois, ought to be confirmed, although her notice is incorrect, in claiming in the name of Jean Baptiste instead of Francois, her real father, and it is entered as such in the list of confirmed claims.

That the Governor's grant to the heirs of Jean Baptiste Beauchene ought to be considered a nullity, as having been made to an ideal person, under a feigned name, made use of for the purpose of deceiving the Governor.

That Henry Vanderburgh, the present claimant, cannot be considered as an innocent purchaser, as the whole transaction, from the beginning, has been conducted by him, and in his own handwriting, and that the land surveyed for the heirs of Jean Baptiste Beauchene still belongs to the United States.

No. 2. Judge Vanderburgh entered his claim to one hundred acres of land, part of a donation tract, as assignee of Joseph Hamelin, to whom claimant says the same was granted as head of a family at Vincennes, before the year 1783.

John Harbin has laid claim to the remaining three hundred acres, as assignee of the said Joseph Hamelin.

In the records of the Territory is found the grant of four hundred acres to one Joseph Hamelin, to whom No. 88 of said donation tract was allotted, now claimed by Richard Pollard, as assignee, (Document B,) and but one Joseph Hamelin is to be found on the record. The only support of the present claim is an order of survey from Arthur St. Clair, directed to Robert Buntin, surveyor of the public lands, found amongst the papers, whereof the following is a copy. (See book B, page 250.)

"Survey for Joseph Hamelin, four hundred acres of land, a donation as a head of a family, contiguous to the donation tract, it having been proven to me that he is entitled as head of a family, in 1783, but his name omitted when the list was made out, and this shall be your warrant.

"A. ST. CLAIR.

"ROBERT BUNTIN, Esq.,
Surveyor of Knox.
"December 21, 1799."

The fact stated in the above order of survey, namely, that Joseph Hamelin's name had been omitted when the list was made out, is evidently a mistake, since, from the records of the Territory, it appears that a donation tract was in fact granted to one Joseph Hamelin, who drew No. 88. They, therefore, reject these claims as founded on the above order of survey. It remained, then, for the commissioners to consider this case as unsettled on the presumption that there existed another man of the same name, who might have been entitled; but of this they have obtained no evidence.

No. 3. James Legerwood, assignee of William Page, three hundred and forty acres, by a grant of the court, dated 10th March, 1782.

The only support of this claim which has been entered, and considered by claimant as settled, is an authenticated copy of the deed of court to William Page, of the above mentioned number of acres, on Mill creek, with the following words, evidently in Governor St. Clair's handwriting, viz. "to be surveyed," endorsed on the back thereof; which copy was forwarded to Governor Harrison in the fall, 1804, together with sundry other papers and petitions, with annotations in the same handwriting, appearing to have been memoranda of the said Governor's decisions thereon. Those papers were handed by Governor Harrison to the register. No confirmation of the same claim appears in the records of the Territory. In addition to the above, it is to be observed that the land herein claimed has been two or three years in the possession of the claimant, a bona fide purchaser, who lives and has made valuable improvements thereon. The commissioners, without any evidence of cultivation and improvement, would have rejected this claim; but being induced to believe that it had been confirmed by Governor St. Clair, although by him neglected to be entered on the Territorial records, have come to a determination to consider the claim as confirmed, and have entered the same on their books accordingly.

No. 4. Francois Hamelin and Pierre Cabassier have entered in the register's office their respective claims to donation rights, as heads of families at Cahokia, and have exhibited affidavits in support thereof.

The above claims may have been entered with the register of the Kaskaskia district: that consideration alone would justify the commissioners in declining to take them up.

But they are convinced that they have no power to enter into the investigation of claims which do not belong to their district, and, therefore, decline expressing any opinion on their merits.

VINCENNES, September 20, 1806.

SIR: I do myself the honor of addressing you on a subject which, to me, is of the most interesting nature. The very extraordinary report, made by Nathaniel Ewing and John Badollet, esquires, commissioners of the land office for the district of Vincennes, respecting two tracts of land of one hundred and sixty arpens each, granted by Winthrop Sargent, acting as Governor of the Territory in the year 1797; one to the heirs of Jean Baptiste Beauchene, and the other to Angelique Racine, heir to her father Francois Racine, was never communicated to me, until the morning of the second instant, and then in a very confidential manner by Henry Hunt, clerk of the general court of the Territory, at whose house both the commissioners lived during the whole time they were engaged in this transaction. I was never notified in any way whatever to produce any testimony, which might have explained and done away the doubts and difficulties which they allege existed. Nor was I ever present, or had the least knowledge of any testimony which they examined on the subject. Since this transaction has come to my knowledge, I have been much occupied in the general court, and have, therefore, delayed making you this communication until to-day. I now take the liberty of soliciting you to suspend any opinion on the report, and not to expose it to the view of any person, until I can forward such papers, documents, and testimony, as shall prove, I trust, satisfactory to yourself, as well as to the committee of Congress before whom these papers are to be laid. It is probable they will be sent on by Mr. Park, the delegate of this Territory.

I am, with great respect and regard, sir,
Your most obedient, humble servant,
HENRY VANDERBURGH.

ALBERT GALLATIN, Esq.

APPLICATION FOR THE SALE OF THE RESERVED LANDS IN OHIO.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE DECEMBER 30, 1806.

To the honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

The undersigned, inhabitants of the county of Columbiana, in the State of Ohio, respectfully represent: That your petitioners consider the extraordinary price set upon the reserved sections Nos. 15, 21, and 22, in the original surveyed townships in said county, to be an indirect denial of the sales of these lands, as experience must have proved beyond a doubt that they will not sell, in any reasonable time, for eight dollars per acre; and, as the United States have such immense quantities of land in market, it is considered by us that it cannot be an object to keep them up at so extravagant a price, and the more especially when it is so injurious to the settlements and growing prosperity of our infant State. These considerations being premised, we shall now proceed to state specifically the injury we sustain in consequence thereof. In the first place, these sections being situated in the heart of the original surveyed townships, and remaining in their rude and uncultivated state, cuts off that communication and correspondence so desirable and necessary in civil society. Secondly, they cannot be described in truer terms than a harbor in the bosom of each township for wolves, panthers, bears, and other destructive animals. Thirdly, it completely frustrates the object of our State Legislature, in the incorporation of the original surveyed townships; because, by remaining a wilderness, it prevents the citizens thereof from assembling in the centre, for the purpose of transacting their ordinary local concerns. Roads must be kept up through them, at a great expense, without deriving the proper advantages therefrom. Fourthly, on some of these sections are mill-seats, that would be of great advantage could they be improved; but, in consequence of the high price of these lands, improvements of this kind appear impracticable; and we are, therefore, deprived of enjoying those advantages which nature has offered. Fifthly, it greatly retards that population and those improvements so desirable in our young and rising

State: and it is considered by us that no class of citizens are benefited by the measure, except the speculator who holds thousands for sale. We, your petitioners, therefore, being fully impressed with a belief, and having the highest confidence that the General Government are disposed, and will, upon all proper occasions, promote the welfare of the States, individually, consistent with the honor and interest of the Union; and that, had a representation been heretofore made on the subject to Congress, the evil now complained of would have been removed before this: we, therefore, pray that these lands may be offered for sale in quarter sections, for such price as they may bring; and as leases have been granted for a few of these lots, and their term not yet expired, it is presumed that if a law was passed, directing the sales of these lands, generally, the leased sections must be sold subject to that incumbrance. It is, therefore, respectfully submitted whether it would not be proper to give the right of pre-emption, at a fixed and reduced price, to the lessees, until the expiration of their term. This would not only operate as a spur to care and industry, but place the lessees and their posterity in a situation of enjoying the fruits of their labor; and your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

JOHN HOOVER and others.

2d SESSION.

VIRGINIA MILITARY LAND WARRANTS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES DECEMBER 30, 1806.

Mr. BOYLE, from the Committee on Public Lands, to which was referred a resolution directing an inquiry into the expediency of repealing so much of the act of Congress of the 23d of March, 1804, as limits the time in which locations of Virginia military warrants shall be made, made the following report:

That, by the act of cession by which Virginia ceded to the United States the territory northwest of the River Ohio, it is provided, as a condition upon which the cession was made, "that, in case the quantity of good lands on the southeast side of the Ohio, upon the waters of Cumberland river, and between the Green river and Tennessee river, which have been reserved by law for the Virginia troops upon continental establishment, should, from the North Carolina line bearing in further upon the Cumberland lands than was expected, prove insufficient for their legal bounties, the deficiency should be made up to the said troops in good lands, to be laid off between the Rivers Scioto and Little Miami, on the northwest side of the River Ohio, in such proportions as have been engaged to them by the laws of Virginia."

As there is no limitation of time expressed in this condition, it may reasonably admit of a doubt whether the act of the 23d of March, 1804, limiting the time in which Virginia military warrants should be made, and the surveys thereon returned, is not an infraction of the terms of the cession. But the principles upon which that act is founded has been repeatedly recognized by Congress. Every act limiting a period within which persons having claims upon the Government should make application for the payment or satisfaction of their demands, the right to which, when acquired, was not subject to such limitation, is evidently bottomed upon the same principle. There appears to be as strong reasons for a limitation in the present instance as in any other that has or can occur. It is believed that there is a considerably greater quantity of land within the boundary reserved for the use of the officers and soldiers of Virginia on the continental establishment, than is sufficient to satisfy all the unlocated warrants; but as it is not only unknown what is the amount of those warrants, but as it is in the option of those holding them when or whether ever they will locate them or not, it must forever remain uncertain what is the quantity of land subject to be otherwise disposed of, if there is no period fixed beyond which locations shall not be made. There being, however, a considerable number of unlocated warrants still extant, held as well by minors as others, who are either ignorant of the limitation, or whose interest has been neglected by those who represented them, and the object of the limitation being not to preclude, but to hasten the location of those warrants, both justice and policy require that there should be a further extension of the time.

It may be further observed, that, from the manner in which locations have been made, there are many conflicting claims to land within the territory reserved by the State of Virginia for the use of her officers and soldiers. By an act of Congress of the 13th of May, 1800 provision is made that, when either party to such claims shall lose or be evicted, the party evicted or losing the land shall have a right to withdraw his warrant to the amount of such loss or eviction, and locate, survey, and patent the same on any vacant land within the reserved territory; as, from the recent settlement of that country, but few losses or evictions can yet have taken place, to refuse to prolong the time for locations, would, in a great measure, deprive parties to interfering claims of the right of availing themselves of the provisions of the law designed for their benefit. The committee, for these reasons, submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That a further time of ——— years from the 23d of March next be allowed for locating warrants granted by the State of Virginia to her officers and soldiers upon continental establishment, and that a further time of ——— years from the said 23d of March next be allowed to return surveys on said locations.

2d SESSION.

LAND CLAIMS IN THE MICHIGAN TERRITORY.

COMMUNICATED TO CONGRESS JANUARY 2, 1807.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, December 30, 1806.

SIR: I have the honor, in conformity with the several acts making provision for the disposal of the public lands in the Territories of Indiana and Michigan, to enclose the transcript of decisions made by the commissioners in favor of claimants to land in the district of Detroit.

It appears that they have confirmed only eight [six] claims; and their report of rejections was received so late, and is so voluminous, that there was not time to have it transcribed. The original has been transmitted to Congress. But as the claims are there arranged in the order in which they were acted upon by the board, and are not divided into classes according to their nature, a copy of a letter from the commissioners, dated 1st December, 1805, is herewith transmitted, (see No. 126, page 266,) which gives a more general view of the subject than is exhibited in the report itself.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

ALBERT GALLATIN.

The Honorable the PRESIDENT of the Senate.

REPORT.

The following is the report of the claims to lands in the district of Detroit, which have been affirmed by the commissioners appointed to investigate such claims:

1st. JEAN MARIE BEAUBIEN.—The claim of Jean Marie Beaubien to a tract of land lying on the north side of River Detroit, containing two arpens in front by twenty in depth, bounded in front by said river, in the rear by another parcel of land claimed by the said Jean Marie Beaubien, on the northeast by the lands of ———, and on the southwest by the lands of ———.

2d. FELIX PELTIER.—The claim of Felix Peltier to a tract of land lying on the north side of River Detroit, containing four arpens in front by forty in depth, bounded in front by said river, in the rear by unconceded lands, on the east northeast by a farm in possession of George Meldrum, and on the west southwest by a farm now in possession, and claimed by Maurice Moran.

3d. FRANCIS PAUL MATCHER.—The claim of Francis Paul Mather to a tract of land lying on the north side of River Detroit, containing four arpens in front by forty in depth, bounded in front by the said river, in rear by another parcel claimed by the aforesaid Francis Paul Mather, on the east northeast by another parcel of land claimed by the same Francis Paul Mather, and on the west southwest by the farm claimed and possessed by Nicholas Boyer.

4th. ANTOINE MORAS.—Mary Boyer, widow of Antoine Moras, deceased, as well on behalf of herself, as the widow and relict of Antoine Moras, as in behalf of their children, acting as their natural guardian and next friend, claims a tract of land lying on the north side of River Detroit, containing three acres in front by forty in depth, bounded in front by the said river, in rear by unconceded lands, on the east northeast by a farm belonging to the heirs of the late Colonel Francis Hamtramck, deceased, and on the west southwest by the farm of Francis Paul Mather, above described.

5th. GEORGE MELDRUM.—The claim of George Meldrum to a tract of land lying on the north side of River Detroit, containing four arpens in front by forty in depth, bounded in front by the said river, in rear by unconceded lands, on the east northeast by the farm now in the possession of Louis Beaufait, and on the west southwest by the farm of Felix Peltier, described above.

6th. CHARLES GOUIN and NICHOLAS GOUIN.—The claim of Charles Gouin and Nicholas Gouin to a tract of land lying on the north side of River Detroit, containing two acres in front by twenty in depth, bounded in front by the said river, in rear by another parcel of lands claimed by them, on the east northeast by the farm of Antoine Dequindre, and on the west southwest by the lands claimed by the heirs of ——— Vivard, deceased.

Cette vente, cession, transport, et délaissement, et abandon, ainsi fait pour et moyennant le prix et somme de deux cent dix-huit pounds, neuf chelings, quatre pence, cours de la Nouvelle York, que les dits héritiers reconnoissent avoir reçu du dit acquéreur lors et avant la passation des présentes, dont ils le tiennent quitte et déchargé ainsi que tous autres; déclarent les dits héritiers que cette somme a fait partie des paiements que chacun d'eux a reçus pour sa part et portion à héritage de défunt Joseph Bondi, leur père et beau-père, et a été avancée par le dit Antoine Bondi, le présent acquéreur; au moyen de quoi tous et chacun d'eux renoncent et abandonnent nettement et entièrement toutes prétentions qu'ils ont pu avoir sur la dite terre avant la passation des présentes; veulent et entendent que le dit Antoine Bondi jouisse et dispose comme bon lui semblera, et comme d'un bien justement acquis sans qu'aucun d'eux, leurs hoirs, et ayant cause puissent jamais le troubler dans la paisible possession et jouissance de la dite terre. DETROIT, June 6, 1808.

SIR: Please to take notice that I enter with the commissioners of the land office at Detroit my claim to a tract of land, situate, lying, and being on the River Rouge, in the district of Detroit, which I have possessed, occupied, and improved, for upwards of twenty years, without any interruption. This tract contains three arpens in front, by forty arpens in depth, is bounded in front by River Rouge, on one side by Toussaint Riopel, and on the other by lands of Desplaines, deceased.

Witness, LOUIS VESSIERE, Fils.

“Je soussigné reconnois et déclare à tous ceux qu'il appartiendra que dans le mois de Mars, 1785, à la requisition des principaux propriétaires des terres à la rivière Rouge, à main gauche en montant, je me suis expès transporté de ma maison et domicile, sis au village du Detroit, pour tirer des lignes de separation et planter des bornes entre les dits propriétaires, et que j'ai tiré les dites lignes sur un rhomb de vent de sud, vingt degrés au ouest, mais n'ayant point des indications suffisantes des situations des donaisons sauvages. et voyant que les autres lignes n'étaient, pas suffisamment couchées au ouest pour éviter la grande rivière du Detroit, je me suis encor transporté une autrefois, accompagné par le Sr. Thomas Williams, ci-devant arpenteur de l'endroit, pour bien examiner comment les dites lignes doivent coucher: nous avons donc par consultation mutuelle jugé à propos que les dites lignes doivent coucher sur trente degrés au ouest, et en rapportant notre détermination aux dits propriétaires, ils étaient parfaitement satisfait, et ont signé une convention pour cet effect, laquelle est enregistrée au greffe du Detroit par le Sr. Guillaume Montforton, greffier et notaire public de l'endroit. Enfin je suis revenu le 11eme jour du mois d'Avril, et j'ai commencé de coucher les lignes selon la susdite convention, commençant par Gabriel Godfroy trois arpens, en montant, ensuite trois pour Alexis Labadi, trois pour Pierriche Chène, trois pour Baptiste Cicot, six pour Alexis Delille, ensuite trois pour Laderoute, six pour les enfants de Pierriche Chène deux pour Cattin, trois pour François Trudelle, trois pour Pierriche Robert, trois pour A. B. Delille, tous à main gauche en montant la rivière, et selon les indications des donaisons sauvages, sans avoir égard à la qualité, à l'affection, ni aux protestations des parties, Ainsi je l'atteste et je l'assure par mon seing et par les personnes nommées et signé ci-dessus.

Postponed for consideration.

No. 213. NICHOLAS CHAPOTON.—The board took into consideration the claim of Nicholas Chapoton to a tract of land situate at L'ance creuse, on Lake St. Clair; and the notice by him filed with the commissioners of the land office at Detroit, was read in the words following, to wit:

To Peter Audrain, Register of the Land Office at Detroit.

DETROIT, June 13, 1808.

Sir: Please take notice that I, Nicholas Chapoton, now enter with the commissioners of the land office at Detroit the following tract of land, situate, lying, and being at L'ance creuse, upon Lake St. Clair, in the district of Detroit, containing, by estimation, one hundred and sixty acres, it being in front four acres, and in depth forty acres, and bounded in front upon Lake St. Clair, on one side by lands claimed by Phillis Peltier, and on the other side by lands in possession of J. B. Nantay, in rear by uncultivated lands. I make claim and set up title by virtue of purchase, possession, occupancy, and improvements, by myself and others for me.

For NICHOLAS CHAPOTON,
SOL. SIBLEY, Attorney.

This tract contains, by estimation,* one hundred and sixty acres, it being four arpens in front by forty in depth, is bounded in front by Lake St. Clair, in rear by unconceded lands, on one side by lands claimed by Phillis Peltier, and on the other side by lands claimed by Jean Baptiste Nantay.

Whereupon, the six following witnesses, who had been regularly subpoenaed by the claimant, appeared in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn deposed and said, to wit:

Jean Baptiste Nantay deposed and said that, previous to the 1st of July, 1796, the claimant cut a stack of hay on the premises, and erected a fence around it, but cultivated no part of the land, and made no improvements; that Phillis Peltier had built two houses, one of which has been burnt.

Jean Marsac, dit Punacha, deposed and said, that the claimant once cut a stack of hay, but had made no improvements; that Phillis Peltier had built a house on the said tract, about two and a half arpens this side of the bridge, and that the said Peltier has under cultivation between seven or eight arpens in breadth; that the improvements of the said Peltier on the lower end of the farm have been made, as the deponent believes, since the Americans took possession of this country; the deponent further saith that the Indian chiefs gave him in charge not to suffer any persons to settle or intrude on those lands, as they had given them to their friends, Peltier and Chapoton.

Michel Comparet deposed and said, that Phillis Peltier built a house two and half arpens this side of the bridge; that Chapoton has mowed hay on the premises; that the Indians had told him that that part of the tract, joining the land claimed by Jean Baptiste Nantay was for Chapoton; that Peltier mowed hay in July, and Chapoton mowed by the latter end of August, but had made no improvements.

Pierre Lanoue, dit Leblanc, deposed and said that, about six years ago, Peltier called on him (the deponent) and requested him to help him to measure four arpens and two perches of land for Robert Thomas, now claimed by Jean Baptiste Nantay; and that next to this land upwards, Peltier measured four arpens and two perches more for himself. At that time no improvements were made on those four arpens and two perches.

Jean Baptiste Chapoton deposed and said that, in August, 1795, the claimant mowed hay on the premises, and that, in February following, he, the deponent, helped the claimant to take away said hay; and that five or six days after, he went again with the claimant to take away the remainder of the hay, and that at that time he helped the claimant to cut small round logs to build a house on the premises. That Peltier then made use of one side of the tract, and Chapoton of the other; that no improvements were then made, nor any made to this day; that this tract is under cultivation by Peltier for these five or six years past.

Louis Chapoton deposed and said, that he has heard Phillis Peltier say that the Indians had given that tract of land in question to him and Nicholas Chapoton.

Benoist Chapoton deposed and said that, above four years ago, Phillis Peltier told him that he would go and show him the land of the claimant; that when they were arrived he showed him the tract of land now claimed by Jean Baptiste Nantay, and has very lately told him that he would prove it upon oath. The deponent further saith, that Phillis Peltier told him that there were about twelve arpens in the whole; and that, as the Indian deed for himself and for Chapoton mentioned only eight arpens, he had given his brother the four arpens first improved.

The claimant, in support of his claim, exhibited the following Indian deed, to wit:

Les principaux des sauteurs, Vouistanance et Nanguy, et les jeunes gens soussignés, de notre marque ordinaire, reconnoissons et certifions avoir de notre bon gré et propre volonté et consenti avoir donner au Sieur Colet Chapoton une terre de quatre arpens de front sur quarante de profondeur, tenant d'un coté à J. B. Nantay, et de l'autre coté à Filis Peltier, et ce pour en jouir et disposer lui et ses hoirs, ayant cause, comme bon lui semblera.

Fait au Détroit, le 8 May, 1795.

VOUSTANANCE. x
NANGUY. x

And, thereupon, it doth appear to the commissioners that the claimant is not entitled to the above described tract of land; therefore, that his claim thereto be rejected.

No. 214. GODFROY AND BEAUGRAND.—The board took into consideration the claim (No. 14) of Godfroy and Beaugrand to a tract of land situate on the north side of River Raisin, which was entered with the commissioners of the land office at Detroit, in vol. 1, page 295, under the date of 29th November, 1805.

This tract contains, by estimation, one hundred and twenty arpens, it being three arpens in front, by forty in depth, bounded in front by River Raisin, in rear by unconceded lands, above by Joseph Lenfant, senior, and below by lands claimed by J. Baptiste Jerome.

Whereupon, Medard Labadi was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, previous to the 1st July, 1796, Joseph Lenfant, junior, was in possession and occupancy of the premises, and continued so until he sold to Godfroy and Beaugrand, who have possessed and occupied the same to this day.

And, thereupon, it doth appear to the commissioners, that the claimants are entitled to the above described tract of land, and that they have a certificate thereof, which certificate shall be No. 214; and that they cause the same to be surveyed, and a plot of the survey, with the quantity of land therein contained, to be returned to the register of the land office at Detroit.

* See the contradictions in this report.

The board reconsidered the claim of Captain Alexander Harrow, (No. 190,) which was postponed for consideration the 28th June last.

And, thereupon, it doth appear to the commissioners, that the claimant is entitled to the above described tract of land, and that he have a certificate thereof, which certificate shall be No. 190; and that he cause the same to be surveyed, and a plot of the survey, with the quantity of land therein contained, to be returned to the register of the land office at Detroit.

Whereupon, James Peltier, senior, and Jean Baptiste Sanscrainte, were brought forward as witnesses in behalf of the claimants, who were duly sworn.

James Peltier deposed and said, that, sixteen or seventeen years ago, the father of the claimant was in possession and occupancy of the said tract of land; that a house and shed were built thereon; some enclosures were made, and some land was cultivated; that since that time the father of the claimants has always kept possession, and continued to cultivate, and to increase the cultivation to this day.

Jean Baptiste Sanscrainte deposed and said, that there may be seven or eight arpens in cultivation, and he corroborates the testimony of Peltier in full. Postponed for consideration.

WEDNESDAY, July 13, 1808.

The board met at nine o'clock in the forenoon, pursuant to adjournment.

The board reconsidered the third claim of James Baby, esquire.

Whereupon, Colonel Francis Chabert, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that he doth not know whether there was any improvement made on the premises on the 1st of July, 1796; that Mr. Baby has always claimed that tract of land since the year 1780; and that the people have always considered it as part of his property. The deponent further saith, that Messrs. De-lille now live on part of that tract, but doth not know when they began their improvements; that they have improved that part of the tract next to the lands claimed by the Northwest Company; that, in 1798, or 1799, he, the deponent, went with Major Cicot over the river to Mr. Baby to ask his permission for each of them to improve a part of that tract; that, at that time, he knows of no improvements having been made on the said tract of land.

Pierre Dumay, being sworn, deposed and said, that, every year, previous to the American Government taking possession of this country, Messrs. Baby were in the habit of cutting their hay on the said tract of land; that Messrs. McComb used to mow their hay on the same tract also, and some other people, with the permission of Mr. Baby; that he, the deponent, was charged by the commandant, Mr. Baby and Mr. McComb, to take care of the premises; and that if any person happened to cut hay without permission, he, the deponent came to town, and gave information, and that people were sent down to take the hay so cut without permission; that Mr. Baby, Mr. McComb, and the commandant, were equally masters of the different parts which they mowed; that he always understood that Mr. Baby was the owner of the land, and that he always had possession of the same to this day; that he had bought it, and that the general opinion was, that he was the owner of it. The deponent being asked what he understands by saying that possession was in Mr. Baby, he saith, because he was the master of it, cut his hay on it, and prevented other people mowing hay thereon. The deponent has no knowledge of Mr. Baby having erected any fence, planted any corn, or built any house on the premises; that, since the Americans took possession of this country, every body considered themselves masters, and at liberty to cut hay on said tract of land, and did so.

Colonel Chabert, being questioned, saith, that he himself applied to Mr. Baby to purchase part of the said tract of land, and that Major Cicot did the same.

Major Cicot, being sworn, deposed and said, that, for upwards of eleven years he has tenanted the premises from Mr. Baby; that he has tilled the land, seeded it, and made fence, previous to which time he had made arrangements with Mr. Baby; that it was at least three years before Messrs. Delille began any improvements; and that, since that time, he never was one year without cultivating the land; that he never had ploughed any part previous to his going with Colonel Chabert to Mr. Baby; that he had built a small house on it, and that, with a view of making an arrangement with Mr. Baby, for he knew at that time that the land belonged to Mr. Baby; that he has entered into articles with Mr. Baby for the land since he went over with Colonel Chabert to Mr. Baby; that, by his agreement with Mr. Baby, he is to have all the land between the Northwest Company and the farm on which Weaver lives, and that he or his two sons are to pay for it; that the last agreement was made last Friday. The deponent further saith, that he believes that the Messrs. Delille began to improve the upper part of this tract six or seven years ago; that there had been no improvement made thereon prior to that time; that the Delilles have built a house, two or three years ago, and erected some fences.

Baptiste Cicot, junior, being sworn, deposed and said, that, about seven or eight years ago, his father told him that he had went into possession, and cultivated that land by the permission of Mr. Baby, in expectation that he would get it from Mr. Baby in exchange for some lands on the British side; that, ten or eleven years ago, his father began to cultivate this land, and has continued so to this day; that, before the Delilles began to improve, his father had begun to make part of a fence near the line of the Northwest Company's lands. The deponent further saith, that his father had drawn rails around that piece of ground now occupied by the Delilles for the purpose of enclosing the same, which were thrown away by the Delilles for the purpose of enclosing the field themselves. Being questioned by Mr. Sibley whether the Delilles had drawn any timber on the ground before the rails were thrown away, he answered no; he said that his father was the first who laid rails around part of that field, and that the Delilles have occupied the ground about seven years, contrary to his father's prohibition. Postponed for consideration.

And thereupon Jean Baptiste Cicot filed the following notice, to wit:

TERRITORY OF MICHIGAN, District of Detroit, ss.
To Peter Andrain, Esq., Register of the United States Land Office, in the District and Territory aforesaid.

DETROIT, July 13, 1808.

SIR: You will please take notice that I do hereby countermand the entry of a certain tract of land, situate on the north side of the River Rouge, containing about twenty acres in front by fifteen in depth, bounded in front by said River Rouge, in rear by John Askin, on one side by the Northwest Company's lands, and on the other by the rear of Weaver's farm; which said entry was made by me on the sixth day of this present month of July, 1808, for James and Francis Cicot: and I do retract their claim to the same, otherwise than as it depends on the claim of James Baby, now the claimant.

JEAN BAPTISTE CICOT.

The board took into consideration the first claim of James Baby, esq. Whereupon, Pierre Dumay was sworn, deposed and said, that, more than twenty-five years ago, this tract of land was divided into three farms, and began to be improved by people to whom Mr. Baby had sold, to wit, John Hoost and two others, whose names the deponent does not recollect; that the major part of this tract has been cultivated, except that part next to the deponent, which several times has been abandoned by the tenants; that, on the first July, 1796, the farm next to the deponent was uncultivated; that Noel Chovin was on the next, and David Harkley was on the other, under one Reynolds, his father-in-law.

John Cissne, being sworn, deposed and said, that, in 1787, when the deponent came to River Rouge, one John Hoost was living on the farm next to Pierre Dumay; Jacob Lisle lived on the next farm, which he had bought of Thomas Edwards, and Reynolds lived on the third farm; that these three farms have been generally improved and cultivated for these twenty years past; that, on the first farm, twenty acres are cultivated; on the second farm, thirty to thirty-five acres; and, on the third farm, twenty-five acres, as the deponent estimates it. And, lastly, it is covenanted and agreed upon, by and between both the said parties to these presents, and it is hereby declared to be the true intent and meaning hereof, and of the parties hereunto, that, until default shall be made in payment of the said sum of fourteen hundred and forty-four dollars and seventy-five cents, and legal interest for the same, as aforesaid, according to the time above limited for the payment thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the said Louis St. Bernard, his heirs and assigns, peaceably and quietly to have, hold, occupy, possess, and enjoy, all and singular the said premises above granted and released, and every part thereof, with the appurtenances; and to have, receive, and take the rents, issues, and profits thereof, to his and their own particular use and benefit, any thing herein contained to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding. This island contains, by estimation, seven hundred and four acres, is situate in the strait, about three miles above the city of Detroit.

Whereupon, George Meldrum was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimants, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, in the year 1793, the late William M'Comb was in possession and occupancy of the premises, and continued so until he died, since which time to this day the premises have been cultivated by tenants placed thereon by one of the executors of the last will and testament of the said William M'Comb.—Postponed.

No. 257. THE HEIRS OF WM. M'COMB, dec'd.—The board took into consideration the twelfth claim of the heirs of the late William M'Comb, deceased, to wit, John, William, and David M'Comb, to a tract of land situate on River Detroit, at a place called Grand Marais, which was entered with the former commissioners of the Land Office at Detroit, in vol. 1, page 354, under the date of 2d December, 1805. No. 258. GREGOR MCGREGOR.—The board took into consideration the claim of Gregor McGregor to a tract of land situate at Grosse Pointe on Lake St. Clair, which was entered with the former Commissioners of the Land Office at Detroit, in vol. 2, page 36, under the date of JAMES BABY, reconsidered.—The board reconsidered the claim of James Baby, esq., (No. 218;) whereupon, Thomas Smith, esq., was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, previous to the 1st July, 1796, Jean Batiste Cicot had a small house, or a hog-pen, and, he believed, a well, on the premises; that Major Cicot has always been in possession from that time, and that he knows of no person having claim to the premises, except Baby; and that Mr. Baby, or some one of the family, claimed the said tract of land by virtue of an Indian deed. At this time, Jean Batiste Cicot owned a farm on the opposite side of the river, on which he or some one of his family lived.

Question by Sol. Sibley.—Did you consider the improvements thus made by Cicot as a convenience or as a distinct improvement, having no connexion with the farm or ferry?

Answer.—I think it was both for improvement and convenience.

The deponent doth not recollect that Cicot ever told him, previous to the year 1796, that he had any claim to the land in question. The deponent, at the request of Mr. Baby, surveyed the land eight or nine years ago, and Cicot furnished the hands to help him to survey; that, at that time, there was the same improvements as existed previous to 1796; that is, a shed for horses; that there was not, at the time of the survey, any fields or enclosures, but that there was a kind of abbattis, or brush fence, between this land and the land of the Northwest Company, made by Cicot, as he understood from Mr. Cicot. He further saith that, at the time of the survey, he does not believe that any field or enclosures had been made on the tract in question. For the caveat entered by Jean Batiste Delille against this claim, see page 387.—Postponed.

And then the board adjourned to to-morrow, at nine o'clock in the forenoon.

The deponent further saith, that the shed was built for the purpose of putting a calash under it, as there was not then any flat to cross the river in, but only a canoe.

Joseph Baron, sen., being sworn, deposed and said, that, before and after the arrival of the Americans, he has mowed hay on the tract of land in question, without ever having asked the permission of any person; that he never saw any enclosures previous to the arrival of the Americans, but that he has seen some since; that, six or seven years ago, Major Cicot prevented him chopping firewood, saying that the land was his, and he had it by exchange from Mr. Baby.

Louis Leferté, sen., being sworn, deposed and said, that, previous to the arrival of the Americans, he had permission of the late Duperon Baby, deceased, father to the claimant, to cut on the premises what hay he wanted; and that, since the Americans have been here, he has cut hay with the permission of Francis and James Baby; and, during the time he was cutting, he saw no buildings or enclosures on the premises.

Angelique Bourassa, being sworn, deposed and said, that, about fourteen or fifteen years ago, she was living on River Raisins, and, in coming to Detroit to get one of her children christened, she crossed the River Rouge from the farm of Major Cicot, where one Leclerc was then living as a tenant, and that she perfectly recollects to have seen on the premises in question a shed for a calash, and a small building erected; and that at a little distance she saw a small field enclosed, and cultivated, in which there were pumpkins, and some Indian corn.—Postponed.

TERRITORY OF MICHIGAN:

To the Register of the United States Land Office at Detroit in the Territory aforesaid.

DETROIT, August 10, 1808.

SIR: You will please take notice, and enter in your office my claim to a tract of land of twelve acres in front, by fifty in depth, situate on the north side of River Huron in said district, bounded on the upper side by the lands of John Askin, jun., and on the lower by those of James Conner, in front by the river, and in rear by the lands of the United States, being, in all, about six hundred acres, which I hold and claim by virtue of a long and uninterrupted possession and improvement.

E. BRUSH,

Attorney for Wm. Conner.

This tract contains, by estimation, six hundred acres, it being twelve acres in front, by fifty in depth, bounded in front by River Huron, in rear by unconceded lands, on the upper side by lands claimed by John Askin, jun., and below by lands claimed by James Conner.

Whereupon, Jacob Baker was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, about thirteen or fourteen years ago, he was on River Huron, and saw some improvements made on the premises, to wit: a fence around, about one and a half acre, but there was no land cultivated; some brushes were cut down by way of clearing; the deponent understood then that those improvements were made for William Conner.

James Conner, another witness, being sworn, deposed and said, that, about thirteen years ago, this tract of land was given to the claimant by his father; that he, the deponent, then did, with the help of his brothers, cut down timber, and erected a small house on the premises; that two years after, on his return from the Indian country, he saw about two acres of land under fence; and that, about four years ago, he, the deponent, took possession, under his brother, of the said tract of land, and has continued to this day.—Postponed.

Caveat of Jean Batiste Delille, against the claim of James Baby, Esq., (No. 218,) filed 2d of August, as follows, to wit:

To the Commissioners of the United States Land Office at Detroit, in the district of Detroit.

John Batiste Delille comes before the said commissioners and enters his caveat against the claim of James Baby to so much of a certain tract of land situated on the west side of river Rouge, and lying in a bend of the said river Rouge, between a lot owned by the Northwest Company and the lands of James McGill, being, by estimation, about three hundred acres, "as in the notice filed with the register of the said Land Office is described and set forth, as he, the said John Batiste Delille, has occupied and improved for his own benefit, and at his own expenses and charges, to wit: seven acres in front upon said river Rouge, and extending back at right angles therefrom, to the line of said McGill, bounded on the upper side by lands improved by Pierre Riopel, and on the other side by lands improved by Jean Batiste Cicot; because the said John Baptist Delille saith that he commenced his improvements upon said tract of land more than six years past, and has continued to improve and occupy the same, in his own right, to this day, and that he has made valuable improvements upon said tract of land in houses, buildings, and fences, and that he is the head of a family; and, by the provision of the third section of an act entitled "An act supplemental to an act regulating the grants of land in the territory of Michigan," he, the said John Batiste Delille, is entitled to a preference in becoming the purchaser of said tract of land so by him occupied and improved, as above set forth, in pursuance of the said section; therefore, the said John Batiste Delille prays time may be granted him for a hearing before said commissioners, and that he may have the privileges of subpoenas for witnesses, by which to show his own right, as well as disprove the right and pretensions of said James Baby to said tract of land, &c.

FOR JOHN BATISTE DELILLE,
SOL. SIBLEY, Attorney.

And thereupon it doth appear to the commissioners that the claimants are entitled to the above described tract of land, and that they have a certificate thereof, which certificate shall be No. 474; and that they cause the same to be surveyed, and a plot of the survey, with the quantity of land therein contained, to be returned to the register of the land office at Detroit.

No. 475. JACQUES LASSELLE.—The board took into consideration the claim of Jacques Lasselie to two tracts of land, situate on the forks of river Ecorces, now united into one farm, which were entered with the former commissioners of the land office at Detroit, in vol. 1, page 234, under the date of 27th November, 1805.

This farm contains, by estimation, — arperents, it being six arperents in front, extending in depth to the line of St. Cosme family's lands, bounded below by lands of Batiste Chicot, and above by lands of Godfroy and Beaugrand.

Whereupon, Colonel Francis Chabert was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, previous to the 1st of July, 1796, Isidore Delisle and Bienvenu Delisle were in possession and occupancy each of a tract, and continued so until they sold to the claimant.

Jean Baptiste Chicot, another witness sworn, deposed and said, that he himself had cultivated the premises four or five years previous to July, 1796, and has continued to this day with the permission of the claimant, and that there are on the premises a grist and a saw mill.

And thereupon it doth appear to the commissioners that the claimant is entitled to the above described tract of land, and that he have a certificate thereof, which certificate shall be No. 475; and that he cause the same to be surveyed, and a plot of the survey, with the quantity of land therein contained, to be returned to the register of the land office at Detroit.

No. 476. GEORGE MELDRUM.—The board took into consideration the claim of George Meldrum, part his own and as grantee of William Park, Gabriel Godfroy, and George McDougall, to a tract of land, situate on river aux Roches; and the notice by him filed was read in the words and figures following, to wit:

TERRITORY OF MICHIGAN:

To the Register of the United States' Land Office at Detroit.

DECEMBER 8, 1808.

SIR: I, George Meldrum, of the district of Detroit, in said territory of Michigan, do hereby give notice, and make entry in the land office, &c. that I claim to hold to myself and heirs, a certain tract of land, of six hundred and forty acres or thereabout, situate upon Sandy and Rocky creeks, in the district of Erie, and territory of Michigan, and within the limits of the United States' lands, district of Detroit; which said tract of land and premises, which I do hereby give notice of claim, and make entry, is bounded and described as follows, to wit: commencing on the northerly side of Sandy creek, at the place where the road leading from Detroit to the State of Ohio strikes said creek; thence, with the general course of said road, about north forty-five degrees east, to a point upon Stony creek, to a boundary below the saw mill and north-west corner of land claimed by George McDougall; thence, in the same course across said Stony creek, below the saw and grist mill, about twenty-six rods, to a place commonly called the northeast corner of the four acre lot; thence, north forty-five degrees west, twenty-six rods, to the bank of said Stony creek; thence, running up said creek, with the meanders thereof, one hundred and twenty Gunter's chains; thence, south forty-five degrees west, until said line strikes the northerly bank of Sandy creek aforesaid; thence, down the northerly side of said Sandy creek, following the meanders thereof, to the place of beginning. The said George Meldrum makes title and claims to himself and his heirs, in and to said tract of land and premises, by virtue of a purchase thereof, and also by virtue of long and continued possession, occupancy, and valuable improvements made and done upon said premises by himself and those under whom he derives title and claim in and to said premises.

François Navarre, esq., another witness sworn in behalf of the claimant, deposed and said, that he knows of Valiquet improving the above described tract; that, in January or February, 1796, and several times before, he, the deponent went at the request of François Pepin, and forbid the said François Valiquet to work on said tract of land, it being claimed by said François Pepin. That, immediately after said François Valiquet left the premises, a man by the name of Chevre cultivated the same as a tenant of Meldrum and Park and McDougall, and remained thereon two years; that, immediately after, Mr. Porlier Benac went and lived on it; and since he left it, the deponent saith, that, to the best of his recollection, tenants have been kept on the premises constantly to this day. The deponent further saith, that the improvements made by Valiquet lay above the road leading from Detroit to River Raisins, and upon the northerly side of Sandy creek; and further knows, that the said improvements of Valiquet are on the same tract set forth in the notice of the claimant; that there are valuable improvements thereon, such as a saw mill and grist mill, houses, &c.

And the said George McDougall, Gabriel Godfroy, and William Park, for themselves respectively, and their respective heirs, do covenant and agree, to and with the said George Meldrum, his heirs and assigns, that they have not either of them done any act or thing whatsoever, nor will they do or cause to be done any act or thing, whereby the right, claim, and interest of the said George Meldrum, his heirs and assigns, may, might, or can be injured or affected, in and to said tract of land and premises. Thirty-five acres are cultivated and under fence, and two houses are erected thereon.

No. 555. THE HEIRS AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF WILLIAM MACOMB, deceased.—The board took into consideration the claim of the heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, deceased, to a tract of land, on river Detroit; and the notice filed the 21st instant by Sol. DETROIT, December 17, 1808.

SIR: The heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, esq. late of Detroit, deceased, hereby give notice to the commissioners of the said land office, that they claim and make title to have confirmed and granted to them, and their heirs and assigns, a certain tract of land situated and lying upon Gross Isle, in said district of Detroit, and territory of Michigan, containing six hundred and forty acres, and bounded and described upon the map and plot of survey herewith filed, as follows, to wit: beginning at a post on the west side of Gross Isle, being the southwest angle of the section B, on said plot; then east, thirty-three chains, more or less, to the intersection of a meridian line, a division of the eastern and western sections, at a proposed road leading between said section; then south, along said line, one hundred and thirty-six chains; then west, to the western border of said Gross Isle; then following the said border up stream, to the place of beginning; which said tract of land on said plot of survey is marked G, and the lines designated by the letters c, f, g, z, e. For the heirs and legal representatives of WILLIAM MACOMB, deceased,

SOL. SIBLEY, Attorney and Agent.

Whereupon, Jacob Eiler was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimants, who being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, many years previous to the 1st July, 1796, the late William Macomb, deceased, was in possession and tenanted the premises; that Henry Hoffman was living on this tract as a tenant, in 1796; that the land remained idle for four years; that Adna Heacok then lived on it as tenant, and after James Chittenden rented it, also as tenant, and still continues so, as tenant, and pays rent to Mr. McIntosh, as agent, &c. About twenty acres are cultivated, and one house is erected thereon.

Augus McIntosh, another witness, being sworn, deposed and said, that he is the agent to the estate, and one of the executors of the last will and testament of the late William Macomb, deceased, and that the cause of the above tract remaining idle four years is, that he could not procure tenants for the same.

The claimants, in support of their claim, produced a legal copy of the last will and testament of the late William Macomb, deceased, from which the following is extracted, to wit:

"I give and devise to my sons, John Macomb, William Macomb, and David Macomb, to be equally apportioned between them, all the messuages, houses, lands, tenements, farms, and hereditaments, whatsoever and wheresoever to me belonging, or in any manner appertaining, or which I may have any right, title, or claim unto, whether the same be held in fee soccage, under Indian grants, or other tenure whatsoever."

And thereupon it doth appear to the commissioners that the claimants are entitled to the above described tract of land, and that they have a certificate thereof, which certificate shall be No. 555; and that they cause the same to be surveyed, and a plot of the survey, with the quantity of land therein contained, to be returned to the register of the land office at Detroit.

No. 556. THE HEIRS AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF WILLIAM MACOMB, deceased.—The board took into consideration the claim of the heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, deceased, to a tract of land, situate on river Detroit; and the notice filed the 21st instant, by Sol. Sibley, their agent, was read in the words and figures following, to wit:

To the Register of the United States' Land Office at Detroit, in the territory of Michigan.

SIR: Notice is hereby given to the commissioners of the United States' land office at Detroit, for the district of Detroit and territory of Michigan, that the heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, esq. late of Detroit, deceased, set up title and make claim to a certain tract of land, containing six hundred and forty acres, situate upon Gross Isle, in said district and territory, bounded and described as follows, as by the plot of survey herewith filed, to wit: beginning at the southwest angle of section G, marked in said plot, near the southerly entrance of the thoroughfare, where a post is planted; then east, fifty-nine chains, more or less, to the intersection of a meridian line, the division of the eastern and western sections; then south, along said line, one hundred and seven chains; then west, to the west side of said Gross Isle; then following the border up stream to the place of beginning; which section above described is marked on said plot of survey H, and the lines thereof z, g, c, n, z, which said tract of land or farm above described and set forth, the heirs and legal representatives of the said William Macomb, esq. deceased, make claim and title to, by virtue of ancient, long, and continued possession, occupancy, and improvements in, to, and upon said land, by themselves and their deceased father, William Macomb, under whom they claim, their agents, &c.

For the heirs and legal representatives of WILLIAM MACOMB, esq. deceased,

SOL. SIBLEY, Agent and Attorney.

This tract contains, and is bounded, as in the above notice.

Whereupon, Jacob Eiler was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimants, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that many years previous to the 1st July, 1796, the late William Macomb was in possession and tenanted the premises; that eight or ten years previous to 1796, the premises were improved by Charles Monger, as a tenant to William Macomb, to whom he paid rent; that in the fall of 1794 he was killed, and his wife remained in possession until the summer of 1795, when she left it; and that, from that time until James Mitchell went on, which is three years ago, the land remained idle; said Mitchell remained a year thereon; since which time it has been occupied by Michael Myers, as a tenant, who pays rent to Mr.

McIntosh, as agent, &c. About eight acres are now under fence, and a house is erected thereon.

Angus McIntosh, another witness, being sworn, deposed and said, that the reason why this tract of land remained idle sometimes is, that no application was made to him by any person whom he thought worthy of renting. The deponent further said, that he considered that part of the island as much under his protection and care as any other part of it.

The claimants, in support of their claim, produced a legal copy of the last will and testament of the late William Macomb, deceased, their father, from which the following is extracted, to wit:

"I give and devise unto my sons, John Macomb, William Macomb, and David Macomb, to be equally apportioned between them, all the messuages, houses, lands, tenements, farms, and hereditaments, whatsoever and wheresoever to me belonging, or in any manner appertaining, or which I may have any right, title, or claim unto, whether the same be held in fee soccage, under Indian grants, or other tenure whatsoever," &c.

And thereupon it doth appear to the commissioners that the claimants are not entitled to the above described tract of land; and that, therefore, their claim be rejected.

And Sol. Sibley, agent and attorney for the claimants, comes and excepts to the decision of the commissioners, and files his bill of exceptions and appeal in the words and figures following, to wit:

And the said John, William, and David Macomb, sons and legal representatives of William Macomb, late of Detroit, deceased, come here before the honorable commissioners, &c. and because the judgment and decision of said commissioners upon their claim, No. 556, as given and entered, said claim is negatived and rejected, they do except to such decision, and therefrom appeal. And for reasons of their exceptions and appeal in this behalf, say that, by the evidence by them produced in support of their said claim, the said tract of land and premises, as set forth in their notice filed, ought, in justice and equity, to have been granted and affirmed to them by the said commissioners, according to the true intent and meaning of the laws of the United States in such case made and provided: for, in and by said evidence it is fully shown, that the said William Macomb, the father, in his life time and long prior to the 1st July, 1796, made and caused valuable improvements to be made upon said tract of land and premises, which were continued for a length of time, and until suspended by the death of the then tenants; and that the improvements of said tract of land were reassumed by the claimants in a reasonable time thereafter, and continued down to the present time, the claimants never intending to abandon said premises; which facts so proved, it is humbly conceived, were and are sufficient to establish the right of the claimants in and to said tract of land, more particularly as the claimants were infants and minor children at the time when their right in and to said premises vested in them.

Wherefore, the claimants pray that the decision aforesaid may be set aside, reversed, and held for nought, and further, that the said tract of land may be affirmed and granted to them, &c.

For the claimants,
SOL. SIBLEY, Attorney and Agent.

NO. 557. THE HEIRS AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF WILLIAM MACOMB, deceased.—The board took into consideration the claim of the heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, deceased, to a tract of land situate on the river Detroit, and the notice filed the 21st instant by Solomon Sibley, their agent, was read in the words and figures following, to wit:

To the Register of the United States Land Office at Detroit, territory of Michigan.

SIR: The heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, esq. late of Detroit, deceased, make entry and give notice to the commissioners of the United States' Land Office at Detroit, for the district of Detroit and territory of Michigan, that they set up title and claim in and to a certain tract of land situate upon the lower end of Gross Isle, in said district of Detroit and territory of Michigan, containing six hundred and forty acres, more or less; which said tract of land or farm is bounded and designated upon the plot of survey herewith filed, as follows, to wit: beginning at a post in the southwest angle of section F, then east to the east side of said Gross Isle, one hundred and nineteen chains, more or less; then southerly along the water edge, down stream, to the mouth of Reedy creek, and the southernmost point of said Gross Isle; then northwesterly, up stream, along the west side of said Gross Isle to the place of beginning; which said tract of land above described is marked I on said plot of survey, and the lines designated by o, p, s, o. To which tract of land above described, the heirs and legal representatives of said William Macomb, deceased, make claim and title by virtue of ancient, long, and continued possession, occupancy, and improvements in, upon, and to said tract of land, by themselves and the said William, deceased, and their agents, to wit, from a period of time prior to the 1st July, 1796, down to the present time, &c.

For the heirs and legal representatives of WILLIAM MACOMB, deceased,
SOL. SIBLEY, Attorney and Agent.

This tract contains, and is bounded, as in the above notice.

Whereupon, Jacob Eiler was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimants, who being duly sworn, deposed and said, that previous to the 1st July, 1796, three improvements had been made on this tract by the tenents of the late William Macomb; that a year or two previous to 1796, the tenants left the premises, and the land has been idle since that time to this day. Three houses had been built thereon, but are decayed.

Angus McIntosh, another witness, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that the reason why this tract of land had remained idle sometimes was, that no application was made to him by any person whom he thought worthy of renting. The deponent further saith, that he considers that part of the island as much under his protection and care as any other part of it.

The claimants, in support of their claim, produced a legal copy of the last will and testament of the late William Macomb, deceased, from which the following is extracted, to wit:

"I give and devise unto my sons, John Macomb, William Macomb, and David Macomb, to be equally apportioned between them, all the messuages, houses, lands, tenements, farms, and hereditaments whatsoever or wheresoever to me belonging, or in any manner appertaining, or which I may have any right, title, or claim unto, whether the same be held in fee soccage, under Indian grants, or other tenure whatsoever." &c.

And thereupon it doth appear to the commissioners that the claimants are not entitled to the above described tract of land, and that, therefore, their claim be rejected.

And Solomon Sibley, agent and attorney for the claimants, comes and excepts to the decision of the commissioners, and files his bill of exceptions and appeal in the words and figures following, to wit:

And the said John, William and David Macomb, sons and legal representatives of William Macomb, late of Detroit, deceased, come here before the honorable commissioners, &c. and because the judgment and decision of said commissioners, as given and entered upon claim 557, said claim is rejected as unfounded; therefore, the said John, William, and David, claimants, as in their notice filed will appear, do except to said judgment, and appeal therefrom, and for reasons of their appeal in this behalf, do say, that the evidence by them introduced in support of said claim before said commissioners was sufficient to establish the right of the claimants in and to said premises, according to the true intent and meaning of the laws of the United States in such case made and provided.

Therefore, they pray that the decision given and entered by said commissioners in this behalf may be reversed and set aside, and said premises confirmed and adjudged to the claimants, and that a patent may issue to them for the same, &c.

For the claimants,

NO. 558. THE HEIRS AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF WILLIAM MACOMB, deceased.—The board took into consideration the claim of the heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, deceased, to a tract of land situate on the river Detroit, and the notice filed the 21st instant by Solomon Sibley, their agent, was read in the words and figures following, to wit:

To the Register of the United States' Land Office at Detroit, Territory of Michigan.

DETROIT, December 17, 1868.

SIR: The heirs and legal representatives of William Macomb, esq., late of Detroit, deceased, give notice, through you, to the commissioners of said United States' land office at Detroit, for the land district of Detroit, and territory of Michigan, that they claim and make title to a certain island or tract of land situated and lying to the east of Gross Isle, in the river Detroit, called and known by the name of Stony Island, which said island so claimed contains two hundred acres, more or less, and is surrounded on all sides thereof by the Detroit river. The said heirs and legal representatives of the said William Macomb, deceased, claim to have and hold said island to them, their heirs and assigns, forever, by virtue of long and quiet possession, occupancy, and improvement thereof, in and by themselves and the said William Macomb, deceased, to wit, from a period prior to the 1st day of July, 1796, down to this time, taking and enjoying the rents and profits thereof to his and their use, which they are prepared to verify and prove, &c. The said heirs and representatives aforesaid, therefore, claim to have a confirmation thereof in themselves and their heirs, &c.

For the heirs and legal representatives of WILLIAM MACOMB, deceased,

SOL. SIBLEY, Attorney and Agent.

This tract contains, and is bounded as in the above notice.

Whereupon, Jacob Eiler was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimants, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, several years previous to the 1st July, 1796, one Jacob Stoffer rented the premises from the late William Macomb, and paid rent from forty to fifty pounds a year, and continued to rent it until he died; the deponent then rented it for two years; that Solomon McCulloch rented it afterwards, and that said island was always rented until March, 1807; that there are not any improvements on said island; that the island is a stone quarry, and is improved as such.

The claimants, in support of their claim, produced a legal copy of the last will and testament of the late William Macomb, deceased, from which the following is extracted, to wit:

"I give and devise unto my sons, John Macomb, William Macomb, and David Macomb, to be equally apportioned between them, all the messuages, houses, lands, tenements, farms, and hereditaments whatsoever or wheresoever to me belonging, or in any manner appertaining, or which I may have any right, title, or claim unto, whether the same be held in fee soccage, under Indian grants, or other tenure whatsoever, &c."

And thereupon it doth appear to the commissioners that the claimants are not entitled to the above described tract of land, or island; and that, therefore, their claim be rejected.

And Solomon Sibley, agent and attorney for the claimants, comes and excepts to the decision of the commissioners, and files his bill of exceptions and appeal in the words and figures following, to wit:

And the said John, William, and David Macomb, sons of William Macomb, deceased, claimants, come before the honorable the commissioners, &c.; and because, by the judgment and decision of said commissioners on claim No. 558, as given and entered, said claim is negatived and rejected, they do except to said decision, and, therefore, do appeal, and for reasons of such their appeal say, that, by the evidence adduced by the claimants in support of said claim, the said tract of land called Stony Island ought, in justice and equity, to have been affirmed in and granted to them, the said John, William, and David, according to the true intent and meaning of the laws of the United States in such case made and provided; because the claimants say it is proven, as appears by the evidence on record, that William Macomb, deceased, father of the claimants, was in the possession and occupancy of the said premises long before the 1st day of July, 1796, and continued to occupy, possess, and enjoy the same until his death; and that the claimants under his right have continued to possess, occupy, and enjoy the same, in the manner the said island is capable of being occupied, possessed, and enjoyed, down to the present time.

Wherefore, they pray that said judgment and decision may be reversed and held for nought, and that the said island may be confirmed in and granted to the said claimants, and that a patent may issue to them for the same, &c.

For the claimants,

SOLOMON SIBLEY, Agent and Attorney.

To the Register of the Land Office of the United States, held at Detroit.

DETROIT, August 17, 1808.

SIR: Notice is hereby given that I, John Williams, son and co-heir of Cecille Campeau, late the wife of Jacques Loson, and late the widow of Thomas Williams, my late father, deceased, for and in right of myself, as well as for and in right of all the children and co-heirs of the said Cecille, our mother, deceased, and in right thereof, do now enter with the commissioners of the land office at Detroit our claim in and to a certain tract of land, situated upon the River Huron, in the district of Huron, and territory of Michigan, containing by estimation, six hundred and forty acres, or thereabout, bounded in front upon said River Huron, upon the upper side, southwesterly, by lands claimed by Joseph Campeau, on the lower side, northerly, by lands claimed by Michel Comparet, and in rear by lake St. Clair, being in front, upon said River Huron, twelve acres, or thereabouts, and in depth fifty-three and one-third acres, or thereabouts. I, the said John Williams, for myself and for and on behalf of the children and co-heirs of the said Cecille, our late mother, deceased, make claim and set up title to said tract of land, in the right of, and as the legal representatives of, the said Cecille, deceased, by virtue of purchase of said tract of land, made by said Cecille, in her life time, as well as long possession, occupancy, and improvements thereon had, made, and done by the said Cecille, and those under whom the said Cecille, and the heirs and legal representatives, set up title and claim in and to said tract of land, &c.

JOHN WILLIAMS,

For himself and the co-heirs of the late Cecille Campeau, deceased.

This tract contains, and is bounded, as in the above notice.

Whereupon, Jacques Campeau was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimants, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, previous to the 1st of July, 1796, Jacques Loson and his late wife, Cecille Campeau, were in possession and occupancy of the premises; that Mrs. Loson remained on the said premises with her husband until she died; and that Jacques Loson has continued on the same to this day; that several people had made some improvements on the premises, and that Loson and his wife purchased them, to wit, from Thomas Edwards; and that afterwards Isaac Williams did transfer to them a certain quantity of land adjoining, making now part of the farm possessed and occupied by said Loson, which said quantity of land so transferred was the joint property of said Isaac Williams and of the late Thomas Williams. The deponent further saith, that the said Isaac Williams and Thomas Williams never made any improvements on this tract of land. The deponent has no knowledge that the first improvements were made under the authority of Isaac and Thomas Williams; the deponent saith that there are about thirty-five or thirty-six arpents cultivated and enclosed, and that a house, barn, and other out-houses are erected on the premises; that the house now standing was built by Thomas Edwards, but that the barn and other buildings have been erected by Jacques Loson. The deponent further saith, that John Williams worked now and then on the said tract of land with a negro of his father; that the negro worked seven or eight years until he was sold, to wit, seven or eight years ago. The deponent knows that Jacques Loson has cultivated this farm ever since he has been in possession of it, and that all the fencing, seeding, and ploughing, has been made by said Loson, or by people under him; that the negro was brought to Jacques Loson by his wife, when he married her, and was sold by him, or her, during her lifetime; that John Williams lived in the house of Jacques Loson during the time he remained on River Huron. That, when Mr. and Mrs. Loson went to live on River Huron, he, the deponent, thought that they were going on the property of Mrs. Loson, but he does not know whether Loson thought so himself or not. That two daughters of Mrs. Loson, by her first husband, lived seven or eight years, more or less, in the family of Jacques Loson, except the time they were sent to school.

Touissant Campeau, another witness, being sworn, deposed and said, that he often heard the late Mrs. Loson say that the premises under consideration were her property; that there were about twelve arpents cultivated and enclosed, previous to Mr. and Mrs. Loson going to reside thereon. The deponent being asked in what situation Jacques Loson was when he went to live on the River Huron, answered that, to the best of his knowledge, he believes that he had nothing.—Postponed.

No. 604. JOSEPH CAMPEAU.—The board took into consideration the claim of Joseph Campeau, to a tract of land, situate on River Huron; and the notice by him filed 31st December last was read in the words and figures following, to wit:

Whereupon, Jacques Loson was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that he has been living on the farm under consideration about sixteen years, and has worked and improved the same to this day; that, when he went to live on it, there was on it one Thomas Edwards, from whom he, the deponent, purchased the improvements; that he sold this tract of land to Joseph Campeau for a valuable consideration, but that the late Mrs. Loson refused to sign the deed; that Mrs. Loson refused also to sign the mortgage, but that he, the deponent, forced her to do it; that he owed a sum of money to Joseph Campeau for goods which he, the deponent, had taken from the store of Mr. Campeau, for the use of his family; and that it was for that debt that he gave the above mentioned mortgage to Mr. Campeau; that the children of Mrs. Loson by her first husband were not constantly with him, but lived with him about seven or eight years, and were clothed with part of the goods purchased from Mr. Campeau's store; that he paid Thomas Edwards for his improvements with a horse, which was part of Mrs. Loson's property, and with an order on Mr. Campeau for about twenty pounds, which is comprehended in the mortgage; that, since he sold his farm to Mr. Campeau, he considered himself as a man living thereon, without paying rent, and that he does not consider Mr. Campeau as owner, because Mr. Campeau never took possession of the premises. The deponent further saith, that he knows of Mr. Isaac Williams having transferred all the lands to the late Mrs. Loson, the year they went to live on them, but prior to their going; and that he, the deponent, agreed to transfer, and that he always considered the premises as the property of his wife; and that he worked the same as common property between them; that, about two years ago, he settled all his accounts with Mr. Campeau, and gave Mr. Campeau his note of hand for the balance, which is now unpaid, including the mortgage money; that Mr. Campeau did not say that the mortgage and other papers were null and good for nothing. The deponent exhibited a writing purporting to be a mutual gift between him and his late wife.—Postponed.

This tract contains and is bounded as in the above notice.

Whereupon, Pierre Yax was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who being duly sworn deposed and said, that, previous to the 1st July, 1796, he, the deponent, was in possession and occupancy of the premises, and continued so until he sold to François Yax, his son, from whom the claimant has purchased, who has occupied and cultivated the premises to this day; about two arpents are under cultivation; a house, stables, &c. are erected on the premises.

And then the board adjourned to Friday next, at nine in the forenoon.

FRIDAY, February 10, 1809.

The board met at nine in the forenoon, pursuant to adjournment; and, there being no business, adjourned to tomorrow, at nine in the forenoon.

SATURDAY, February 11, 1809.

The board met at nine in the forenoon, pursuant to adjournment.

The board reconsidered the claim of J. Robertjean, (No. 229,) which was postponed on the 12th July, 1808.

Whereupon, Louis Campeau, esq. was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, in the year 1801, he, the deponent, took on the premises one thousand rails, by the permission of Louis and Antoine Petit, who said that they were authorized by Joseph Robertjean, at which time part of the premises were enclosed, and are still enclosed.—Postponed.

The board reconsidered the claim of the heirs of the late Cecille Campeau, late wife of Jacques Loson, (No. 603,) which was postponed 21st January last.

And thereupon Louis Campeau, esq. was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, previous to the 1st July, 1796, Thomas Edwards was in possession and occupancy of the premises, and sold the same to Jacques Loson, that is to say, all his rights, titles and claim to the same, but that Loson did not take possession until he had paid twenty-two pounds ten shillings, New York currency, for the balance due on said purchase; and that Mrs. Loson gave Edwards an order for that sum on Mr. Joseph Campeaux, who paid it; and that then Loson took possession of the premises. The deponent knows of no other improvements made on the premises than those made by Edwards, who sold to Loson, excepting a small improvement made by one Joseph Comparet, who abandoned it, and that Loson took and kept possession of the whole even before the Americans came to this country.

The deponent further saith that Mr. and Mrs. Loson both told him that they had sold to Mr. Joseph Campeau all their right and title to the premises now under consideration, and that Mrs. Loson said to him that she had sent for Mr. Campeau to come and take possession of the property; that the cattle and horses of Loson were delivered to the clerk of Joseph Campeau, who branded the same.

Joseph Robertjean, another witness, sworn, deposed and said, that Jean Baptiste Comparet, sen., first improved the premises prior to Thomas Edwards taking possession of the same, and had erected the square of a house; that the land cultivated by Thomas Edwards contained about six arpents, between the land of Louis Maure and the land of Joseph Comparet; that Joseph and Francis Comparet, together with Jean Marie Comparet, had a house and a barn erected on the premises, and about twelve arpents cleared. The deponent further saith, that Thomas Edwards never was in possession of more than six arpents in front; that the Comparets lived on the premises four or five years, and had left them when he, the deponent, went to live on River Huron, about eighteen years ago. The deponent knows that Jacques Loson has been in the peaceable possession of the premises these fifteen or sixteen years; that Jacques Loson told him several times that he was in the possession of the premises as the property of his wife; that it was after their marriage that he went to live on the premises; that said Loson has always cultivated, or caused to be cultivated, the premises; and that he knows of no owner but said Loson, who has cleared and enclosed a quantity of land, has repaired the barn almost anew, and has also repaired the house; that the year John Williams lived with said Loson on River Huron, a great deal of land was cleared by the said Williams and others.

Michael Comparet, another witness, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that he knows of Jacques Loson occupying a farm of twelve arpents in front; that the first improvements were made by his, the deponent's, father and brothers, who abandoned them; that Thomas Edwards took possession the same year of six arpents, afterwards sold the same to Jacques Loson, who then took possession of the whole twelve arpents. The deponent further saith, that, prior to his father and brothers improving the premises, it was rumored that the land belonged to the late Thomas Williams, esq. by virtue of an Indian deed; that, about eighteen years ago, Isaac Williams sold twelve arpents to his, the deponent's, father, six of which are part of the premises under consideration; that he believes that Jacques Loson occupies the premises in his own right, and not in the right of his wife; that he, the deponent, has been informed by Mr. and Mrs. Loson that they had sold and mortgaged the premises to Joseph Campeau.—Postponed.

The board reconsidered the claim of Joseph Campeau, (No. 604,) which was postponed the 21st January last.

Whereupon, Jean Baptiste Comparet, jun., was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that he, the deponent, together with his father and John Flin, first improved the premises under consideration about twenty-one years ago; that they cleared one acre and a half, enclosed it, and planted corn thereon; that they raised the square of a house up to the joist; that they, by their agent, Francis Comparet, sold their improvements to Thomas Edwards; that Joseph Comparet sold three acres adjoining the above tract of six acres to one Matt, and the other three acres were abandoned by Jean Marie Comparet; Matt rented his three acres to Jacob Thomas, who occupied the same a year or two, and left them, and then Jacques Loson came into possession; that about eighteen acres were improved, independent of the tract of Thomas Edwards.

The deponent further saith, that said Loson informed the deponent that he, Loson, had purchased the twelve acres from Isaac Williams, in order to secure the same to his own children: the deponent repaired a house and kitchen on the premises, and saith that the barn is built again almost new; the deponent never knew any other owner of the premises but the said Jacques Loson.

Jean Baptiste Nantay, another witness, being sworn, deposed and said, that, about sixteen or seventeen years ago, he, the deponent, interpreted between Thomas Edwards and Jacques Loson, when Edwards sold to Loson what right he had to the farm, which was delivered in his presence, and he, the deponent, brought down the baggage of said Edwards; that Loson gave, as part payment, a horse, and was to pay the balance in an order on Joseph Campeau. The said Loson has always occupied the said farm for these sixteen or seventeen years, as the owner of it.

And then the board adjourned to Tuesday next, at nine in the forenoon.

TUESDAY, February 14, 1809.

The board met at nine o'clock in the forenoon, pursuant to adjournment.

No. 615. WILLIAM MURPHY.—The board took into consideration the claim of William Murphy to a tract of land, situate on River Rouge; and the notice by him filed on the 3d September last was read in the words and figures following, to wit:

Witness, ROBERT ABBOTT.

This tract contains, by estimation, four hundred and eighty acres, it being twelve acres in front by forty in depth, bounded in front by River Rouge, in rear and on both sides by unlocated lands.

Whereupon, Captain John Cissne was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, previous to the 1st July, 1796, James Hobbs was in possession and occupancy of the premises, and continued so until he sold to Joseph Rigby, who sold to the claimant, (as per deed herewith.)

This tract has always been cultivated, except the two last seasons, but the fences have always been kept up: an Indian cultivated part of the land from 1799 to 1805, during which time Joseph Rigby was possessed of the same.—Postponed.

For NICHOLAS CAMPEAU,
JOS. CAMPEAU.

The claimant, in support of his claim, exhibited a deed in the words and figures following, to wit:

Nous, Joseph et Nicholas Campeau, nous convenons des conditions cy-dessus spécifiées, savoir: que le dit Joseph Campeau vend et cède une terre de neuf arpents de front sur la hauteur qu'elle peut porter, suivant les contrats qu'il a reçu lui-même, laquelle terre prenant par devant sur le bord de la rivière Aux Hurons, bornée d'un côté à la terre venant de Jean Baptiste Comparet, et de l'autre bord, en montant, à la terre venant de Jean Baptiste Descamellier, donc actuellement appartenant à Joseph Campeau, avec tous les bâtiments, clôtures, &c. qui sont sur la ditte terre, sans rien se réserver ni retenir. The deponent has no knowledge that any person did occupy any part of the premises from August, 1794, to 1799 or 1800. The deponent further saith, that said Alexander McCormick informed him that he had been taken prisoner by the Indians; that his wife had also been taken prisoner by the Wyandot Indians, and had been very cruelly treated by them. The deponent has seen stacks of hay fenced in by the claimant, which fence was generally carried off every spring by the overflowing of the waters. The deponent knows of the claimant having purchased the premises from the late Isidore Chene, deceased, his father-in-law; he saith further, that the reasons why the premises cannot be cultivated are, that this tract is overflowed in the spring by the high waters, which carry away every pannel of fence that can be made, and also, because, in the fall or spring, every pannel of fence would be destroyed by the fire which generally runs through the meadows; that the hay, when cut down, cannot be cured on the spot, but must be carried off to some high ground to be cured and stacked.

Charles Labadi, another witness, being sworn, says, that he confirms the above testimony of Alexis Labadi, and adds, that he himself has paid the claimant a consideration for the privilege of cutting hay on the premises.

Jean Batiste Cicot, another witness, being sworn, saith, that he knows that the claimant has purchased the premises from the late Isidore Chene, to whom he gave, in consideration of said premises, two tracts of land, one near the spring well, now in the district of Detroit, and the other on or near the Petite Rivière, on the British side. The deponent further saith, that the claimant could not make any other use of the premises than by cutting hay; that he has seen the claimant make stacks of hay and fence them; that Jacques Lasselle, who owns the land contiguous to the premises, did one year erect a fence between himself and the claimant, and that it was destroyed by fire the same year.—Postponed.

Know all men by these presents, that I, Giles Barnes, of the district of Erie, and territory of Michigan, esquire, in consideration of the sum of three hundred dollars, lawful money, to me paid by Israel Ruland and George McDougall, of the said territory of Michigan, the receipt whereof I do hereby acknowledge, have remised, released, and forever quit claimed, and by these presents remise, release, and forever quit claim unto the said Israel Ruland and George McDougall, their heirs and assigns, forever, all my claim, right, title, and interest to and into a certain tract of land, or farm, situate and lying on the north border of river Raisins, which I entered in the United States' land office at Detroit, on the 4th day of November, 1808, of three acres in front by one hundred and twenty acres in depth, making three hundred and sixty acres, or French arpents altogether, be the same more or less; bounded in front by said river Raisins, in rear by unlocated lands, on the east by Rachel Knaggs, and on the west by unconceded lands: to have and to hold the same, together with all the privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging, to them, the said Israel Ruland and George McDougall, their heirs and assigns, forever. No. 700. JOHN ASKIN, Sen.—The board took into consideration the fourth claim of John Askin, sen., to a tract of land, situate on the north side of the river Raisins, which was entered with the former commissioners of the land office at Detroit, in vol. 1, page 138, under the date of 19th November, 1805.

Whereupon, Charles Reaume was brought forward as a witness in behalf of the claimant, who, being duly sworn, deposed and said, that, on the 1st July, 1796, Pierre Baron had the premises in his charge, as agent for the deponent; that he did reside near this tract, and take care of it; that a person resided on the same; that the deponent, jointly with Pierre Baron, sold the premises to the claimant in the same month. About three or four arpents are under cultivation.—Postponed.

John Askin, in person, filed an affidavit in the words and figures following, to wit:

John Askin, senior, esq. being sworn, deposes, that, on the 28th day of April, 1786, he made a purchase for himself and William Ancram, esq., then major in the thirty-fourth regiment, and commandant at Detroit, sundry improvements of the Moravian ministers, and others, by them made on the River Huron, which empties into Lake St. Clair, at a place called the Moravian village, for which he paid two hundred dollars; he likewise purchased for himself and said Ancram, the improvements made at the same place by the Moravian or Christian Indians, sixteen in number, for which he paid them the further sum of two hundred dollars, which fact and payment is evidenced by the deed of sales recorded by the late George Hoffman, register of the land office at Detroit, in liber E, folio 3. Your deponent also paid one John Bull the further sum of fifty dollars for his improvements at said place; and the deponent further saith, that as a further consideration for said improvements, the deponent and said Ancram, at their own expense, furnished said Moravians two vessels to enable them and their Indians to return to Muskingum, their former place of residence; and also purchased most of their canoes to assist their departure; and that they received the pointed thanks of said Moravians, through Mr. John Huckenwelder, their chief missionary, for their liberality and assistance. At the time they made the purchase of said Moravians, and others, the improvements consisted of more than twenty houses, with many out-buildings; the whole they purchased, to the exception of one dwelling-house, with a cellar, &c. occupied and claimed by the late Richard Conner, together with an Indian corn-field, also improved by him, with a yard or garden in rear of said house; that the deponent, for himself and said Ancram, afterwards purchased of the Chippewa Indians, eleven of their principal chiefs signing said conveyance, the soil on which said improvements were made, as will appear by their deeds, recorded by the late George Hoffman, in liber E, folio 6; and in making said purchase, they paid said Indians a valuable consideration. The deponent and said Ancram, with a view to the accommodations of said village, and to enhance the value thereof, were at the expense of laying out and cutting a road from Detroit settlement, through the woods, to said purchase, being a distance of about twenty miles, and were at the whole expense thereof, a little assistance from the Moravian Indians excepted. As soon as the said Moravians gave up the possession, your deponent, for himself and said Ancram, made an agreement with one John Cornwall to go and take charge of said purchase; also, one Robert Dolar, Ames Weston, and some others, went on as tenants under your deponent and said Ancram, and who raised crops and resided on the premises for some time; that, after said persons leaving said premises, your deponent, for himself, and as agent for said Ancram, put into possession of said buildings and improvements one Wittaness, a chief of said Chippewa Indians, with his band, who promised to hold and cultivate said property for your deponent and said Ancram, to endeavor to prevent encroachments made thereon by others, and particularly by the said late Richard Conner, of whom the said Wittaness often complained; that the said Wittaness and his band, under such promise or agreement, continued in the possession under the said deponent and said Ancram, and those claiming under the deponent, until he died, about five or six years ago, as the deponent has been informed, he not having seen him since the fall of 1803, to his recollection; that the deponent paid said chief ten pounds per annum, for which he holds several receipts for said payments, the last of which was for a payment due in January, 1804; that the deponent employed Philip Fry, the acting surveyor for the King, to survey said land; that he paid the said Fry for the same twenty-four pounds, and furnished him with men and provisions; that the deponent has been at the expense of repeatedly recording said deeds, papers, vouchers, &c. and has paid several times internal taxes for the same; that the deponent, on the 28th day of June, 1796, for the sum of one thousand six hundred pounds, New York currency, sold and conveyed his moiety, or half of said land, improvements, &c. to Messrs. Isaac Todd and James McGill, then merchants, residing at Montreal, in Lower Canada, who still own and claim the same. The deponent having sold and parted with his interest in said land, &c. is not directly or indirectly interested in the fate that may attend the same. He has and still acts as a friend and agent for the claimants. And further saith not.

JOHN ASKIN.

ISAAC TODD.—The claimant, by John Askin, his attorney in fact, presented a petition that the said claim, (No. 268,) which was rejected on the 28th October, 1808, may be revised, and new testimony taken thereon; the petition was read and filed, and is in the words and figures following, to wit:

To the honorable the Commissioners of the United States' Land Office at Detroit.

DETROIT, November 30, 1810.

Isaac Todd, by his attorney in fact, John Askin, comes here before the commissioners at Detroit, and prays them to take up, and reconsider their decision made and entered by them at Detroit, on the 28th October, 1808, upon a notice of claim filed by him, claiming a certain tract of land, with the improvements thereon made, lying upon the Detroit River, in said district, containing, by estimation, three hundred arpents, being six arpents in front by fifty arpents in depth, which said tract claimed is numbered in the books and proceedings of said commissioners 268; and for reasons of his prayer, the said Isaac saith that, since said decision of said commissioners, he has discovered witnesses and evidence which he is ready to produce before said commissioners, by whom he is able to prove the actual possession and continual occupancy and improvements of said tract of land claimed as above, from and before the 1st day of July, 1796, down to the present day, either under himself or those under whom he derives title; and the said Isaac saith, that, at the time said claim was under investigation before said commissioners, your petitioner had it not in his power to procure said evidence, or otherwise identify said possession and improvements, or prove the facts, the lines not having been then accurately ascertained, and such witnesses as were examined not having accurate knowledge of said land claimed.

JOHN ASKIN, Agent for Claimant.

And thereupon it is considered by the commissioners that the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

JAMES MCGILL.—The claimant by John Askin, his attorney in fact, presented a petition that the said claim, (No. 270,) which was rejected on the 28th October, 1808, may be revised and new testimony be taken thereon: the petition was read and filed, and is in the words and figures following, to wit:

To the honorable the Commissioners of the United States' Land Office at Detroit.

DETROIT, November 30, 1810.

James McGill, by his attorney in fact, John Askin, comes before the commissioners at said Detroit, and prays said commissioners to take up and reconsider their decision made and entered at Detroit on the 28th day of October, 1808, upon a notice of claim filed by said James McGill for a certain tract of land, with the improvements thereon made, lying upon the Detroit river, in said district, containing six arpents in front and fifty in depth; which said tract of land is numbered, and by the commissioners in their proceedings entered rejected.

Because the said James saith that, since said decision of said commissioners, he has found witnesses and evidence which he is ready to produce before said commissioners, by whom he is able to prove the actual possession and continued occupancy and improvements of said tract of land claimed from and before the 1st July, 1796, down to the present time, either under himself, or those under whom he derives title in and to the said land; and the said James saith that, at the time said claim was under investigation before said commissioners, your petitioner had it not in his power to procure said witnesses and evidence, or otherwise to identify and prove said facts; the lines not having at that time been accurately ascertained, and the witnesses introduced not being able to identify said land claim.

JOHN ASKIN, Agent for Claimant.

And thereupon it is considered by the commissioners that the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.
