The Board confirm the claimant in his claim to four arpents and two-thirds of front, by forty in depth, to which a second depth of sixty arpents was granted by the French Government on the 12th day of April, 1754, as appears from page 7, book No. 1, of grants received from the Spanish Government of the province of Louisiana, to Antoine Bienvenu, whose heirs sold five arpents of it to the claimant on the 10th day of September, 1804, who, on the same day, sold the third of an arpent to John Jacob; and the Board further confirm the claimant in his claim to three and one-third arpents of front, by forty in depth, part of his claim aforesaid, on the oath of Jacques Villéré, who declares that the widow Bienvenu has possessed the lands of the claimant for more than twenty years last past. But the Board reject the claim of the said Francis D. Dizilet for forty arpents more in depth, made by said Dizilet, because he has produced no evidence, although repeatedly required so to do, to support that part of his said claim.

No. 124.—WILLIAM CONWAY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, and on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing two arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of one Leisard, and on the lower by land of the parish.

It appearing to the Board, from the testimony of Joseph Landry, that said land has been in the possession of, and cultivated by, several persons, from whom it was successively conveyed during the space of about thirty-eight years, when it became the property of John Maguire, parson of the parish; and it appearing, from a deed of conveyance executed on the 17th day of June, 1801, that said Maguire transferred said land to the present claimant, the Board do confirm him in his claim aforesaid.

No. 126.—DANIEL CLARK claims a tract of land, situate near the city of New Orleans, containing twelve arpents in front, on the road leading to the bayou St. John, and varying in depth, bounded on the north by the road aforesaid, on the south by the canal Carondelet, on the east by land of Joseph Suares, and on the west by land of Louis Blanc, and on the bayou St. John aforesaid.

It appears to the Board, from a deed of conveyance dated 3d day of September, 1793, executed by Andreas Almonaster, that he conveyed part of the lands in question to Louis Antoine Blanc; and it appearing, from a patent or complete title exhibited, that another part of said land was granted by the Spanish Government to Nicholas Vidal, on the 18th day of April, 1800; and it appearing also, from deeds of conveyance exhibited to the Board, that they, the said Blanc and Vidal, have conveyed to the claimant the whole of the land now claimed by him, the Board do hereby confirm him in his said claim.

No. 131.—MICHAEL BELANGER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the right bank of the Mississippi, twelve miles below the fort of Baton Rouge, containing one hundred and eighty-three and one-third superficial arpents, bounded on the north by land of Francis Arbour, and on the south by land of Peter Lavergne.

It appearing to the Board, from the certificate of S. Pintado, late deputy surveyor under the Spanish Government of the province of Louisiana, dated October 25, 1803, that he did, on the 6th day of August, 1800, survey said land for Anthony Barbera, who had then lived on and cultivated the same for some time; and a warrant of survey being exhibited, purporting to have been issued by the Spanish Government on the 14th day of September, 1803, in favor of said Anthony Barbera, for said land; and it also appearing to the Board, from a deed of conveyance exhibited, that said Anthony Barbera did, on the 21st April, 1801, convey said land to the present claimant, the Board do therefore confirm him in his claim aforesaid.

No. 132.—JOHN BAPTISTE DEJEAN claims a tract of land situate in the county of Iberville, on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing nine arpents and ten toises in front, by forty arpents in depth, with the opening of eleven degrees towards the rear, bounded on the upper side by land of Augustus Malet, and on the lower by land of one Voussin.

It appears to the Board, from an instrument of conveyance executed before Rafael Croquer, then commandant of La Fourche, on the 1st day of December, 1798, that Peter Bore then sold to Messrs. Debuys and Remy six arpents of front, or thereabouts, by forty in depth, of said land, alleging to have obtained the same by a concession of the Spanish Government, which assertion is corroborated by the registry of a warrant of survey issued by the Government aforesaid, on the 13th day of July, 1798, in favor of one Michael Verret, in which warrant said Bore is recognised as the proprietor of the said six arpents of front, by forty in depth; and it also appearing to the Board, from the same registered warrant of survey aforesaid, in favor of the said Michael Verret, that four arpents in front, by forty in depth, (remainder of the land now claimed,) was, with a larger quantity, conceded by the Spanish Government to him, the said Verret, at the time above mentioned; and it further appearing to the Board, from sundry deeds of conveyance exhibited, that the whole of the land claimed as aforesaid, has been transferred to the present claimant, the Board do hereby confirm this claim.

No. 136.—SAMUEL WINTER and THOMAS HARMAN claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the settlement of St. Bernard, on both sides of the Bayou aux Bœufs, about two miles below the church, containing two arpents and twenty-eight toises in front, on each side, by the common depth of forty arpents, bounded on the upper side by land of J. Sanchez, and on the lower by land of Juliana Broussard.

An order of survey being exhibited to the Board, purporting to have been issued by the Spanish Government on the 4th day of February, 1792, in favor of Honoratus Duhon, for the land in question; and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that all the requisitions under the first section of the act of Congress establishing this Board have been complied with; and it further appearing, from divers deeds of conveyance, likewise exhibited to the Board, that said land has become the property of the present claimants, the Board do hereby confirm them in their claim aforesaid.

No. 140.—MARIA JOSEPHE ROCHEJEAN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at a place called Quartier des Familles, on the right bank of the bay of the same name, six miles from the Mississippi, containing one thousand five hundred and nine superficial arpents, bounded on the north by land of Francis Dauphin, on the south by land of the widow Pablo, on the east by the Bayou des Familles, and on the west by vacant land.

It appears to the Board, from a patent or complete title exhibited, that part of said land was, with a greater quantity, granted by the Spanish Government to Jean Baptiste Flauriau on the 11th day of May, 1797; and it also appearing, from the certified plat of survey of Charles L. Trudeau, Esquire, late Surveyor General of the province of Louisiana, dated the 29th day of November, 1802, that the remaining part of the land claimed as aforesaid was bought by one Peter Lartigue at the public sale made of the property of one Wart and Nicolas Daumé, who had been in the possession of and cultivated the same for twenty years, as appears by the testimony of Enould Dugay Livaudais taken before the Board; and it further appearing, from sundry deeds of conveyance exhibited to the Board, that the two parcels of land above described and claimed by the present claimant have become transferred to him, the Board do hereby confirm his said claim.

No. 141.—BARTHOLOME DUVERGES claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, and opposite to the city of New Orleans, forming a triangle, and containing ten arpents in front, and converging towards the rear twenty-three degrees; the upper line, adjoining land of S. Amant directed south forty degrees, twenty degrees east; and the lower, adjoining land of Martial Le Bœuf, directed seventeen degrees, twenty degrees east; which gives a superficies of one hundred and twenty-four arpents and one hundred and twenty toises.

It appears to the Board, from a deed of conveyance exhibited, that one Louis Borepo sold said land to one James Rixner, on the 9th September, 1777; and it appearing, from sundry deeds of conveyance, likewise exhibited to the Board, that said land has become transferred to the present claimant, the Board do therefore confirm him in his said claim; saving and reserving that part which was occupied by the Spanish Government of the military guard of the powder magazine; and which is considered as having been transferred by said Government to that of the United States among the items of public property.

No. 142.—MARGUERITE WILTZ claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, and on the left bank of the Mississippi, about one league above the city of New Orleans, containing four hundred and fifty superficial arpents, bounded on the upper side by land of James Livaudais, and on the lower by land claimed by the nuns of the city of New Orleans.

It appears to the Board, from a deed of conveyance executed 28th March, 1758, before Jean Baptiste Garrie, notary public, that Augustus Chantaloux sold eight arpents of front, by a depth not defined, of said land, to Stephen Vaugaine, which he alleges to have acquired as follows, viz: six arpents at the public sale made of the estate of one Dilmou, in 1752; and the other two arpents of front, by the depth aforesaid, of one Pidet, who had purchased the same of one Lagotré; and it also appearing to the Board, from a deed of conveyance likewise exhibited, that on the _____ day of _____, 1769, the two arpents of front, by the depth aforesaid, (remainder of the quantity now claimed,) was sold by the widow Laronde to James Livaudais; and it further appearing, from deeds of conveyance exhibited, that the several tracts of land above described have been transferred to the present claimant, the Board do hereby confirm her said claim.

No. 143.—SAMUEL WINTER and THOMAS HARMAN claim a lot of ground, situate in the suburb of St. Mary, containing sixty feet front on the Rue du Camp, by one hundred and sixty in depth, bounded on the north by land belonging to Mr. Decalogue, and on the south by other land of the claimants.

It appearing to the Board, from a deed of conveyance exhibited, dated 27th day of September, 1800, that John Gravier then sold said lot to René Theard; and it appearing also, from another deed of conveyance, likewise exhibited, that said René has since conveyed said lot to the claimants; and the Board being satisfied that said John Gravier had, when he conveyed, a good and sufficient title to said land, the Board hereby confirm the claimants in their claim aforesaid.

No. 144.—Said WINTER and HARMAN claim a tract of land, situate in the suburb of St. Mary, containing four lots, and part of another, consisting each of sixty feet front, by one hundred and sixty in depth; the part of a lot containing twenty-four feet in front, by the depth aforesaid, bounded on the north by land of René Theard and John Clay, on the south by land of Nicholas Delille and John Dawson, on the west by St. Charles street, and on the east by Rue du Camp.

It appearing to the Board, from a deed of conveyance exhibited, that the four lots aforesaid were sold by Jean Baptiste Sarpy to Jacinto Bernard, on the 30th day of January, 1798; and it also appearing to the Board, from another deed of conveyance exhibited, that the remaining part of a lot was bought of Mathurin Guerin on the 15th June, 1799, by the said Jacinto Bernard; and it also appearing, from a deed of conveyance exhibited, that said Bernard has since conveyed the whole of said land to the claimants, the Board do therefore confirm their claim aforesaid.

No. 145.—Said WINTER and HARMAN claim another lot of ground, in the suburb of St. Mary, containing sixty feet front on St. Charles street, by one hundred and sixty in depth, bounded on the north by land of one Roselle, a free mulatto woman, and on the south by land of John Clay.

It appearing to the Board, from a deed of conveyance exhibited to the Board, dated the 10th day of April, 1804, that said land was then sold by Magdaline, a free negress, to Messrs. Amory and Callender; and it appearing also, from a like instrument of conveyance, that said Amory and Callender have since conveyed to the present claimants; and the Board being satisfied that said Magdaline, free mulatto woman aforesaid, had, when she conveyed, a good and sufficient title to the said land, the Board do hereby confirm the claimants in their said claim.

No. 147.—PHILIP LANAUD claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, and on the left bank of the Mississippi, about four miles below the city of New Orleans, containing three arpents twenty-six toises and four feet in front, by eighty arpents in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of the estate of the late Madame Bienvenu, and on the lower by land of Laurent Sigur.

It appears to the Board, from a warrant of survey exhibited, that Espiritus Lioland and Augustus Faure, were in possession of the front of said land, together with a larger quantity obtained from the Spanish Government, on the 12th day of June, 1790, a concession of the second depth; and it appearing to the Board, from sundry deeds of conveyance exhibited, that said land has become transferred to the present claimant; and it moreover appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that all the requisitions under the first section of the act of Congress establishing this Board have been complied with, the Board do hereby confirm the claimant in his claim aforesaid.

No. 149.—THOMAS ESTEVAN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, and on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing four arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of John B. Dupuis, and on the lower by land of Francis Ribas.

It appearing to the Board, from a patent exhibited, that part of said land, viz: two arpents in front, by the depth aforesaid, was, with a greater quantity, granted by the Spanish Government to Paul Landry, on the 5th day of February, 1775; and it appearing to the Board, from a warrant of survey, likewise exhibited, dated 1st day of September, 1786, that the two remaining arpents in front, by the depth aforesaid, were, with a larger quantity, conceded by the Spanish Government to one Paul Chiasson, and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Board, in regard to this latter quantity, that all the provisions of the first section of the act of Congress establishing this Board have been fulfilled; and it moreover appearing, from instruments of conveyance exhibited, that the land thus claimed by the present claimant has been transferred to him, the Board do hereby confirm him in his claim aforesaid.

No. 150.—ANTHONY DEBUCKET claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, and on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing six arpents eighteen toises and three feet in front, by the common depth of forty arpents, with an opening towards the rear of ten degrees, bounded at present on the upper side by land of Peter Belly, Esq., and on the lower by land of Peter Sigur.

It appearing to the Board, from a patent or complete title exhibited, that said land was granted by the Spanish Government to Honoré Trahan, on the 7th of July, 1774; and it appearing to the Board, from sundry deeds of conveyance, likewise exhibited, that said land has become conveyed to the present claimant, the Board do hereby confirm him in his claim aforesaid.

No. 153.—Messieurs JOHNSTON and BRADDISH claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, about sixty miles below the city, containing twenty arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by the land of Peter Burat, and on the lower and other sides by vacant land.

It appearing to the Board, from a warrant of survey exhibited, purporting to have been issued by the Spanish Government the 27th day of August, 1798, that said land was then conceded by the Spanish Government to one Peter Martin; and it appearing also, from a deed of conveyance from him to the claimant, that he has transferred said land to them, the 3d August, 1805; and it moreover appearing to the satisfaction of the Board, that all the provisions under the first section of the act of Congress establishing this Board have, in regard to said land, been complied with, the Board do hereby confirm the claimants in their claim aforesaid.

No. 27.—JAMES LIVAUDAIS claims a tract of land, situate about eighteen miles below the city of New Orleans, on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing twelve arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of Jacques Bachemin, and on the lower by land of John B. Saucier.

It appears to the Board, from the oath of Gilbert Leonard, that he is knowing to Mr. Livaudais, the claimant, having obtained from the Baron de Carondelet, while Governor of the province of Louisiana, a concession for a tract of land, containing about twelve arpents in front, by forty in depth, situate on the left bank of the Mississippi, about six leagues from New Orleans, it being land that had been abandoned by the former owner; that, in the year 1800, said Livaudais put into the hands of this deponent, who was then Fiscal to His Catholic Majesty (the same being the office next below the Intendant) for the province of Louisiana, the petition and decree in relation to said land, which papers he lodged with Mr. Lopez, then Intendant of said province, and that he has reason to believe said papers are among the papers of Mr. Morales, the late Intendant of the province aforesaid; which testimony is confirmed by that of Don Andreas Lopez Almestre; and it further appearing to the Board, from the registry of a warrant of survey found in No. 6, page 19, of the public records, received from the Spanish Government of the province of Louisiana, that said land was granted to the claimant on the 25th day of January, 1793; and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that all the requisites of the first section of the act of Congress establishing this Board have, in relation to said land, been complied with, the Board do hereby confirm the claimant in his claim aforesaid.

No. 47.—JOSEPH McNEIL claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at a place called Pointe St. Antoine, three miles below the city of New Orleans, and on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing two hundred feet front, by one thousand in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of Messrs. Davis and Harper, and on the lower by land of John Clay.

It appears to the Board, upon the oath of James Villeré, that said land was in the possession, and the property of Madame Bienvenue, for more than twenty years; and it appearing also, from divers deeds of conveyance exhibited, that it has been duly transferred to the present claimant, the Board do therefore confirm him in his claim aforesaid.

No. — JOHN BAPTISTE BABIN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, and on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing five arpents and twenty-five toises in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Leblanc, and on the lower by land of John Baptiste Hebert.

It appearing to the Board, from a patent or complete title exhibited, that said land was granted by the Spanish Government to the claimant on the 5th day of November, 1774, the Board do therefore confirm him in his claim aforesaid.

No. — PAUL CHIASSON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, and on the left bank of the river Mississippi, containing five arpents three toises and three feet in front, by forty arpents in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of Peter Forest, and on the lower by land of Anselme Blanchard.

It appearing to the Board, from a patent or complete title exhibited, that said land was granted by the Spanish Government to the claimant on the 5th day of November, 1774, the Board do hereby confirm him in his claim aforesaid.

No. 154.—JUDAH TURO claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, about eighteen leagues below the city of New Orleans, on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing forty-five arpents in front, by the depth of forty, converging twenty degrees towards its rear, and bounded on all sides by vacant lands.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that said land was regularly surveyed by Charles Laveau Trudeau, Esq., late Surveyor General of the province of Louisiana, on the 19th day of September, in the year 1789; and that a patent was issued, on the 28th day of September in the same year, by the Spanish Government, in favor of James Pierrot, from whom, by subsequent conveyances, the claimant derives title. Confirmed.

No. 161.—GREGORY BERGEL claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the right bank of the river Amite, containing eight arpents in front, by twenty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by lands of Fabian Ramos, and on the lower by lands of widow Nicholas.

It appears that Joseph Pereira was put in possession of said land in the year 1794, by the Surveyor General, by order of the Governor, Baron de Carondelet, and from whom the claimant derives his title; and that said land has since that period been inhabited and cultivated. Confirmed.

No. 162.—THOMAS COLLADO claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, containing sixty superficial arpents, bounded on the north by lands of Joseph Pabona, on the west by Joseph Prara, on the south by those of Michael Massias, and on the east by vacant lands.

It appears that the claimant was put in possession of said land in the year 1794, by the Surveyor of the province, and that he has continued to inhabit and cultivate the same since that period. Confirmed.

No. 163.—STEPHEN H. PLANCHE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, twenty-one miles below the city of New Orleans, containing fifteen arpents in front, by the common depth of forty, bounded on the upper side line by lands of Simon Ducoumeau, and on the lower by those of Peter Tassin.

It appears that said land was surveyed by the Surveyor General of the province, in the year 1774, in favor of — Troufleau, being then in possession of the same, under whom the present claimant derives his title. It also appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 164.—ALEXANDRE MILNE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the left bank of the bayou St. John, about two miles below the bridge thereof, containing seventeen arpents and twenty-nine toises in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of James Proffit, and on the lower by the lands of claimant.

It appears that the claimant derives his title to the aforesaid land by virtue of a regular patent issued by the French Government, on the 16th day of June, 1766. Confirmed.

No. 165.—DOMINGO PREVOST claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the right bank of the river St. Bernard, about nine miles to the southeast of the fort of Galveztown, containing twenty arpents in front, by forty in depth, and bounded on all sides by vacant land.

It appears that the claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a regular patent for the aforesaid land, on the 23d day of June, 1788. Confirmed.

It appears to the Board that said land, with the front forty arpents in depth, was granted by the Spanish Government to Anthony Belas, on the 7th day of July, 1774; and that the second depth of forty arpents was granted by the same Government to Laurent Sigur, on the 7th day of July, 1779; from each of whom the present claimant derives his title. Confirmed.

No. 288.—GEORGE BRADDISH and WILLIAM H. JOHNSON claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier de la Pointe à la Hache, about fourteen leagues below the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing twenty eight arpents in front, by forty in depth.

It appears that said land is a part of a larger tract, which was granted by the French Government to Philip Floté on the 29th day of January, 1764, from whom the claimants derive their title to the land aforesaid. Confirmed.

No. 286.—JOSEPH BURAT claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier du Portage, eleven leagues below the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing ten arpents in front, by forty in depth; bounded on the upper side line by the lands of Jacques Frederick, and on the lower by those of Desdune Leclerc.

It appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or by those under whom he claims, on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that date. Confirmed.

No. 290.—BARTHOLOMEW BAPTISTE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier de la Pointe à la Hache, below the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing six arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of John Lafrance, and on the lower by those of Francis Romset.

It appears that two arpents of the aforesaid land, by forty in depth, were inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that period; and that, upon the remaining four, the claimant made and kept in repair the road and levée, in the year 1801, in pursuance of an order from the commanding officer of that place. The land being of little value, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be confirmed.

No. 291.—JOHN LAFRANCE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Pointe à la Hache, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing three and a half arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of Messrs. Braddish and Johnson, and on the lower by those of Bartholomew Baptiste.

It appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, by the claimant, or by those under whom he claims, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that period. Confirmed.

No. 297.—JEANNE LARRABLE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, about three miles below the city of New Orleans, on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing six arpents and two toises in front, by the depth of eighty arpents, bounded on the upper side by lands of Mr. Guerin, and on the lower by those of Solomon Prevost.

It appears that the claimant, or those under whom he claims, inhabited and cultivated the first forty arpents in depth of said land on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that period, and that the claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for the second depth of forty arpents, dated the 9th July, 1790. Confirmed.

No. 298.—URBAIN GAGNE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing eight arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by vacant lands, and on the lower by those of Peter Voisin.

It appears that Pierre Clairmont, from whom the claimant derives his title, obtained from the Spanish Government a patent concession of said land, dated the 15th day of May, 1795. Confirmed.

No. 301.—CHARLOTTE DREUX claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier de la Concession, six leagues below the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing thirty-four arpents in front, with an extension of depth to lake Barataria; bounded by lands of Gabriel Fazand.

It appears to be a part of a tract of land which, in the year 1780, belonged to Charles Favre Daunois; after whose death it was sold, by order of Government, and the husband of the claimant, in his lifetime, became the purchaser; it also appears that said land has been inhabited and cultivated more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803; but the claim to the extent of forty arpents in depth only is hereby confirmed. Confirmed.

No. 302.—GABRIEL TIXERANT claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, about twelve leagues below the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing ten arpents in front, by forty in depth, adjoining on the upper side to lands of T. P. Gautrie, and on the lower to those of Mr. Duplessis.

It appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, by the claimant, or those under whom he claims, and for ten consecutive years prior to that period. Confirmed.

No. 303.—FRANCIS ROUSSET claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, about fifteen leagues below the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing seven arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of Bartholomew Batiste, and on the lower by those of Jeremie Treaudnique.

It appears that Joseph Hernandez, from whom the claimant derives his title, made an actual settlement on said land, prior to the 20th December, 1803, by virtue of a written permission from the proper Spanish officer; it appears further, that said land has been inhabited and cultivated since the time of the written permission as aforesaid. Confirmed.

No. 304.—MARGARITA BARON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, opposite the city of New Orleans, containing four arpents in front, by seven hundred and seven toises in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of Bartholomew Duverges, and on the lower by lands of the widow Bienvenu.

It appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or by those under whom she claims, on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that period. Confirmed.

No. 305.—JEREMIAH TRENDWING claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Pointe à la Hache, below the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing seventeen arpents in front, by forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of Francis Rousset, and on the lower by lands of Bartholomew Baptiste.

It appears that John Lafrance was in possession of ten acres of said land in the year 1789, by virtue of a regular warrant of survey, and that, upon the remaining seven, settlement was made by Francis Toupart, anterior to that period, from each of whom the claimant derives his title; it appears, also, that said land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that period. Confirmed.

No. 309.—JOSEPH BUJAU claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, at the place called Quartier de l'Ascension, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing five arpents and fourteen toises in front; the upper side line, adjoining lands of Etienne Bujau, running south, eighty-seven degrees thirty-five minutes west, measures sixty-six arpents, the lower side line, adjoining lands of Evan Jones, running south, sixty-six degrees thirty-five minutes west, measures sixty-five arpents.

It appears that the claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a complete title to five arpents fourteen toises and three feet in front, by forty arpents in depth, dated the 5th day of November, 1775. Confirmed; but so much as exceeds the quantity specified in the patent is rejected.

No. 310.—JOHN ETIENNE BUJAU claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, at the place called Quartier de l'Ascension, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing five arpents and fifteen toises in front, by the depth of eighty arpents, bounded on the upper side by lands of widow Pierre Bujau, and on the lower by those of Joseph Bujau.

It appears that Etienne Bujau, father of the claimant, and from whom he derives his title, obtained from the Spanish Government, on the 5th day of November, 1775, a patent concession for the aforesaid land, with the depth only of forty arpents, which, agreeably to the patent, is hereby confirmed.

No. 311.—MADLAINE BUJAU claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, at the place called Quartier de l'Ascension, on the right bank of the Mississippi, containing five arpents twenty-four toises and two feet in front, by the depth of eighty arpents, bounded on the upper side by lands of Silvain Leblanc, and on the lower by those of Etienne Bujau.

It appears that Peter Bujau, from whom the claimant derives her title, obtained from the Spanish Government a patent concession for the front of the aforesaid land, with the depth only of forty arpents, dated the 5th day of November, 1775; which quantity, agreeably to the patent, is hereby confirmed.

No. 316.—BARTHOLOMEW LAFON claims a tract or point of land, situate in the county of Orleans, bounded by lake Pontchartrain on the north side, and on the east by bayou Chef Menteur.

It appears that Maxent, from whom the claimant derives his title, obtained from the French Government a patent concession for the aforesaid land, dated 10th March, 1763. Confirmed.

No. 318.—FRANCIS VERSAILLE claims two tracts of land, situate in the county of Orleans, settlement of St. Bernard; the first containing three arpents and twelve toises in front, on the right bank of the Bayou aux Bœufs, by forty arpents in depth; and the other, containing four arpents and twenty-five toises in front, by the common depth as aforesaid, on the left side of the same bayou, lying about forty-eight acres distant from the Mississippi; bounded on the upper side by the lands of the late widow De Mandeville, and on the lower by those of Maria Morales.

It appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or by those under whom he claims, on the 20th December, 1803, and for ten consecutive years prior to that period. Confirmed.

No. 319.—PETER R. ST. GERMAIN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the settlement of St. Bernard, about a mile above the parish church, containing four arpents and nine toises in front, on the left bank of Bayou aux Bœufs, by forty arpents in depth; and upon the right bank of the same bayou, opposite the first, four arpents and five toises in front, by forty arpents in depth; bounded on the upper side by lands of Raymond Palacio, and on the other by those of John Fouquet.

It appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or by those under whom he claims, on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that period. Confirmed.

No. 321.—FRANCIS and LEUFROY DREUX claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Gentilly, about five miles from the city of New Orleans, containing thirty-three arpents in front, on each bank of the bayou Gentilly, by twenty arpents in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of Guid Dreux, and on the lower by those of M. de Morant.

It appears that Mathurin Dreux, from whom the claimants derive their title, obtained from the French Government a patent concession for the aforesaid land, dated on the 8th day of March, 1763. Confirmed.

No. 322.—FRANCIS and LEUFROY DREUX claim a second tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Chantilly, about ten miles from the city of New Orleans, containing seventy-five arpents in front, on each side of the bayou Chantilly, by twenty arpents in depth, bounded by lands of Guid Dreux on the upper side, and on the lower by lands of Louis Decoutet.

It appears that the aforesaid tract of land is a part of a patent concession for one hundred and seventy-three and a half acres, granted by the French Government to Mathurin Dreux, on the 8th day of March, 1763. Confirmed.

No. 330.—THE ABBESS and COMMUNITY of the URSLINE CONVENT at the CITY of NEW ORLEANS claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, consisting of a second depth, and containing a total superficies of seven hundred and sixty-five arpents sixteen perches and twelve toises in the rear of their plantation.

It appears that the first forty arpents in depth were inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto; and that a regular patent was issued by the Spanish Government for the land claimed as aforesaid, on the 2d day of December, 1789. Confirmed.

No. 331.—LOUIS DE REGGIO claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the settlement of St. Bernard, about five miles from the church thereof, containing one arpent and a half in front, on each side of the Bayou aux Bœufs, with the depth of forty arpents on the northeast side of the bayou, and twenty arpents in depth on the southwest, bounded on the upper side line by lands of Joseph Gutierrez, and on the lower by those of John Alonzo Morales.

It appears that Juan Quintana, from whom the claimant derives his title, was put in possession of said land by the Surveyor General of the province on the 18th day of March, 1792; it appears also that said land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for ten consecutive years prior thereto. Confirmed.

It appears that Joseph Dugruis, from whom the claimant derives his title, being in possession of the first depth of forty acres of said land, petitioned for and obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for the second depth of forty arpents, dated the 5th day of July, 1796. It also appears that said land has been inhabited and cultivated for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 389.—ALEXANDER HARRANG claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, three and a half leagues above the city of New Orleans, on the right bank of the Mississippi, at the place called Quartier des Chapotoulas, containing twenty one arpents and seven toises in front, by forty arpents in depth, bounded on the upper side by lands of Nicholas Bacchus, and on the lower by those of Francis J. Lebreton Dorgenois.

It appears that said land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, by the claimant, or by those under whom he claims, and for more than ten consecutive years prior to that period. Confirmed.

No. 383.—MANON, EMELIE, and ROSALIE MALINES claim a tract of land, situate between lakes Maurepas and Pontchartrain, bounded on the west by the former lake, and on the east by the latter, on the north by the river Manchack, and on the south by lands of Lactete, containing ten thousand one hundred and twenty Paris arpents.

It appears that Marie Rillieux, deceased, mother of the claimants, obtained from the Spanish Government a patent concession of the aforesaid land, dated the 13th day of July, 1764. Confirmed.

No. 369.—HENRY MENTZINGER claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, fronting the Levée, containing fifty-three feet in front, the upper line, adjoining lands of Artutuisse, measures fifty-six feet in depth; the lower line, adjoining lands of Arnaud Magnon, measures fifty-eight feet.

It appears that the claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a complete title to the aforesaid lot of ground, dated the 10th day of August, 1795. Confirmed.

No. 359.—JOSEPH PRARA claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the river Amite, in the county of Iberville, containing eight arpents in front, and twenty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by lands of the representatives of Fabian Ramos, deceased, and on the lower by land of Madame Nicolas.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was inhabited and cultivated on and before the 1st day of October, 1800, and that the same continued to be inhabited and cultivated until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 94.—VICTOR LEBLANC claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou Plaquemines, in the county of Iberville, containing ten arpents in front, by forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Nicolas Huller, and on the lower by land of Alexander Darden.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was settled by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day. Confirmed.

No. 158.—HONORATO LEONARD claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou Plaquemines, in the county of Iberville, containing eight arpents and six toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, with an opening of fifteen degrees towards the rear, and bounded on the upper side by land of F. A. Darden, and on the lower by land of Henry Rigé.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was settled by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 1st December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day. Confirmed.

No. 138.—JOSEPH LANDRY claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing twelve arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Prosper, and on the lower by vacant lands.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior. Confirmed.

No. 370.—NATHAN MITCHELL claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing forty-four and twenty-hundredths superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Mercel Dupuis, and on the lower by land of S. Leblanc.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was inhabited and cultivated on and before the 1st day of October, 1800, and that the same continued to be inhabited and cultivated until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 365.—AMBROISE GARDELLE claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of la Fourche, containing six arpents and twenty-four toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land formerly the property of the claimant, and on the lower by land of Peter Aucoin.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that there was an order of survey for this land, in favor of the claimant, from the Spanish Government, in the year 1790, and that the same has continued to be inhabited and cultivated ever since, until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 351.—MARGARITE BOURGEAT claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing one thousand two hundred and forty-one superficial arpents, being eighty arpents in depth.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the first depth of forty arpents of this land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior, and that the husband of the claimant obtained a warrant of survey from the Spanish Government, in the year 1785, for the second depth of forty arpents. Confirmed.

No. 201.—SAMUEL YOUNG claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twenty arpents in front, and extending back as far as lake Borgue, and bounded on the upper side by land of Charles Devilliers Jumonville and on the lower by land of Madame de Lachaise.

Part of this land, viz: eight arpents front, and forty arpents depth, was granted by the French Government, in the year 1730, to Michel de Vauxparis; the remaining twelve arpents front, on the ordinary depth, have been actually inhabited and cultivated for a great number of years. Jean Baptiste Prevost, who had acquired a title to the whole front of twenty arpents, with the usual depth of forty, obtained from the French Government, in 1764, a complete grant for an extension of depth as far back as the lake Borgue. Under the above titles the present claimant holds by virtue of different intermediate conveyances. Confirmed.

No. 299.—GEORGE BRADISH and W. H. JOHNSON claim a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing a superficies of nine hundred and seventy-three arpents and three hundred toises, and bounded on each side by the bayou Liard.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day by those under whom the present claimants hold. Confirmed.

No. 337.—SEBASTIAN BURAT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twenty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Pierre Colette, and on the lower by land of Bradish and Johnson.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the land now claimed was actually settled prior to the 1st day of October, 1800, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the present claimant holds, until on and after the 20th day of December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 338.—SEBASTIAN BURAT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing fourteen arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Chevreuse.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the land now claimed was actually settled prior to the 1st day of October, 1800, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated until on and after the 20th day of December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 353.—JOHN LAVALDE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twenty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Honore Duplessis, and on the lower by land of John Toulouse.

It appears that Martin Duplessis obtained from the Spanish Government, in the year 1785, an order of survey for this land, to be established as a vacherie, and that it has ever since been occupied for the purpose intended; the present claimant holds under the right of said Duplessis, by virtue of divers intermediate transfers. Confirmed.

No. 377.—SOLOMON PREVOST claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing nineteen arpents and nine toises in front, and a depth extending as far as the rear of the plantations bordering on the bayou Chantilly, (being about one hundred arpents,) and bounded on the upper side by land of the widow Dupuis, and on the lower by land of Madame Piernas.

It appearing to the Board that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the front and ordinary depth of the land now claimed on the 20th day of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior, they hereby confirm his claim to the extent of forty arpents depth, but reject his claim to the balance.

No. 396.—JAMES LACOUTURE, alias TOURANGAIS claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing seventeen arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Charles Duplessis, and on the lower by land of Honore Duplessis.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the claimant was put in possession of this land by the commandant of the district, in the year 1798, and that he continued to inhabit and cultivate it until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 397.—HONORE DUPLESSIS claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jacques Lacouture.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the claimant did actually settle this land, with the permission of the commandant of the district, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and that he did actually inhabit and cultivate the same on that day. Confirmed.

No. 398.—MICHEL DUPLESSIS claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and opening seventeen degrees thirty minutes towards the rear; and bounded on the upper side by land of Gabriel Tixerant, and on the lower by land of Jacques Lacouture.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the claimant did actually settle this land, by the permission of the commandant of the district, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that he did actually inhabit and cultivate the same on that day. Confirmed.

No. 400.—JOHN BAPTISTE GAUTIER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twelve arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jacques Hollier, and on the lower by land of Tixerant.

It appears that Peter Boye obtained from the Spanish Government, in the year 1791, a regular warrant of survey for this land; and it also appears that the same has been since inhabited and cultivated. The present claimant holds under title of said Boye, by virtue of intermediate conveyances. Confirmed.

No. 402.—JOHN MARIE SILVE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing seven arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of T. Bister, and on the lower by land of Bradish and Johnson.

This is part of a tract of land which was granted in the year 1764, by the French Government, to Philip Floté, under whose title the present claimant holds the land now claimed, by virtue of divers intermediate conveyances. Confirmed.

No. 404.—HUBERT BURAT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing three arpents in front, and forty in depth, with an opening of six degrees towards the rear; and bounded on the lower side by land of Ramond Thomas.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was settled prior to the 1st day of October, 1800, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 364.—THOMAS HEBERT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing four and a half arpents in front, and eighty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Olivier Hernandez, and on the lower by land of Pierre Rivet.

The front and ordinary depth of this land is part of a tract surveyed in the year 1772, in favor of Estevan Rivet, who obtained a complete grant for the same in 1774, from the Governor Don Louis de Unzaga; the present claimant holds the part now claimed under said title, which is confirmed; but the claim to a second depth of forty arpents is rejected.

No. 401.—ALEXANDER BABIN claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Acadia, containing three arpents and twenty-six toises in front, and seventy-one arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Firmin Landry, and on the lower by land of Simon Babin.

It appears that the front and first depth of this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto. The Board confirm the claim to so much, but reject it as to the balance of thirty-one arpents in depth.

No. 386.—WILLIAM BROWN claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing sixteen arpents eleven toises and three feet in front, with a depth extending back as far as lake Borgue, and bounded on the upper side by land of J. M. Pintard, and on the lower by land of Chalmet Delino.

It appears that the front and first depth of forty arpents of this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th day of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto. So much the Board confirm, but reject the claim to the remaining extension of depth.

No. 395.—HELENE BETET, widow BIENVENU, claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing sixteen arpents in front, and extending back in depth as far as the bayou Ouachas, or Villars, and bounded on the upper side by land of the widow Gonsolin, and on the lower by land of Chevalier Macarty.

This is part of a larger tract of land, of forty-six and one-sixth arpents in front, and one hundred and sixty arpents in depth, surveyed in the year 1737, by Chevalier François Brutin, (Surveyor General at that time under the French Government,) in favor of Chevalier Bienville. The present claimant holds this part under said title; the land having been inhabited and cultivated ever since the above period. Confirmed.

No. 320.—URBAIN GAGNE claims two tracts of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville; the first containing four hundred and twenty-four superficial arpents and eleven toises, and bounded on the upper side by land of Pierre Roisin and Pierre Clairmont, and on the lower by land of Laurent Duprés; the second containing seven hundred and seventy-six superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by the Pointe de Manchack, and on the lower by the first tract of the claimant.

One of the tracts now claimed, viz.: that of four hundred and twenty-four arpents and eleven toises, was regularly granted to Pierre Clairmont, by the Spanish Government, in the year 1794, together with a larger quantity. The present claimant purchased this part of said Clairmont, which is hereby confirmed to him; but the Board reject his claim to the second tract of seven hundred and seventy-six arpents.

No. 137.—OLIVIER BROSSET claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing three hundred and twenty superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Amant Hebert, and on the lower by land of Pierre Floré.

It appears that this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 140.—MARIE J. P. ROCHEJEAN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier des Familles, on the right bank of the bayou of the same name, six miles from the Mississippi, containing one thousand five hundred and nine superficial arpents, and bounded on the north by lands belonging to Francis Dauphin, and on the south by those of the widow Pablo, on the east by the Bayou des Familles, and on the west by vacant lands.

Part of this land was regularly granted, in the year 1797, to Jean Bte. Florian by the Baron de Carondelet; the remaining part has actually been inhabited and cultivated for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th day of December, 1803. The present claimant holds under these titles, in virtue of successive intermediate conveyances. Confirmed.

No. 140.—MARIE DE MOLEON claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing three hundred and ninety-three superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Mr. Mercier, and on the lower by land of Francis Mericutt.

It appears that this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or those under whom she claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 152.—ANTHONY BIENVENU claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing eighteen arpents in front, and a depth extending back as far as lake Borgue, and bounded on the upper side by land of Charles de Reggio, and on the lower by land of Joseph Connaud.

François Reggio being proprietor of part of the front of this land, viz.: fourteen arpents, on the usual depth of forty, obtained from the Spanish Government, in the year 1775, a complete grant for an extension of depth, to the aforesaid front, as far as lake Borgue; the widow of said Reggio conveyed to the present claimant in 1794. The remaining four front arpents now claimed, it appears, have been inhabited and cultivated for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803; and the present claimant holds under the original proprietor, by virtue of successive intermediate transfers. The Board confirm the whole claim except as to the second extension of depth to the four arpents front last above mentioned, which they reject.

No. 157.—THOMAS and DAVID URQUHART claim a lot of ground, situate in the suburb St. Mary, of the city of New Orleans, containing ninety-eight feet in front, and one hundred and sixty feet in depth, and bounded on the south by Girod street, on the east by Magazine street, on the north by the lot of Barbay, and on the west by that of Michel Fortier.

It appears that they under whom the claimants hold have been in possession and occupation of said lot for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 159.—PETER GRENIER claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou Plaquemines, in the county of Iberville, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by and of William Blake, and on the lower by land claimed by the Indians.

The claimant obtained a regular order of survey for this land from the Baron de Carondelet, in the year 1797, and the land was by him inhabited and cultivated on the 1st day of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 196.—BARTHOLOMEW DUVERGES claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twenty-two arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Martial Le Bœuf, and on the lower by land of Honoré and Michel Duplessis; he also claims a piece of land called le Chemin du Bayou qui conduit a Barataria, with an extension of depth of six arpents on each side of said bayou. On the 8th day of July, 1766, the French Government granted to Jacques Larche twenty arpents front, and forty depth, of the first tract above mentioned, together with the second tract now claimed. Said Larche, on the 1st of July, 1805, conveyed to the present claimant. The Board confirm the title according to grant, but reject the surplus of two arpents front now claimed.

No. 201.—JOHN LANTHOIS claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing thirteen arpents and eight toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, (the lines closing one degree towards the rear,) and bounded on the upper side by land of Daniel Clark, and on the lower by land of John Maurice Corner.

It appears that the land now claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th day of December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the present claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 204.—JOS. E. D. LIVAUDAIS claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing three arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Charles Flaurian, and on the lower by land of Jean Baptiste Sarpy.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 228.—FRANCIS WOOD claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing two hundred and sixty-five superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Cadet Leonard and B. Duverges, and on the lower by land of Barbin de Bellevue.

It appears that the land now claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th day of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto. Confirmed.

No. 86.—JOHN TULEY claims a tract of land, situate on the river Amite, at the place called and known by the name of Third Bluff, in the county of Iberville, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the land now claimed was actually settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day by those under whom the present claimant holds. Confirmed.

No. 242.—PETER PHILIBERT claims a tract of land, situate at the place called Quartier de Plaquemines, on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing thirty-one arpents in front; the upper line, running north, eight degrees east, and measuring sixty-seven arpents; and the lower, running north, ten degrees west, and measuring forty arpents; the line meeting towards the rear, so as to form a superficies of four hundred and forty-seven arpents and six hundred and fifteen toises; and adjoining on the lower side to the land of the fort of Plaquemines.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the claimant made an actual settlement on the land prior to the 1st day of October, 1800, and that he did actually inhabit and cultivate the same on the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 265.—PHILIP E. DUGUE LIVAUDAIS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of lake Perrier, or Barataria, containing seventeen arpents in length, and, by reason of its narrowness, a superficies of thirteen arpents and five toises.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that the land now claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the present claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding.

No. 281.—MARTIN DUPLESSIS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier de Babbancha, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing twenty-two arpents and ten toises in front, and thirty-four arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Pierre Charreter, and on the lower by land of James Magnon.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was settled prior to the 1st day of October, 1800, and that the same was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 284.—PETER DELARONDE claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twelve arpents in front, and extending in depth back as far as lake Borgue, and bounded on the upper side by land of Francisco Maria de Reggio, and on the lower by land of Chauvin Delery.

It appears that one Balthazar Mazange was, in the year 1762, in possession of part of this land, to wit: eight arpents in front, with a depth extending back to the prairie; and, that for the purpose of enlarging his tract, he petitioned, in that year, Governor Kellerick to grant him eight arpents more in width, to begin at the end of the land granted to the Ursuline convent, which adjoined his tract, and to run back to the prairie. A grant accordingly issued in his name in the same year, conformably to the terms of the petition; which land the present claimant holds by purchase. The balance of this claim (four arpents front, and forty depth) the claimant holds by purchase under the grant made to the nuns of the Ursuline convent; all of which land having continually been inhabited and cultivated since the year 1762, the Board confirm the whole as far as the prairie, but reject the balance of extension to lake Borgue.

No. 300.—DANIEL CLARK and FRANCIS D. DE LA CROIX claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans and parish of St. Bernard, measuring about seventy arpents in front, on the right side of the bayou of Terre aux Bœufs, from the limits of the land of Alonzo Diego to the entrance of the bayou leading to lake Lery, and on the left side of the bayou of Terre aux Bœufs, three hundred or more arpents in front, with the usual depth of forty, from the lands of Lorenzo downwards.

It appearing to the Board that seventy arpents front, on the right side of bayou Terre aux Bœufs, and three hundred arpents front on the left side of the bayou of the tract of land now claimed, were sold by the commandant, by order of the Governor, in 1795, as the property of Michael Fisher; they do hereby confirm the claim to that extent, but reject the surplus as embraced in the survey and claimed by the present claimants.

No. 314.—BARTHELEMY LAFON claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, opposite to the place called the Orange Grove, and between that and the river, containing eighty feet in front, by forty-two in depth.

Bernard Tremolet obtained a complete grant for the aforesaid lot of ground from the Baron de Carondelet, dated the 9th day of August, 1796, and conveyed the same, on the 26th of August of the same year, to the present claimant. Confirmed.

No. 315.—MARIE DAUBERVILLE, widow BOULIGNY, claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, in the district of Barataria, containing seven arpents and eight toises in front, by forty arpents in depth, on each side of the creek which empties itself into the bayou leading to lake Barataria; the upper line adjoining lands of one Daumé, and running north seventy-two degrees thirty minutes west, and south, seventy-two degrees thirty minutes east.

It appears that Marie Olivarez, testatrix of the claimant, did actually inhabit and cultivate this land on the 20th day of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto. Confirmed.

No. 357.—CHARLES GRIFFIN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the south side of the Bayou St. John road, at the distance of about ten arpents from the city of New Orleans, containing two arpents in front, and extending in depth as far as the lands of John Gravier, and bounded on the northwest by land of J. B. Castillon, and on the southeast by those of Claude Trémé, and by lands claimed by the city as commons.

It appears that this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th day of December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 363.—RAMON THOMAS & Co. claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, about three miles above the fort of Plaquemines, containing eight arpents in front, and forty in depth, and opening ten degrees towards the rear, and bounded on the upper side by land of Hubert Burat, and on the lower by land of Peter Silve.

It appears to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was actually settled prior to the 1st day of October, 1800, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimants, or those under whom they claim, until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 368.—JOHN McDONOUGH, Jun., and SHEPHERD BROWN claim a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Acadia, containing eighteen arpents three toises and three feet in front, and eighty arpents in depth, opening twenty degrees seventy-one minutes towards the rear, and bounded on the upper side by lands of Marianne Lanoix, and on the lower by lands of Ambroise Garidelle.

In the year 1791, Peter Le Bourgeois, who was proprietor of part of this land, to wit, sixteen arpents eight toises and three feet in front on the ordinary depth, obtained from the Spanish Government a complete grant to the second depth of forty arpents to the aforesaid front; the complement to the front of the tract now claimed, viz., one arpent and twenty-five toises, with forty arpents in depth, was regularly granted by the same Government, in the same year, to said Le Bourgeois. The Board do hereby confirm the title to the whole claim, except the second depth claimed to the one arpent and twenty-five toises as aforementioned, which they reject.

No. 375.—SOLOMON PREVOST, for himself, and in behalf of those claiming under him, claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, at the place called Quartier du Detour des Anglais, containing forty-six arpents and ten toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Augustin Mallet, and on the lower by land of James Chaperon.

It appears that this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next prior thereto. Confirmed.

No. 379.—GABRIEL FAZENDE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing nine and a half arpents in front, and extending in depth back as far as the bayou of Barataria, (about seventy-five arpents from the river,) and bounded on the upper side by land formerly belonging to the widow of Gabriel Fazende, senior, and on the lower by land of Nicholas Daunois.

It appears that the front and first depth of this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto. The Board confirm to that extent, but reject the second depth as claimed.

No. 384.—MANICHE LACHAISE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing three arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Baptiste Lafrance, and on the lower by land of Edward Livingston.

It appears that the land now claimed was actually settled prior to the first day of October, 1800, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant until on and after the 20th day of December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 394.—DOMINIC and URSINO BOULIGNY claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, containing eighty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the lower side by land claimed by Montchosisé.

It appears that each of the claimants, in the year 1796, obtained from the Spanish Government separate orders of survey, for the quantity of forty arpents front, and forty arpents depth; the orders of survey were located adjoining each other. It further appears that one of the tracts were actually inhabited and cultivated on the 1st day of October, 1800. The Board hereby confirm the claim to the tract of forty arpents front, including the settlement; but the other tract having never been settled, they reject the claim to it.

No. 376.—FRANCIS J. LEBRETON DORGENOIS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the left side of the Bayou St. John road, containing two arpents in front, and extending back as far as within sixty feet of the canal Carondelet, and bounded by the lands of Domingo Fleitas and Daniel Clark.

It appears that the land now claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the present claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 381.—FRANCIS J. DEBRETON DORGENOIS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the left side of the Bayou St. John road, containing sixty toises in front, and extending back as far as the land of John Gravier, bounded on one side by land of Michel, a free negro, and on the other by land of John Bte. Castillon.

It appears that this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 391.—FRANCIS J. LEBRETON DORGENOIS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Chapitoulas, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing six arpents in front, and eighty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Alexander Harrang, and on the lower by land of Lebreton des Chapelles.

It appears that the front and first depth of this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto; and it further appears that there was a survey of the second depth of forty arpents executed by the Surveyor General of the province in the year 1786. Confirmed.

No. 119.—JAMES VILLERY claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing five arpents two toises and four feet front, and extending in depth as far as lake Pontchartrain, and bounded on the upper side by land of Norbert Boudusquier, and on the lower by land of Soignac Dufossat.

It appears that the front and first depth of this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th day of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto; so much the Board confirm. For the second extension of depth, as far back as lake Pontchartrain, the claimant produces consecutive sales for a great number of years back; but as it appears to this Board that, by continuing the lines in the direction of those of the first depth, they would not fall on lake Pontchartrain, but on lake Borgue, the claim cannot be confirmed for more than the front and ordinary depth; but the Board are of opinion that the claimant ought, in justice, to receive a concession for a second depth of forty arpents.

No. 392.—NORBERT BOUDUSQUIER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing five arpents twenty-eight toises and four feet in front, and extending back as far as lake Pontchartrain, and bounded on the upper side by land of Mr. Doriocour, and on the lower by land of James Villery.

It appears that the front and first depth of this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto; so much the Board confirm. For the second extension of depth, as far back as lake Pontchartrain, the claimant produces consecutive sales for a great number of years back; but as it appears to the Board that, by continuing the lines in the direction of those of the first depth, they would not fall on lake Pontchartrain, but on lake Borgue, the claim cannot be confirmed for more than the front and ordinary depth, but the Board are of opinion that the claimant ought, in justice, to receive a concession for a second depth of forty arpents.

No. 148.—WILLIAM DONALDSON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, at the place called the English Turn, containing seven arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Louis Brognier Declouet, and on the lower by land of Edward Livingston.

It appears that part of this land, viz., three arpents front, with the depth of forty, was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding; so much the Board confirm. The balance of the claim, viz. four arpents front, and forty deep, is founded on an order of survey issued by the Intendant General, on the 4th January, 1802; which claim the Board are not authorized to confirm.

No. 151.—DOMINGO FLEITAS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the bayou St. John road, at the distance of a mile from the city of New Orleans, containing fifty-three toises and one foot in front, on said road, and extending back as far as the land of Gravier, but varying in its width towards the rear, and bounded on the east by land of Madame Bertran and vacant lands, and on the west by land of Joseph Suarez and vacant lands.

It appears that part of this land, viz. the front, and depth as far back as the letters A, B, on the plat executed by Charles Trudeau, late Surveyor General, dated May 9, 1801, was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto; so much the Board confirm. The balance of the land now claimed was regularly granted on the 20th day of May, 1801, by the Intendant General, in favor of Charles Guardiola, under whom the claimant holds; but the Board, agreeably to the act of Congress, are not authorized to confirm the title to said part.

No. 135.—CHARLES DEVILLERS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing nineteen arpents and twelve toises in front, and a depth extending back as far as the lake, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Baptiste Mercier, and on the lower by Joseph Soignat Dufossat.

Part of this land, viz. thirteen arpents and twelve toises in front, on the depth to the lake, was regularly granted by the French Government, in the year 1764, in favor of Grand Pevy, under whose title the present claimant holds.

It appears that the front and first depth of forty arpents of the remaining six arpents now claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto. The Board confirm the whole claim, except as to the second extension of depth claimed to the six arpents front, not included in the grant, which they reject.

No. 238.—LOUIS B. DECLOUET claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, fronting partly on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing four thousand two hundred and twenty superficial arpents, and bounded on the north by land of the claimant, on the east by the settlement of St. Bernard, and on the south and west by land formerly abandoned by the widow of Henry Desprest.

It appears that this land was surveyed in favor of Peter de Marigny, under the Spanish Government by the Surveyor General of the province, and that it was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, either by the present claimant, who purchased from said Marigny, or by those under whom he claims. Confirmed.

No. 294.—JOHN FOLEY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing forty-six arpents in front and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of John Denesse, and on the lower by land of James Frederick.

It appears that this land is part of an old concession, and that it was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto. Confirmed.

No. 323.—GENEVIEVE MILLET, widow of John Adam Frederick, claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing forty arpents in front, and forty in depth; the lines running in such manner as to include a superficies of seventeen hundred and eighty-eight arpents.

The husband of the claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for this land in the year 1790; and the land having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 324.—JOHN BAPTISTE FREDERICK claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing twenty-five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of John James Frederick, and on the lower by vacant lands.

The claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for this land in the year 1790; and it having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 325.—GENEVIEVE MILLET, widow of John Adam Frederick, claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing twenty-eight arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jains Wilcox, and on the lower by land of Homère Frederick.

Charles Adam Frederick, deceased, son of the claimant, obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for this land in the year 1790; and the same having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 326.—JOHN JAMES FREDERICK claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twenty-five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by vacant lands, and on the lower by land of Peter Joseph Burat.

The claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for the land, in the year 1790; and the land having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st day of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 327.—GENEVIEVE MILLET, widow of John Adam Millet, claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twenty-five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Charles Adam Frederick, and on the lower by vacant lands.

Homère Frederick, deceased, son of the claimant, obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for this land in the year 1790; and the land having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 328.—GENEVIEVE MILLET, widow of John Adam Frederick, claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, containing twenty-five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Peter Joseph Burat, and on the lower by vacant lands.

Claude Frederick, deceased, son of the claimant, obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for this land in the year 1790; and the land having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 387.—PETER MARTIN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, at the place called La Pointe à la Hache, containing twenty-five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Martin, and on the lower by vacant lands.

The claimant obtained from the Spanish Government a regular warrant of survey for this land in the year 1791; and the land having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 403.—CHARLES BASTIEN FREDERICK claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing forty arpents in front, and seventeen in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Bastien Frederick, and on the lower by land of Ronquillo.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that the land now claimed was actually settled prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 123.—DANIEL CLARK claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the Bayou aux Bœufs, containing seventy arpents in front, on said bayou.

This is part of the land confirmed to Daniel Clark and Francis D. de la Croix, in No. 300, page 331.

No. 312.—ARNAUD MAGNON claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, on the front side of the same, containing one arpent and nineteen toises in superficies, and bounded on the east side by the river Mississippi, on the south by the property of Henry Metzinger, on the west by the main road, and on the north by vacant land.

The Board confirmed so much of this claim as is embraced by the red lines on the plat of survey; it appearing that the Baron de Carondelet did, in the year 1797, according to the claimant's petition, decree to him part of the ground described in the red lines, and that the claimant, in the year 1799, presented a petition to the Intendant to grant him the remainder, which was referred to the officer of the Fiscal Department for his opinion, and was by him approved; and the country having been ceded to France before this opinion was communicated to the Intendant, no complete title issued; we are of opinion that, according to the usages and customs of the Spanish Government, a complete title would have issued, had an application afterwards been made to the Intendant.

N. B. The lot of ground embraced by the red lines marked in the plat referred to has a front of one hundred and fifteen French feet; and one part of that front, viz. sixty-six feet, has a depth of the upper line sixty-two feet, and the lower sixty-six feet; the remaining part of the front, viz. eighty-nine feet, has a depth of thirty-three feet; the whole containing a superficies of seven thousand seven hundred and sixty-five French feet.

It appears that the claimant occupied and possessed the balance of the ground claimed for more than twelve consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803, viz. a small slip, enclosed as a yard, in the rear of his dwelling, and the remainder as a ship-yard; and, at the time of taking possession, he enclosed a considerable part of the ship-yard, and erected work-houses on it, which yet exist, and which he still occupies. This was done with the knowledge and permission of the Spanish Government. We know of no law or usage of that Government respecting claims similarly situated, but think it highly probable that, had the claimant applied, he would have obtained a grant for it, as a grant was made to a lot of ground adjoining him under no higher pretensions. Nor does this appear to come within any of the provisions of the laws of the United States: although there have been ten consecutive years' possession, the land has not been inhabited and cultivated. This part of the claim we do not feel ourselves authorized to decide on, but are of opinion that, in justice, the claim ought to be confirmed.

No. 211.—SAMUEL PERRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, below the place known by the name of the Pointe Racourci, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing sixty-one chains and fifty links in front, and one hundred and four chains in depth, forming a superficies of six hundred and forty acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by John McClanahan, and on the lower by land claimed by Charles Morgan.

It appears that the claimant inhabited and cultivated this land in the year 1802, by the permission of the proper Spanish officer, and that it was continued to be inhabited and cultivated, for his benefit, until on and after the 20th December, 1803; we therefore confirm him in his title to the depth of twenty arpents. The reason why we limit him to that depth is, that the land is situated at the neck of a large bend of the river, and, by giving him the ordinary depth of forty arpents, his land would stretch across to the river, on the opposite neck; and in this we pursue the custom of the Spanish Government, which was, not to permit the same survey to have two fronts on the river, but limited each front proprietor by a line drawn through the middle. And this rule was never departed from when the facts were known at the time of granting the land; and we therefore reject the balance of the claim.

No. 367.—BARTHELEMY LAFON claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, between the city and the suburb St. Mary, and containing a superficies of eight arpents and one hundred and fourteen toises, as is more fully described in the plat of survey, executed by Carlos Trudeau, Surveyor General of the province, dated March 16, 1798.

It appears that the claimant, on the 1st of March, 1798, petitioned Governor Gayoso for the land in question, and also for certain privileges relative to the establishment of a foundry; that the Governor, without hesitation, accorded to him that part of his petition which related to the land, and directed the Surveyor General to lay it off for him in the customary manner, and referred the claimant to the King as to the objects asked for relative to the foundry; that, in obedience to the Governor's order, the Surveyor General, on the 16th of the same month, surveyed, in favor of the claimant, the land now claimed; that, shortly after the survey was executed, the claimant took possession of the land, and enclosed with piquets a portion of it, and erected on it sheds to shelter his materials, &c., and commenced a foundry on a small scale, by way of experiment, and continued in the undisturbed possession of it until about a year thereafter, when, by a report of the engineer, he was forbidden, by a military order, to erect any buildings thereon which might interfere with the fire of the fort St. Louis, the fortifications of which were about that time enlarged and improved, in consequence of an apprehended invasion of the province. By reason of this order, the claimant was constrained to cease his operations on the land in question, and transported his materials to another place. Since the change of Government, and the demolition of the fortifications, he has attempted to resume possession, but has been prevented by the interference of the city corporation, who claim it as commons belonging to the city. We have no doubt that this land appertained to the domain, and not to the city, and was so considered by the King of Spain and the Governors of this province, and that they had a right to grant it; for sundry grants have been made to lots situate between this land and the city, and, among others, two grants to Elisha Winter: one by virtue of a royal order, and the other by the Governor himself. This land having been surveyed for the claimant, by the authority of the Governor, and he having been in quiet possession and enjoyment of it until interrupted by a military order, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be confirmed, and do accordingly confirm it.

To the above confirmation of the claim of Barthelemy Lafon, as aforesaid, by a majority of the Board of Commissioners, viz.: Messrs. Lewis and Robertson, Philip Grymes, one of the commissioners, dissented as follows:

I, Philip Grymes, one of the members of the Board of Commissioners of Land Claims for the eastern district of the Territory of Orleans, do disagree to the statement of facts on which is predicated the confirmation of the foregoing claim to a lot of land, situate between the faubourg St. Mary and the city of New Orleans, because I am of opinion that the facts assumed in that statement are not established by the testimony in the case; and I dissent from the decision of the majority of the commissioners on that claim: 1st, Because I am convinced the claimant never did receive from any legitimate authority, either French or Spanish, such a grant or permission to settle upon, inhabit, and cultivate the lot of ground in question, as is contemplated by any of the several acts of Congress giving the right of confirmation of claims to land in this Territory. 2dly, Because it is evident that the lot of ground makes a part of what is called the commons of the city; which commons attached to the corporation in such manner as that the sovereignty of neither France nor Spain could alienate or appropriate them, without the consent of the corporation, to any other than some object of common advantage and utility. No consent appears to have been given by the corporation, nor does the claimant pretend to rest his title to the property on the common utility of its appropriation; and 3dly, Because I do not believe that the claimant ever had such occupancy or possession of the premises as gives an equitable right to the confirmation of his claim.

No. 232.—BERNARD MARIGNY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing thirteen hundred and seventy-two superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by a line running parallel to the city of New Orleans, at the distance of two arpents and twelve toises from the barracks, and on the lower by Nicholas Daunoy.

It appears that this land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 283.—GEORGE BRADISH and WM. H. JOHNSON claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the Balise, containing fifty-five superficial arpents and three hundred and sixty toises, and bounded by the bayou Johnson on one side, and by the ground on which is erected the light-house on the other.

It appears that John Ronquillo, a Spanish piloto, settled himself on this land in the year 1789, and with much labor, he cleared and rendered it habitable; that he continued to reside on it until some time in the year 1804, when it was sold by him to the present claimants. The Board confirm this claim in such manner, that the line dividing this land from the land of the public shall run perpendicular to the bayou, at the distance of three hundred and thirty-two feet from the block house.

No. 313.—DOMINIQUE BOULIGNY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing seven thousand six hundred and seventeen superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Peter Aurin, and on the lower by land of Francis Delery.

It appears that Joseph Ducros, being proprietor of part of this land, viz.: twelve arpents front, with the ordinary depth of forty arpents, obtained from Governor Galvez, in the year 1777, a complete grant for the whole of the back land, to lake Baratavia, continuing the direction of the lines of his front tract; it appears, also, that another part of the tract claimed, viz.: twelve arpents front, with the depth of forty, situate on the bayou leading to lake Baratavia, was granted in the year 1794, by the Baron Carondelet, to Nicholas Domé; and also another tract, adjoining this last, having fifteen arpents front, and the depth of forty, on each side of the same bayou, was granted in the same year to Antonio Wort; there was also granted, in the year 1797, to Carlos Juan Baptiste Florian, a tract of land of forty arpents front, with forty depth, on each side of the aforesaid bayou. The whole of the land claimed having been regularly granted, and now held by the claimant, by purchase under those grants, the Board confirm the claim.

No. 134.—THOMAS POWER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the right bank of the river Amite, at the place commonly called Crow Bluff, containing two thousand five hundred arpents.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was settled with the permission of the proper Spanish officer prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day, the Board confirm the claim to the extent of six hundred and forty superficial acres, to be laid off so as to include the improvement; the centre, with a front of sixteen acres on the river Amite, and a depth of forty acres, the balance of the claim, the Board reject.

No. 197.—THOMAS POWER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west and north-west bank of the bayou of Baratavia, commencing at a small bayou known by the name of bayou Chalan, and extending about four leagues to the Bayou aux Oies, and being forty arpents in depth.

It appears that an inventory was made of the estate of Claude Joseph Villars, in the year 1760, of which the tract of land now claimed formed a part; that at a judicial sale of said land, in the same year, Joseph Villars, the son, became the purchaser; after whose death, an inventory was made of his estate, and this land sold again by a judicial sale to the highest bidder, and was purchased by Louis Trudeau, who has since sold it to the present claimant. The Board confirm the claim.

No. 14.—ELISHA WINTER claims a lot of ground, situate between the city of New Orleans and the suburb St. Mary, containing one hundred feet in front, by six hundred feet in depth.

It appears that, in the year 1791, the claimant obtained a regular order from the King of Spain for this land, for the purpose of erecting a rope-walk, and, in the same year, obtained a grant from Governor Miro, pursuant to royal order; that, in or about the year 1793, by order of the Baron de Carondelet, part of this land was retrenched; the whole length of the side next to the fortifications, containing about eight hundred and forty-two superficial toises, to be used as a curtain to the same, and the claimant was ordered and compelled to demolish his buildings which were erected thereon. The claimant remonstrated against the injustice of this order, and the Governor ultimately granted him, as an indemnity, an additional quantity of ground in the rear of his rope-walk, making, in quantity, somewhat more than the ground retrenched, but not equal in point of value, nor was its value at the time equal to the value of the buildings demolished. The only difficulty appears to be, whether the grant of the additional quantity of ground adjoining the rope-walk was given and accepted, not only as an indemnity for the buildings demolished, and the consequent losses and inconveniences, but also as an extinguishment of all right and title in the claimant to the land retrenched from him. It seems to have been the practice of the Spanish Government in this country, when private property has been invaded by the law of public necessity, to indemnify the individual to the extent of his sacrifice. In this case, the indemnity given was not at the time equivalent to the buildings demolished, nor to the ground retrenched. This right of the Spanish Government is founded upon public necessity, and the principles which apply to it we consider are precisely analogous with those that apply to the laying out of public highways, &c; in which case the individual is indemnified for the privation and resulting inconveniences only, and the land reverts to him when it ceases to be a public highway. The Spanish Government, at the time, seemed to consider the indemnity as extending not even to the privation of the ground, but merely to the demolition of the buildings; for the Surveyor General, who, by the order of the Governor, surveyed for the claimant the ground which was given as an indemnity, states, in his proces-verbal of survey, (upon which the patent issued) "land surveyed for the claimant as an indemnity for demolishing his buildings." The fortifications having since been raised, we are of opinion that the land reverts to the claimant, and do accordingly confirm him in his title.

No. 308.—JEAN BAPTISTE CASTILLON claims the following tracts of land, situate in the county of Orleans, viz: 1st. A tract of land, situate about half a league below the city of New Orleans, on the Mississippi river, containing six arpents in front, and extending back to the lands of Gentilly, and bounded on the upper side by land of Laveau Trudeau, and on the lower by land of the claimant. 2d. A tract adjoining the foregoing tract, containing three arpents front, and eighty arpents depth. 3d. A tract situate on the bayou Terre aux Bœufs, containing three arpents front on each side of said bayou, and forty arpents depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of José Ruse, and on the lower by land of Carlos Tardy. 4th. A tract situate on the bayou of Terre aux Bœufs, containing two arpents front on each side of said bayou, and forty arpents depth, and bounded on one side by land of Manuel de la Caridad, and on the other by land of St. Yago Molina. 5th. A tract on the bayou of Terre aux Bœufs, containing five arpents and nineteen toises on both sides of said bayou, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Bartholomew Molar, and on the lower by land of Diego Bertrand. 6th. A tract situate on the river Mississippi, about two and a half leagues above the city of New Orleans, containing nineteen arpents and eighteen toises in front, and extending back to lake Pontchartrain, and bounded on the upper side by land of Chevalier Hazeur, and on the lower by land of the claimants. 7th. A tract of land adjoining the last tract, and containing twenty arpents in front, and the upper line running back forty arpents, and the lower sixty arpents. 8th. A tract situate on the left side of the Bayou St. John road, in going from the city, containing six arpents in front, and extending back to the lands of Jean Gravier, and bounded on one side by land of Mr. Grifon, and on the other by land of Mr. Castanedo. 9th. A tract of land situate on the bayou St. John, containing seven hundred and eighty-eight superficial arpents, and bounded on one side by land of Mr. Deveniseaux, and on the other by lands of Metairie.

It appearing that the front and first depth of the first tract of land claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, the Board confirm the claim to that extent, but reject it as to the second extension of the depth to the lands of Gentilly. It appears that the front and first depth of the second tract of land was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, and the second depth was granted by the French Government to Mr. Decalogue, in the year 1764; the Board do therefore confirm the claim. It appears that the third tract of land claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, by those under whom the claimant holds; the Board therefore confirm the claim. It appearing that the fourth tract of land now claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, by those under whom the present claimant holds, the Board therefore confirm the claim. It appearing that the fifth tract of land claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, the Board confirm the claim. It appears that the sixth tract of land claimed was granted by the India Company to Mr. Dubreuil, in the year 1708, and subsequently transferred to the present claimant; the Board therefore confirm the claim. It appearing that the front and first depth of the seventh tract of land claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, the Board confirm the claim to that extent, but reject the balance claimed. It appearing that the eighth tract claimed was actually inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, the Board confirm the claim. The ninth tract of land now claimed it appears was granted by the French Government in 1758, to Mr. Monleon, under whose title the present claimant holds. The Board confirm the claim.

No. 125.—WILLIAM CONWAY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, at the place called the Houmas, on the left bank of the Mississippi, containing twenty-two and a half arpents in front, with an opening towards the rear of sixty degrees forty-five minutes; the upper line running north, nine degrees fifteen minutes east, three hundred and fifty-one arpents; and on the lower line directed north, seventy degrees east, and measuring four hundred and fifty-five arpents; bounded on the upper side by Daniel Clark's land, and on the lower by land of Simon Laveau.

It appearing to the Board, from a patent or complete title exhibited, that seventeen arpents of front were, together with a greater quantity, granted by the Spanish Government to Maurice Conway, 21st June, 1777; and it appearing that the five and a half arpents of front remaining of the land aforesaid were purchased by Pierre Part, at the public sale of the estate of the late Joachin Mire, alias Belony, on the 7th day of December, 1788; and it further appearing to the Board, from the several instruments of conveyance offered in testimony, that the two tracts of land aforesaid have been conveyed to the present claimant, the Board do hereby confirm his claim aforesaid.

No. 127.—DANIEL CLARK claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, at a place called the Houmas, containing ten acres in front, on the left bank of the Mississippi, and running back to the river Amite, bounded on the upper side by lands of Donaldson and Scott, and on the lower by those of W. Conway.

It appears to the Board, from a patent or complete title exhibited, that said land, together with a greater quantity, was granted by the Spanish Government to one Maurice Conway, on the 21st of June, 1777; and it appearing, from divers deeds of conveyance also exhibited, that the land now claimed by the present claimant has been legally conveyed to him, the Board do therefore confirm him in his said claim.

No. 133.—WILLIAM DONALDSON and JOHN W. SCOTT claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, on the left bank of the Mississippi, about twenty-two leagues above the city of New Orleans, containing twenty-nine acres in front, with the depth to the river Amite, bounded on the upper side by land of one Simonet, and on the lower by land of Daniel Clark.

It appearing to the Board, from an instrument of writing exhibited, that said land was sold at public auction on the 12th day of August, 1798, before Evan Jones, at that time commandant of La Fourche, to Louis Faure; and it appearing, from sundry deeds of conveyance, likewise exhibited, that said land has become the property of the present claimant, the Board do hereby confirm his said claim.

NOTE.—The three foregoing decisions were made before I became a member of the Board; as far as I am authorized to do so, I dissent from the same.

THOMAS B. ROBERTSON.

No. 306.—CLAUDE TREME, for himself, and in behalf of those who claim under him, claims a tract of land, situate on the northwest side of the city of New Orleans, and bounded on the north by lands of Bernard Marigny, on the west by those of C. Griffon, on the south by the canal Carondelet, and on the east by the city aforesaid.

Ten arpents front, and seven arpents depth, of this land, situate upon the ancient road leading from the city to the bayou St. John is claimed by virtue of a deed of sale made by the India Company, in the year 1731, and has been inhabited and occupied ever since that period; under which title the claimant holds that part of this land lying on the west side of said road; the other part of this land, to wit, ten arpents front, situate on the northeast side of said road, running in depth to the land of Dubreuil, he claims by a grant of the French Government, in the year 1756; all which land has become the property of the claimant by successive deeds of sale. The Board confirm him in his title.

JOSHUA LEWIS,
THOMAS B. ROBERTSON.

Rejected claims from those enregistered in the office of the Register of the Eastern District.

No. 4.—JOSEPH DECUR claims a tract of land, being a second depth, and lying immediately behind a front depth of the claimant, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the south side of False river, containing forty-two and one-third arpents in front, and forty in depth, with such an opening as to give a superficies of sixteen hundred and ninety arpents, and bounded on the two sides and in the rear by vacant lands.

It appears to the Board, from an order of survey exhibited, that said land was granted by the Spanish Government to the claimant on the 6th of September, 1802, for which land said Decur was to pay said Government at the rate of five dollars for each front arpent, agreeably to a valuation made by Carlos Trudeau, Surveyor General of the province of Louisiana, dated November 20, 1802; but it appearing to the Board that, in consequence of a suspension of the proceedings relative to the land office having taken place before the valuation money could be paid, there is no power vested in the Board to receive, on the part of the United States, said valuation money, they feel themselves compelled to reject the claim.

No. 89.—BENJAMIN M. STOKES claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, below the Pointe Racourci, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres, and bounded on each side by vacant lands.

The claimant claims this land in virtue of a permission from the commandant of the district given to Aaron Cadwell, senior, (under whose right he claims,) and an actual settlement and cultivation prior to and on the 20th December, 1803. In support of this, he produces the testimony of one witness, a son of the aforesaid Aaron Cadwell. It appears to the Board that the said Cadwell did settle on this land some time in the year 1802, and they have reason to believe with the verbal permission of the proper Spanish officer; but it further appears that he had not remained long on the land before he died, and that neither his family, nor any one for them, did inhabit or cultivate the same on the 20th December, 1803; and consequently, the claim does not fall under the provisions of the act of Congress relative to donations, and they accordingly reject the claim.

No. 90.—SUSANNA HONEYMAN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, below the place known by the name of Pointe Racourci, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres, and bounded on one side by land claimed by John McClanahan.

The claimant pretends title to this tract of land by virtue of a settlement made previous to the 20th December, 1803. There is no evidence that the land has ever been settled, either by her, or any other person for her. She resides in West Florida, and we have no doubt that the land is not yet settled. We have rejected the claim of Charles Morgan to a tract of land in the same neighborhood, sold to him by the present claimant, in the year 1806, and founded on a similar title. (See No. 93, next page.) By the act of Congress, the claimant could not hold two tracts under a settlement right, had there been an actual settlement. We consider this to be a feigned claim, and reject it.

No. 91.—ANDRY ROBINSON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, just at the mouth of the bayou Atchafalaya, (a small part being above said bayou, but the greater part lying below it,) containing six hundred and forty superficial acres.

This land is claimed in virtue of a settlement made prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and cultivation on that day. In support of which, the claimant produces two certificates, not sworn to, stating that the claimant was on the land in 1802, and one of them that he remained on it until on and after the 20th December, 1803. He pretends not that he settled with the permission of the proper Spanish officer; and it appears to the Board, from satisfactory testimony, that he did not actually settle the land until some time subsequent to the 20th December, 1803. The claim does not come within the provisions of the acts of Congress relative to donations, and the Board reject it, except as to the small part falling without the limits of their district.

No. 92.—JOHN McCLANAHAN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, below the place called and known by the name of Pointe Racourci, containing six hundred and forty superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Benjamin M. Stokes, and on the lower by land claimed by Susanna Honeyman.

This land is claimed in virtue of a settlement made with the permission of the proper Spanish officer prior to the 20th December, 1803, and cultivation on that day by Aaron Cadwell, Jun., under whose right the present claimant holds. In support of which, the claimant presents the testimony of one witness, a brother of the aforesaid Aaron Cadwell, Jun., stating that he had obtained permission from the commandant to settle vacant land, and did actually inhabit and cultivate this land on the 20th December, 1803. It appears satisfactorily to the Board that this land was settled neither by said Cadwell, nor any person for him, until long after the 20th December, 1803; we are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 93.—CHARLES MORGAN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, below the place known by the name of Pointe Racourci, containing six hundred and forty superficial arpents.

The claimant purchased this tract of land of Susanna Honeyman, a resident of West Florida, in the year 1806, and founds his title upon a settlement made prior to the 20th of December, 1803; of this fact he has not, and we have no doubt cannot, produce any evidence. He has been called upon for proof. From the best information we have been able to obtain, this land has not been settled to this day. We have already rejected the claim of Susanna Honeyman to another tract of land claimed by her as a settlement right. (See No. 90, page 287.) We consider this claim a feigned one, and do therefore reject it.

No. 117.—FRANCIS D. DEZILET claims a tract of land, being a second depth of forty arpents, and lying immediately back of a first depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Orleans, and containing eight arpents in front, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 117 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant shows no other foundation for his title to this second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from the second depth. According to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government has invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We therefore reject the claim.

No. 119.—JAMES VILLERY claims a second depth of land, extending back to lake Pontchartrain, and lying immediately behind a tract of five arpents two toises and four feet front, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, and which has already been confirmed to him in No. 119 among the confirmed claims.

In support of his claim to this second extension of depth to lake Pontchartrain, the claimant produces consecutive sales for a great number of years back; but it appears to the Board that, by continuing the lines in the direction of those of the first depth, they would fall, not on lake Pontchartrain, but on lake Borgue: the claim cannot be confirmed for more than the front and ordinary depth, but the Board are of opinion that the claimant ought, in justice, to receive a concession for a second depth of forty arpents.

No. 152.—ANTHONY BIENVENU claims a second depth of land, extending to lake Borgue, and lying immediately back of a front of four arpents, by forty in depth, being part of a large front of eighteen arpents, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, and which has already been confirmed to him in No. 152 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant shows, for this second extension of depth to the four arpents aforesaid, no other title than that of having purchased it, together with a greater quantity of land. It does not appear that those from whom he purchased ever acquired a title to this part of the land. According to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor could, by any act of his own, acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents, and although that Government invariably refused to grant the land to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We do therefore reject the claim.

No. 155.—EBENEZER COOLEY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing twenty arpents in front, viz.: ten arpents on each side of the bayou Atanache, with the depth of forty arpents, and bounded on each side by vacant lands.

It appears that one Joseph Bourgeat made a settlement on this tract of land upwards of forty years ago, and resided on it some years; one witness, a kinsman of the claimant, says ten or twelve consecutive years. This part of the river was settled by a number of families about the same time, (Bourgeat's was one,) and a few years afterwards they abandoned it, by reason of a great inundation from the river, and settled elsewhere. Neither Bourgeat nor any of his family have ever resumed possession of the land, or exercised any act of ownership over it. The claimant purchased this land from Bourgeat's widow, in the year 1806. We consider that Bourgeat forfeited all claim to this land after having left it and established himself elsewhere, having no other title than a naked possession; and it is probable that neither Bourgeat, nor his heirs, nor any person claiming under him, would have pretended any claim to this land, had not its value been so much enhanced by the change of Government. We have no doubt that, according to the usages of the Spanish Government, the Governor would not have hesitated to grant this land to any other individual applying, with a full knowledge of Bourgeat's claim, after he had left it and settled elsewhere. We are of opinion that the claim is not warranted by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of the United States; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 172.—JOSEPH FREDERICK claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, containing four hundred and forty-four and twenty-six hundredths superficial acres, being eighty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by the Apeloussas road, and on the lower by land claimed by William Welborne.

It appears that this land has been abandoned for upwards of twenty-five years, and that possession has never been resumed, nor any acts of ownership exercised, either by those who were originally in possession and occupation of the land, or any one claiming under them, until long since the change of Government, in 1803, and probably never would have been to this day, had not the value of the land been so much enhanced thereby. We entertain not the least doubt that, if application had been made by any other individual for this land, the Governor, with a full knowledge of the pretensions of those under whom the present claimant holds, would not have made the least difficulty on that account in granting the land. We are of opinion that the claim is not sanctioned by any law, custom, or usage of the Spanish Government, nor by any law of the United States; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 173.—JOHN TOWLES claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the bayou Gros Tete, or Grand Bayou, containing nine hundred and sixty-nine and seventy-four hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by other land of the claimant, on the lower by vacant land, and on the rear by land of Narcisse Carmouche.

George Olivo, under whose title the claimant holds by virtue of a conveyance from his widow, in the year 1806, obtained a regular warrant of survey for this land, in the year 1787, from Don Estevan Miro, the Governor; but it appears that the land was never occupied to this day. We are therefore of opinion that, according to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, and consistently with the provisions of the acts of Congress, the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 174.—JOHN TOWLES claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the bayou Gros Tete, or Grand Bayou, containing nine hundred and sixty-nine and seventy-four hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the lower side by other lands of the claimant.

Simon Porche, from whom the present claimant purchased in 1806, obtained a regular warrant of survey for this land, in the year 1787, from Don Estevan Miro; but it appears that the land was never occupied to this day either by said Porche or any other person for him. We are therefore of opinion that, according to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, as also to the laws of the United States, the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 178.—CHARLES MORGAN claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, below the place called Pointe Racourci, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Benjamin M. Stokes, and on the lower by vacant lands.

The claimant purchased this land of John McClanahan, in the year 1806, who had purchased the said tract of land in the same year of John Barclay and wife. He produces two certificates from Barclay's family, not sworn to, stating that Barclay settled this land, by permission of Grand Pré, previous to the year 1800. We have the most satisfactory evidence that the land was not inhabited or cultivated in any part of the year 1803, or since; and therefore reject the claim.

No. 180.—BELONY CHATELIN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the river Mississippi, above the Pointe Racourci, containing four hundred and six and twenty-one hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Baptiste Lamour, and on the lower by vacant land.

It appears that this land was abandoned upwards of twenty-five years, and that possession had not been resumed, either by the present claimant, or those under whom he claims, until long since the 20th December, 1803. We have not a doubt but that the Governor would have granted the land to any person applying, with a full knowledge of the claim, after those under whom the present claimant holds had left it and settled elsewhere. We are of opinion that the claim is not warranted by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of the United States; and do therefore reject it.

No. 181.—WILLIAM WELBORNE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Joseph Frederick, and on the lower by land claimed by Charles Morgan.

It appears that this land was settled upwards of twenty-five years ago, when those who were in possession of it were forced, by reason of an inundation from the river, to leave it and settle elsewhere; since which time it has always remained abandoned, and possession has never been resumed by the original occupants, or any person for them, until long since the change of Government in 1803. From no acts of ownership having been exercised over the land under the Spanish Government for upwards of twenty-five years, the presumption is strong that it would never have been claimed again, had not its value been so much enhanced by the change of Government. We have no doubt the Governor would not have hesitated to grant the land, with a perfect knowledge of the pretensions of the original occupant. We are therefore of opinion that the claim is not sanctioned by any custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of the United States; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 182.—JOSEPH RABALES claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing six hundred and seventy-seven superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by vacant lands, and on the lower by land claimed by Julian Poydras.

It appears that this land has been abandoned for upwards of twenty-five years, and that possession has never been resumed, either by the original occupant, or any one for him, until long since the year 1803. We have not the least doubt that the land would never have been again claimed, had not its value been so much increased by the change of Government; and we hesitate not to believe that the Governor would have granted it to any other individual applying, after the first settler had left it and settled on other lands. We are of opinion that the claim is unwarranted by any law, either of the Spanish Government or of the United States; and do therefore reject it.

No. 183.—JOSEPH DECUR, JUN. claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing two hundred and eighty-nine and thirty-one hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by J. B. Tunoir, and on the lower by land claimed by Charles Dufour, Jun.

It appears that this land was settled upwards of twenty-five years ago, and that, by reason of an inundation of the river, the original occupant was forced to leave it and settle elsewhere, and that it has remained abandoned for more than twenty-five years, and possession never resumed, or acts of ownership exercised, by the first occupant, or any one for him, until long since the 20th of December, 1803. We have every reason to believe that it never would have been again claimed, had not its value been so considerably increased by the change of Government. We are of opinion that the claim is not sanctioned by any law or custom of the Spanish Government, or any act of Congress; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 192.—CHARLES MORGAN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing twelve hundred and twenty-four and ninety-nine hundredths superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by William Welborne, and on the lower by land claimed by Mr. Barry.

It appears that one John Decuir resided on this land about forty years ago, and abandoned there some years, when he was compelled to abandon it, by reason of the inundation of the river. He then settled on other lands, and has never since resumed possession of the land so abandoned, nor has any one for him, until within three or four years past; nor does it appear that he ever had any other title to the land than his old possession. We consider that John Decuir, by abandoning this land and settling elsewhere, has forfeited all the right which his settlement gave him, and that the Spanish Government would not have hesitated to have granted it to any other person applying for the same. It is not believed that either John Decuir or his heirs would ever have claimed this land, had not the change of Government made it valuable. As an evidence of the low value set upon this land, it was sold to the present claimant for the sum of four hundred dollars in the year 1806, and he now rates it at ten thousand dollars. We are of opinion that this claim cannot be maintained by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of the United States; and do therefore reject it.

No. 196.—BERTHELEMY DUVERGES claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing two arpents in front, and forty in depth, it being part of a larger tract, of twenty-two arpents front, on the aforesaid depth; twenty arpents front of which we have already confirmed to him, in No. 196 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant pretends title to the land now claimed as having been granted by the French Government, in the year 1766, to Jacques Larche, under whom he holds. Twenty arpents front, on the ordinary depth, actually were granted, at that time, to said Larche; but as he can produce no title for the remaining two arpents front, on the ordinary depth, the Board reject the claim thereto.

No. 211.—SAMUEL PERRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, below the place known by the name of Pointe Racourci, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing sixty-one chains and fifty links in front, and a depth of one hundred and four chains, forming a superficies of six hundred and forty acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by John McClanahan, and on the lower by land claimed by Charles Morgan.

For the decision on the part of this claim that the Board reject, viz. twenty arpents of its width and depth towards the rear, see the claim No. 211 among the confirmed claims.

No. 227.—EDWARD CADWELL claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, below the place called Pointe Racourci, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Mrs. Trantham, and on the lower by land claimed by Edward Cadwell.

This land is claimed, as is pretended, by virtue of a settlement made in 1802, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803, by one Mason, from whom the present claimant purchased in 1806. The claimant produces the testimony of one witness in support of this. We have the best reasons for believing that the evidence is false, and have the most undoubted testimony that, if ever said Mason was on the land, he did not remain there but a very short time, and was not there on the 20th December, 1803, or for some time previous, or since. We consider the claim entirely a feigned one, and do therefore reject it.

No. 237.—FRANCIS MAYRONNE and J. B. DEGRUIS claim two tracts of land, adjoining each other, and situate in the county of Iberville, on the east side of the river Mississippi, about three miles below the Bayou de Manchack, at the place called Pointe de Manchack, containing each eighteen arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Mr. Villars, and on the lower by land of Peter Voisin.

The claimants purchased this land of Francis Bouigny, about twenty years ago, but they produce no written evidence of title in said Bouigny; and the land never having been inhabited or cultivated to this day, we are of opinion the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 171.—ANTHONY DEQUIR claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the Chenelle, containing sixteen hundred and twenty-six and thirty-one hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Dequir, and on the lower by land of Savoye.

The claimant states that he had an order of survey from the Spanish Government, but he produces no evidence of the fact, nor can it be found on the Spanish records relative to lands. It appears that the land was not settled until a short time after the year 1803; and, had it been previously settled, the claimant would have been excluded from a donation, as having actually received other lands from the Spanish Government. We are therefore of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 214.—GEORGE POLLOCK, JOHN PALFREY, and CONSTANT FREEMAN, claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the southern border of lake Pontchartrain, about four miles eastward of the mouth of bayou St. John, containing three thousand nine hundred and twenty-six superficial arpents, and bounded on the north by lake Pontchartrain, on the east by bayou Cochon, on the south by the lands of Gentilly, and on the west by land of Alexander Milne.

The claimants hold this land, by successive conveyances, under Charles de Lachaise, whose title was founded upon possession and cultivation for upwards of ten consecutive years prior to the 20th of December, 1803. Lachaise claimed considerably more land than he conveyed to those from whom the present claimants hold; and the quantity of two thousand acres has already been confirmed to Alexander Milne, (No. 1.) who held by a precedent conveyance to that of the present claimants. The extent of land that the act of Congress allows under the principle of ten consecutive years having been already confirmed, the Board reject this claim.

No. 239.—XAVIER ROBICHAUX claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the right bank of the bayou of Plaquemines, opposite to the land formerly belonging to Alexander Dardenne, containing three hundred and thirty-seven and fifty-six hundredths superficial acres.

It appears that the claimant obtained an order of survey for this land, in the year 1794, from the Baron de Carondelet; but it also appearing that the land was never inhabited or cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, we do therefore reject the claim.

No. 260.—HONORE PRINCE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier de Plaquemines, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing four hundred and forty-two superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Ramond Thomas, and on the lower by the bayou Liard.

The claimant founds his title to this land on a settlement prior to the 20th December, 1803, and habitation and cultivation on that day; but it appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that the land was not inhabited or cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 284.—PETER DE LA RONDE claims a tract of land, lying back of a front which has already been confirmed to him, together with a depth extending to the prairie, and situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans. See No. 284 among the confirmed claims.

For the part of this claim which has been confirmed, viz. the front, and a depth back to the prairie, see the aforesaid number. The balance, viz. from the prairie to lake Borgue, the Board reject; the claimant having shown no manner of title to it.

No. 292.—JAIRUS WILCOX claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing sixty-eight arpents in front, and forty in depth.

The claimant sets up title to this land under the will of John Gates, deceased, who, he alleges, purchased it in his lifetime of John and Charles Adam Frederick. He exhibits no evidence of title in said Gates, as stated in his notice. This land is also claimed by the Fredericks, and confirmed to them in different numbers among the confirmed claims.

No. 293.—CLAUDE TREME claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing two hundred and thirty-six and ninety-two hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the lower side by land claimed by Joseph Frederick.

The claimant pretends title to this land in the right of Mutin Moreau, who is said to have been in possession for more than twenty years. The land was settled upwards of twenty-five years ago, but, by reason of the inundation of the river, the first settler was forced to abandon it and settle on other lands. It has remained abandoned for upwards of twenty-five years, and possession has never been resumed, either by the first settler, or any one for him, until since the 20th of December, 1803. We are of opinion, for reasons assigned in claims founded on similar pretensions, that it ought to be rejected.

No. 296.—CLAUDE TREME claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing forty arpents in front, viz. twenty on each side of the bayou Moreau, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on each side by vacant land.

This land was settled about forty years ago by Paul Moreau, the father-in-law of the claimant, but has been abandoned for upwards of five-and-twenty years, and possession never since resumed, until long since the change of Government in 1803, either by said Moreau, or any one for him; nor do we suppose it would ever have been again claimed, had not its value been so much enhanced by the change of Government. We do not hesitate to believe that the Spanish Government would have granted the land to any body else applying, after the first occupant had left it and settled elsewhere. We are therefore of opinion that the claim is not sanctioned by any law or custom of that Government, or any law of the United States; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 300.—DANIEL CLARK and FRANCIS D. DELACROIX claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the bayou of Terre aux Bœufs, containing thirty-four thousand one hundred and two superficial arpents, part of which has been confirmed. See No. 300 among the confirmed claims.

The claimants showing no evidence of title whatever to the part not confirmed, (the extent of which see in number as above,) the Board do hereby reject the claim.

No. 301.—CHARLOTTE DREUX, widow FAZENDE, claims a second depth to a tract of land of thirty-four arpents front, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, which, together with the ordinary depth of forty arpents, has already been confirmed to her in No. 301 among the confirmed claims. The depth now claimed extends back to the bayou Barataria.

The claimant shows no evidence of title to the second depth, which we therefore reject.

No. 309.—JOSEPH BUJAU claims a second depth of land, the upper line being twenty-six, and the lower twenty-five arpents in depth, and lying immediately back of a front of five arpents fourteen toises and three feet, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Acadia, on the west side of the river Mississippi, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 309 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant shows no written evidence of title to this second depth, which is therefore rejected.

No. 310.—JEAN ETIENNE BUJAU claims a second depth of land, lying immediately back of a front and first depth of forty arpents, the front containing five arpents and fifteen toises, and situate in the county of Acadia, on the west side of the river Mississippi, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 310 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant shows no other foundation for his title to this second depth than having occupied the first depth, and occasionally supplied himself with timber from the second depth. According to the laws, customs, and usages of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although that Government has invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We therefore reject the claim.

No. 311.—MAGDELAINE BUJAU claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a front of five arpents twenty-four toises and two feet, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Acadia, on the west side of the river Mississippi, and which we have confirmed to her in No. 311 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant's pretensions to this second depth of land are in every respect similar to those in the preceding claim, No. 310; and we therefore reject her claim.

No. 317.—FRANCIS DUBOIS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing twenty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by the bayou Moreau, and on the lower by vacant lands.

It appears that the claimant obtained a warrant of survey for this land from the Spanish Government in the year 1793; but it appears that it was not inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800, nor does it appear, from every information that we can obtain, that it ever was; at all events, if it ever was, it has been abandoned for a great many years past. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 320.—URBAINE GAGNE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing seven hundred and seventy-six superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by the Pointe de Manchack, and on the lower by other land of the claimant.

The claimant obtained a warrant of survey for this land from the Spanish Government in the year 1797, but it appears that the land never was inhabited or cultivated. The Board therefore reject the claim.

No. 332.—LANDRY BABIN claims a second depth of land, lying immediately back of a front and first depth of land belonging to Louis Landry, situate in the county of Acadia, on the west side of the river Mississippi. The second depth now claimed contains two hundred and ten superficial arpents, and bounded on the north by lands of Louis Landry, on the west by land of Simon Babin, on the south by land of Joseph Melanson, and on the east by vacant lands.

The claimant founds his pretensions to this land on possession and cultivation prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and ever since that date. It was a custom with the Spanish Government, which we believe was invariably adhered to, never to grant the back depth to any other than the front proprietor. As far as they have fallen under our observation, wherever there were petitions to the Spanish Government, by any others than the front proprietors, for the back lands, that Government has always refused to grant these lands. We are therefore of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 333.—SIMON BABIN claims a second depth of land of two hundred and eighteen superficial arpents five toises and six feet, lying immediately back of land claimed in part by the present claimant, and the remainder by Landry Babin, and situate in the county of Acadia, on the west side of the river Mississippi.

The claimant founds his pretensions to this second depth of land on possession and cultivation prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and ever since. We reject the claim to the part behind the land of Landry Babin for the reasons assigned in the preceding claim, No. 332, which was similarly situated to the present; and the balance, as the claimant has no evidence of, nor does he pretend to, a title from the Spanish Government; and nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the second depth of lands.

No. 342.—MADAME (widow) DECUR claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing three hundred and twenty-three and thirteen hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Pierre Decuir, and on the lower by land claimed by Joseph Ispion.

It appears that this land was settled upwards of twenty-five years ago, and, by reason of the inundation of the river, the first settler was compelled to abandon it, and settle on other lands; the land has remained so abandoned for more than twenty-five years, and possession not resumed, either by the first settler, or any one for him, until after the 20th of December, 1803. For reasons which we have assigned in preceding claims, similarly situated, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 344.—LOUIS ROUGE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, above the bayou Racourci, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by vacant lands, and on the lower by land of Marie L. Courtesy.

It appears that this land was settled upwards of five-and-twenty years ago, and that, by reason of the inundation of the river, the first settler was forced to abandon it, and settle on other lands; it remained so abandoned for more than twenty-five years, and possession has never been resumed, either by the original occupant, or any one for him, until since the 20th of December, 1803. For reasons which we have assigned in claims similarly situated, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 346.—LOUIS HART claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, above the Pointe Racourci, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land that is vacant, and on the lower by land claimed by Jean Pierre Darquilon.

This land, it appears, was settled considerably upwards of twenty-five years ago, and was, by reason of the inundation of the river, abandoned by the first settler, who settled on other lands; and possession has never been resumed, either by said person, or any one for him, until after the 20th of December, 1803. We are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected, for reasons which we have assigned in claims founded on similar pretensions.

No. 347.—MARIE LOUISE COURTESY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, above the bayou Racourci, containing six hundred and thirty-seven superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land of Louis Rouge, and on the lower by vacant lands.

This land it appears was settled upwards of thirty years ago, and, by reason of the inundation of the river, the first settler was compelled to leave it and settle elsewhere, and it has remained so abandoned for more than twenty-five years; and possession has never been resumed, either by the original occupant, or any other person for her, until since the 20th of December, 1803. This claim being similarly situated to many others which we have rejected, for the reasons there given, we reject it.

No. 348.—JOSEPH M. WHITE claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a front of five arpents twenty-two toises and two feet, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 348 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant produces no evidence of title to this second depth of land, and his only pretensions are those of having been proprietor of the front, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from this second depth. According to the usages of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although that Government has invariably refused to grant the back depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a right or title to the land. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 349.—ABNER GRAY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the east side of the river Mississippi, a little below the bayou Manchack, containing six hundred and thirty and eighty hundredths superficial acres.

This land is claimed, as is pretended, in virtue of a settlement made, in the year 1802, by George Mars, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803. The present claimant purchased of said Mars. The claim includes other lands to which we have already confirmed the title, as being inhabited and cultivated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, and having continued so to be inhabited and cultivated until on and after the 20th of December, 1803. The claimant pretends not that the land was settled by permission of the proper Spanish officer; and, from the most correct evidence we could procure, it was not settled in the right of him under whom the claimant holds until since the 20th of December, 1803. We therefore reject the claim.

No. 364.—THOMAS HEBERT claims a tract of land, being a second depth, and lying immediately back of a front of four and a half arpents, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Iberville, on the west side of the river Mississippi, which we have confirmed in No. 364 among the confirmed claims.

This claim to a second depth is founded solely upon a petition (requette) to the Intendant General, in the year 1802, with the commandant's certificate that the land was vacant, and might be granted without prejudice, &c. Had the Intendant ever a right at that period to grant the land, he has never acted upon the petition; nor does it appear that it has ever been presented to him. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 368.—JOHN McDONOUGH and SHEPHERD BROWN claim a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a front of one arpent and twenty-five toises, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, being part of a larger front, situate in the county of Acadia, on the east side of the river Mississippi, and which we have confirmed in No. 368 among the confirmed claims.

The claimants state in their notice that there was an order of survey or grant for this second depth obtained from the Spanish Government, but that it has by some means or other been lost. But of its existence we find no evidence on the original record relative to the concessions of land; and we therefore reject the claim.

No. 377.—SOLOMON PREVOST claims a second depth of about sixty arpents, lying immediately back of a front of nineteen arpents and nine toises, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 377 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant shows no other foundation for his title to this second depth than having occupied the front, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from this second depth. According to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 379.—GABRIEL FAZENDE claims a second extension of depth back to the bayou of Barataria, being about thirty-five arpents, and lying immediately back of a front of nine and a half arpents, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, and which we have already confirmed to him in No. 379 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant's only pretensions to this second depth of land are, possession of the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from this second depth. We reject this claim for the reasons assigned in the preceding claim, No. 377, and in many others similarly situated.

No. 382.—MARIE JEANNE HELENE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier des Bois d'Amourettes, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing thirteen arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Honoré Duplessis, and on the lower by land of Bradish and Johnson.

The claimant produces the permission of the commandant, in the year 1798, to settle this land; but it does not appear that she ever actually settled it until after the 20th of December, 1803, or that she caused the road and levée to be made. We are of opinion that her claim ought to be rejected.

No. 385.—JEAN BAPTISTE SAUSSIER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Quartier de la Rivière aux Chiens, containing one hundred and eighty arpents in front on each side of the Rivière aux Chiens, by five arpents in depth on each side.

The claimant pretends title to this land, in virtue of possession and cultivation for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th of December, 1803; but it appearing to the Board that the land has never been inhabited or cultivated until since the 20th of December, 1803, and that being the only title the claimant sets up to the land, they do therefore reject the claim.

No. 386.—WILLIAM BROWN claims a second depth of land, extending back to lake Borgue, and lying immediately back of a front of sixteen arpents eleven toises and three feet on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, and which we have confirmed in No. 386 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant produces no evidence of title to this second extension of depth; the Board therefore reject the claim, for reasons assigned in preceding claims founded on similar pretensions.

No. 392.—NORBERT BOUDUSQUIER claims a second depth, extending back to lake Pontchartrain, and lying immediately back of a front of five arpents twenty-eight toises and four feet, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 392 among the confirmed claims.

In support of his claim, the claimant produces consecutive sales for many years back; but it appearing to the Board, that by continuing the lines in the direction of those of the first depth, they would fall not on lake Pontchartrain, but on lake Borgue, the claim cannot be confirmed for more than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; but the Board are of opinion that the claimant ought, in justice, to receive a concession for an additional depth of forty arpents.

No. 393.—CHARLES JUNONVILLE VILLIER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, between the bayou La Fourche and the Atchafalaya, containing eighty arpents in front on each side of the bayou, and eighty in depth, and bounded on the lower side by the place called l'Ancien Campement de Monsieur Darbonne, and on the upper by vacant lands.

The claimant founds his title to this land upon the permission of the commandant of the district to settle it, given in the year 1799; but it appearing to the Board that the land was never inhabited or cultivated from that time to this, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 391.—DOMINIC and URSINO BOULIGNY claim a couple of tracts of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing each forty arpents front, and forty deep, and adjoining each other; one of which said tracts has been confirmed in No. 394 among the confirmed claims.

The tract of land now rejected, viz: forty arpents front, and forty deep, is claimed in virtue of an order of survey from the Spanish Governor, dated the 10th of January, 1796. The claimants have satisfactorily proved that they had a tenant on one of said tracts on the 1st of October, 1800, the title to which tract we have confirmed; but as it appears that the other tract was never inhabited or cultivated, either by them or any one for them, we therefore reject the claim to that tract.

No. 399.—LOUIS JOLI claims a tract of land situate in county of Acadia, about sixty arpents back from the eastern bank of the river Mississippi. The quantity claimed is not specified, having never been surveyed.

The land now claimed lies immediately back of the lands facing on the river. It was a custom we believe, never departed from by the Spanish Government, if they possessed a correct knowledge of the situation of the land, not to grant lands to others than the front proprietors, which lay behind the lands fronting on the river. In this instance, it appears that the land was not actually inhabited and cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803; and possession and cultivation being the only grounds on which the claimant founds his title, the Board accordingly reject the claim.

No. 401.—ALEXANDER BABIN claims a second depth of land of thirty-one arpents, lying immediately back of a front of three arpents and twenty-six toises, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate in the county of Acadia, on the west side of the river Mississippi, and which has been confirmed to him in No. 401 among the confirmed claims.

The only foundation of title which the claimant shows for this second depth is, his being proprietor of the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from the second depth. The claimant produces no written evidence of title whatever; and the Board therefore reject the claim.

No. 195.—ALEXANDER LEBLANC, as agent for the inhabitants of Pointe Coupée, claims for the said inhabitants the rights of cutting and taking timber from the cypress swamps of the place called Pointe Racourci.

The aforesaid inhabitants claim this privilege as having been accorded to them by the French Government, previous to the cession of the province to Spain; the written evidence of which they state to have been lost or in some way destroyed. The claimants produce, in support of their claim, the depositions of three or four inhabitants of the Territory, that it is within their knowledge that the aforesaid privilege has been accorded to the inhabitants of Pointe Coupée; but not feeling satisfied as to the fact, nor authorized to confirm a claim of this nature, we do therefore reject it.

No. 313.—EBENEZER COOLEY, as agent for the inhabitants of Pointe Coupée, claims the same right of timber as above claimed, in No. 195, by another agent of said inhabitants. (See our opinion as above.)

No. 194.—JEAN BAPTISTE MACARTY claims a tract of land, situate back of the city of New Orleans, and adjoining the canal Carondelet, containing about thirteen hundred acres.

The claimant pretends that this land was surveyed for him, by virtue of an order from the Baron de Carondelet, dated 1793, and that the papers relative to his title have since been destroyed by fire. In support of this, he exhibits the certificate of Pintado, who states that the survey was executed by him, by the order of Carondelet. Admitting it as a fact that the land was surveyed for him by the order of the Baron de Carondelet, it must have been upon the condition that the land was vacant; but it appears clearly that the whole of this land is covered by grants long antecedent to the period that the land is stated to have been surveyed for the claimant; we therefore reject the claim.

No. 390.—JOSEPH VILLARS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the left bank of the grand bayou of Barataria, or river Ouachas, containing about five leagues in front on said bayou, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by the bayou Dupont, and on the lower by the bayou St. Denis.

The claimant alleges that this land was formerly granted by the French Government to his grandfather, and that it has descended to him as heir; that the title-papers have all been destroyed. He has not been able to satisfy us that his grandfather ever obtained a grant to this land. The land has never been inhabited or cultivated by the claimant, or by any person for him; we therefore reject the claim.

No. 134.—THOMAS POWER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the right bank of the river Amite, at the place called Crow Bluff, containing two thousand five hundred superficial arpents.

This claim is founded upon settlement, by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and cultivation on that day. We have already confirmed to the claimant the quantity of six hundred and forty acres (see No. 134 among the confirmed claims,) which is as much as he is entitled to under the act of Congress; and we therefore reject the balance.

No. 19.—ELISHA WINTER claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, containing two hundred and fifty feet on its longest side, one hundred and twenty-six feet fronting on Royal street, and one hundred and forty feet on the line H S on the plat of survey.

It appearing to the Board that the said Winter has parted with all his title to this lot of ground, by a competent conveyance or conveyances made to particular individuals, they therefore reject his claim.

No. 185.—FRANCIS B. LANGUILLE claims a second depth of land, the upper line measuring eighty-three arpents and twenty toises, and the lower ninety-two arpents and five toises, and lying immediately back of a front of eight arpents and nine toises, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 185 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant states that Antoine Bienvenu, from whom he purchased, obtained a grant from the French Government, in 1754, for this back depth, together with a larger quantity; but he not having produced any evidence of such grant, and it not appearing on the records of the book of grants, we therefore reject the claim.

No. 339.—LOUIS TRUDEAU claims a second extension of depth, extending back to lake Pontchartrain, and lying immediately behind a front of twenty arpents, and depth of forty, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Orleans, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 339 among the confirmed claims.

This land is claimed as having been granted by the India Company. The former Surveyor General of the province, Carlos Trudeau, certifies that the title-papers were deposited in his office, and were, at the time of the general conflagration of the city of New Orleans, consumed, together with a great many other papers. We do not feel ourselves authorized to confirm the title to this second extension of depth, but think that it would not be unjust were the General Government to sanction it.

No. 308.—JEAN BAPTISTE CASTILLON claims a second depth, extending back to the lands of Gentilly, and lying immediately back of a front and first depth of land, confirmed to him in No. 308 among the confirmed claims. He also claims a second depth to one of twenty arpents, lying immediately back of a front and first depth, confirmed to him in the aforesaid number.

The claimant produces no evidence of title whatever to either of these second depths; the Board therefore reject the claim to them.

No. 175.—THE MAYOR, ALDERMEN, and INHABITANTS of the city of New Orleans claim a parcel of land as commons, designated in a plat, recorded in the register of claims, book 2, folio 70.

This claim is in part settled by the acts of Congress of 1807 and 1811, which confirm to the corporation six hundred yards from the fortifications. The acts are silent as to vacant lands within the fortifications and the city, but which are, nevertheless, embraced by the claim aforesaid. In vain have the commissioners searched in the documents Nos. 3 and 5, to which they are referred for proof, for even a shadow of title to this land. There is no evidence of its ever having been granted, or considered as belonging to the city, by either the French or Spanish Government. The Board therefore reject the claim of the corporation to all the land now or formerly occupied by the fortifications erected by the Baron de Carondelet, and to all the lots and vacant parcels of land between the said fortifications and the city, and within and in front of the city, between Leveé street and the river.

JOSHUA LEWIS,
THOMAS B. ROBERTSON.

No. 113.—THOMAS POREE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing ninety-seven superficial arpents, and bounded on one side by land of John B. C. Blanquet, and on the other by land of Francis Corbin.

This land is claimed in virtue of a survey made the 19th of November, 1803, and a patent obtained on the 28th of the same month and year from Ventura Morales, the Spanish Intendant. The claimant having no other evidence of title, and the grant under which he claims having been made by a Spanish officer subsequent to the 1st of October, 1800, according to the fifth section of the act of Congress passed on the 2d of March, 1805, the Board are not authorized to make any decision hereon.

No. 114.—FRANCIS MANHALL claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing two hundred and forty-six superficial arpents, and bounded on the west side by land of Bartholomew Duverges, and on the east by vacant lands.

This land is claimed in virtue of a patent issued in favor of James P. Guinault, (from whom the claimant purchased,) on the 27th of March, 1803, by Juan Ventura Morales, Intendant General of the province. According to the fifth section of the act of Congress passed on the 2d of March, 1805, the Board are not authorized to decide on grants made subsequent to the 1st of October, 1800.

No. 115.—THOMAS VILLANUEVA claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on each side of the bayou Darbonne, at the settlement called Valenzuela, containing eight hundred superficial arpents, and bounded on the south by land of Joseph Mollere, on the north by the Acadian settlement, and on the east and west by vacant lands.

This claim is founded upon an order of survey issued in favor of the claimant by Juan Ventura Morales, Intendant General of the province, dated the 19th of September, 1802. In conformity to the fifth section of the act of Congress passed on the 2d of March, 1805, the Board make no decision on the above claim.

No. 139.—JOSEPH LEBLANC claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing four hundred superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Paul Charpe, and on the lower by land of Charles Hebert.

This land is claimed in virtue of a petition to the Intendant in the year 1801, and approved by the Fiscal del Real Hacienda. In conformity to the fifth section of the act of Congress passed on the 2d of March, 1805, the Board make no decision on the above claim.

No. 148.—WILLIAM DONALDSON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing four arpents in front, and forty in depth, being part of the tract of seven arpents front, on the ordinary depth; three arpents front of which we have confirmed in No. 148 among the confirmed claims.

The present four arpents front, on the depth of forty, are claimed in virtue of an order of survey from the Intendant, dated the 4th of January, 1802, in favor of Jean Bertran Dejean, from whom the claimant holds by successive transfers. The warrant of survey having issued subsequent to the 1st day of October, 1800, the Board make no decision thereon.

No. 151.—DOMINGO FLEITAS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the Bayou St. John road, at the distance of a mile from the city of New Orleans, containing fifty-three toises and one foot in front on said road, and extending back as far as the lands of Gravier, but varying in its width.

For the part of this land not confirmed by the Board, see No. 151 among the confirmed claims.

No. 335.—ALEXANDER HARRANG claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the west side of the river Mississippi, at the place called Quartier des Chopitoulas, containing five hundred and twenty-five superficial arpents, and bounded on the south and north by lands of the claimant, on the west by land of Norbert Fortier, and on the east by vacant lands.

The claimant obtained an order of survey for this land, on the 31st of August, 1802, from the Intendant General, which was executed by the Surveyor General on the 16th of April, 1803. The land was to be granted to the claimant upon the condition of his paying to the Government the amount of its valuation money, which the Surveyor General was appointed to ascertain, and estimated it at one hundred and fifty-seven dollars and four cents. The grant has never issued, nor has the money, or any part been paid; nor has the land been inhabited or cultivated. This title having originated under the Spanish Government subsequent to the 1st of October, 1800, the Board make no decision thereon.

No. 167.—JEANNE DELATRE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, on the southern bank of the False river, containing two thousand six hundred and sixty-nine superficial arpents, bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Baptiste Baras, and on the lower by land of Joseph Janis.

The claimant obtained a complete grant from the Intendant of the province for this land, on the 9th of August, 1802; the board therefore make no decision thereon.

No. 169.—FRANCIS LANDON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, on the east side of the river Mississippi, containing seven arpents in front, by forty in depth, and opening ten degrees towards the rear, and bounded on the upper side by land of Louis Declouet, and on the lower by land of Daniel Clark.

This land is claimed in virtue of a warrant of survey issued by the Spanish Government, in favor of Jean Baptiste, on the 4th of January, 1802. The Board, consequently, make no decision on the claim aforesaid.

No. 179.—JEAN BAPTISTE BARAS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, on the west side of the river Mississippi, containing twenty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on all sides by vacant lands.

This land is claimed in virtue of a complete grant issued by the Intendant General, on the 23d of February, 1802. The Board make no decision thereon.

No. 388.—ALEXANDER HARRANG claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Orleans, at the place called Banjo de Chopitoulas, or Island Verret, about two miles to the southward of the Mississippi, and containing two hundred superficial acres.

This land is claimed in virtue of a complete grant issued by the Intendant General, in favor of the claimant, on the 11th day of August, 1802. The Board therefore make no decision thereon.

JOSHUA LEWIS,
THOS. B. ROBERTSON.

No. 312.—ARNAUD MAGNON claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, on the front side of the same, containing one arpent and nineteen toises in superficies, and bounded on the east side by the river Mississippi, on the south by the property of Henry Metzinger, on the west by the main road, and on the north by vacant land. For the part of this land which we have confirmed to the claimant, see No. 312 among the confirmed claims.

It appears that the claimant occupied and possessed the balance of the ground (viz.: all that not included in the red lines, which was confirmed to him per the above number) for more than twelve consecutive years prior to the 20th of December, 1803; part of it, being a small slip, he enclosed as a yard, in the rear of his dwelling, and the remainder as a ship-yard; and, at the time of taking possession, he enclosed a considerable part of the ship-yard, and erected work-houses on it, which yet exist, and which he still occupies. This was done with the knowledge and permission of the Spanish Government. We know of no law or usage of that Government respecting claims similarly situated, but think it highly probable that, had the claimant applied, he would have obtained a grant for it, as a grant was made to a lot of ground adjoining him under no higher pretensions. Nor does this appear to come within any of the provisions of the laws of the United States: although there have been ten consecutive years' possession, the land has not been inhabited and cultivated. This part of the claim we do not feel ourselves authorized to decide on, but are of opinion that, in justice, the claim ought to be confirmed.

No. 329.—CATHARINE GONZALES BERTRAND, widow, claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, fronting on the Levée, and containing a superficies of three thousand one hundred and seventy-six feet and four inches, in a square form, and bounded on the northeast by the property of Domingo Gonzales, on the northwest by the main road, on the southwest by vacant land, and on the southeast by the Levée aforesaid.

It appears that, on the 27th of March, 1788, a few days after the fire which consumed a considerable portion of this city, Thomas Bertrand, the late husband of the claimant, and who was a sufferer by the fire, petitioned Governor Miro for leave to build himself a house on the lot of ground now claimed; which was accorded to him by the Governor. It appears, also, that in the year 1794, he presented another petition to the Baron de Carondelet, requesting permission to reconstruct his house, as the materials of which it was built were much decayed; which request was also accorded, upon condition that the house should be reconstructed according to its former dimensions. This lot of ground has been inhabited by the late husband of the claimant from the year 1788 until his death, and by the claimant since that period to this day. As we do not feel authorized to make any decision on this claim, we think it would be more an act of justice than of generosity if the Government should confirm it.

No. 380.—PETER URTUBUISE claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, fronting on the Levée, containing a superficies of two thousand one hundred and seventy-five feet, and bounded on one side by the property of Henry Metzinger, on another by St. Philip street, and in the rear by the main road.

The claimant states, that one Peter Breaux, of whom he purchased, in the year 1790, obtained a written permission from the Governor to build and settle himself on the lot of ground now claimed, which written permission was destroyed by fire in the year 1794. Of this we have no evidence. It appears that the claimant has his dwelling-house and blacksmith's shop on the lot, and has had the quiet possession of it for ten years prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and still has. We know of no law or usage of the Spanish Government respecting claims similarly situated, and it does not appear to come within any of the provisions of the laws of Congress, it being a small lot which has never been cultivated, nor intended for cultivation. The lot of ground was considered of little value at the time it was taken possession of, and we have no doubt but the Governor would have granted it to the claimant had he have asked it, as grants were made of lots near to this, under similar circumstances, to other individuals. We do not feel ourselves authorized to make any decision on this claim, but we think it would be more an act of justice than of generosity if the Government should confirm it.

No. 372.—JOHN J. CHESSE claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, between the Levée and the river, containing two thousand two hundred and ninety feet in superficies, and bounded on the northeast by the continuation of St. Philip street.

It appears that one Etienne Planché, the father-in-law of the claimant, petitioned the Cabildo, of which the Governor was president, in May, 1783, for, and obtained, permission to erect a shed on the lot of ground claimed, for the purpose of repairing vessels, and continued to occupy it until the year 1788, when he sold it to the present claimant, who has continued to possess and occupy it since that time to the present period, for the purposes aforesaid. We know of no law or usage of the Spanish Government respecting claims similarly situated, and it does not appear to come within any of the provisions of the laws of Congress, it being a small lot which has never been cultivated, nor intended for cultivation. But the claimant has his dwelling-house on it, and did actually inhabit it on the 20th of December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. This lot of ground was considered of little value at the time it was taken possession of, and we have no doubt that the Governor would have granted it to the claimant had he have asked it, as grants were made of lots near to this, under similar circumstances, to other individuals. We do not feel authorized to make any decision on this claim, but we think it would be more an act of justice than of generosity if the Government should confirm it.

No. 360.—MARY L. DAUBERVILLE, widow of BOUNIGNY, claims a lot of ground, situate in the city of New Orleans, at the corner of Dumaine and Condé streets, measuring twenty-three feet on the former, and sixty-five on the latter, containing a superficies of four thousand seven hundred and forty-five feet, and bounded on one side by the public magazine, and on the other by the public hall room.

It appears that this lot was granted to Don Guido Dufossat, upon condition that he should pay for it twelve dollars per month; that he not having taken possession of it, nor complied with the condition, it was, upon the representation of the Intendant to the King, annexed to the domain by a royal order, dated on the 5th of September, 1787. This lot is adjoining the public magazine, in which powder was occasionally deposited; and the King, in his order annexing it to the domain, forbids that it should be granted to any individual. The late husband of the claimant was commandant of the forts at this place under the Spanish Government, and cultivated this lot as a garden. The claimant sets up no other title than the possession of her husband. We are therefore of opinion that her claim ought to be rejected, and do accordingly reject it.

No. 307.—JOHN B. LABATUT, in behalf of the heirs of St. Maxent, claims a tract or parcel of land of two arpents and twelve toises in front, adjoining the lower limits of the city of New Orleans, at the distance of twenty toises from the barracks, and running parallel to said limits.

The facts in the case are as follows, viz: M. Dubreuil was the reputed owner of a plantation of seven arpents and eighteen toises front, bounded on the lower side by lands of Amelot, and on the upper by the city. After his death, this plantation was sold at auction, in the year 1758, and described as containing seven arpents and eighteen toises in front; and it was also then publicly declared, that a parcel of land, within these limits, on which the principal buildings stood, belonged to the King, (see sale in 1758.) This declaration was repeated on the third day of setting up the plantation for sale, by Villars Dubreuil, one of the heirs, and tutor to the minors, who said that two arpents and twelve toises, on which had been erected the dwelling-house and other buildings of value, belonged to the King, who, out of favor, had permitted his father to occupy the same. This declaration was made with much solemnity before Mr. De Rochemore, Ordonnateur General, (see the declaration.) Under these circumstances, Mr. Lachaise became the purchaser; and, at his death, in the year 1774, it was sold to Madame de Moleon. The papers relative to this sale cannot be found, so that we are ignorant of the manner in which the plantation was, in that instance, described. In the year 1776, it was sold by Madame de Moleon to Colonel St. Maxent, and is spoken of as containing seven arpents and eighteen toises front, and at the same time is bounded as formerly on the lower line, but on the upper by the gate of France and the "fortificaciones antiguas o estacadas serviendo de muralla a esta ciudad." (see the act of sale.) Colonel St. Maxent sold this tract of land to Mr. Sigur, in the year 1789, limiting it on the upper side by the city, (see the sale;) the Baron de Carondelet, in the year 1794, erected fortifications around the town, and intrenched considerably on the land purchased by Sigur of Maxent. Sigur demanded of the Government an indemnity; but this was refused, on the ground that, in all French grants a reservation was made of all land necessary for fortifications, (see decree.) Sigur, after failing in this application, filed his petition for redress against the syndics of Maxent, and after very voluminous and tardy proceedings, obtained, from the Spanish tribunal of justice, a decree for twenty-five thousand five hundred and seventy-five dollars, (see the decree,) which was deducted from the sum he owed for the plantation. In the year 1797, a survey was made, for the purpose of ascertaining the lines of the former fortifications, and signed by all parties interested; this survey gives the position of the gate of France, and the ancient fortifications and stockades spoken of in the sale of Madame de Moleon. In 1798, Sigur sold the said plantation to Mr. P. Marigny, with a reservation of the lands taken by the Baron de Carondelet; and, in the same year, Governor Gayoso fixed the upper line of the plantation of Marigny at the distance of two arpents and twelve toises from the city. It is proper further to remark, that lots in Garrison street, running over the line established in 1760, and now contended for, were, in the year 1793, granted by the Baron de Carondelet to divers individuals. These are the most important facts which militate against the claim. On the other hand, in support of the pretensions of the syndic of Maxent, two plans are produced; one executed in the year 1760, and signed by De Rochemore and Governor Kerlerec, on which the line of separation between the plantation of Dubreuil (at that time belonging to Lachaise) and the city, runs at the distance from the latter of only twenty toises; the other, executed in 1769, when O'Reilly took possession of the country, on which the line aforesaid is laid down precisely in the same manner. It further appears that all the acts of sale speak of the plantation as containing seven arpents and eighteen toises front, (see the sale.) And it is in evidence that, in the year 1780, the fortifications being abandoned, Colonel St. Maxent was put in possession of the land on which they had been erected, by order of Governor Galvez; that he built several houses on, and continued in the full enjoyment of the same, until he sold the plantation, in the year 1789, to Laurence Sigur, limiting it by the city.

I have now, with all possible fairness, stated the material facts connected with this claim. Considering, then, the description of the plantation when purchased by Lachaise, in 1758; the declaration of Villars Debreuil; the limits mentioned in the sale of Madame Moleon to Colonel Maxent; the decree of Sigur's application to the Government for indemnity, and that for redress against the syndics of Maxent; the survey of 1797, showing the situation of the gate of France, and the old lines of the French fortifications; the grants of lots on Rue Quartier, by the Baron de Carondelet, in 1793; the line established by Gayoso, in 1798; and, finally, a fact omitted to be stated in its proper place, that when the Jesuits' plantation was granted, a space of ground of the same magnitude with that now claimed was left vacant between said plantation and the city, on the opposite side; I am of opinion that the claim of the syndic of Colonel Gilbert Antonio de St. Maxent ought not to be confirmed, and therefore do reject the same.

THOMAS B. ROBERTSON.

I concur in the foregoing statement of facts, but disagree as to the deduction made from them, and the evidence to which they refer. I am of opinion that the land in question forms part of the plantation formerly of Dubreuil, containing seven arpents eighteen toises in front, and bounded by the lands of Amelot below, and the limits of the city above, viz. twenty toises from the barracks; First, Because, many years antecedent to the time of constructing the French fortifications, Dubreuil cultivated the whole extent of this plantation between these limits and his dwelling-house, and sugar-houses and other permanent buildings were erected on the land now claimed. Secondly, Because all the deeds of sale give it the same extent of front. Thirdly, Because, by a plat of the city, made by the order of Rochemore, the Ordonnateur, and Kerlerec, the Governor, in the year 1760, signed and approved by them, a line at twenty toises from the barracks, and running parallel with the city, is recognised as the limits of the boundary of the city and the lands of Dubreuil. Fourthly, Because the same boundary is recognised by a plat made by the Count O'Reilly, in the year 1769, at the time the province came under the Spanish Government. Fifthly, Because the fortifications having fallen into disuse in the year 1780, St. Maxent, whose heirs claim under the title of Dubreuil, was put in possession of this land by the order of Governor Galvez.

I cannot perceive that the title to this part of the plantation has been extinguished by any surrender on the part of Dubreuil or his successors, or by any act of the French or Spanish Government. The first and only evidence that this land was reserved by the King is, the declaration of Villars Dubreuil, one of the heirs, and tutor to the minor children, in the year 1758, at the time the plantation was exposed to sale, stating that two arpents twelve toises of this plantation were reserved by the King, and that his father had possessed it by permission. Yet the plantation is described both by the advertisement and adjudication as having seven arpents eighteen toises front, which brings it up to the limits of the city. There is no vestige of the original grant (nor indeed of any grants of the same antiquity) by which the original limits can be ascertained; but it is scarcely to be presumed that Dubreuil, the father, would have made establishments of such magnitude on lands known to be reserved by the King, when, a few paces from it, he might have built on his own land, and on a site equally eligible. At the time this declaration was made the fortifications were erected, and there is invariably in all French grants to land in this country a special reservation, that the King shall take any part of the land granted, for the use of fortifications, when he may deem it necessary. This I consider the kind of reserve alluded to in the declaration, and rather admits it a part of the original grant; because, if the title was never out of the King, I cannot see how he could have reserved this land, as his reservations are only to be found in his grants. I do not consider that any act of the Spanish Government bars the right of Dubreuil's heirs, or those rightfully claiming under them, to this land. Laurence Sigur, one of the purchasers, being dispossessed, in 1794, by the Baron de Carondelet, made application to that Government for indemnity, which was refused, upon the principle that the Spanish Government succeeded to all the rights of the French Government, and that the latter never made indemnity in the like cases, this being one of the conditions of the grant; and upon this principle damages were awarded against the heirs of St. Maxent. Nor do I think the circumstance of the Baron de Carondelet's granting a small part of this land can impair the title of Dubreuil, or those who hold under him, if the land previously belonged to them, as his power to grant extended only to vacant land, and all the Spanish grants contain a proviso that the land be vacant. Upon the whole evidence of this case, I am of opinion that this land was a part of the estate of Dubreuil; that the French Government had a right, in virtue of the reservations in all their grants, to appropriate it to the use of the fortifications; but this was a right only to the use of soil, whilst the right of property remained in the individual; and as soon as the fortifications are demolished, and cease to be used, the land reverts to the individual, and he has a right to enter upon it.

THOMAS B. ROBERTSON.

Decisions of the Board of Commissioners for the eastern district of the Territory of Orleans, on land claims registered in the books of William Wilkoff, Deputy Surveyor for the county of Pointe Coupée and part of the county of Iberville.

No. 1.—RICHARD MURPHY claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou Manchack, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing four hundred superficial arpents.

It appears that on the 23d of September, 1797, Don Carlos Trudeau, Surveyor General of the province, surveyed this tract of land in favor of William Black, and put him in possession thereof; and that, on the 7th of December in the same year, a complete grant was made in his favor to said land, by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, then Governor; under which title the present claimant holds. Confirmed.

No. 2.—SAMUEL FULTON claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth.

It appears that the land claimed was surveyed by Don Louis Andry, in the year 1772, in favor of Philip Englehart, and possession given at the same time; and that a complete grant was made in his favor, in the year 1772, by Don Louis de Unzaga, then Governor. Samuel Fulton now claims as one of the representatives of Hebert Powell, deceased, who held under the first grantee. Confirmed.

No. 3.—SAMUEL FULTON claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth.

It appears that the land now claimed was surveyed by Don Louis Andry, in the year 1772, in favor of Adam Sastre, and possession given at the same time; and that a complete grant was made in his favor, in the year 1774, by Don Louis de Unzaga, then Governor. Samuel Fulton now claims it as one of the representatives of Hebert Powell, deceased, who held under the first grantee. Confirmed.

No. 4.—JOSEPH LELONG claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and opening five degrees.

It appears that the land now claimed was surveyed by Don Louis Andry, in the year 1772, in favor of John Bullon, and possession given at the same time; and that a complete grant was made in his favor, in the year 1774, by Don Louis de Unzaga. Joseph Lelong claims it by purchase, under the title of the first grantee. Confirmed.

No. 7.—MICHEL MAHER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing ten and a half arpents in front, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and bounded on one side by land of Madame Ayet, and on the other by land of Adam Boyd.

It appears that the present claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th of December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 11.—PIERRE FARROT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing eighteen arpents in front, and depth uncertain, and bounded on one side by land of Jean Baptiste Bienville, and on the other by land of Joseph Mallet.

It appearing that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding, the Board confirm the claim to the extent of the first forty arpents in depth.

No. 13.—JOSEPH DUPUY claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing seven and a half arpents front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Armand Richard, and on the lower by land belonging to the church of St. Gabriel.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 14.—JOSEPH DUPUY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville and district of Galveztown, containing six arpents front, on the ordinary depth of forty.

The tract now claimed is part of twelve arpents front, by forty in depth, surveyed by Don Carlos Trudeau, in the year 1789, in favor of Batista Hebert, who obtained a complete grant for the same in the same year, from Don Estevan Miro, then Governor; six arpents of which are claimed by the present claimant, by virtue of purchases made under the grant aforesaid. Confirmed.

No. 15.—JOSEPH LEBLANC, as executor of Joseph Landry, claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing three arpents in front, and forty in depth.

This tract is part of seven and a half arpents in front, with the ordinary depth of forty, surveyed in favor of Joseph Landry, in the year 1772, who obtained in the same year a complete grant for the same from Don Louis de Unzaga, then Governor; three arpents front of which are claimed by the present claimant, as executor of Joseph Landry; the deceased having sold the other part in his lifetime. Confirmed.

No. 16.—JOSEPH LEBLANC claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing five arpents and three toises front, on the ordinary depth of forty arpents.

This tract is a part of ten arpents and seven toises front, and forty arpents in depth, surveyed in favor of Pablo Hebert, in the year 1772, who obtained a complete grant for the same in the same year, from Don Louis de Unzaga, then Governor; five arpents three toises of which are claimed by the present claimant in virtue of regular deeds of sale. Confirmed.

No. 17.—DENY LANDRY claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing five arpents and three toises front, and forty arpents in depth.

This tract is part of the grant of Pablo Hebert, referred to in the claim No. 16. Confirmed.

No. 18.—PIERRE PALLIOT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing six arpents front, and forty deep, and bounded on one side by land of Francisco Arbour, and on the other by land of Juan Marie Trahan.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th of December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 19.—JUAN PEDRO HEBERT and JUAN CARLOS HEBERT claim a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing five arpents and six toises front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on one side by land of Juan Batista Arnandez, and on the other by land of Armand Hebert.

It appears that the claimants did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by them, or those under whom they claim, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 20.—BARTHOLOMEW HAMILTON claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing three arpents three toises and three feet in front, and eighty arpents in depth, and bounded on one side by land of Jacques Leblanc, and on the other by land of N. Rousseau.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the first forty arpents depth of the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten years prior to that period. So far the Board confirm his claim, but reject the balance.

No. 21.—WILLIAM WIKOFF, JUN. claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou of Iberville, in the county of Iberville and district of Galveztown, containing eight hundred superficial arpents.

This land was surveyed by Don Carlos Trudeau, in the year 1794, in favor of Marcos Coulon de Villiers, who obtained a complete title to the same, in the same year, from the Baron de Carondelet, at that time Governor. William Wikoff, Jun. now claims it under the original grant, through divers intermediate sales. Confirmed.

No. 22.—GEORGE T. ROSS claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing six arpents front, and forty in depth.

This tract of land was surveyed in the year 1772, and a complete title issued in the year 1774, by Don Louis de Unzaga, at that time Governor, in favor of Juan Batista Aury, and is claimed by the present claimant, in virtue of different deeds of sale, under the original title. Confirmed.

No. 27.—JAMES MELANSON claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing five arpents and three fourths in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on one side by land of Peter Servants, and on the other by land of Louis d'Aigle.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 28.—LOUIS D'AIGLE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land of James Melanson, and on the other by land of Batista Hebert.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 29.—FRANCIS MARIONNEAUX claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing four and a half arpents front, and forty in depth.

The tract of land now claimed is part of six arpents front, and forty in depth, surveyed, in the year 1772, in favor of Maximo River, and granted to him, in 1774, by Governor Unzaga. The present claimant derives title by regular deeds under the original grant. Confirmed.

No. 30.—FRANCIS MARIONNEAUX claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Manchack, containing two and a half arpents front, with the ordinary depth of forty.

This claim is part of a claim of six arpents fourteen toises front, surveyed in favor of Pedro Landry, in the year 1772, and by Governor Unzaga granted to him, in 1774. The present claimant holds under the original grant, by regular deeds. Confirmed.

No. 32.—BERNARD DUBROCA claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing six arpents front, and forty in depth.

This tract is part of a claim of twelve arpents front, on the usual depth of forty, for which there was an order of survey, in the year 1773, and which was granted to Germain and Juan Marseille, in 1776, by Governor Unzaga. The present claimant holds under the original grant, by regular deeds. Confirmed.

No. 33.—WILLIAM WIKOFF, JUN. claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing twelve arpents in front, with the depth of eighty arpents.

This tract of land was surveyed by Don Carlos Trudeau, in the year 1789, in favor of Armand Duplantier, as far as the first forty arpents in depth, and regularly granted to him, in the same year, by Governor Miro. In the year 1792, Carlos Trudeau surveyed for, and put him in possession of, the second depth of forty arpents. The claimant holds said land by purchase from Duplantier. Confirmed.

No. 39.—GREGOIRE LEJEUNE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville and district of Baton Rouge, containing three hundred and sixty-seven and ninety-four hundredths superficial arpents, and bounded on one side by land of Valerian Allain, and on the other by land of John B. Lejeune.

Confirmed.

NEW ORLEANS, August 10, 1792.

I have examined and reflected upon the reasons which you expose to me in your letter No. 2, relative to the levées of the lands abandoned by Messrs. Riano, Loris, Peret, Guyot, Mueillon, Monsanto, F. Bouigny, William and Henry Thomas. It is absolutely necessary to eradicate the prevailing abuse of not putting into immediate execution the orders issued by Government thereupon; the last of which I render you responsible is, that within this year the levées shall be made: for which purpose you will give the ownership of the lands to those individuals who will undertake to make their levées without further order. You shall appoint your syndics, who, with yourself, may inspect and attend to the good condition of the levées, without having any other regard than to impartial justice.

THE BARON DE CARONDELET.

To Mr. NICOLAS DE VERBOIS.

No. 70.—FRANCOIS TREPAGNIER claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing twelve arpents in front, and forty in depth.

The claimant was put in possession of the land claimed, in the year 1779, by the Surveyor General of the province, by order of the Governor, and has continued to possess the same ever since that period. Confirmed.

No. 71.—ANTOINE BORNE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing four arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Baptiste Rodrigue, and on the lower by land of Antoine Deslatte.

The claimant having purchased this land at a judicial sale made of it in the year 1783, and having continued in possession of the same ever since that period. Confirmed.

No. 72.—JOSEPH DELHOMME claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Mr. Dusieau, and on the lower by land of Mr. Trepagnier.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 73.—MADAME TREPAGNIER claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing fifteen arpents and three toises in front, and forty arpents depth to nine arpents and three toises of said front, and a depth extending to the lake to the remaining six front arpents; and bounded on the upper side by land of Mr. Duez, and on the lower by land of François L'Hommer.

This tract of land having been occupied and possessed by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803, the Board confirm the title to the extent of the ordinary depth of forty arpents, and reject the claim to the second depth to six of the front arpents.

No. 75.—NICOLAS PICOU claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing fourteen arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Antoine D. Degruis, and on the lower by land of Joseph V. Degruis.

It appears that the land claimed was surveyed for the present claimant by the proper officer, in the year 1787, and that he did, prior to that time, and ever since that period, possess the same. Confirmed.

No. 76.—GEORGE WEBER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing five arpents thirteen toises and five feet in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of the parish church of the parish of St. John the Baptist, and on the lower by land of Jean Weber.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 77.—ANTOINE BORNE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing nine arpents and a half in front, and forty arpents in depth.

It appears that this tract of land has been possessed and occupied either by the present claimant, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 78.—GEORGE ROUSSEL claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing four arpents and nineteen toises in front, and forty arpents in depth.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 79.—MATTHIAS ORY claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing six arpents and a half in front, of which he claims to one arpent and a half the depth of eighty arpents, and to the remaining front arpents the ordinary depth of forty arpents.

It appearing that the land now claimed has been continually inhabited and cultivated for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803, the Board confirm the title to the first depth of forty arpents, and reject the claim to a second depth of forty arpents to the one and a half arpent front.

No. 80.—MADAME RODRIGUE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing nine arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by her, or those under whom she claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 81.—PIERRE BOSSIER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing six arpents seven toises and three feet in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Madame Lagrange, and on the lower by land of George Bossier.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 82.—MADAME LAGRANGE, widow of Jean Baptiste Lagrange, claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing four arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Baptiste Barré, and on the lower by land of Pierre Bossier.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by her, or those under whom she claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 83.—BAUBERY TREPAGNIER claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing four arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of François Trepagnier, Senior.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 84.—FRANÇOIS TREPAGNIER, Jun. claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi in the county of German Coast, containing four arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Baubery Trepagnier, and on the lower by land of Pierre Pain, a free mulatto.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 85.—CHEVALIER DARENSBOURG claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing nine arpents in front, and eighty arpents in depth.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the first forty arpents depth of this land for more than ten consecutive years next preceding the 20th December, 1803, and that he obtained a regular warrant of survey for the second forty arpents in depth in the year 1786. Confirmed.

No. 86.—LOUIS HABINE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing twenty-eight arpents in front, and eighty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Pedro Baudoin, and on the lower by land of Madame Antoine St. Jago.

It appearing that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior, the Board confirm the title to the extent of the first depth of forty arpents, and reject the claim to the second depth of forty arpents.

No. 88.—JEAN FRANÇOIS PISEROS claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing fifteen arpents one toise two feet and four inches in front, and a depth extending back to the lake, and bounded on the upper side by land of Louis M. C. De Trepny, and on the lower by land of Louis Augustin Menillon.

In the year 1773 Estevan Boré obtained a regular warrant of survey from Governor Unzaga for the first depth of forty arpents of this land; and for the second depth, being an extension back to the lake, he obtained a complete grant, in the year 1779, from Governor Galvez; the present claimant holds under the titles of said Boré. Confirmed.

No. 89.—GEORGE WENPRENDER claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing eight arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jacques Lagroire, and on the lower by land of Maurice O'Connor.

The claimant having purchased six arpents front of this land at a judicial sale made on the 2d of October, 1791, and the balance, being two arpents front, likewise at a judicial sale made in the year 1797; and the land having been occupied and possessed by him ever since that period. Confirmed.

No. 90.—ANTOINE ORY claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Gabriel Clautier, and on the lower by land of ———.

The claimant having purchased this land at two judicial sales, and those through whom he claims having occupied and possessed it for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 91.—ADAM VICUER claims a tract of land situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing four arpents front, and eighty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Balthazar Vicuer, and on the lower by land of Michel Carantin.

The claimant having occupied and possessed this tract of land for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th of December, 1803, the Board confirm his title to the extent of the first forty arpents depth, and reject the claim to the second depth of forty arpents.

No. 92.—MADAME MICHEL CONRAD LIPS claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing three arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of François Dupont, and on the lower by land of Jacques Conrad Lips.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by her, or those under whom she claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 93.—MICHEL LENNAN claims a tract of land situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing five arpents and seventeen toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, bounded on the upper side by land of Pierre Mermillon, and on the lower by land of Jean Pierre Folsé.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 94.—ANDRE CONRAD LIPS claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing six arpents and six toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Michel Jacob, and on the lower by land of Jean Helte.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 95.—JEAN HELTE claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing three arpents and fourteen toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Andre Conrad Lips, and on the lower by land of Jean Normand.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 96.—JACQUES CONRAD LIPS claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing three arpents front, and eighty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Madame Michel Lips, and on the lower by land of Jean Bte. Picou.

It appears that the first depth of forty arpents of the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated for more than ten consecutive years prior to the 20th December, 1803; and that Ponce Lasseigne, under whose title the claimant holds, obtained a grant for the second depth of forty arpents in the year 1789. Confirmed.

No. 97.—JEAN HELTE claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing four arpents and two toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Lorenzo Normand, and on the lower by land of Estevan, a free negro.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 98.—ANTOINE VICUER claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of François Dupont.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 99.—FRANÇOIS DUPONT claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing two arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Antoine Vicuer, and on the lower by land of Madame Michel Conrad Lips.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by him, or those under whom he claims, for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 100.—ANTOINE FOLSE claims a tract of land, situate on the Lac des Allemands, in the county of German Coast, containing seven thousand five hundred superful arpents, and bounded on the east and north by the aforesaid lake, on the south by the bayous Bœuf and Cabaha Nosse, and on the west by vacant land and the bayous Tigre, Chevreuil, le Haha, and Heron.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that the claimant did, on and after the 1st day of October, 1800, inhabit and cultivate a part of said land, and continue thereon until on and after the 20th December, 1803, the Board confirm his title to six hundred and forty acres, to be laid off upon a base of sixteen acres front, (including his improvement in the centre,) with the depth of forty acres, and reject his claim as to the balance.

No. 101.—MANUEL ANDRY claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing thirteen arpents eighteen toises and two feet in front, and eighty arpents in depth, opening twenty-two degrees fifty-one minutes thirty seconds, and bounded on the upper side by land of the widow of Antoine Mantz, and on the lower by land of the widow of Jacques Delonde.

It appearing that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior, the Board confirm the claim to the extent of the first depth of forty arpents, and reject it as to the second depth of forty arpents.

No. 102.—JEAN BAPTISTE PICOU claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing two arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jacques Conrad Lips, and on the lower by land of Charles Robeau.

It appears that the claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate the land now claimed on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 103.—CHAUVIN and BOISCLAIR DELERY claim two tracts of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast; one of said tracts containing five arpents and twenty toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Antoine Dorvin, and on the lower by land of Edmond Fortier; and the other tract containing five arpents twenty toises and five feet in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded above and below by land of Antoine Dorvin.

It appears that the aforesaid tracts of land were inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that they were continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimants hold for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 104.—EDMOND FORTIER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing thirteen arpents twenty-seven toises and three feet in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Chauvin and Boisclair Delery, and on the lower by land of Madame Rixner.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 30.—PIERRE BOSSIER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing eighteen arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of ———, and on the lower by land of ———.

It appearing that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior thereto, the Board confirm the claim to the extent of such depth as does not exceed forty arpents. Confirmed.

No. 87.—BERNARD BERNOUDY claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of German Coast, containing twenty-three arpents in front, and a depth extending back to the lake, and bounded on the upper side by land of ———, and on the lower by land of ———.

It appearing that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and for more than ten consecutive years prior, the Board confirm the claim to the extent of the first depth of forty arpents, and reject it as to the balance.

No. 74.—THE CHILDREN OF PAUL TOUPS claim a tract of land, situate in the county of Acadia, at the place called les Coteaux de France, at about the distance of three and a half leagues from the western bank of the Mississippi, containing eighteen arpents in front, and a depth of two leagues and a half. Paul Toups, the father of the claimants, obtained from the Baron de Carondelet a regular warrant of survey for this land in the year 1796, for the purpose of establishing a vacherie; and the conditions of the warrant of survey having been complied with on his part: Confirmed.

JOSHUA LEWIS,
THOMAS B. ROBERTSON.

Rejected claims from the books of William Wikoff, Jun., Deputy Register of the county of Pointe Coupee, and part of the county of Iberville.

No. 6.—DIEGO ARNDEZ claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by vacant land, and on the lower by land of Mr. Villier.

This claim is founded upon a petition (requête) to the Governor of the province, dated the 29th of January, 1799, with the certificate of the commandant of the district, stating that the land was vacant, and might be granted without prejudice, &c. It does not appear that the Governor ever acted upon the petition. In the year 1802, the Intendant General of the province directed the commandant to make some inquiries ascertaining the nature of the claimant's pretensions to a grant; but it does not appear that the Intendant ever made any final order or decree on the petition. It appearing, also, in evidence, that the claimant did not occupy or inhabit the land on or prior to the 20th of December, 1803, they are of opinion that he is not entitled to the land under any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or under any act of Congress; and do therefore reject his claim.

No. 9.—GREGOIRE MELANSON claims a second depth or concession of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Ignatio Landry, and on the lower by land of Simon Melanson.

This claim to a second depth is founded solely upon a petition (requête) to the Intendant General of the province, dated the 29th of July, 1802, accompanied with the commandant's certificate that the land was vacant, and might be granted without injury, &c. Had the Intendant even a right at that period to grant the land, it does not appear that he ever acted upon the petition, or that it was ever presented to him. We are therefore of opinion that this claim to a second concession ought not to be confirmed under any law, custom, or usage of the Spanish Government; and do reject it.

No. 8.—OLIVIER ARNANDEZ claims a second depth or concession of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of four arpents front, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Hebert, and on the lower by land of Thomas Hebert.

This claim to a second concession is founded upon a petition (requête) to the Intendant General of the province, dated the 29th of June, 1802, together with the commandant's certificate that the land was vacant, and might be granted without prejudice, &c. Had the Intendant even a right to grant the land at that period, he has never acted upon the petition, nor does it appear that it was ever presented to him. We are of opinion that this claim to a second concession ought not to be confirmed under any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government; and do therefore reject it.

No. 10.—MATHURIN LANDRY claims a second depth or concession of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of five arpents and one hundred and thirty-four feet front, and situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Baptiste Leblanc, and on the lower by land of Joseph Ignatio Landry.

The pretensions to this second depth are in all respects similar to those in the two preceding claims, being founded on a petition, dated the 29th of July, 1802, to the Intendant General, accompanied by the commandant's certificate; which petition does not appear to have been acted upon or seen by the Intendant. We are therefore of opinion that this claim to a second depth ought not to be confirmed under any law, custom, or usage of the Spanish Government; and do therefore reject it.

No. 20.—BARTHOLOMEW HAMILTON claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth already confirmed to him in No. 20 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant shows no other evidence of title to this second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from this second depth. According to the laws, customs, and usages of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor could, by any act of his own, acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government has invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land; we do therefore reject the claim.

No. 23.—JOSEPH MOLLERE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing eight hundred superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by vacant lands, and on the lower by land of Estevan Watts.

The claimant, on the 26th of November, 1793, petitioned Governor Gayoso for this land; and the Governor, on the 14th of February, 1799, issued an order of survey, directing the Surveyor General of the province to put the claimant in possession of the land. The land was surveyed in 1800, but it appears that the claimant did not inhabit or cultivate the land on 1st day of October, 1800, as required by the act of Congress, nor has he since that time; nor does it appear that he ever complied with the requisite conditions of the order of survey, to wit, making the road and levée on the land. We are therefore of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 25.—LOUIS MOLLERE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six hundred superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Estevan Watts, and on the lower by vacant land.

The claimant, on the 1st of January, 1799, petitioned Governor Gayoso for this land; and the Governor, in the same month and year, issued an order directing the Governor of Baton Rouge to cause the surveyor of the district to survey the land petitioned for, in order that proper titles should be made to the same. The land was, in consequence, surveyed in 1800; but it does not appear that other titles were ever made by the Spanish Government, and it does appear that the land has never been inhabited or cultivated. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 31.—FRANCIS MARIONNEAUX claims a second depth or concession of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of seven arpents and fourteen feet in front, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and bounded on the upper side by land of Magloire Dupuis, and on the lower by land of Mr. Leonard.

This claim to a second depth is founded solely upon a petition, (requête), in the year 1801, to the Intendant General of the province, accompanied with a certificate of the commandant, stating the land to be vacant, and might be granted without injury, &c. It does not appear that the Intendant ever acted upon the petition, even if he had a right to grant the land at that period. We are of opinion that this claim to a second depth ought not to be confirmed under any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government; and do therefore reject it.

No. 31.—BELONY HEBERT claims a second depth or concession of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of four arpents and twenty-one toises front, and situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and bounded on the upper side by land of Daniel Benoit, and on the lower by land of Alexis Hebert.

This claim to a second depth is founded upon pretensions in every respect similar to the preceding; the claimant having produced only a petition, with the Commandant's certificate to the Intendant General of the province in the year 1802; which petition was never acted upon by the Intendant General. We are of opinion that this claim to a second concession ought not to be confirmed under any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government; and do therefore reject it.

No. 35.—JEAN CHARLES JUILIER, a guardian of Joseph Trahan and Marie S. Trahan, infant children of Jean Marie Trahan, deceased, claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Francis J. Juillier, and on the other by land of ———.

It appears, in support of this claim, that Jean Marie Trahan was put in possession of this tract of land, in the year 1787, by the commandant of the district, and that he resided but a short time upon it, when he abandoned it, by reason of the inundation of the river. There appears, also, in support of the claim, the affidavit of two inhabitants of the district, stating that said Trahan made a levée on the land, and that it has always been considered by the inhabitants of the district as his property; but there being no other title than a short possession with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, the land having been abandoned for a great length of time, and possession of it never resumed until long since the change of Government, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 36.—JEAN CHARLES JUILIER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land claimed by the heirs of Jean Marie Trahan, deceased, and on the other by land claimed by Francis J. Juillier.

It appears, in support of this claim, that the claimant took possession of this land some time about the year 1786, by permission of the Spanish commandant; that he remained upon it but a short time, when he was forced to abandon it, by reason of the inundation of the river. There is also an affidavit stating that he made a levée on the land, and that the same has been always considered by the inhabitants of the district as his property. But for the reasons assigned in the preceding claim, which equally apply to the present, we are of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 37.—FRANÇOIS ISIDORE JUILIER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Baptiste Legendre, and on the lower by land of Jean Charles Juillier.

It appears, in support of this claim, that the claimant was put in possession of this land in the year 1787, by the commandant of the district; that he remained upon it but a short time, when he was forced to abandon it, by reason of the inundation of the river. There are also affidavits stating that he made a levée on the land, and that it has always been considered by the inhabitants of the district as his property. But for the reasons assigned in claim No. 35, which equally apply to the present, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 46.—ÉTIENNE FOREST claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing two hundred and thirty-four and thirty-two hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Enoch Budwell.

This claim is founded solely upon a settlement made, in the year 1805, upon vacant land, which is the only pretension the claimant has to a title. We do therefore reject the claim.

No. 48.—MICHEL MAHIER claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing twenty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on each side by vacant land.

The claimant shows a petition (requête) to the Governor for this land, dated 1794, and a certificate of the commandant stating that the land is vacant, and may be granted without injury, &c. It does not appear that his petition was ever acted upon or seen by the Governor. He also claims under a settlement right; but, it appearing that the land was not inhabited or cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, or before, either by the claimant, or any one for him, we are of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 51.—ELENOR FRANTHAM, widow of Martin Frantham, claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres, and bounded on each side by vacant lands.

This claim is founded on a settlement made by Martin Trantham, the claimant's husband, by permission of the commandant of the district, which permission was given in consequence of a direction in writing from Governor Salcedo, in the year 1802, to the commandant, to permit said Trantham to settle on any vacant land in his district. It appears, from affidavits produced by the claimant, that Martin Trantham, her husband, did, in the year 1802, clear and cultivate a small part of the tract now claimed; but it does not appear that the claimant or her husband did actually inhabit and cultivate the land on the 20th December, 1803; on the contrary, it appears, from part of the evidence produced in support of the claim, that they did not live on the land, but cultivated a small part of it. We are therefore of opinion, the requisitions of the act of Congress not having been complied with, that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 52.—WILLIAM STARKS claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land of William Cunningham, and on the other by vacant land.

This claim is founded upon a petition (requête) to the Governor for this land, in the year 1795, with the certificate of the commandant stating the land to be vacant, and that it might be granted without injury, &c. It does not appear that the Governor ever acted upon or saw the petition. There are also produced affidavits, stating that Alexis Hebert, under whose title the present claimant holds, was put in possession of this land by the commandant, in the year 1795. But it appearing that the land was never inhabited or cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 58.—JOSEPH JAFFRION claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing ten arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Pierre Landreno, and on the lower by land of the claimant.

The claimant, in the year 1777, petitioned Governor Galvez for this land; in 1778, the Governor issued an order to the commandant of the district, directing him to put the claimant in possession of the land. But it appears that he did not remain on the land long before he was forced to abandon it, by reason of the inundation of the river, and settled himself on other lands; and that he has never resumed possession of it until since the change of Government. We are therefore of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 63.—FRANCIS HACKETT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing twelve arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land claimed by Joseph Sharp, and on the other by land claimed by _____

The claimant produces, in support of this claim, the affidavits of different persons, stating that Joseph Sharp, from whom the claimant purchased this land, was put in possession of it by the commandant of the district about the year 1781; that he had made a levée on the land, and that, for about three years prior to that time, (the 25th of December, 1806,) he had had a person actually residing on it: but, it appearing in evidence that the land was never inhabited or cultivated either by the aforesaid Sharp, or any one for him, until after the 20th December, 1803, we are therefore of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 66.—THOMAS CRAPPER claims a tract of land, being part of a second depth, situate about seventy arpents back from the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and containing two hundred superficial acres, and bounded on one side by land of Auguste Richard, and on the other by land of Pierre Breau.

The claimant purchased this part of a second depth, in the year 1805, from Felix Athanas Darden, but he has produced no manner of evidence whatever to show that said Darden had a title to the land. It appearing that the land was never inhabited or cultivated until since the 20th December, 1803, we are of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 94.—PIERRE ALLAIN, JUN. claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth belonging to Pierre Allain, Sen., and situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville; and the aforesaid second depth containing five hundred and ninety-four and forty-two hundredths superficial acres.

In the year 1787 the claimant petitioned Governor Miro to grant him this tract of land, which is situated immediately at the end of a tract of land forty arpents deep, belonging to the claimant's father, and to be bounded by the lines of his father's land, and continued to the extent of a second depth of forty arpents. The Governor refused to grant him the land, because the second depth ought to be granted to the front proprietor only; and there being no other evidence of title, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 100.—JOSE LEGENDRE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land of the widow Batista Legendre, and on the other by land of Mr. Hebert.

The claimant produces, in support of this claim, the affidavit of two inhabitants of the district, stating that, about the year 1787, the claimant was put in possession of this land by the Spanish commandant; that he made a levée and other improvements on it, and resided on it for a few years, when he was forced to abandon it by reason of the inundation of the river; and that the land has always been considered by the inhabitants of the district as his property; but he claims no other title than a short time of possession, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer. The land having been abandoned for a great length of time, and possession never resumed until long since the change of Government, we are of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 108.—SIMON MELANSON claims a second concession or depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of four and a half arpents front, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and bounded on the upper side by land of Gregoire Melanson, and on the lower by land of Joseph Hebert.

The claimant, being owner of the first depth of forty arpents, and desirous of obtaining an additional concession, for the purpose of being supplied with timber, petitioned the Intendant General of the province, in the year 1802, to grant him a second depth for that purpose; which petition was accompanied with a certificate of the commandant, stating the land to be vacant, &c. It does not appear that the petition has been in any manner acted upon by the Intendant; we are therefore of opinion that this claim to a second depth ought to be rejected.

No. 109.—CHARLES HEBERT claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou Plaquemines, in the county of Iberville, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Leblanc, and on the lower by vacant land.

In the year 1801 the claimant petitioned the Intendant General of the province for this land, for the purpose of establishing his children; and his petition was accompanied with the certificate of the commandant, stating that the land was vacant, having been abandoned about sixteen years before. In the year 1802 there were some directions given by the Intendant to the commandant to make inquiry as to the pretensions of the claimant to a grant, but it does not appear that he ever made any final decree. And it appearing that the land was not inhabited or cultivated until since the 20th December, 1803, we are of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 112.—MICHEL LAMBREMONT claims a second concession or depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of five arpents and nineteen toises front, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Aubry Dupuis, and on the lower by land of Jean Dupuis.

The claimant, being owner of the first depth of forty arpents, and desirous of obtaining an additional concession, for the purpose of being supplied with timber, petitioned the Intendant General, on the 22d of September, 1799, to grant him a second depth for that purpose; which petition was accompanied with the certificate of the commandant, stating it to be vacant, &c. It does not appear that the petition has in any manner been acted upon or seen by the Intendant; we are therefore of opinion that this claim to a second concession ought to be rejected.

No. 116.—THE WIDOW OF LOUIS LEGENDRE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by the heirs of Jean Marie Trahan, and on the lower by land claimed by Daniel Benoit.

The claimant produces, in support of this claim, the affidavit of two inhabitants of the district, stating that Louis Legendre, the deceased husband of the claimant, was put in possession of this land about the year 1787, by the commandment of the district; that he made improvements and a levée on the land, and resided on it some years, when he was forced to abandon it by reason of the inundation of the river; and that it has always been considered by the inhabitants of the district as his property. But the land having been abandoned for so great a length of time, and possession never resumed until since the change of Government; and it having been customary, and almost invariably the case under the Spanish Government, to obtain other lands in lieu of those abandoned; we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 120.—FRANCIS MAYEUX claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing two arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land of Simon Lacour, and on the other by land of Jacques Larche.

The claimant produces, in support of this claim, the affidavit of two inhabitants of the district, stating it to be within their knowledge that the claimant purchased the land about twenty-six or twenty-seven years ago, at a sale of the estate of Madame Pierre Jaffrion, deceased, and that he had quietly possessed the same ever since, until that date, (the 27th December, 1806.) But there being incontrovertible evidence that the original proprietor of the land was forced to abandon it, by reason of the inundation of the river, between twenty-five and thirty years ago, and that possession had never been resumed until some time since the change of Government, we are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 123.—PIERRE L'EGLISE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing sixteen arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land of François Moreau, and on the other by land of J. B. Rabelais.

The claimant purchased this land, in the year 1806, from the heirs of Jean Pierre Darquilon, and produces, in support of his claim, the affidavit of two of the inhabitants of the district, stating that it was within their knowledge that Jean Pierre Darquilon was proprietor of, and did inhabit and cultivate this land upwards of twenty-five years ago, and that it had always been considered as his property ever since that period, until the time of making the affidavit, (on the 23th December, 1806.) But there being incontrovertible evidence that the land was abandoned, by reason of the inundation of the river, upwards of twenty-five years ago, and that possession had never since been resumed until after the change of Government, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 124.—PIERRE L'EGLISE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on each side by land claimed by Belony Chately.

The claimant produces, in support of his claim, the affidavit of two inhabitants of the district, stating that it was within their knowledge that Baptiste Lemoine, from whom the claimant purchased the land in the year 1806, was proprietor of, and did inhabit and cultivate the same upwards of twenty-five years before that date, (the 23th December, 1806,) and that it had always been considered as his property. But there being positive evidence of the abandonment of it for upwards of twenty-five years, we are, for the reasons assigned in the preceding claim, which equally apply to the present, of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 125.—PIERRE L'EGLISE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing eight arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the one side by land claimed by Mr. Moreau, and on the other by land claimed by Louis Gremillon.

The claimant produces, in support of this claim, the affidavit of two inhabitants of the district, stating that it is within their knowledge that Joseph Dufriend, from whom the claimant purchased this land in the year 1806, was proprietor of, and did inhabit and cultivate the same upwards of twenty-five years before that date, (the 23th December, 1806,) and that it had always since been considered as his property. But there being incontrovertible evidence of the abandonment of it upwards of twenty-five years ago, we are, for the reasons assigned in claim No. 123 of the same claimant, and which equally apply to the present, of opinion that his claim to this land ought to be rejected.

No. 142.—MARTIN TUNOIR claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing eight arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of ———, and on the lower by land of Jean Baptiste Tunoir.

The claimant pretends title to this land by virtue of a deed made to him by the inhabitants of Pointe Coupée, dated the 8th of October, 1806; the inhabitants claimed and sold it, as belonging to them in common, for having made the levée, at the upper part of Pointe Coupée, by which they pretend that the land was reclaimed. This being altogether an assumed title on the part of the inhabitants, the Board reject the claim in toto.

No. 151.—JEAN BAPTISTE TUNOIR claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Hypolite Baron, and on the lower by land claimed by P. Bacon.

The claimant states that he purchased this land from Marguerite Simon, in the year 1802, but he produces no manner of evidence in support of the claim. And it appearing in evidence to the Board that the land has, for a great length of time, been abandoned, and possession never resumed until after the change of Government, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 154.—JOSEPH ENNET claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing eighty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on each side by vacant lands.

This claim is founded upon a sale made by Louis Sauvage, an Indian, to the claimant of this land, in the year 1806. The Indian is, in the instrument of sale, stated to be the grandson of a chief who had a grant of the land from the Spanish Government; and as an evidence of which are produced one or two certificates, not sworn to, certifying that it was within the knowledge of the person who gave the certificates that the said chief had a grant for the land from the Spanish Government. These are the only pretensions that the claimant has to a title; and there being no such grant on record, we do therefore reject his claim.

No. 161.—ZENO LACOUR claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing seven arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on one side by land claimed by Mr. Lemoine, and on the other by land claimed by Pierre Mouran.

The claimant purchased this land, in the year 1806, from Joseph Jaffrion, who purchased it from Messrs. Dufreme and Lemoine; and he produces no evidence whatever of title in the original proprietors. But it is in evidence before the Board that the land has been abandoned for a great length of time, and possession never resumed until since the change of Government. We are therefore of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 173.—MADELAINE and AGNES CLAUSE each claim a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville; both of which tracts contain ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and adjoining each other, and bounded on the upper side by land of ———, and on the lower by land of ———.

The claimants produce, in support of their claims, an order from Governor Galvez, in the year 1778, to the commandant, directing him to put François Clause, the father of the claimants, in possession of ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, which he had petitioned for; they also produce the affidavits of different persons, stating that about twenty-three or twenty-four years before that time, (1806,) they had seen said Clause on the land, which he had inhabited and cultivated for many years previously. But it appearing in evidence to the Board that the land has for a great number of years been abandoned, and never claimed again until within a few years past, since the change of Government, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 186.—CHARLES DUFOUR, JUN., claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land claimed by Joseph Decuir, and on the other by land of Baptiste Lemoine.

The claimant produces, in support of this claim, the affidavits of two of the inhabitants of the district, stating that Auguste Jumeau, from whom the claimant purchased the land in 1806, was the proprietor of the same about twenty-five years before that time, (1806) and that he did inhabit and cultivate the land for a long time. But it being in evidence to the Board that the land has been abandoned for more than twenty-five years, by reason of the inundation of the river, and that it has never been claimed again until some time after the 20th December, 1803, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 187.—EBENEZER COOLY claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing twenty arpents in front, ten on each side of the bayou Atanache, and forty in depth, bounded on the upper side by land claimed by the claimant, and on the lower by vacant lands.

It appears that one Joseph Bourgeat made a settlement on this tract of land upwards of forty years ago, and resided on it some years; one witness, a kinsman of the claimant, says ten or twelve consecutive years. This part of the river was settled by a number of families, of which Bourgeat's was one, about the same time; and a few years afterwards they abandoned it, by reason of a great inundation from the river, and settled elsewhere. Neither Bourgeat nor any of his family has ever resumed possession of the land, or exercised any act of ownership over it. The claimant purchased this land of Bourgeat's widow, in the year 1806. We consider that Bourgeat forfeited all claim to this land, after having left it and established himself elsewhere, having no other title than a naked possession; and it is probable that neither Bourgeat, nor his heirs, nor any person claiming under him, would have pretended any claim to this land, had not its value been so much enhanced by the change of Government. We have no doubt that, according to the usages of the Spanish Government, the Governor would not have hesitated to grant this land to any other individual, with a full knowledge of Bourgeat's claim, after he had left it and settled elsewhere. We are of opinion that the claim is unwarranted by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of the United States; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 194.—JOHN DELOY claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of —, and on the lower by land of —.

The claimant produces, in support of this claim, the petition (requête) of François Clause for this land, dated the 23d of January, 1771, and an order from Governor Unzaga, in the same year, directing the commandant of the district to put him in possession of ten arpents front, and two in depth. This appears to be part of the land claimed in No. 175, by the daughters of said Clause, which we have already rejected; and the same evidence appearing in this claim, to wit, abandonment for a great number of years, and not being claimed again until after the 20th December, 1803, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 201.—MADAME JEAN BAPTISTE LACOUR claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six hundred superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of —, and on the lower by land of —.

The claimant states, in her notice, that her claim to this land is founded on a grant from the Spanish Government; but of this she produces no evidence, nor of any other kind of title. And it appears in evidence to the Board, that, if ever the land was settled, it has been for a great length of time abandoned, and never claimed again, or possession resumed, until after the 20th December, 1803. We are therefore of opinion that her claim ought to be rejected.

No. 209. ALEXIS CLOTIER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing four arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of —, and on the lower by land of —.

The claimant produces an order of Governor Galvez, in the year 1777, to the commandant of the district, directing him to put Antoine Provost in possession of three arpents front, and forty in depth, which he had petitioned for; but he does not show in what manner the land has been transferred to him. It appearing in evidence that the land was abandoned by the original proprietor a great number of years past, by reason of the inundation of the river, and never again claimed until since the change of Government, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 212.—FRANÇOIS CHESSE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing four arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of —, and on the lower by land of —.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1806, from Francis and Augustin Allain, who purchased it, in the year 1777, from Augustin Roy; but he produces no manner of evidence of title in those under whom he claims. It is in evidence to the Board that the land has been abandoned for upwards of twenty-five years, by reason of the inundation of the river, and never claimed again until since the 20th December, 1803; we are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 219.—MADAME ANTOINE PROVOST, alias LATOUR, claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing three arpents and one perch in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of —, and on the lower by land of —.

The claimant states in her notice that Antoine Provost, alias Latour, obtained for this land an order of survey, from Governor Galvez, in the year 1777. This appears to be the same land claimed in No. 209, by Alexis Clotier, which we have already rejected; and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that the land has been for a great number of years past abandoned, by reason of the inundation of the river, and never claimed, or possession resumed, until since the 20th of December, 1803, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 225.—AUGUSTIN BOURGEAT claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing twenty-four arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of —, and on the lower by land of —.

The claimant states, in his notice, that he purchased this land from Madame Bourgeat, and that the same was inhabited and cultivated by Joseph Bourgeat, her husband, upwards of twenty-five years ago; but he produces no manner of evidence of title in those under whom he claims. It appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that, if ever the land was settled, it has been abandoned for more than twenty-five years, and possession never resumed until since the change of Government, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 227.—PHILIP BIDON claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing forty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by Fausse river.

It appears that this land was sold, in the year 1774, by Pierre Perrot to Joseph Hebert, the uncle of the claimant, and from whom he claims it; but in what manner he does not show, nor does he produce any evidence whatever of a title in either Perrot or Hebert. And it appearing in evidence to the Board that, if the land was formerly settled it was abandoned for a great length of time past, and possession never resumed until after the 20th December, 1803, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 257.—CHARLOTTE LARCHE, wife of J. P. Manchassé, claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing twenty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the one side by land of Julian Peydras, and on the other by the bayou Charlotte.

The claimant produces, in support of her claim, the affidavits of two inhabitants of the district, stating it to be within their knowledge that, about twenty-five or thirty years before, Charles Larche and his wife, the parents of the claimant, lived on this land, and that the same has always since been considered as their property. But it appearing that the land was abandoned for a great length of time, and possession never resumed until after the change of Government, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 272.—PIERRE RIVET claims a second concession or depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville.

This claim to a second depth is founded solely upon a petition (requete) to the Intendant General of the province, in the year 1802, accompanied with the commandant's certificate that the land was vacant, &c. It does not appear that the petition was ever in any manner acted upon or seen by the Intendant. We are of opinion that this claim to a second depth ought not to be confirmed under any law, custom, or usage of the Spanish Government; and do therefore reject it.

No. 286.—BERNARD DAUTERIVE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Gregoire Melanson, and on the lower by land of Thomas Hebert.

The claimant shows no other evidence of title to this land than a sale to him from John McHough and William Webb, in the year 1799. But it being fully proven that this land has been abandoned for a great length of time, and has never been inhabited or cultivated since, until after the 20th December, 1803, either by the claimant, or any one for him, or any one under whom he holds, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 287.—ALEXANDER PLANCHE claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing twelve arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Charles Dufour, Jun., and on the lower by land claimed by Julian Poydras.

It appears that this land was, at a judicial sale of the same made in the year 1771, sold to one Simon Lacour, and by his heirs, in the year 1806, conveyed to the present claimant. It appears, also, that Lacour abandoned the land for more than twenty-five years, by reason of a great inundation from the river, and settled elsewhere, and that it has never been inhabited or cultivated since, until after the 20th December, 1803. We have no doubt that, according to the usages of the Spanish Government, the Governor would not have hesitated to grant this land to any other individual, with a full knowledge of Lacour's claim, after he had left it and settled elsewhere. We are of opinion that the claim is unwarranted by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government; or any law of the United States; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 278.—PIERRE PAILLAUX claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing six arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on one side by land of Joes Legendre, and on the other by land of Isidore Juillier.

It appears that Baptiste Legendre, whose widow the present claimant married, and now claims in her right, was put in possession of this land about the year 1787, by the commandant of the district; that he resided a short time upon it, when he abandoned it, by reason of the inundation of the river, and settled elsewhere; and the land has never been inhabited or cultivated since that period, until after the 20th December, 1803, either by Legendre, or those that claim under him. We are of opinion, for reasons before assigned in claims similarly situated, that this claim is unwarranted by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of the United States; and do therefore reject it.

No. 311.—JOHN MYERS claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou known by the name of the bayou Jacques, in the county of Iberville, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Antoine Lanclos, Sen., and on the lower by land of Jean Bte. Villars, a free negro.

The claimant states that Felix Brand purchased this tract of land, in the year 1802, of the Chetimachas tribe of Indians, who at that time occupied under the authority of the Spanish Government; that this purchase was made by the consent and authority of the Intendant; and that the claimant has since purchased the right of Felix Brand to the land. There is no evidence, either written or verbal, to show that the Intendant even authorized such sale, had he even the power to do so; and the Indians, under the Spanish Government, were not permitted to sell the lands they occupied without the act of Government concurring in the sale, and granting the land to the purchaser. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 312.—ANTOINE GUILLEAU claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou Placquemines, in the county of Iberville, containing ten arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Pierre Gruner, and on the lower by land belonging to the Chetimachas tribe of Indians.

The claimant produces, in support of his claim, an order of survey, made by the Baron de Carondelet, in the year 1797, in favor of Joseph Bertonier, and states that he purchased the land of Bertonier; but it appearing in evidence to the Board that the land was not inhabited and cultivated on the 1st day of October, 1800, as required by the act of Congress, in cases of incomplete titles, nor until after the 20th day of December, 1803, we do therefore reject the claim.

No. 314.—ALEXANDRE LANDRY claims a second concession or depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 314 among the confirmed claims.

This claim to a second depth is founded solely upon a petition (requete) to the Intendant General of the province in the year 1782, with the commandant's certificate that the land was vacant, and might be granted without injury, &c. Had the Intendant even a right at that period to grant the land, he has never acted upon the petition, nor does it appear that it has ever been presented to him. We are of opinion that this claim to a second concession ought not to be confirmed under any law, custom, or usage of the Spanish Government; and do therefore reject it.

No. 318.—JAMES MATHER, Jr. claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 318 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant has no other foundation for his title to the second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from the second depth. According to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government has invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or order of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We do therefore reject the claim.

No. 320.—JEAN BTE. VILLARS, a free negro, claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Jacques, in the county of Iberville, containing five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of John Mayers, and on the lower by land of Jean Troxelles.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1805 from Dominique Bourgeois, who purchased it, together with a large tract, from the Chetimachas tribe of Indians, in 1804. The Indians, under the Spanish Government, were not permitted to sell the lands they occupied, without the act of Government concurring in the sale, and granting the land to the purchaser. We consider that, since the cession of the territory to the United States, the Indians had no right to sell this land without the authority and concurrence of Government; and are therefore of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 321.—JEAN TROXELLES claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Jacques, in the county of Iberville, containing five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Bte. Villars, and on the lower by land of Antoine Lanclos.

This is part of the tract of land mentioned in the preceding claim to have been purchased in the year 1804, by Dominique Bourgeois, from the Chetimachas tribe of Indians. We are of opinion that the Indians had no right to sell this land without the authority and concurrence of the Government of the United States, for the reasons we have assigned in the preceding claim, No. 320; and that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 325.—ANTOINE LANCLOS, Sen. claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Jacques, in the county of Iberville, containing four arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Troxelles, and on the lower by land of Francis Nero.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1805 from Dominique Bourgeois, who purchased it, together with a larger tract, in 1804, from the Chetimachas tribe of Indians. We are of opinion, for the reasons assigned in claim No. 320, which is part of the same land purchased by Bourgeois, that the Indians had no right to sell this land without the authority and concurrence of the Government of the United States, and that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 338.—JOACHIM ESCALINE claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 338 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant has no other foundation for his title to this second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from the second depth. According to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor could, by any act of his own, acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government has invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We do therefore reject the claim.

No. 345.—JACQUES DE VILLIERS claims a tract of land, situate on the east side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville, containing forty-seven arpents in front, and such depth as forms a superficies of eight hundred and fifty-four arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of the claimant, and on the lower by land of Urbain Gagné.

This claim is founded solely upon a petition (requête) to the Governor of the province, in the year 1797, with the certificate of the commandant of the district stating the land to be vacant, and that it might be granted without injury, &c. It does not appear that the petition has in any manner been acted upon, or ever seen by the Governor; and as it appears that the land has never been inhabited or cultivated until after the 20th of December, 1803, we are of opinion that the claim ought not to be confirmed under any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any act of Congress; and do therefore reject it.

No. 350.—JOSEPH ORILLON claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou Plaquemines, in the county of Iberville, containing twenty arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Alexander Darden, and on the lower by vacant land.

This claim is founded solely upon a petition (requête) to the Intendant General, in the year 1799, with the commandant's certificate stating that the land was vacant, and might be granted without injury, &c. It does not appear that the petition was ever in any manner acted upon or seen by the Intendant; and it appearing that the land was never inhabited or cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 357.—SALVADOR PAMIAS claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing eight arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Charlotte Larche, and on the lower by land claimed by François Moran.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1803, from the agent of Jean Baptiste Desmaret; but he produces no evidence whatever in support of Desmaret's title; and it appearing in evidence that the former proprietor of the land abandoned it for upwards of twenty-five years, by reason of the inundation of the river, and settled elsewhere, and that it has never been inhabited or cultivated until since the 20th December, 1803, either by Desmaret, or any one for him, or by the present claimant, we are of opinion that the claim is unwarranted by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of the United States; and do accordingly reject it.

No. 360.—ISIDORE LEBAURE claims a second concession or depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Iberville.

The claimant states that he petitioned the Governor of Baton Rouge for this second depth, in the year 1799, and that he directed the commandant to put the claimant in possession of the land until the approbation of the Intendant General should be obtained; that the papers were sent to the Intendant for approbation, and were by some means lost; but of this he produces no evidence; and it appearing that the proceedings were never sanctioned by the Intendant, we are of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

No. 363.—JAMES SMITH YARBOROUGH claims a tract of land, situate in the county of Iberville, containing four hundred and forty-five superficial acres, and adjoining on one side the land of Jordan and James Yarbrough.

The claimant produces no manner of evidence whatever in support of this claim; and, although not claimed as a second concession, it appears to be immediately back of a tract claimed by him, and fronting on the bayou Manchack. It appears also that the land has never been inhabited or cultivated until since the 20th December, 1803. We are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 367.—DOMINIQUE ACOSTA claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Jacques, in the county of Iberville, containing two hundred and four superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land of Jean Troxelles, and on the lower by land of Mr. Robichaux.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1807, from the Chetimachas tribe of Indians. The Indians, under the Spanish Government, were not permitted to sell the lands they occupied without the act of Government concurring in the sale, and granting the land to the purchaser. We consider that, since the cession of the territory to the United States, they had no right to sell this land without the authority and concurrence of Government; and we are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 368.—JEAN LOUIS CHAMPAIN, ANTHONY MAR-CHON, AND MADAME FRANÇOIS, as chiefs of the Chetimachas tribe of Indians, claim a tract of land, situate on the bayou Plaquemines, in the county of Iberville, and containing one thousand and twenty-three and nineteen hundredths superficial acres.

This tract of land has been for a long time settled by a number of families of the Chetimachas tribe of Indians, by permission of the Spanish Government. The present claimants are the chiefs of these families. Long since the change of Government, some speculators have prevailed on these families to part with their title to this land; and finding that the Indians could not convey a title in fee simple without the consent and concurrence of Government, they have taken a lease of it for ninety-nine years. Since the making of this lease, the Indians have quit the possession of this land, and settled on other land in its neighborhood belonging to the public; and, although this claim is filed in the name of the chiefs of these families, it is no act of theirs, and is intended only for the benefit of the lessees. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 369.—JEAN TROXELLES claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Jacques, in the county of Iberville, containing one hundred and eighty-six and sixty-six hundredths superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Francis Nero, and on the lower by land belonging to the Chetimachas tribe of Indians.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1807, from the Chetimachas tribe of Indians. The Indians, under the Spanish Government, were not permitted to sell the lands they occupied without the act of Government concurring in the sale, and granting the land to the purchaser. We consider that, since the cession of the territory to the United States, they had no right to sell this land without the authority and concurrence of Government; and are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 370.—ATHANAS DARDEN claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Plaquemines, in the county of Iberville, containing two hundred and three superficial acres, and bounded on one side by land belonging to the Chetimachas tribe of Indians.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1807, from the Chetimachas tribe of Indians; and the claim being in every way similar to the preceding, No. 369, we are of opinion that it ought to be rejected.

No. 372.—ANNA BERRY claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres.

The claimant pretends title to this land in right of a settlement made prior to the 20th December, 1803, by one John White, the former husband of the claimant; but she produces no evidence of permission from the proper Spanish officer, nor any to prove that the land was actually inhabited and cultivated prior to the 20th December, 1803; and there being evidence that the land was not inhabited or cultivated until after that period, we are of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 375.—JEAN FRANÇOIS CHIBOIS claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou known by the name of Grand Bayou, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing two thousand superficial arpents, and adjoining on one side to lands claimed by Love Alexandre Rebout.

The only pretension which the claimant has to a title to this land is a requête, or petition, which he states to have been made to the Spanish Government, in the year 1797, with the certificate of the commandant stating that the land was vacant, and might be granted without injury, &c.; but of this he produces no evidence, written or verbal, nor does he even state that the petition was ever presented to the Governor: and it appearing that the land has never been inhabited or cultivated to this day, either by the claimant or any one for him, we are of opinion that the claim is unwarranted by any law, usage, or custom of the Spanish Government, or any law of Congress; and do therefore reject it.

No. 376.—LOVE ALEXANDRE REBOUT claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou known by the name of the Grand Bayou, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing one thousand superficial arpents, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Jean François Chibois.

This claim is in every respect founded on the same pretensions as the preceding, No. 375, claimed by Jean François Chibois; we do therefore reject it.

No. 377.—ZENO BOURCEAT claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing three arpents and one perch in front, and eighty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by François Mayeux, and on the lower by land claimed by Alexis Clotier.

The claimant purchased this land from Pierre Latour, who is stated to have purchased it formerly from one Larche, who is said to have obtained a grant from the Spanish Government for the second depth, and that the evidence of the grant has been lost; but of this there is no proof whatever; and there is positive evidence that the first settler of the land abandoned it for more than twenty-five years, by reason of the inundation of the river, and settled elsewhere, and that the land has never been inhabited or cultivated since that period, until after the 20th December, 1803, either by the claimant, or those under whom he holds: we are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 378.—JEAN BAPTISTE MAJOR claims a tract of land, situate on the west side of the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing six arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Belony Chately, and on the lower by vacant land.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1803, from Labarthe Delisle, who is stated to have purchased it from the agent of Marie Louise Courtesy, the original proprietor. It appears in evidence, that the first settler of this land abandoned it for more than twenty-five years, by reason of the inundation of the river, and settled elsewhere, and that the land has never been inhabited or cultivated since that period, until after the 20th December, 1803, either by the first settler, or any person claiming under her. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 53.—JULIAN POYBRAS claims a tract of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the county of Pointe Coupée, containing twelve arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on one side by land claimed by Charles Larche, and on the other by land claimed by Mr. Duplissime.

The claimant purchased this land in the year 1775, from Paul Moro, who does not appear to have had more than a possession by the permission of the proper officer. Some time after the present claimant purchased this and, he was compelled to leave it, by reason of the inundation of the river: he afterwards, it appears, placed a tenant on the land prior to the 20th December, 1803.

We consider that his having been off the land for so many years (more than twenty-five) was a strong proof of his having abandoned it; and of his last settlement, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, he cannot avail himself, as a donation, under the act of Congress, because he has received grants of other lands from the Spanish Government. We are therefore of opinion that his claim ought to be rejected.

Rejected claims from the register of A. Trouard, Deputy Register for the county of German Coast.

No. 6.—MADAME MILLET, widow of Jean Millet, claims a second depth of twenty-one arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, which we have already confirmed to her in No. 6 among the confirmed claims.

This second depth of twenty-one arpents was sold, together with the front and first depth, to the husband of the claimant, in the year 1782, by Jean Mayer; but the claimant shows no other evidence of title to this part of the land in Mayer than his having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from this second depth. According to the laws, customs, and usages of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to land further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government has invariably refused to grant the land to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 23.—ALEXANDRE LABRANCHE claims a second depth, extending back to the lake, and lying immediately behind a front or first depth of forty arpents, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 23 among the confirmed claims.

This second depth, extending back to the lake, appears to have been sold to the claimant, together with the front and first depth; but there is produced no evidence of title to it in those under whom he holds. According to the laws, customs, and usages of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor could, by any act of his own, acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although that Government has invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 35.—ACHILLE TROUARD claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of twelve arpents front, part of a larger front, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 35 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant has no other foundation for his title to this second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from this second depth. According to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government has invariably refused to grant the second depth to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or warrant of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We are therefore of opinion that this claim to a second depth ought to be rejected.

No. 46.—MADAME BEGUEL claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a front and first depth, which we have already confirmed to her in No. 46 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant has no other foundation for her claim to this second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied herself with timber from this second depth. We are of opinion, for reasons assigned in the preceding claim, No. 35, and other claims similarly situated, that the claim to this second depth ought to be rejected.

No. 73.—MADAME TREPAGNER claims a second depth, extending back to the lake, and lying immediately back of a front or first depth of six and a quarter arpents front, part of a larger front, which we have already confirmed to her in No. 73 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant purchased this second depth, together with fifteen arpents front, in the year 1806, from Antoine Foucher; but she shows no title in Foucher to the second depth. We are of opinion, for the reasons assigned in the claim No. 23, which equally apply to the present, that the claim to a second depth ought to be rejected.

No. 65.—MADAME HOTTAR claims a second concession of forty arpents in depth, and lying immediately back of a front or first depth, which we have already confirmed to her in No. 65 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant's title to this second concession is founded upon a decree of the Intendant General of the province, in favor of the claimant, in the year 1801. Unless the Government of the United States consider that the Intendant had a right to grant the land subsequent to the 1st day of October, 1800, we are of opinion that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 79.—MATTHIAS ORY claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of the first depth of one arpent and a half front, part of a larger front, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 79 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant purchased this second depth, together with the front and first depth, in the year 1791, from Jean Treguer; but he shows no evidence of title in Treguer to the second depth. We are of opinion that this claim to a second depth ought to be rejected.

No. 87.—BERNARD BERNOUDY claims a second depth, extending back to the lake, and lying immediately behind a front or first depth of forty arpents, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 87 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant produces no evidence in support of his claim to the second depth; we are therefore of opinion, for reasons assigned in claims similarly situated, that this claim ought to be rejected.

No. 91.—ADAM VICTER claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 91 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant has no other foundation for his title to this second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from the second depth. According to the laws, customs, and usages of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor, by any act of his own, could acquire a right to land further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although that Government has invariably refused to grant the land to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or order of survey could confer a title or right to the land. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 100.—ANTOINE FOLSE claims a tract of land, situate on the Lac des Allemands, in the county of German Coast, containing seven thousand five hundred superficial arpents.

It appears that the claimant made an establishment on this land prior to the year 1800, and that he has inhabited and cultivated it since that period, until after the 20th December, 1803. He does not pretend that he ever obtained a title from the Spanish Government which would give him a right to the quantity of land here claimed. We are of opinion that, according to the act of Congress, he is entitled to the quantity of six hundred and forty acres, which we have already confirmed to him; and do therefore reject the balance of his claim.

No. 101.—MANUEL ANDRY claims a second depth of forty arpents, lying immediately back of a first depth of forty arpents, which we have already confirmed to him in No. 101 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant has no other foundation for his title to this second depth than having occupied the front and first depth, and having occasionally supplied himself with timber from the second depth. According to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, no front proprietor could, by any act of his own, acquire a right to lands further back than the ordinary depth of forty arpents; and although the Spanish Government has invariably refused to grant the land to any other than the front proprietor, yet nothing short of a grant or order of survey from the Governor could confer a title or right to the land. We are therefore of opinion that the claim ought to be rejected.

Decisions of the Board of Commissioners for the eastern district of the Territory of Orleans of land claims registered in the books of Bela Hubbard, Deputy Register for the county of La Fourche.

No. 1.—JEAN BAPTISTE LANDRY AND ALEXANDRE LANDRY claim a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing six arpents and twelve toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Alin Bourg, and on the lower by land of Madame Bourg.

This land was surveyed in the year 1779, in favor of Joseph Guedry, who obtained a complete grant for the same, in the year 1792, from the Baron de Carondelet; under which grant the present claimants hold, by virtue of successive regular transfers. Confirmed.

No. 2.—PIERRE PLE claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing six arpents and seventeen toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Simon Landry, and on the lower by land of Amable Landry.

This land was surveyed in the year 1790 for Juan Pedro Landry, under whose title the claimant holds, by virtue of successive sales. The land having been inhabited and cultivated ever since the above period, until on and after the 20th of December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 3.—ETIENNE GUITROS claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing on each side of the bayou a front of forty arpents, and depth of four arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Cheram, and on the lower by land of Valentin Saulet.

It appears that the claimant obtained a regular warrant of survey for this land from the Spanish Government, in the year 1794, and that the same has been continually inhabited and cultivated ever since that period. Confirmed.

No. 4.—JEAN PIERRE GUEDRY claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by the land of Olivier Guedry, and on the lower by land of Louis Estiven.

It appears that this land was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 5.—PIERRE DASPIC ST. AMAND claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing eleven arpents and twelve toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Savo, and on the lower by land of Louis Achez.

It appears that the land now claimed was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was continually inhabited and cultivated by those under whom the claimant holds for more than ten consecutive years next preceding. Confirmed.

No. 6.—AUGUSTE VERRER claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing three hundred and forty-seven superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Alexis Tollet, and on the lower by land of Nicholas Verret.

This land was surveyed in the year 1792, in favor of the claimant, who obtained a complete grant for the same from the Spanish Government in the year 1796. Confirmed.

No. 7.—PEDRO BLANCHARD claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing four arpents and twenty toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Louis Blanchard, and on the lower by land of Lorenzo Blanchard.

This land was surveyed for the claimant, by order of Governor Miro, in the year 1790; and having been inhabited and cultivated ever since, until on and after the 20th of December, 1803: Confirmed.

No. 8.—ANTONIO MOULARD claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing six arpents and seventeen toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Pedro Gotrau, and on the lower by land of Carlos Bourg.

This land was surveyed in the year 1790, for the claimant, by order of Governor Miro; and having continued to be inhabited and cultivated ever since, until on and after the 20th December, 1803: Confirmed.

No. 9.—JOSEPH COMEAU claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing five arpents and twenty-six toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Amand Landry, and on the lower by land of Paul Landry.

This land was surveyed for the claimant, in the year 1792, by order of the Spanish Government; and having continued to be inhabited and cultivated ever since that period, until on and after the 20th December, 1803: Confirmed.

No. 10.—NICHOLAS VERRET claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing twelve arpents and a half in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Auguste Verret, and on the lower by Santiago Verret.

This land was surveyed for the claimant, by an order of the Spanish Government, in the year 1790; and having been continually inhabited and cultivated ever since that period, until on and after the 20th December, 1803: Confirmed.

No. 11.—JEAN DAIGLE claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing six arpents twenty-seven toises and five feet in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Aucoin, and on the lower by land of Jean Richard.

The land was surveyed for the claimant, by virtue of an order from the Spanish Government, in the year 1790; and having been continually inhabited and cultivated ever since that period, until on and after the 20th December, 1803: Confirmed.

No. 12.—FABIEN GUILLOT claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing one hundred and ninety-seven superficial arpents, and bounded on the upper side by land of Joseph Hebert, and on the lower by land of Francisco Blanchard.

This land was regularly granted in the year 1791, by Governor Miro, to Maria Dugas, representing the succession of her deceased husband, Prosper Giroir. The present claimant purchased of the aforesaid Maria Dugas. Confirmed.

No. 13.—PIERRE BOURG claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing five arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, the lines opening three degrees, and bounded on the upper side by land of Mathurin Ossitet, and on the lower by land of Charles Forest.

This land was surveyed for Jean Charles Ossitet, by virtue of an order of Governor Miro, in the year 1790. The present claimant purchased from said Ossitet; and the land having been inhabited and cultivated ever since the above period, until on and after the 20th December, 1803: Confirmed.

No. 14.—JEAN BAPTISTE BERGERON claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing thirteen arpents in front, and forty arpents in depth, and opening thirteen degrees, and bounded on the upper side by land of Baptiste Bourgeois, and on the lower by land of Mathurin Leblanc.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Board that this land was settled, by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th day of December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day: Confirmed.

No. 15.—VALENTINE SAULET claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing on each side of the bayou a front of one hundred and twenty arpents, and a depth of four arpents, and bounded on one side by land of Guitros, and on the other by land of Jean Buafinal, a free man of color.

This claim is founded upon two different orders of survey: the one obtained by the claimant from the Spanish Government, in the year 1790; and the other obtained by Alexander Daspit St. Amand (under whose title the claimant holds by purchase,) in the year 1793; and it appearing that the land has been inhabited and cultivated ever since the respective dates of the aforesaid orders of survey. Confirmed.

No. 16.—MARIE BLANCHARD, widow of Mathurin Trahan, claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing four arpents and three-quarters in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Madame Joseph Moise, and on the lower by land of Laurent Blanchard.

This is part of a tract of land of nine arpents and three-quarters front, on the ordinary depth, surveyed in favor of Mathurin Trahan, deceased, (the husband of the claimant,) by order of Governor Miro, in the year 1790. The land having been inhabited and cultivated ever since that period, until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 17.—LAURENT BLANCHARD claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing five arpents in front, and forty in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Marie Blanchard, and on the lower by land of Francis Trillons.

This is part of the tract of land mentioned in the preceding, No. 16, surveyed in the year 1790, for Mathurin Trahan, deceased, and by his widow, Marie Blanchard, conveyed to the present claimant; and having been inhabited and cultivated ever since the above period, until on and after the 20th December, 1803. Confirmed.

No. 18.—ELIAS BLANCHARD claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing three arpents and ten toises in front, and forty arpents in depth, and bounded on the upper side by land of Francisco Giroir, and on the lower by land of Madame Ambroise Dugas.

It appearing that the land now claimed was settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th day of December, 1803, and that the same was inhabited and cultivated on that day by those under whom the present claimant holds, the Board confirm the claim to the quantity of six hundred and forty acres, and reject the balance.

No. 347.—SAMUEL RUSSEL RICE claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Bœuf, in the county of La Fourche, containing six hundred and fifty-five and eighty hundredths superficial acres.

It appearing that the land now claimed was settled, by the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day by those under whom the present claimant holds, the Board confirm the claim to the quantity of six hundred and forty acres, and reject the balance.

No. 348.—SAMUEL RICE, Sen. claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, at the place usually called Coupén Island, containing six hundred and ninety-four hundredths superficial acres.

It appearing that this land was actually settled, by the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and that the same was inhabited and cultivated on that day by those under whom the claimant holds. Confirmed.

No. 460.—THOMAS ALLEN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the canal leading from the bayou La Fourche to lake Verret, and containing two hundred and ten superficial acres.

Gilbert Leblanc obtained a regular order of survey from the Baron de Carondelet, in the year 1787, for this land; the said Leblanc conveyed it to the present claimant; and the land having been inhabited and cultivated on the 1st of October, 1800. Confirmed.

No. 280.—JEAN BAPTISTE HENRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and eighty-six and sixty-eight hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side to land of Jean Baptiste Jaunier.

It appearing that the land now claimed was actually settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and that the same was inhabited and cultivated on that day. Confirmed.

Rejected claims from the books of Bela Hubbard, Deputy Register for the county of La Fourche.

No. 113.—JEAN DUGAT claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, containing one thousand seven hundred and thirty-seven and sixty-seven hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which have been confirmed to him in No. 113 among the confirmed claims.

This land is claimed in virtue of a settlement made prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803. We have already confirmed the claim to the quantity of six hundred and forty acres, and do therefore reject the balance claimed.

No. 252.—ÉDOUARD DAIGLE claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing one thousand three hundred and sixty-six and sixty-five hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which have been confirmed to him already in No. 252 among the confirmed claims.

This land is claimed by virtue of a settlement made, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803. We have already confirmed the claim to the quantity of six hundred and forty acres, as authorized by the act of Congress, and do therefore reject the balance.

No. 258.—JOSEPH MARLBROUGH claims a second depth of thirty arpents, lying immediately behind a front of six arpents and a depth of forty, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, and which we have confirmed to the claimant among the confirmed claims.

The claimant pretends no other title to this second depth than his being proprietor of the front and first depth, we therefore reject his claim.

No. 287.—JEAN GUILLOTTE claims a second depth of land, lying back of a front and first depth, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, and which we have confirmed to him in No. 287 among the confirmed claims.

The claimant pretends no other title to this second depth of land than the absurd one of its having been granted to him by one of the American deputy surveyors. We do therefore reject the claim as being entirely a feigned one.

No. 353.—PIERRE DASPIT ST. AMAND claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, containing one thousand and twenty-six and sixty-five hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which we have confirmed to him in No. 353 among the confirmed claims.

This land is claimed in virtue of a settlement prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivation on the 20th December, 1803. We have already confirmed the claim to the extent of six hundred and forty acres, and do therefore reject the balance.

No. 445.—JOSEPH CHERAMI claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing nine hundred and sixty superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which we have confirmed to him in No. 445 among the confirmed claims.

This claim is founded upon a settlement, by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803. We have already confirmed the claim to the quantity of six hundred and forty acres, and do therefore reject the balance.

No. 448.—JOSEPH CHERAMI claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing one thousand two hundred and ten superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which have been confirmed to him in No. 448 among the confirmed claims.

This claim is founded on a settlement, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803. We have already confirmed this claim to the extent of six hundred and forty acres, and therefore reject it as to the balance.

No. 473.—JANOT VOIZIN claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing seven hundred and fifty-five and sixty-six hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which have been confirmed in No. 473 among the confirmed claims.

This claim is founded upon a settlement made, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803. We have already confirmed this claim to the extent of six hundred and forty acres, and therefore reject the balance.

No. 486.—JOSEPH DAIGLE claims a tract of land, situate on the right bank of the bayou La Fourche, in the county of La Fourche, containing seven hundred and three and eighty-five hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which we have already confirmed to him in No. 486 among the confirmed claims.

This claim is founded upon a settlement made, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivation on the 20th of December, 1803. We have already confirmed the claim to the extent of six hundred and forty acres, and therefore reject it as to the balance.

No. 313.—JOSEPH M. BOUDREAU claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on both sides of the bayou Darbonne, and containing seven hundred and eleven and twenty-six hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which we have confirmed in No. 313 among the confirmed claims.

This claim is founded upon settlement, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and cultivation on that day. We have already confirmed the claim to the extent authorized by the act of Congress, and therefore reject the balance.

No. 338.—JEAN BAPTISTE VARDIN, for himself and his brothers, claims a tract of land, situate on each side of the bayou Darbonne, in the county of La Fourche, containing six hundred and twenty-six and thirty-six hundredths superficial acres.

The claimants state that they settled on this land about the year 1792 or 1793, and they show sufficient proof to substantiate the fact; but it also appears satisfactorily to the Board, that they left the land, and settled elsewhere, previous to the 1st of October, 1800, and have never resumed possession of it since. We are therefore of opinion the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 313.—JEAN BAPTISTE THEODORE HENRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on both sides of the bayou Darbonne, containing seven hundred and seventy-six and thirty-six hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which have been confirmed in No. 313 among the confirmed claims.

This claim is founded upon a settlement made, by the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and cultivation on that day. We have already confirmed the claim to the quantity of six hundred and forty acres, and therefore reject the balance.

No. 469.—MICHEL DEVAL claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on both sides of the bayou Darbonne, containing four hundred and six and twenty-four hundredths superficial acres.

The claimant pretends title to this land from his having gone on it in the year 1802, marked trees, and cleared a road; to which facts he produces one or two affidavits; but the land having never been inhabited and cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, we therefore reject the claim.

No. 496.—CHARLES BERGERON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on both sides of the bayou Darbonne, containing one thousand three hundred and thirty-four and fifty-eight hundredths superficial acres; six hundred and forty of which we have confirmed to him in No. 496, among the confirmed claims.

This claim is founded upon a settlement made, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and cultivation on that day. We have confirmed the claim to the extent of six hundred and forty acres, and therefore reject the balance.

No. 251.—ALEXANDRE LANDRY claims a second depth of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, and lying back of a front and first depth of the claimant, and containing five hundred and eighty-four and seventy hundredths superficial acres.

The claimant produces in support of this second depth, the certificate of the commandant of the district, who states that he permitted the claimant, in the year 1802, to take possession of this land. The land appears not to have been inhabited and cultivated; and we are of opinion that, according to the usages and customs of the Spanish Government, the claim ought to be rejected.

No. 272.—JOHN HENRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing six hundred and fifty-six and forty-five hundredths superficial acres.

The claimant states that he went on this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, some time in the month of July, 1803; but we have satisfactory evidence that the land was never settled until after the 20th of December, 1803, and do therefore reject the claim.

No. 273.—FRANÇOIS ARCOIN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and sixty and sixty-seven hundredths superficial acres.

The claimant states that he settled this land some time in the month of July, 1803, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer; but it appearing satisfactorily in evidence to the Board that the land was not inhabited and cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 282.—BENOIT GOUTREAU claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing six hundred and sixteen and thirty hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land of Jean Baptiste Henry.

The claimant states that this land was settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, some time in the month of July, 1803; but it appearing, from the best testimony the Board have been able to procure, that the land was not inhabited and cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 284.—ANTHONY REED claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on lake Verret, at the mouth of the canal leading from bayou La Fourche, containing four hundred and forty-five and eighteen hundredths superficial acres.

The claimant sets up a title to this land as having been settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, in the year 1801, by one Stout. It appears from the evidence produced by the claimant, that said Stout was on the land in the year 1801 or 1802; but it appears also that he left it some time prior to the 20th December, 1803. We do therefore reject the claim.

No. 293.—JEAN PIERRE LANDRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the left bank of the canal leading from the bayou La Fourche to lake Verret, containing four hundred and seventy-eight superficial acres.

The claimant states that he settled this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that he inhabited and cultivated the same on that day; but it appearing in satisfactory evidence to the Board that the land was not inhabited and cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, the Board do therefore reject the claim.

No. 294.—MICHEL DEVAL claims a tract of land, situate on the bayou Bœuf, in the county of La Fourche, containing one hundred and eighty-one and ninety-two hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining land of Jean Saunier.

The claimant states that he settled this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and cultivated and inhabited the same on that day; but it appearing in evidence to the Board that the land was not inhabited and cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 299.—RAPHAEL LANDRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the canal leading from the bayou La Fourche to lake Verret, containing three hundred and twenty-six and a half superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by James Orvens, and on the other by land claimed Jean Pierre Landry.

The claimant states that the land now claimed was settled by him, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that the same was inhabited and cultivated by him on that day; but it appearing, from satisfactory testimony, that the land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, the Board do therefore reject the claim.

No. 302.—JEAN BROCHMON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and seventy-six and ninety-six hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Michel Deval.

The claimant states that he settled this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that he did inhabit and cultivate the land on that day; but it appearing, from the most satisfactory evidence, that the land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, the Board therefore reject the claim.

No. 309.—JAMES OWENS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on both sides of the canal leading from the bayou La Fourche, to lake Verret, containing six hundred and forty superficial acres.

The claimant states that the land now claimed was settled by him, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and that he did actually inhabit and cultivate the same on that day; but it appearing, from satisfactory evidence, to the Board, that the land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 321.—JEAN BAPTISTE ROGER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the left bank of the canal leading from bayou La Fourche to lake Verret, containing one hundred and forty-two superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land of Thomas de Villanueva, and on the lower by land claimed by Julian Osselet.

The claimant states that this land was settled, by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that it was inhabited and cultivated on that day; but it appearing to the Board, from the most satisfactory testimony, that the land was never settled until after the 20th of December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 322.—JEAN BAPTISTE PRELLE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the right bank of the canal leading to lake Verret, containing one hundred and ninety superficial acres, and bounded on one side by land claimed by Mathurin Osselet, and on the other by land claimed by Julian Osselet.

The claimant states that he settled this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and that he inhabited and cultivated the same on that day; but it appearing to the Board, from satisfactory testimony, that the land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 323.—LOUIS BRINGIER claims a tract of land, situate on the left bank of the canal leading to lake Verret, in the county of La Fourche, containing two hundred and fifty superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Louis Syng, and on the lower by land claimed by François Goutreau.

The claimant states that the land now claimed was settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th day of December, 1803, and inhabited and cultivated on that day; but it appearing, from the most satisfactory evidence, that the land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, the Board reject the claim.

No. 324.—MATHURIN OSSELET claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the right bank of the canal leading to lake Verret, containing six hundred and fifty superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land of Pierre Moraux.

The claimant states that he settled this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and inhabited and cultivated it on that day; but it appearing to the Board, from satisfactory evidence, that the land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 328.—FRANÇOIS GOUTREAU claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the left bank of the canal leading to lake Verret, containing two hundred and sixty-four superficial acres, and bounded on the upper side by land claimed by Louis Bringier, and on the lower by land claimed by Hypolite Dagbert.

The claimant states that he settled this land, by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and inhabited and cultivated it on that day; but it appearing to the Board, from satisfactory testimony, that the land was not settled until after the 20th of December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 331.—CLAUDE F. GIROD claims an island, situate in the county of La Fourche, about four leagues west of the entrance of the bayou La Fourche into the sea, and separated from the high land by swamp.

The claimant shows no manner of evidence in support of his title to this land, or tract of land, and we do therefore reject the claim.

No. 336.—CORNELIUS BALDWIN claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the canal leading from the bayou La Fourche to lake Verret, and containing six hundred and forty-six and thirty-six hundredths superficial acres.

The claimant states that this land was settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th December, 1803, and inhabited and cultivated on that day; but of this he produces no evidence. We therefore reject the claim.

No. 337.—JACOB HENRY claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and fifty-four and fifty-nine hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Alexandre Daniel, and on the other by land of William Knight.

The claimant states that he settled this land some time in the month of May, 1803, and that he inhabited and cultivated the same on the 20th of December, 1803. He does not pretend to have settled by permission of the proper Spanish officer; and it appearing, from satisfactory evidence, to the Board, that the land was not actually settled until after the 20th of December, 1803, they reject the claim.

No. 360.—LOUIS BRINGIER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the left bank of the canal leading to lake Verret, containing two hundred and fifty-seven and eighty hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Louis Syng, and on another land claimed by J. Goutreau.

The claimant states that the land was settled, by permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and inhabited and cultivated on that day. But it appearing to the Board, from the most satisfactory testimony, that the land was not settled until the 20th of December, 1803, they reject the claim.

No. 451.—BERNARDO DE DERO claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou St. Bernard, or Grand Bayou, containing twelve hundred and eighty-six superficial acres, and bounded on each side by vacant lands.

The claimant founds his title to this land upon a petition to the commandant of the district in 1802, which petition was granted by the commandant to the extent that he was authorized. But the claimant produces no evidence whatever of an actual settlement of the land; and, from the best information we have been able to obtain, if the land has ever been settled to this day, it was not until after the 20th of December, 1803. We do therefore reject the claim.

No. 452.—JAMES OWENS claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on both sides of the canal leading to lake Verret, containing three hundred and forty-five superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Raphael Landry, and on another land claimed by Julian Osselet.

The claimant produces, in support of his claim to this land, the permission of the commandant of the district, in the year 1802, to one James Simpson to settle any vacant land; and he produces also an affidavit, stating said Simpson to have inhabited and cultivated the land in the month of March, 1803; but it appearing, from satisfactory testimony, that the land was not inhabited and cultivated on the 20th of December, 1803, the Board therefore reject the claim.

No. 459.—FRANÇOIS FRILLON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on both sides of the canal leading to lake Verret, containing two hundred and ninety-four and sixteen hundredths superficial acres.

The claimant states that he settled this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and that he inhabited and cultivated the same on that day; but it appearing to the Board, from the most satisfactory evidence, that the land was not actually settled until after the 20th of December, 1803, they therefore reject the claim.

No. 462.—WILLIAM KNIGHT claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing six hundred and forty-six and eighty-six hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land of John Henry.

The claimant states that this land was settled, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated on that day; but it appearing, from the most satisfactory evidence, that this land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, the Board therefore reject the claim.

No. 467.—PIERRE LÉCONTE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and forty-six hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining land claimed by Étienne Pençon.

The claimant does not pretend to have settled the land prior to the 20th December, 1803; and we conceive the claim to be entirely a feigned one, and do accordingly reject it.

No. 483.—GREGOIRE AUCOIN and BENOIT GOUTREAU claim a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and sixty-nine and seventy-six hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Felix Boudreau.

The claimants state that they settled this land, with the permission of the proper Spanish officer, prior to the 20th of December, 1803, and that they actually inhabited and cultivated the same on that day; but it appearing to the Board, from satisfactory evidence, that the land was not settled until after the 20th December, 1803, they reject the claim.

No. 487.—CHARLOTTE HALL claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and fifty-nine and thirty-three hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by William Knight.

The claimant does not even pretend that she settled this land prior to the 20th of December, 1803. We consider the claim to be entirely a feigned one, and therefore reject it.

No. 488.—ALEXANDRE DANIEL claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and fifty-nine and sixty hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by John Henry, and on the other land claimed by Jacob Henry.

The claimant does not even pretend that this land was settled prior to the 20th December, 1803. We consider the claim to be entirely a feigned one, and do accordingly reject it.

No. 489.—JEAN M. LAGRANGE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and sixty and sixty-three hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Jean Olivier, and on the other land claimed by Bte. Jaunier.

The claimant does not even pretend to have settled this land prior to the 20th December, 1803. We consider the claim to be a feigned one, and do accordingly reject it.

No. 490.—JEAN OLIVIER claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and sixty and thirty-nine hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Jean M. Lagrange.

The claimant does not even pretend to have settled this land prior to the 20th of December, 1803. We consider the claim to be entirely a feigned one, and do accordingly reject it.

No. 491.—JEAN BAPTISTE JANNE claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and sixty and sixty-three hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Felix Boudreau, and on the other land claimed by Jean M. Lagrange.

The claimant pretends not to have settled this land prior to the 20th of December, 1803. We consider the claim to be entirely a feigned one, and do accordingly reject it.

No. 492.—ETIENNE PENIÇON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and forty-four hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Jean Baptiste Lagrange.

The claimant does not even pretend to have settled this land prior to the 20th December, 1803. We consider the claim a feigned one, and therefore reject it.

No. 493.—ETIENNE PENIÇON claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing sixty-nine and seventy-five hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land of Jean Baptiste Henry.

This claim is in every respect similar to the preceding one, claimed by the same; and we therefore reject it.

No. 494.—FELIX BOUDREAU claims a tract of land, situate in the county of La Fourche, on the bayou Bœuf, containing one hundred and sixty and sixty-three hundredths superficial acres, and adjoining on one side land claimed by Jean Baptiste Jeanne.

The claimant does not even pretend to have settled this land prior to the 20th December, 1803. We consider the claim to be entirely a feigned one, and do therefore reject it.

12th CONGRESS.

No. 194.

REVISION OF THE LAWS FOR THE SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE FEBRUARY 19, 1812.

Mr. WORTHINGTON made the following report:

The committee appointed to inquire if any, and what, further provisions or alterations are necessary in the laws of the United States for the sale of public lands, submit to the consideration of the Senate a bill, with a report, stating the reasons of the proposed alterations.

The alterations and amendments the bill contemplates in the present system are the following, viz:

- 1st. To sell the public lands in half-quarter sections.
- 2d. To reduce the price in future sales.
- 3l. To discontinue the credit now allowed by law: and
- 4th. To extend the time of payment to purchasers who have not completed their instalments.

The committee are aware that alterations, in a system like that under consideration, ought to be adopted with great caution, especially when its operations would seem to have been successful, (as, indeed, they have been to a certain extent,) and would most probably continue so to be within narrow limits. On examination, however, it will be found that this system, now in the course of experiment, has not been, so far as its practical operations have been ascertained, without strong objections and evils, both as it regards the public and individuals; and that a continuation of it, spread over a very extended tract of country, may, and it is believed will, produce effects very injurious to the public interests. The committee consider it their duty to present to the Senate a general view of the subject, and, for that purpose, have obtained from the Secretary of the Treasury the information contained in his letter, statements, &c., all of which accompany this report, and show the total amount of land sold by the United States; the amount sold and remaining unsold in each land district; the amount of lands to which the Indian title is extinguished and unextinguished; the whole amount of lands claimed by the United States east of the river Mississippi; and the annual amount of sales and receipts of moneys in each land district since the establishment of land offices, &c.

The first alteration proposed is, to offer the public lands for sale in half-quarter sections. All experience has proved, that as the size of the tracts offered for sale have been from time to time lessened, the sales have increased. By the act of May 18, 1796, the public lands were offered for sale, one half in sections of 640 acres, the other half in quarter townships, or tracts of 5,120 acres. The sales, under this act, for four years, amounted to 121,540 acres. The act of May 10, 1800, directed that the lands west of the Muskingum river, before offered for sale in quarter townships, should be divided into half sections, and those east of the same river into sections, and so offered for sale. The sales under this act for an equal term (four years) amounted to 919,603 acres. The act of the 26th of March, 1804, provides, that all the public lands of the United States shall be offered for sale in quarter sections, or tracts of 160 acres. The sales under this act, for the next four years after its passage, amounted to 1,750,308 acres. The committee do not mean to suggest that the subdivision of the public lands from time to time has been the sole cause of the increased sales; but they can have no hesitation in believing that these subdivisions of the tracts, having suited them to the ability of a greater number of purchasers, have been the principal cause of the increase of the sales under each succeeding act.

The subdivision of the public lands in the manner proposed does not alter the general system adopted for surveying the public lands; and as the exterior lines are already established, the expense of an interior line to each tract would be inconsiderable.

2d. The reduction of the price of land in future sales is connected with a cash payment, instead of the credit now allowed by law. The annexed statement, B, will show the total amount of lands sold, and those remaining unsold, in each land district, and the statement D, the annual amount of sales in the same districts. From the decrease of sales in the districts first established, there is reason to conclude the best lands are sold, and that what remain are of an inferior quality; besides, the committee are induced to believe that lands may be purchased from individuals who have derived their titles from other sources, which, as to price, quality, and payments, offer greater advantages to purchasers than the public lands in the districts alluded to. No country, it is believed, has ever sold its uncultivated lands as high as the United States have theirs; and if it be the policy and interest of the Government, whether with a view to fulfil its engagements to the public creditors, to afford a greater accommodation to purchasers, or to ensure any considerable and steady revenue from this source, the alterations proposed would seem advisable. It may be objected, that a reduction of the price would promote monopoly and encourage speculation. This, it is believed, never can be the case to any considerable extent, for the following reasons: 1st. From the subdivision of the land into tracts of eighty acres, few will be found unable to purchase directly from the Government, to which purchasers will always give the preference when the terms are the same, on account of the certainty of the title. 2d. From the best estimate the committee are able to make, there cannot be less than 30,000,000 acres of uncultivated land in the States and Territories west of the Alleghany mountains, the property of individuals; a great part of which is now in the market, and may be had, as has been before stated, on equal, if not better, terms than the public lands; and the remainder will be brought into the market whenever the demand may justify it.

There can be no hesitation in believing that the rate the Government may fix for the sale of the public lands will fix the price of that of individuals.

3dly. But suppose that the whole of the public lands now offered for sale, amounting, by the statement B, to 17,000,000 of acres, or even the whole amount to which the Indian title is extinguished, amounting, according to estimate C, to 56,000,000, should be purchased by individuals or companies, with a view to monopoly, (of which there is not the most remote probability,) the public could immediately offer double the amount for sale, and regulate the price of that held by individuals; so that, from every view they have been able to take of this subject, the committee cannot perceive any danger of monopoly or improper speculation.

It is proper next to examine what effect the reduction of the price will have on the public revenue and interests of the nation generally; that is to say, to compare the probable demand for land in consequence of the increase of population and resources of the nation, with the stock it has of this article, with a view to ascertain how long this demand may be supplied. The cash price of the public land at present is 164 cents per acre; the committee purpose to reduce it in future to one dollar per acre. The sales, since the establishment of land offices by the act of May 10, 1800, have averaged about 300,000 acres annually; with the reduction proposed, the public would give near double the amount of land for the same amount in money.

It is not possible to say, with certainty, what the subsequent annual amount of sales will be for any considerable length of time; but if the alterations proposed be adopted, and the sales for the next ten years be estimated at 1,250,000 acres, annually, making an aggregate of 12,500,000 acres, and an increase of sales of 25 per cent. be estimated on that account for each term of ten for the succeeding twenty years, the sales would amount in the next thirty years to 46,703,125 acres, which, with an allowance of near 20 per cent. for unsaleable lands, would, as appears by estimate C, be only equal to the amount of lands to which the Indian title is now extinguished east of the Mississippi river.

It appears, from the same estimate, that the whole amount of lands claimed by the United States east of the Mississippi is 200,000,000 acres; to 143,775,000 acres of which the Indian title is yet unextinguished. The balance, 56,225,000, is subject to sale by the United States. No correct estimate can be made of the amount of lands claimed by the United States west of the river Mississippi. It may, however, in the opinion of the committee, be safely stated at 200,000,000 of acres, making the whole amount of lands claimed by the United States 400,000,000 of acres. The committee have taken this view of the subject, to show that, notwithstanding there may be an increased sale consequent upon the alteration they propose, yet the amount of land which will annually command purchasers is so small compared with the large quantity to be sold, that no term of time can be fixed on, with any certainty, when the whole fund will be exhausted. They can have no doubt but that the amount of money applied to the purchase of land, under the alteration they propose, will be greater than at present.

The third alteration proposed by the committee is, to abolish the credit now authorized, and require payment at the time of sale. The terms on which the public lands are now sold are as follows: at the time of purchase, one twentieth part of the whole amount of the price of the tract applied for must be deposited, which is forfeited to the public if the first instalment, or one-fourth part, including the deposit, is not paid within forty days thereafter. On payment of the first instalment, the credit of four years is given for the balance of the purchase money, which is to be paid, one-fourth in two, one-fourth in three, and one-fourth in four years, to be charged with interest from the date, if not punctually paid. If the whole amount of purchase money is not paid at the end of the fifth year from the date of sale, the land is offered for sale, and, if no person appears to bid the sum due the public on the land so offered, it is forfeited to the United States, together with the sum paid by the purchaser, whether one, two, or three instalments; and the land is again subject to sale on the same terms and conditions as other lands.

No person, at present, can become a purchaser of the public lands, except on the prompt payment of eighty dollars; the same sum, if the alteration proposed be adopted, will entitle the purchaser to a patent for a half-quarter section.

If there was a less quantity of public land, and that within narrow limits, (say within the State of Ohio, or any other State or Territory,) there might be less reason for this alteration. The public claim lands in every State and Territory west of the Alleghany mountains, (Kentucky excepted,) in most of which the public lands are now offered for sale; by this means making from seven to ten thousand individuals public debtors, who, if the laws be rigidly enforced, will have every thing to dread from a want of punctuality. A sale on long credit of any property never fails to induce many, from false calculations, to become purchasers. There can scarcely be imagined a situation better calculated to rouse the feelings or mislead the mind of an individual whose hopes have been blasted in a purchase of land. He has made his purchase, and with difficulty paid his first instalment. The fascinating prospect of five years' credit to pay the other instalments induces him to take his family on to the lands, to begin improvements and cultivation for their comfort and support. The time taken to effect this ought to have been employed in earning the money he owes, which becomes due, and finds him unprepared to pay it. Perhaps he has relied on the payments due him by others, and has been disappointed; or, if he has received them, losses, sickness, (which not unfrequently attacks the new settler,) and the wants of his family, plead his excuse for appropriating it to their use. The credit allowed by law (five years) expires; his land is advertised for sale; he is threatened with the loss of all he has paid, whether one, two, or three instalments. But this is not all; his labor for five years, which has put his land in a state of cultivation, and placed around him the comforts of life where a wilderness existed before, is also to be lost, and his family turned out of a home to seek some new situation. It is very true, that, from the very nature of the contract, the purchaser ought to expect such a result from failure of payment; yet there is strong reason to believe that there will be an association of individuals, under the same circumstances, to relieve themselves by some means. Indeed, it is quite probable such has been the case, and that few, if any, persons appear to bid at the public sales of lands, or to re-enter the lands in opposition to the original purchase, after a forfeiture to the public has taken place for want of bidders. The reasons are obvious. Many, from feeling, will not bid, and those who would are deterred, from the fear of incurring the resentment of the settlers. Hence results injury both to the public and individuals. To the public, because the purchaser may hold possession of the public lands, by paying once every five years 25 per cent. on the amount of the purchase money; to the individual, from the insecurity of his situation, and forfeiture of money already paid to the public.

From statement B it will appear that the forfeitures to the United States, since the establishment of land offices, or, more properly speaking, from the fifth year after their establishment, (the forfeitures for the first five years consisted only of deposits of one-twentieth of the purchase money, and were very inconsiderable,) amounted to $98,579. This is not all. There is an additional forfeiture, which, though not ascertained, may, it is believed, be safely estimated at the same amount. This is when the lands have been sold at the public sales to a second purchaser, who receives the benefit of the whole amount of money paid by the first purchaser, which, though not a forfeiture to the United States, is, by the original, to the next purchasers. It would therefore appear, that if the whole sum forfeited for six years last past be $200,000, the average annual forfeiture has been $33,000 to the settlers of Ohio alone. The committee are unable to ascertain correctly the number of tracts offered for sale annually on account of non-payment. They find, however, that in three land districts in Ohio, to wit: Chillicothe, Zanesville, and Cincinnati, there were offered for sale, within the last three months, two hundred and fifty-five tracts. There are six land districts in the State of Ohio, one of which (Canton) has been so lately established, that the time of payment has not expired; and at another (Marietta) very little land has been sold. By law, the Registers are directed to advertise the lands of delinquents previous to, and offer them for sale during, the sitting of the Court of Common Pleas of the county where the land office is established. The courts are held in Ohio three times a year; and if the amount offered for sale in the districts above mentioned is taken as data, it would appear that in four districts one thousand and twenty tracts are offered for sale annually, within the State of Ohio alone, on account of failure in payment. It will be seen, by the statement D, which accompanies this report, that the districts of Canton, in Ohio, and Vincennes and Jeffersonville, in the Indiana Territory, were not established until the years 1807 and 1808; consequently, no sales on forfeitures have taken place in those districts, the five years' credit allowed the purchasers by law not having expired. The three land districts in the Mississippi Territory are in the same situation. The sales, therefore, of the lands of delinquents have hitherto been confined to the State of Ohio. When the present system pervades the whole country, when the public have lands for sale extending from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and if, from causes which have been heretofore mentioned, a considerable portion of purchasers should become hostile to the Government, there is much reason to apprehend, in a political point of view, the most dangerous consequences from such a state of things. If, on the contrary, the alterations proposed be adopted, there is strong reason to believe the public interests will not be injured; every description of purchasers will be accommodated; monopoly or speculation, to any injurious extent, will be prevented; the sales of land, and, consequently, the revenue, will be increased; the collection of money will be made more simple and certain; and, what is most desirable, the title will at once vest in the purchaser, and identify his interests with that of the Government, preventing, in future, all apprehension of danger to the Government from this quarter.

The next alteration proposed by the bill is, to extend the time of payment to those who have heretofore purchased. It is very true that these purchasers, having voluntarily entered into a contract with the Government, have no right to demand other or more favorable terms. It is also true that the Government has a right to lower the price, or alter the terms of sale of the public lands, whenever its interests or the public good requires it. The Government, therefore, is left entirely free in this respect in adopting the proposed alterations. The committee have endeavored to ascertain what effect this alteration will have on the revenue, connected with the other alterations proposed; and, after a careful examination, it is believed it will not diminish the receipts into the public treasury on account of the sales of the public lands. By dividing the instalments into less sums, it will enable the purchasers to be more punctual, and prevent the practice of forfeiture and re-entry. It appears, from the last annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury, that the forfeitures to the United States from delinquent purchasers of public lands, within the State of Ohio, for the year ending on the 30th of September, 1811, amounted to forty-nine thousand four hundred and sixty-one dollars and seventy-four cents. Such a sacrifice of their hard earnings, to an industrious part of the community, employed in the laborious task of preparing the forest for cultivation, who, it may be presumed, are not very able to make it, cannot, it is believed, be either pleasing or desirable to the Government. Should the credit allowed by law be discontinued, the debt now due the public would be lessened daily, and no danger would be apprehended in its collection.

The purchasers may, however, consider themselves authorized, not only on account of the reduction of the price of the lands, but from the present situation and circumstances of the country, to ask some indulgence of the Government; and, as it is believed such a measure, connected with the abolition of credit on future sales, will not be injurious to the public interests, but will greatly promote that of the purchasers, the committee therefore recommend to the Senate the extension of the time of payment to those purchasers who have not completed their instalments.

The further they have examined this subject, the committee have been so much the more convinced of the necessity of the alterations they propose, and that there will be no more favorable time than the present to adopt them. The sales and forfeitures of the lands of delinquent purchasers, as has been before stated, have been hitherto confined to the State of Ohio; it will not be so in future. As new land offices are established, purchasers will be increased, and be spread over a greater extent of country; and although they have already mentioned it, the committee cannot forbear recurring to the great advantage which, in their opinion, would result to this Government, extending as it does over an immense tract of country, to have the interests of each new purchaser of public land at once identified with that of the Government, rather than to have him its debtor, and held in continual dread of the execution of the law under which he is a purchaser.

The committee believe that if the Senate will give the subject such an examination as its merits require, the alterations proposed will appear necessary; and have only to add, that they have taken such a view as, in their opinion, the interests of the Government, the importance of the subject, and their duty to the Senate required.

SENATE CHAMBER, December 24, 1811.

SIR: I am directed by a committee of the Senate appointed to examine and report if any, and what, alterations are necessary in the laws of the United States for the sale of the public lands, to request that you will, so far as you are enabled to do so, give them the following information, viz.:

1st. The quantity of land heretofore sold, and now offered for sale, at each of the land offices.

2d. The amount of forfeitures to the United States on account of the sales of public lands.

3d. The quantity of land in the different States and Territories to which the Indian title is extinguished, which is the property of the United States.

4th. The quantity of land in the different States and Territories to which the Indian title is not yet extinguished.

5th. The quantity of land which has been sold in each State and Territory, distinguishing that sold previous to the establishment of land offices from the sales subsequent to that period.

Very respectfully,

T. WORTHINGTON.

The Hon. ALBERT GALLATIN,
Secretary of the Treasury.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, January 22, 1812.

SIR: I have the honor, in compliance with your letter of the 24th ultimo, to transmit two statements (A and B) showing the amount of public lands heretofore sold, and an estimate (C) of those which remain unsold.

Those statements and estimate do not embrace the lands in the Territories of Orleans and Louisiana; the boundaries of both being as yet unascertained. There was, however, a considerable quantity of land in both, to which the Indian title had been extinguished prior to the United States taking possession; and since that time cessions have been obtained in the Territory of Louisiana, from the Sacs and Foxes, and from the Osages, which, together with the land previously in the occupancy of the inhabitants, are estimated to contain from twenty-five to thirty millions of acres. These are not included in the estimate now transmitted.

It appears, from the papers now enclosed, that the quantity of public lands sold by the United States, at all times and places prior to the 1st of October, 1811, amounts to five millions two hundred and fifty thousand seven hundred and three acres.

The quantity of land remaining unsold within the boundaries of the United States, as established by the treaty of peace with Great Britain of 1783, (exclusively of the lands in the State of Tennessee, which may finally fall to the share of the United States,) is estimated at two hundred millions of acres; of which quantity, one hundred and forty-five millions are computed to be on the north of the river Ohio, and fifty-five millions in the Mississippi Territory. It must, however, be observed, that the estimate of the contents of the territory lying west of lake Michigan, and north of a parallel of latitude passing by the southern extremity of the said lake, is very uncertain, for want of good maps. They have been set down in the estimate at sixty millions of acres.

The Indian title is extinguished to fifty-six millions of acres. The residue (one hundred and forty-four millions of acres) is still occupied and owned by the Indians.

Of the fifty-six millions of acres to which the Indian title is extinguished, more than seventeen millions have been surveyed, and are now offered for sale at the several land offices. Four or five millions more are surveyed, and will soon be offered for sale, principally in the district of Kaskaskia. The surveys of the remainder will progress gradually, in proportion to the demand for land.

I have the honor to be, with great respect,

Sir, your obedient servant,

ALBERT GALLATIN.

HON. THOMAS WORTHINGTON, in Senate.

CLAIM TO A LOT IN THE CITY OF NEW ORLEANS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES MARCH 20, 1812.

Mr. JEREMIAH MORROW, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of Elisha Winter, praying that a lot of ground in the city of New Orleans, confirmed to him by the Board of Commissioners for the eastern district of the Orleans Territory, may be surveyed, and possession thereof delivered him, made the following report:

That the petitioner derives title to the lot of ground in question, (the same lying between the city of New Orleans and the suburb St. Mary, of the width of one hundred feet front, and six hundred feet in depth,) from the Spanish Government, as early as the 22d day of December, 1791; that, some time subsequent to the grant, and after the petitioner had erected buildings on the premises, the Spanish Government, upon the principle of public necessity, entered upon and occupied a part of the premises for a curtain to the fortifications, at the same time demolishing the petitioner's buildings; that the Spanish Government thereupon granted the petitioner other lands adjoining the premises; that the said Board of Commissioners, considering the entry and occupation of said land by the Spanish Government as not divesting the petitioner of his title, and the land thereafter granted the petitioner, adjoining the premises, as an indemnity for the buildings demolished only, and not offered or accepted as an equivalent for the land so entered upon; and further, that the occupation of the premises, for the use of the fortifications, had ceased, confirmed the said lot, in its original extent, to the petitioner; but that, by reason of the demolition of the fortification and alterations of streets, the precise location of said lot cannot be ascertained without a survey, which the petitioner has not been able to obtain, on account of the opposition of the corporation of said city, who claim title to the premises.

The committee are therefore of opinion that the petitioner is entitled to relief in the premises; for which purpose they have prepared a bill, and ask leave to report the same.

No. 14.—ELISHA WINTER claims a lot of ground, situate between the city of New Orleans and the suburb St. Mary, containing one hundred feet in front, by six hundred feet in depth.

It appears that, in the year 1791, the claimant obtained a royal order from the King of Spain for this land, for the purpose of erecting a rope-walk, and, in the same year, obtained a grant from Governor Miro, pursuant to the royal order; that, in or about the year 1793, by the order of the Baronde Carondelet, part of this land was retrenched, the whole length of the side next to the fortifications, containing about eight hundred and forty-two superficial toises, to be used as a curtain to the same; and the claimant was ordered and compelled to demolish his buildings which were erected thereon. The claimant remonstrated against the injustice of this order, and the Governor ultimately granted him, as an indemnity, an additional quantity of ground in the rear of his rope-walk, making in quantity somewhat more than the ground retrenched, but not equal in point of value, nor was its value at the time equal to the value of the buildings demolished. The only difficulty appears to be, whether the grant of the additional quantity of ground, adjoining the rope-walk, was given and accepted not only as an indemnity for the buildings demolished, and the consequent losses and inconveniences, but also as an extinguishment of all right and title in the claimant to the land retrenched from him. It seems to have been the practice of the Spanish Government in this country, when private property has been invaded by the law of public necessity, to indemnify the individual to the extent of his sacrifice. In this case, the indemnity given was not at the time equivalent to the buildings demolished, nor to the ground retrenched. This right of the Spanish Government is founded upon public necessity, and the principles which apply to it we consider are precisely analogous with those that apply to the laying out of public highways, &c.; in which case the individual is indemnified for the privation and resulting inconveniences only, and the land reverts to him when it ceases to be a public highway. The Spanish Government, at the time, seemed to consider the indemnity as extending not even to the privation of the ground, but merely to the demolition of the buildings; for the Surveyor General, who, by the order of the Governor, surveyed for the claimant the ground which was given as an indemnity, states, in his process-verbal of survey, (upon which the patent issued,) "Land surveyed for the claimant as an indemnity for demolishing his buildings." The fortifications having since been razed, we are of opinion that the land reverts to the claimant, and do accordingly confirm him in his title.

NOTE.—Shortly after the Board first assembled, present, Gurley, Lewis, and Vanpradelles, this claim was rejected upon two grounds: first, the fortification was at that time possessed and held by the American Government in the same manner that it was in the hands of Spain and France; secondly, it was believed that the indemnity given extinguished the claimant's title to the land taken from him. The first of these grounds has entirely ceased; and we are now convinced, for the reasons above given, the second was erroneous. A reconsideration of this claim was agreed upon by the same members that rejected it.

I do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true and correct copy of the decision of the Board of Commissioners of Land Claims for the eastern district of the Orleans Territory, on the claim of Elisha Winter, (No. 14,) as taken from the book containing the decisions of the Board on claims to land, unregistered in the office of the Register of the eastern district.

WASHINGTON, April 8, 1802.

I, the undersigned, deputy surveyor for the county of Orleans, under Isaac Briggs, Surveyor General of the territories south of Tennessee, certify that the corporation of New Orleans has always denied my jurisdiction as surveyor; that she has taken up and destroyed all the land-marks and pickets that I had planted in the places to which she pretended to be proprietor of, and especially in the lots belonging to Elisha Winter, the charity hospital, Claude Tremier, &c., and several others; that she has moreover caused advertisements to be made in the public papers that I had no right, but that the person named by her alone had the power, to survey lands, as well within as without the city.

SALES OF FORFEITED LANDS.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 1, 1812.

SIR:

I enclose the copy of a letter from the Register and Receiver of the Land Office at Jeffersonville, on the subject of the sales of forfeited lands, and am,

Very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

ALBERT GALLATIN.

HON. JEREMIAH MORROW, Chairman of the Committee of Public Lands, in Congress.

JEFFERSONVILLE, March 17, 1812.

SIR: The laws regulating the sales of public lands, &c. requiring that whenever lands become forfeited to the United States, on account of non-payment of arrears, &c., they shall be exposed to sale at the court-house of the county in which the Land Office is kept, on particular court days, we beg leave to recommend the propriety of such an alteration, as that those lands may be offered for sale at the respective Land Offices where they may be kept at a different place from where the courts are held. We cannot conceive that it is more proper to offer such tracts for sale at the different court-houses than at the place where the Land Office is kept, as lengthy and timely notice is required by law to be given of such sale.

The courts of this county are held twelve or fourteen miles from this place, and, unless some alteration of this kind takes place, we shall of course have to attend at the court-house to offer forfeited lands for sale. The same inconvenience may happen at other offices. We take the liberty of proposing this alteration to you at this time, so that some provision may be made before any forfeitures occur in this office.

We have the honor, &c.

SAMUEL GWATHMEY,

CLAIMS OF THE OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS OF THE VIRGINIA LINE ON STATE ESTABLISHMENT FOR BOUNTY LANDS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES APRIL 2, 1812.

Mr. NELSON, from the committee to whom was referred the resolution touching the claims of the officers and soldiers of the Virginia line on State establishment for bounty lands, made the following report:

That it appears to your committee, that sundry laws to promote and encourage the raising troops to carry on the war of the revolution were passed by the General Assembly of the commonwealth of Virginia, by which certain bounties in land were promised to such meritorious persons as should, by their military services, bring themselves within the provisions of such laws. There were other laws enacted in the said commonwealth, whereby, in consideration of military services already performed, this commonwealth was pledged to remunerate other meritorious persons with a donation of public lands; that, in pursuance of their public engagements, many warrants for land were issued by that commonwealth, which yet remain unsatisfied; that, to discharge these promises, Virginia had set apart her vacant and unappropriated lands, lying upon the waters of Cumberland, on the confines of the State of North Carolina. The boundary line between Virginia and North Carolina was then not settled; but this being afterwards fixed, upon principles of justice and equity, between these States, this land, which had been supposed to belong to Virginia, was actually found to belong to North Carolina; and so this land-fund, set apart to satisfy the bounties, became inadequate to its object; that there were lying within the chartered limits of the commonwealth of Virginia other large tracts of unsettled lands, which were considered, at least by the people of that State, as the property of the commonwealth, from which it was intended that these bounties, on the failure of the fixed fund appropriated for their satisfaction, should be fully discharged; that the old Congress, to promote the general interests of the Union, had recommended to the several States holding tracts of unsettled lands to form one common fund, for the use of the whole, for the purposes of the war, of those vacant lands. The commonwealth of Virginia, with promptitude, obeyed this patriotic call. On the 2d day of January, 1781, the Legislature of that State adopted resolutions, containing propositions to cede to the United States all her vacant lands lying to the northwest of the river Ohio. But knowing that her troops, both on continental and State establishment, had claims upon her for bounties promised for military services, she annexed to the proposals for this cession stipulations for these bounties to her troops; that, among the terms proposed, the following were contained:

IN GENERAL ASSEMBLY,
Tuesday, January 2, 1781.

Resolved, That in case the quantity of good lands on the southeast side of the Ohio, upon the waters of Cumberland river, and between the Green river and the Tennessee river, which have been reserved by law for the Virginia troops upon continental establishment, and upon their own State establishment, should, from the North Carolina line bearing in further upon the Cumberland lands than was expected, prove insufficient for their legal bounties, the deficiency shall be made up to the said troops in good lands to be laid off between the rivers Scioto and Little Miami, on the northwest side of the river Ohio.

In this resolution, found, with the others, among the journals of the General Assembly of the commonwealth of Virginia, provision is proposed to be made for the Virginia troops, both on State and continental establishment, to satisfy their promised bounties in land. These proposals for the cession of public lands, on the part of Virginia, were transmitted to Congress; some of them were accepted by Congress unconditionally, others were accepted with alterations and modifications; and others were totally rejected. This proposal respecting the bounty lands, denominated the fifth in the series of propositions, was accepted by Congress as reasonable. But your committee find that, in transcribing this proposition, as appears on the journals of the old Congress, an omission occurs, which they cannot decide, whether casual and inadvertent, or premeditated and intentional. The troops on the Virginia State establishment are omitted. Your committee observe, from the journals of Congress, that where the terms of this cession did not meet their approbation, the objections are stated at length, and supported by reasons; where they were approved, their approbation is equally expressed. Now, as no objection to, or approbation of, this proposition for land bounties for the troops on State establishment appear on the journals, your committee conceive it may be deemed an accidental omission. To supply this omission, it would seem to require no great effort of the magnanimity of the national rulers. This omission pervades all the subsequent legislative acts relating to this cession; and in the deed of cession made in pursuance of legal authority by the Virginia commissioners, transferring to the United States the lands northwest of the river Ohio, the omission equally exists.

Your committee submit to your consideration whether, (as this condition is found in the original terms proposed for the cession, as appears by the journals of the General Assembly of Virginia, embracing the troops on State establishment, of which they consider that the old Congress must have had notice, and being afterwards casually pretermitted,) it would not best comport with the equity and justice due from this nation to their revolutionary soldiers, to supply this accidental omission. It is worthy of remark, that the laws of Virginia promising these bounties in lands to her State troops were adopted previously to the cession made to the United States of her vacant lands; and in a court of honor and conscience, it would, perhaps, be hardly questioned whether some latent equity to this subject was not created in behalf of these meritorious characters, and whether it would not follow this subject in the transfer to the United States and in their possession. Your committee further submit to your consideration, whether, if the incapacity of Virginia to fulfil her engagements to her State troops has resulted from this transfer to the United States, it would comport with the magnanimity of the United States to permit a member of the confederacy, through their participation, to be guilty of so flagrant a breach of faith; and also to suffer these poor and deserving heroes of the revolution to pine in penury and want. Your committee forbear to examine the title of Virginia to these lands, which were ceded to the United States. It may not, however, be incorrect to remark, that they lay within her chartered limits; that they were accepted by the Congress of the United States, under the cession of the commonwealth of Virginia, qualified with the restrictions laid thereupon by that State. These are calculated to show that the pretensions of Virginia are not without some foundation. But your committee, sensible that all the national feelings of America demand that justice, and more than justice, should be dispensed to the patriotic actors in the war of our independence—a war in which a sense of common interest and common danger produced common exertions and common sacrifices amongst the States, and which ended in securing to us the blessings of a free constitution and free Government—in which we all equally participate; that the Government of the United States, since the organization of the new Federal Government, have set the precedent of performing particular State engagements, by assuming, in their funding system, the particular debts of the individual States contracted in the common struggle for our independence; that community of benefit should produce community of participation in the burdens, expenses, and sacrifices, might be justified in considering the United States bound to fulfil these engagements, even if Virginia's pretensions to these lands had been without the semblance of a foundation. Nor can your committee deem it of any weight, that none of the other States are similarly situated. They have made no engagements which they had not capacity to perform. Virginia alone stands upon this ground. If she, believing that she was qualified to perform these promises, has made engagements for services which resulted in the general benefit of the United States, it would but little comport with their magnanimity to reap all the fruits of the contest, and then to send empty away the war-worn laborers who had toiled in her fields. But if, in addition, it be considered that those lands, from which this provision is asked, were within the chartered limits of Virginia; that they had always been considered as her property; that she had promised these bounties out of her vacant lands, and that previous to the cession of this territory to the United States; and that it was transferred by Virginia as a common fund for the benefit of all the States; that the cession was intended to be qualified with a reservation of the rights of these claimants, which was casually omitted; and that, by this cession, without this reservation, the commonwealth of Virginia was totally disabled to perform her engagements to these meritorious sufferers; your committee cannot refrain from recommending to your consideration the following resolution:

Resolved, That provision should be made for securing to the officers and soldiers of the revolutionary army of Virginia on State establishment, in the land or sea service of the said State, the bounty lands which were promised to them either by a law or resolution of the said commonwealth, out of the lands not otherwise appropriated, and lying on the northwest of the river Ohio, within the Virginia cession, to be of good quality, according to the true intent and meaning of the promises made on the part of Virginia; and that if a sufficiency of good land, within the meaning aforesaid, cannot there be found, these bounties shall be satisfied out of any other public lands of the United States not heretofore otherwise appropriated.

CLAIMS ON THE LANDS CEDED BY NORTH CAROLINA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES MAY 28, 1812.

Mr. JEREMIAH MORROW, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill from the Senate "to authorize the State of Tennessee to issue grants and perfect titles on certain entries and locations of lands therein described," made the following report:

That, in the examination of the subject, their attention has been directed to the several former acts which have relation to the provisions of the bill referred to them. They beg leave to refer the House to the following, viz.: An act of the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, entitled "An act for the purpose of ceding to the United States of America certain western lands therein described;" an act of the same State, entitled "An act to authorize the State of Tennessee to perfect titles to lands reserved to this State by the cession act;" and an act of the State of Tennessee ratifying and confirming the last mentioned act; and also an act of Congress passed on the 18th of April, 1806, entitled "An act to authorize the State of Tennessee to issue grants and perfect titles to certain lands therein described, and to settle the claims to the vacant and unappropriated lands within the same." It appears by one of the above-recited acts that the State of North Carolina has (the assent of Congress being obtained) authorized the State of Tennessee to issue grants and perfect titles to lands lying in the ceded territory, in as full and ample a manner as that State, agreeably to her act of cession, could have done; and that Congress, by their act of the 18th of April, 1806, above recited, have so far assented to the transfer of power from North Carolina to Tennessee, as to authorize the State of Tennessee to issue grants and perfect titles to the lands lying east and north of a line designated by the said act. The object of the bill under consideration is, to give a further assent of Congress to enable the State of Tennessee to exercise the same power of issuing grants in case of special entries and locations on lands lying west and south of the aforesaid line. The bill having for its object the perfecting of incomplete titles, which all concur in acknowledging ought to be perfected, and which the State of North Carolina has authorized the State of Tennessee to perfect, the committee can discover no reason why Congress should not give their assent to the completing of these titles by the passage of the bill.

The objections that have been urged in the discussion appear to be solely directed against the provisions of the act of Congress of the 18th of April, 1806. But as that act has not been referred to the committee, they have not thought it their duty to go in the consideration of its provisions further than its connexion with the subject under consideration has made it necessary.

The principal objection to the arrangement made by the United States and the State of Tennessee respecting these lands appears to be, that the entries and claims yet to be satisfied are directed to be located east and south of a certain line, when it is contended the claimants have a right to make their locations on any vacant lands in the State; the object of the amendment which has been proposed is to secure them in this right.

It is obvious, at this time, after part of the territory received from North Carolina has been ceded to Tennessee, and provision made that the unsatisfied entries and claims should be located on the lands so ceded, that now, by adopting the amendment whereby to permit these entries to be located on the lands reserved by the United States, it would, in a high degree, be sacrificing the public interest; the tract reserved would be exhausted, while none of the lands liable to satisfy the entries could again be reclaimed.

Believing, however, that individual rights ought not to be violated, even with a view to protect the public property, the committee have made the inquiry whether, in this case, individuals would be deprived of any right they formerly possessed, by confirming the location of their entries and claims to a certain district.

It does appear to have been an express condition in the act of cession, that posterior locators should have leave to remove their entries to any other vacant lands within the limits of the ceded territory. The United States, by accepting the cession, became bound to conform to the conditions under which it was made; and, therefore, on their part, have not the power to limit the location of entries to any particular district. But North Carolina having, anterior to her act of cession, the power to restrict locations within the bounds of any particular portion of her territory, cannot be presumed to have divested herself of that power by a contract not made with the individuals concerned, but with a third party. The cession of territory, and acceptance on the part of the United States, was a transaction in the nature of a compact between the contracting parties. The individual claimants of lands under the laws of North Carolina not being parties, cannot be supposed to have acquired any new rights by the stipulations made in their favor. The effect of the condition was to reserve in North Carolina a capacity to extend new rights to the claimants, but could not operate as an obligation on her to do so.

The State of North Carolina reserved the power to perfect into grants all bona fide incomplete titles that had originated under her laws previous to the act of cession. She did, therefore, still possess the power, as before, to restrict to certain limits the location of entries, and having, by an act of her Legislature, transferred the power of issuing grants and perfecting titles to the State of Tennessee, in as full and ample a manner as she herself had possessed it, the conclusion is irresistible, that the State of Tennessee does thereby derive the power of restricting to certain limits, and designating the bounds within which the said entries and claims shall be located; they having first obtained the assent of Congress to the exercise of the power. Whenever the bill under consideration shall have become a law, that assent will have been obtained for the purpose of perfecting all incipient rights to lands arising under the laws of North Carolina.

The committee have bestowed due attention to the subject, and are of opinion that the arrangement made with the State of Tennessee, in so far as it respects the confirming of locations to a particular district, is no violation of the act of cession, nor of any individual right, especially as provision is made that, in case the district assigned for satisfying the claims should not contain a sufficient quantity of land fit for cultivation, the claims shall then be satisfied out of the lands lying west and south of the aforesaid line; and believing that the public interest would be promoted by adopting the bill in its present shape, they have agreed to report it without amendment.

CLAIMS TO LAND IN THE MISSISSIPPI TERRITORY DERIVED FROM THE GOVERNMENT OF SPAIN.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES MAY 29, 1812.

MR. JEREMIAH MORROW, from the Committee on Public Lands, who were instructed, by a resolution of the House, to inquire into the expediency of confirming all claims to land in the Mississippi Territory, founded on warrants of survey granted by the Spanish Government, and not confirmed by former laws, made the following report:

That, at the time of the evacuation of that part of the Mississippi Territory which the Government of Spain had possession of for many years, many persons holding lands by no other rights than warrants or orders of survey, who were either ignorant of the transfer of the country to the United States, or of any legal defect in their titles, neglected to obtain patents for their lands.

It is alleged that claims under warrants and orders of survey were regarded by the Spanish Government as valid to all intents and purposes, and, according to the local law of the country, would have descended to the heirs of the grantee in the same manner as if a patent legally and fully executed had been obtained.

Claims, however, of this description have not by any former law been confirmed, except in cases in which the lands claimed had, at the date of the treaty with Spain, been actually inhabited and cultivated by the person claiming the land for his use. The residue have been reported by the commissioners for the decision of Congress, and the lands reserved until such decision shall have been made.

The committee, on examination of the subject, discover certain equitable considerations in favor of these claims. By the second section of the act of the 3d of March, 1803, "regulating the grants of land, and providing for the disposal of the lands of the United States south of the State of Tennessee," a donation of six hundred and forty acres of land is granted to every person, and the legal representative of every person, who was actually resident in said Territory at the time the same was evacuated by the Spanish troops; provided that such donations should not be made to any person who claims any other tract of land in the said Territory, by virtue of any British or Spanish grant, or order of survey. This proviso having excluded the holder of a Spanish warrant or order of survey from the benefit of a donation, it does not appear reasonable or just to deprive him also of the benefit of his claim under such warrant, at least to such part as may equal the donation he might have obtained had he not been the holder of such warrant. It appears that the claims are generally for small tracts of land, and that, in many instances, the lands have been inhabited and cultivated for a number of years. With this view of the subject, the committee ask leave to report by bill.

LAND CLAIMS IN LOUISIANA.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 20, 1812.

SIR: Permit me to submit for your consideration a classification of the claims in the Territory of Louisiana which have not been finally confirmed or granted by the Board of Commissioners, and some remarks thereon. It is probable the classification may not embrace all the species of claims, but will, I flatter myself, be sufficiently comprehensive to enable the Congress of the United States to pass some general law on the subject, which, I take the liberty to observe, would be of great importance to the bona fide claimants, and a saving to the United States of a very considerable expense, even in the presentation and reading of individual petitions which, I have no doubt, would be presented at the next session of Congress.

Class 1st.—Claims derived from French or Spanish orders of survey or concession, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and cultivated anterior to the 20th December, 1803, and which would have been confirmed had they not exceeded eight hundred arpents. See the claims of James Mackay, report page 495; Jacques Chauvin, page 389; and Francis Vallé, Sen., page 418.

Class 2d.—Claims derived from French or Spanish orders of survey or concession, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, when the claimant has had a possession before the 20th December, 1803, not exceeding eight hundred arpents, and which has been inhabited and cultivated from the year 1804. See the claim of Robert Buchannon, report, page 452. The concession is called a permission in the statement, but see registry, page 15.

Class 3d.—Claims derived from French or Spanish orders of survey or concession, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, granted for services rendered, and those services proved to have been performed. See the claim of P. Chouteau, as representative of Hortez; report, page 446.

Class 4th.—Claims derived from French or Spanish orders of survey or concession, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, granted for the purpose of building mills, or making other improvements which would promote agriculture, exceeding eight hundred arpents. See report, page 503, claim of W. Massey, assignee of Lard.

Class 5th.—Claims derived from French or Spanish order of survey or concession, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, not exceeding eight hundred arpents, granted for the purpose of building mills, or making other improvements which would promote agriculture, or making works of public utility. See report, page 455, claim of James Richardson; page 468, claim of Josiah McClannahan, assignee of Cerré.

Class 6th.—Claims derived from Spanish concession or order of survey, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and located. See report, page 420, claim of P. Boyer.

Class 7th.—Claims derived from Spanish concession or order of survey, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, and not located. See claim of W. James, report, page 427.

Class 8th.—Claims for out or field lots, as they are termed, should be confirmed, recorded or not recorded, if those not recorded do not interfere with claims confirmed. All these tracts have been cultivated and possessed from fifteen to fifty years. See report, and the remarks of the Board, pages 517 and 548. All this class are the Grand and Little Prairies, and Barrier des Noyez of St. Louis; fields of St. Ferdinand, (nearly all confirmed;) fields of the villages of Robert, Carondelet, of St. Genevieve, and New Bourbon; and Portage des Sioux. The last are not of as old standing; see report, pages 492 and 493. I think all the other claims in these fields, except those, have been confirmed; but in these the claimant neglected to produce testimony. There may be a few vacancies, perhaps in these fields; grant them, in such case, to the inhabitants for public schools.

Class 9th.—Claims for commons, viz: St. Charles, St. Louis, and Carondelet. See report, pages 548 and 549.

Class 10th.—Town or village lots. See report, page 519, claims of Antoine Reynal, assignee of St. Cyr, which will, in part, show the confusion in which these claims are; see also report, page 537, the claims of Dubreuil and others. Many lots have been confirmed or granted in all the towns; see also the claim of the inhabitants of St. Louis, report, page 557. It would probably be best to confirm the town, generally, to the inhabitants; and if there be any vacant lots, grant them for public schools.

Before I enter on a statement of the following seven classes, it may not be improper to observe, that all the claims under the second section of the act of Congress of the 2d March, 1805, were after a certain period, considered by the Board as grants from our Government; they, therefore, construed that section strictly against the grantee.

Class 12th.—Claims with every requisite of the second section of the act of 2d March, 1805, except inhabitation. See the claims of Richard Applegate, report, page 451; and the claim of A. Keithley, report, page 391.

Class 13th.—Claims with every requisite of the second section of the act of Congress of the 2d March, 1805, except cultivation. See the claims of Elijah Welsh, report, page 403.

Class 14th.—Claims with every requisite of the second section of the act of 2d March, 1805, except inhabitation and cultivation on the 20th December, 1803. See the claim of Byrd, assignee of Mullins, &c. report, page 491.

Class 15th.—Claims with every requisite of the second section of the act of 2d March, 1805, except cultivation by the claimant in person. See the claim of Baptiste Janis, report, page 462.

Class 16th.—Claims with every requisite of the second section of the act of 2d March, 1805, except that the testimony does not show by whom the claim was inhabited and cultivated on the 20th December, 1803. See the claim of P. A. Laforge, assignee of Olive, &c. report, page 435.

Class 17th.—Claims with every requisite of the second section of the act of 2d March, 1805, but interfering with claims under the first section of said act, or Spanish or French grants completed. See the claim of Weldon, report, page 416; see also the remarks of the Board on the registry, page 8. Many of the claims interfered with are not confirmed, and probably never will be.

Class 18th.—Claims with inhabitation and cultivation long prior to the 20th December, 1803, and not embraced by the second section of the act of Congress of 3d of March, 1807. See the claim of Nicholas Jarrot, assignee of A. Roy, report, page 448.

Class 19th.—Claims held in possession from a short period subsequent to those embraced by the second section of the act of 1807. See the claim of M. Placit, report, page 448.

Class 20th.—Claims derived from Spanish order of survey or concession, suspected of fraud by the commissioners, but cultivated prior to the 20th December, 1803, and where the claimant had no participation in the fraud. See the claim of Benjamin Johnston, report, page 546.

Class 21st.—Claims exceeding one league square. These ought never to be confirmed. It appears from all the Spanish documents, such as official letters, &c., that it never was intended by that Government to make any gratuities beyond the quantity of one league square. They say that if the claimant had force sufficient to put in value (as they term it) more than that quantity, he must be rich, and therefore could purchase lands. See report, page 516, the claims of J. Clamorgan for some large claims.

Class 22d.—Claims under fraudulent concessions, Ly ante date. See the claim of A. Tison, report, pages 463 and 464, and observations of the Board; also Jacques St. Vrain, report, pages 488, 489, and 490; pages 506 and 507; pages 516 and 517; see also the claim of Louis Labeaume, report, pages 506 and 507; and the remarks of the Board, page 507, at the last claim of Jacques St. Vrain.

Class 23d.—Claims under concession made fraudulent by alterations, &c. See report, page 389, the claim of James Mackay. This claim is for a valuable salt spring, and has been omitted in the report of salines, from its being decided on at an early period of the sessions of the Board, and it was supposed at that time that the claimant would offer further testimony.

The claims under the first class, although not embraced by the Spanish ordinances, ought, nevertheless, to be confirmed as far as the league square, under the practice of the same Governors and Intendants General who issued those ordinances. See the abstract in your office, a copy of which was transmitted to the Board.

The claims embraced by the second, third, fourth, and fifth classes, should, in justice to the claimants, be confirmed. I am confident they would have been under the Spanish Government; and perhaps those under the sixth and seventh classes ought also to be. These would, no doubt, have been so under the Spanish Government, provided they claimed no other tract of land in the district. It will, however, be necessary, in order to avoid fraud, to except all such claims as are declared fraudulent by either Board, (the former and that of revision; those in which either Board have required further proof of the date of concession, &c., as in the claim of David Dalauney, report, pages 458 and 559; and all such claims as shall be found in any connected plat of survey.

The claims under the eighth class, I have said, ought to be confirmed, recorded or not. If this be done, it will be unnecessary to open the office for the record of any claims, (those, however, excepted, of Arkansas, formerly received by Mr. Bates;) there will then be but few of any merit remaining. Those may be petitioned for individually. This mode will cost the United States much less than to open the office; as, if that be done, a great number of fraudulent claims will be entered, as both the last Lieutenant Governors are within reach. There will also be many frivolous pretensions presented, as was the case last time the office was opened, and which occupied more time in investigation than any other species of claim. If there be any more admitted to record, it should be such as are proven to the satisfaction of the recorder, (or some other person authorized therefor,) either that the papers were lost or mislaid, or the claimants were absent, or under age, during the time the office was formerly open.

The ninth class ought to be confirmed. They would have been, under every practice we have seen, had the Spanish Government continued the possession. Usage and custom, according to our construction, could not have existed in that country.

The eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth classes ought to be granted; they may be included in one section, with limitations.

The seventeenth class may be provided for in future. Classes eighteen and nineteen ought probably to be granted.

The twentieth class has some merit, but it might be incorrect in me to give any opinion thereon.

In all the confirmations or grants made from this time, there ought to be a clause providing that they should not interfere with any claims heretofore ascertained, confirmed, or granted.

I have said nothing of claims under concession, dated subsequent to the 1st of October, 1800, as I presume they will never be recognised by our Government.

There may be some claims of merit not embraced by this classification; they will, however, be few, and can be petitioned for individually.

The special report, page 546; the report of lead mines, pages 551 to 559; the report of salt springs, pages 558 and 557, and sixteen claims ordered to be surveyed, but the survey not returned, I shall not take the liberty at this time to comment on.

There are a few claims entered by persons settled without permission on, subsequent to the 20th Dec. 1803.

The claims confirmed or granted by the above statement would satisfy the greater majority of bona fide claimants. I think the greatest quantity of land thus disposed of could not exceed eight hundred thousand arpents.

All which is respectfully submitted by your most obedient servant,

CLEMENT B. PENROSE.

The Hon. A. GALLATIN,

Secretary of the United States Treasury.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 21th, 1812.

SIR: In addition to the communication I did myself the honor to make to you on the 20th instant, containing a classification of claims, which if examined with the references therein made, will be found to show the claims in almost every shade of merit and demerit they possess, permit me to offer you the following condensation of those classes.

It may not be improper to observe, that, if you construe the ordinances and official letters of the Spanish Government, which have come to the knowledge of the commissioners, strictly, not one claim could have been confirmed. These ordinances were never practised under the Spanish Government, and have been considered by me as lex inusitata. Usage and custom, under our construction, could not be in that country; I therefore could only be guided by the practice under that Government, which I collect from the concessions, &c. in claims confirmed by the Board.

The five following classes will include nearly all such claims as have sufficient merit to be confirmed. This will be seen by examining the references I have made to the report.

Class 1st.—Claims derived from French or Spanish order of survey or concession, dated prior to the 1st of October, 1800, exceeding eight hundred arpents, but not exceeding one league square, and which have been either inhabited or cultivated prior to the 20th December, 1803, or which have been granted for the purpose of building mills, or for works of other public utility, where the terms expressed in the grant have been complied with. See report, pages 389, 495, and 503.

Class 2d.—Claims derived, as in the foregoing class, not exceeding eight hundred arpents, granted for services rendered, or for building mills, or for works of other public utility, and where the services have been proved to have been performed, or where the terms on which the grant was made have been complied with. See report, page 468.

Class 3d.—Claims derived as in the former classes, not exceeding eight hundred arpents, where the claimant has had no other tract granted or confirmed, and which are not included in any connected plat of survey, or where further proof of the written evidence has not been required, or which have not been declared fraudulent either by the former Board or the Board of Revision. See report, page 452.

Class 4th.—Claims that have been either inhabited or cultivated prior to, or on the 20th December, 1803, with or without permission. See report, pages 399, 403, 462.

Class 5th.—Claims for towns or villages, their common fields or field lots, and their commons, either recorded or not recorded.

By the spirit of the ordinances, all these claims would have been confirmed or granted, although not embraced by the strict letter of those ordinances. The Spanish Government, to gain a subject, would have given land; and agriculture being their object, every thing which would have promoted it would have been done. Rewarding services with land was an easy manner of paying debts, where land was considered of so little value. This mode was a convenience to the people of Upper Louisiana, as they were otherwise under the necessity of taking livranzas on Government at New Orleans, and, in order to get the cash, make great sacrifices in premiums for collection; and as I presume the intention of our Government must be to do such justice to their newly acquired citizens as would have been done by that Government of whom they were purchased, there can be no hesitation in confirming or granting such claims as are comprehended in the five foregoing classes.

With sentiments of the highest respect,

I have the honor to be your obedient servant.

CLEMENT B. PENROSE.

Secretary of the United States Treasury.

26th class.—Claims of the eighth class, as aforesaid.

27th class.—Claims of the ninth class, as aforesaid.

28th class.—All of the foregoing twenty-seven descriptions of claims located by having some particular situation or place specially called for in the warrant or order of survey.

29th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims surveyed prior to the 1st October, 1800.

30th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims surveyed subsequent to the 1st October, 1800, and prior to the 20th December, 1803.

31st class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims surveyed subsequent to the 20th December, 1803.

32d class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims possessed by the claimants having the usufruct thereof, such as cutting timber thereon, mowing hay, digging ditches, or quarrying stone, prior to the 1st October, 1800.

33d class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims possessed as aforesaid, subsequent to the 1st October, 1800, and prior to the 20th December, 1803.

34th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims inhabited prior to the 1st October, 1800.

35th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims inhabited subsequent to the 1st October, 1800, and prior to the 20th December, 1803.

36th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims cultivated prior to the 1st October, 1800.

37th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims cultivated subsequent to the 1st October, 1800, and prior to the 20th December, 1803.

38th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims inhabited and cultivated prior to the 1st October, 1800.

39th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims inhabited and cultivated subsequent to the 1st October, 1800, and prior to the 20th December, 1803.

40th class.—All of the first twenty-seven descriptions of claims possessed, inhabited, or cultivated, or ownership in any manner exercised over the same, by the claimant, subsequent to the 20th December, 1803.

42d class.—Claims inhabited prior to the 20th December, 1803, but not cultivated till 1804, with permission, &c. proven.

43d class.—The same as aforesaid, without permission being proven.

44th class.—Claims inhabited and cultivated prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, without permission being proven.

45th class.—Permissions to settle proven, but the land neither inhabited nor cultivated until after the 20th December, 1803.

46th class.—Permission to settle, without location, except as to a particular district.

47th class.—Permissions to settle located and surveyed, but not actually settled.

48th class.—Claims settled, inhabited, and cultivated, prior to the 1st October, 1800, but the same not continued until the 20th December, 1803.

49th class.—Villages, commons, common fields, and lands adjacent, given to the inhabitants individually for cultivation, possessed prior to the 20th December, 1803.

The foregoing table or list is intended to show the claims of Louisiana in all the variety of shades in which it is possible for the claimants to place them; out of which a selection may be made of such as are not yet provided for by law, but nevertheless ought, in justice, to be confirmed or granted to the claimant. I beg leave to suggest the following for consideration, to wit: the third and ninth classes, with any of the additional merits contained in the twenty-eighth, twenty-ninth, or thirtieth description attached to them. The twelfth, eighteenth, and twenty-fourth classes, with any of the additional merits contained in the thirty-second, thirty-third, thirty-fourth, thirty-fifth, thirty-sixth, thirty-seventh, thirty-eighth, and thirty-ninth descriptions attached to them. The forty-second, forty-third, and forty-fourth classes have great merit, and ought to be provided for. It is believed that no actual settlement was made in Louisiana without the express permission of a proper Spanish officer. In fact the known vigilance of that Government was such as to prevent an idea of that kind being entertained a moment. Even the subjects of Spain, old residents of the country, were not permitted to travel from one village to another, a distance of not more than twenty miles, without obtaining from the commandant a passport, in which was specially stated the road to be travelled, going and returning. Under these circumstances, it is impossible that any settlements could have been made without the knowledge of the Government.

The forty-ninth class will comprise nearly one-fourth in number of all the claims in the Territory of Louisiana, and, if confirmed at once by the outer lines of a survey to be made by the principal deputy, would give general satisfaction, and save the United States a deal of useless investigation into subjects that are merely matters of individual dispute. The United States can claim no rights over the same, except a few solitary village lots and inconsiderable vacant spots, of little value, which might be given to the inhabitants for the support of schools. The villages established prior to the 20th December, 1803, are as follows, to wit: In St. Charles district—St. Charles and Portage des Sioux; in St. Louis district—St. Louis, St. Ferdinand, Marais des Liards, and Carondelet; in St. Genevieve district—St. Genevieve and New Bourbon; in New Madrid district—New Madrid and Little Prairie; in Arkansas district—Arkansas.

No. 201.

CLAIMS TO LAND IN THE MISSISSIPPI TERRITORY DERIVED FROM THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT OF WEST FLORIDA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES MAY 29, 1812.

Mr. JEREMIAH MORROW, from the Committee on the Public Lands, according to a resolution directing them to inquire what provision ought to be made respecting lands granted by the British Government of West Florida, not subsequently regranted by the Spanish Government, and the claims to which have been filed, according to law, with the proper Register of the Land Office in the Mississippi Territory, made the following report:

That the grants for lands made by the British Government of West Florida, as in most other of the British provinces, contained a clause of forfeiture, unless the lands should be improved within a limited term. The fulfilment of this condition of the grant has, in few cases, been complied with; in many instances, the grantees were prevented by Indian hostilities and the Spanish conquest. It is alleged by the claimants under these grants, that the condition of settlement was only a matter of form, and that it never was enforced by the British Government in case of default. It would appear, however, that the Spanish Government, who took possession of the country by right of conquest, in the year 1781, considered all unimproved lands as forfeited; that, after prolonging for two or three years, the term stipulated by the treaty of 1783, for British subjects to sell their lands, and inviting the grantees, by proclamation, to comply with the conditions of their grants, or surrender them to the Spanish authorities, they indiscriminately granted the unoccupied lands, whether the same had been previously granted by the British Government or not; and it appears that the greater part of the lands in the Mississippi Territory, which had been formerly granted to the British Government, were subsequently re-granted by the Spanish Government. The conflicting claims thus arising under British and Spanish grants have not been made the subjects of any legislative provision. If it is competent to any department of our Government to revise, or to decide on the validity of the official acts of the Spanish functionaries (respecting grants for land) when they were exercising the power of sovereignty over the country, it must ultimately rest with the judicial tribunals.

With respect to claims under British grants for lands which had not been regranted by the Spanish Government, the claimants, who were actual settlers within the Mississippi Territory on the 27th of October, 1795, have been confirmed in their grants, by the articles of agreement and cession between the United States and the State of Georgia; and that portion of the claimants who were not embraced by the aforesaid articles, their claims have been reported by the Commissioners of Land Claims for the decision of Congress. The law directs that the land contained in such grants shall not be disposed of, until Congress otherwise direct.

The committee, after due consideration and examination into the situation of the lands and nature of the grants, are of opinion that the claims described in the resolution, and embraced in the report of the commissioners, ought to be confirmed, and ask leave to report a bill for that purpose.

EXTENSION OF THE TIME OF PAYMENT FOR PUBLIC LANDS GRANTED TO ASSIGNEES

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES JUNE 20, 1812.

Mr. JEREMIAH MORROW, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of a number of the inhabitants of the Indiana Territory, made the following report:

That the petitioners represent their inability, owing to Indian hostility, the consequent destruction of their property, and the general scarcity of money, to make payment for the lands they have purchased, or are bound to pay for as assignees of purchasers from the United States; and that they are excluded from the benefit of the provisions of the act extending the time for making payment, by the limitation which confines the indulgence to the purchasers of tracts not exceeding six hundred and forty acres. They pray that the said act may be so amended as to embrace their case.

The committee are of opinion that the distinction made by the act complained of, and former acts on the same subject, between the purchasers of large tracts for the purpose of speculation, and small tracts for settlement and cultivation, are dictated by justice and sound policy. They, however, believe that a second-hand purchaser of a tract not exceeding six hundred and forty acres, who has improved the lands purchased, and bound to make payment therefor, ought to be brought within the provisions of the aforesaid act.

The committee having already reported a bill "supplementary to the act extending the time for payment," &c. which bill has been referred to a Committee of the Whole House, they will propose an amendment, whenever the House shall act on the subject providing for the case of the petitioners.

LAND CLAIMS IN THE LOUISIANA TERRITORY.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
June 23, 1812.

Sir: I enclose a copy of a report of the Land Commissioners at St. Louis, directed to be made by the sixth section of an act of Congress, page 310 of the volume of land laws;

And have the honor to be,

Very respectfully, sir,

Your obedient servant,

EDWARD TIFFIN.

HON. JEREMIAH MORROW,
Chairman of the Land Committee, H. R.

The translation of which is as follows:

"Granted as it is demanded, under the restrictions mentioned by the merchant Don Andrew Todd in his information."

In an additional article to a treaty made by William Henry Harrison with the united tribes of the Sacs and Fox Indians, dated November 3, 1804, it is agreed that nothing in said treaty shall affect the claim of any individual or individuals who may have obtained grants of lands from the Spanish Government, and which are not included within the general boundary line laid down in said treaty; provided that such grants have at any time been made known to the said tribes, and recognised by them.

Certificate.

I, the undersigned, William Henry Harrison, Governor of the Territory of Louisiana, and commissioner plenipotentiary of the United States for treating with the Indian tribes northwest of the Ohio, do hereby certify and declare, that, after the treaty which was made with the Sacs and Foxes, at St. Louis, on the 3d day of November, 1804, was drawn up and prepared for signing, I was shown a grant from the Governor General of Louisiana, to a certain Dubugue, for a considerable quantity of land, at some distance up the Mississippi, and where the said Dubugue has for many years resided. Finding that this tract could be considered as receded by the treaty as it then stood, the additional article was written and submitted to the Indians. They readily consented to it; and the undersigned informed them that the intention of it was to embrace particularly the claim of Dubugue, the validity of which they acknowledged.

Given under my hand and seal, at Vincennes, the 1st day of January, 1806.

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON.

And, lastly, a bill of sale of one-half of said tract to said Auguste Chouteau by said Julian Dubugue, dated the 20th October, 1804.

A majority of the Board (the honorable John B. C. Lucas dissenting) ascertain the above claim to be a complete Spanish title.

The foregoing is truly copied from the minutes of the Board.

Given under my hand, as clerk of said Board, at St. Louis, June 1st, 1811.

THOMAS F. RIDDICK.

At a sitting of the Board of Commissioners for ascertaining and adjusting land claims in the Territory of Louisiana, held at St. Louis, on the 20th September, 1806, were present a full Board, to wit, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and James Lowry Donaldson, commissioners.

JULIAN DUBUGUE and AUGUSTE CHOUTEAU claim a tract of one hundred and forty-eight thousand one hundred and seventy-six arpents of land, situate on the river Mississippi, at a place called the Spanish Mines, about four hundred and forty miles from St. Louis, forming in superficies an extent of about twenty-one leagues. They produce, first, a petition by the said Julian Dubugue to the Baron de Carondelet, praying for the peaceable possession of an extent of land of about seven leagues on the west side of the Mississippi, beginning at the heights of Macquantitons, to the heights of Musquantinagues, being in front on said river about seven leagues, by a depth of three leagues, the whole forming the said tract called the Spanish Mines; together with a reference by the Baron de Carondelet to one Andrew Todd, an Indian trader, of the above demand, under the date of the 22d October, 1796, with the assent of said Andrew Todd to the granting of the same, provided the said petitioner should not interfere with his trade; the same dated 29th October, same year.

The decree of the Baron de Carondelet is in the form following:

"Concedo, como se solicita, baxo las restricciones que el comerciante Don Andrés Todd expresa en su informe. 10 Noviembre, 1796.

"EL BARON DE CARONDELET."

LEAD MINES IN THE LOUISIANA TERRITORY.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES JUNE 25, 1812.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
June 24, 1812.

Sir: I have the honor to enclose a report of the Land Commissioners at St. Louis relative to the lead mines, in obedience to a provision contained in the sixth section of an act of Congress, page 310 of the volume of land laws.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Sir, your obedient servant,

LAND CLAIMS IN THE DISTRICT OF VINCENNES.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE JUNE 26, 1812.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
June 25, 1812.

SIR: I have the honor to enclose a copy of the report of the commissioners for the district of Vincennes, made in pursuance of an act of Congress passed on the 30th of April, 1810; for which I beg leave to refer you to pages 279 and 280 of the volume of land laws.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,
Sir, your obedient servant,
EDWARD TIFFIN.

The Hon. PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE of the United States.

COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE, VINCENNES,
May 27, 1812.

SIR: The commissioners for examining claims to lands in the district of Vincennes, in pursuance of the act of Congress of the 30th day of April, 1810, entitled "An act providing for the sale of certain lands in the Indiana Territory, and for other purposes," beg leave to report:

That their examination being, by the provisions of the said act, strictly confined to donations or gratuitous grants made by resolutions or acts of Congress, they have not gone into the merit of claims founded upon French or British grants, or supposed rights derived from concessions of courts and commandants, as not coming within the purview of the said act; and have therefore rejected them.

Document marked A is a list of such description of claims.

Document marked B is a list of claims coming within the purview of the law, but rejected for want of evidence in support thereof.

Document marked C is a list of claims, exhibited to the former Board of Commissioners, and on which they had made their decisions, which are rejected, as not entitled to the benefits of the said act.

Document marked D contains the claims, and evidence in support thereof, which, in opinion of the commissioners, ought to be confirmed, had they not been excluded by the provisions of the said act; confining the benefits thereof to those who were minors, or absent, at the time formerly appointed by law for registering claims to land.

Document marked E contains a list of claims, which, in the opinion of the commissioners, ought to be confirmed, arranged conformably to the method adopted in their former reports, and exhibiting the original, the present claimants, and the persons to whom they ought to be respectively confirmed.

Document marked F contains a list of claims rejected on their merits, and the substance of the evidence adduced in support thereof;

And document marked G contains some special cases. The imperious duties of the Land Office, the unavoidable interruptions arising therefrom, and the negligence of claimants in bringing their testimony, have been the principal causes which have protracted the conclusion of this business.

We are, sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,

JOHN BADOLLET,

ALBERT GALLATIN, Esq.,

Secretary of the Treasury, city of Washington.

D.

A transcript of rejected claims, which, in the opinion of the commissioners, ought to have been confirmed, had they not been barred by the fourth section of the act of Congress, entitled "An act providing for the sale of certain lands in the Indiana Territory, and for other purposes."

The claim of the HEIRS OF FRANÇOIS PELTIER for a donation of four hundred acres. It is proved that François Peltier, father of the claimant, lived at Vincennes before and after the country was taken possession of by the Americans; that he kept house, and died about twenty-five years ago; that Pierre Peltier is the only surviving child, and has always lived at Vincennes. By references to the records of the Catholic church, it further appears, that Pierre, the only surviving child and heir, was born in February, 1783, and was of course of age when the Register's office was first opened for receiving notices of claims. The opinion of the commissioners is, that the claim is just; but as the claimant was neither a minor nor an absentee during the time allowed by law for registering claims to land, it is rejected on that ground only.

The claim of RENE CAMPEAU for a militia donation of one hundred acres. It is proved that claimant was on the militia roll at Vincennes from the year 1786, until the year 1795. By the act of the 3d of March, 1791, claimant would be entitled; but his absence from the territory during the time allowed by law for registering claims to land not being proved, the claim is rejected on that ground.

The claim of FRANÇOIS CARDINAL for a militia donation of one hundred acres. It is proved that claimant did militia duty at Vincennes, under deponent, for two years previous to the marching of Colonel Hamtramck up the Wabash, (that is to say, the fall of the year 1790,) and that he was ordered to march with said expedition. He therefore would be entitled, under the above recited act; but it not being established that he was absent from the territory during the time allowed by law for registering claims to land, the claim is rejected on that ground only.

The claim of the HEIRS OF BERNICE LEFEVRE for a donation of four hundred acres. It is proved that Bernice Lefevre was married, and kept at Vincennes, when Captain Helms took possession of the country; that he died in the year 1779 or 1780; that he left no children, but left two nieces and one nephew living in Vincennes. No evidence being adduced of the existence of any other legal representatives, under age, or absent, at the time fixed by law for registering claims to land, the present claim, which would under other circumstances be confirmed, is rejected for the want of such evidence.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JEAN BAPTISTE VALCOUR for a donation of four hundred acres. It is proved that the father of the claimant was at Vincennes when the Americans took possession of the country; that he had a family, lived and kept house therein, until about twenty-seven years ago, when he died; that his eldest son, who is now the only heir, according to one witness, is twenty-six or twenty-seven years old, and according to another witness forty-two years, and has always lived in Vincennes. He therefore was neither a minor nor an absentee during the time allowed by law for registering claims to land. The claim, otherwise just, is rejected on the same grounds as the preceding.

F.

A transcript of claims which have been rejected on their merits.

The claim of the HEIRS OF PIERRE BORGNE, alias BELFIN, for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Pierre Borgne came to Vincennes a soldier, under General Clark, in the year 1779; that he was a single man; rented deponent's house for a year, wherein he worked at his trade, in partnership with one Cantard, for about nine months; after which he went and lived with one Lavolette, about three months; at the end of which he left the country, and has never lived in it since. Of the circumstances stated, not one is of such a nature as to bring this case under the act of Congress of the 3d of March, 1791. The claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF CHARLES BONNEAU for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that the claimant's father came to Vincennes before the Americans took possession of the country; that he kept house. But no evidence being adduced to establish the precise time of his death, whether before or since the expedition of General Clark, the claim is rejected.

The claim of SAMUEL BRADLEY for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant came to Vincennes in the year 1785; lived and did militia duty therein until 1788; went to Kentucky, and returned in 1789; that he then went to Kentucky to join his family, whom he moved to Vienna, on Green river; that he came to Vincennes on business, in July or August, 1790, where he was detained until October, waiting for company to return home with. It is further proved, that he was ordered to go on Colonel Hamtramck's expedition, (in that year;) was seen on the parade, with a gun on his shoulder, but did not go. From the circumstances stated, it appears that claimant was not a settled inhabitant of Vincennes, but a traveller, whose place of residence was Kentucky; that he was accidentally detained by apprehension of the Indians, and waited for company. The opinion of the commissioners is, that the benefits of the act of 1791, in relation to militiamen, apply only to the inhabitants, and not to sojourners; the claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of JOHN BAYLIS, or BAYLESS, for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant came to Vincennes as an officer, under General Clark; that he married in the winter of 1780 or 1781, and went to live in a house with his wife, in the back part of the town, but whether he resigned his commission is not known; that he went away about the time the troops of General Clark left Vincennes, but did not go with them; the troops went by water, and the claimant by land. From the above statement, it appears that claimant can be viewed in no other light than that of an officer of General Clark, to whom, no more than the privates, the act of 1791, in relation to heads of families, can by no means apply. It may also be observed, that the officers and privates of the Illinois regiment have been provided for elsewhere. The claim is rejected.

The claim of PIERRE BEAUPRE for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant came to Vincennes about twenty years ago, that is, in 1785, kept house therein by himself for two years, when he went away. Claimant having come two years subsequent to the year 1783, does not come within the purview of the act of 1791. The claim is rejected.

The claim of JEAN BAPTISTE CHICOTTE for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant lived in Vincennes before and after the Americans took possession of the country; was a single man, and lived with his brother. Claimant cannot be considered as the head of a family. The claim is rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF VICTAL CARRON for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Victal Carron lived at Vincennes, and kept house; but died before the Americans took possession of the country. The claim is rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF FRANÇOIS DUMAY for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that claimants' father lived in Vincennes, and was about twelve years old when the country was taken possession of by the Americans. Claimants' father could not have been the head of a family on and before the year 1783. The claim is rejected.

The claim of PIERRE DUMAY for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant was on the militia roll, and did militia duty at Vincennes, but it is uncertain at what time; that he left Vincennes four or five years before Colonel Hamtramck's expedition against the Indians, in the year 1790. The claim is rejected, as not coming within the purview of the act of 1791.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JOSEPH DUMAY for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Joseph Dumay came to Vincennes about thirty-eight years ago, and lived there until about nine years ago, when he died; that he acted as an interpreter at the United States' garrison at Vincennes, and at Greenville, in 1795; but it is not known whether he was enrolled in the militia, and it is believed by deponent that he was exempted by being interpreter. The benefit of the act of 1791 cannot be extended to Joseph Dumay without a forced construction. The claim is rejected.

The claim of ISAAC T. DECKER for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant did militia duty in the summer of 1790, at the river Dechis station, about six miles from Vincennes; that claimant is older than deponent's son Moses, who was born in the year 1780, and who has received a militia donation from the Governor, (when acting as commissioner.) It does not appear that claimant was enrolled on the 1st of August, 1790; but, on the contrary, was not of sufficient age to be enrolled or to do militia duty. The claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JOSETTE FAUVELLE for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Josette Fauvelle was the wife of Jean Baptiste Ravelet, who left Vincennes about the year 1777, leaving his wife and family behind, and has never returned; that she left Vincennes before Captain Helms took possession of the country, that is, in June, 1778. The claim is rejected.

The claim of CHARLES FINLEY for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant came to Vincennes in the year 1786; staid about six months, and went away; returned to Vincennes with the Kentucky militia, who went with Colonel Hamtramck against the Indians, up the Wabash, in the year 1790. From which fact it appears that claimant was not a resident at Vincennes. The provisions of the act of 1791, in behalf of militiamen at Vincennes, cannot apply to him; the claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JEAN BAPTISTE FOIZY for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Jean Baptiste Foizy lived in Vincennes in the year 1786; did militia duty therein; went with General Clark against the Indians, in the same year; that he left the country in the year 1787, and has never returned. He cannot come under the law of 1791. The claim is rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF VITAL GOYAUX for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Vital Goyaux lived at Vincennes when the country was taken possession of by the Americans; that he was a single man; and it is not known to deponent that he kept house, or when he went away. The claim is rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF ANTOINE GOYAUX for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Antoine Goyaux lived in Vincennes when the country was taken possession of by the Americans; that he was a single man; that, about thirty-three years ago, he, deponent, and a certain Mr. Larsh lived together, and kept house for one year. He cannot be viewed as the head of a family. The claim is rejected.

The claim of CHARLES LOGNON for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that the claimant was a trader, and kept store at Vincennes, when the country was taken possession of by the Americans.

sion of by the Americans; was a single man, and lived with his brother; that he married about twenty years ago; and remained at Vincennes until about ten years ago, when he went away. He cannot be viewed as the head of a family between the years of 1779 and 1783. The claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of VINCENT LA FOY for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant lived at Vincennes before and after the Americans took possession of the country; was a single man; had cattle, and kept house in company with a certain Doctor Oliver, who was also a single man, but whether before or after the country was taken delonout does not recollect; that, after leaving Oliver, he lived with Angelique Mallet and a Mr. Cartin. From this statement, claimant cannot be viewed as the head of a family; therefore the claim is rejected.

The claim of JEAN BAPTISTE LANGLOIS for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved claimant did militia duty at Vincennes twenty-one years ago next September. (to wit, September, 1790,) in Captain Edeline's company, wherein he remained as a private until about fourteen or fifteen years ago, that he has continued in the country ever since. It not appearing, by any testimony adduced, that claimant did militia duty previous to and on the 1st of August, 1790, the claim is rejected.

The claim of LUKE MATSON for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant did militia duty in the summer of the year 1790, at the river Dechis station, about six miles from Vincennes; that he is, perhaps two years older than deponent's son Moses, who was born in the year 1790. At such a tender age, the claimant's services as a militiaman could not be of any real importance; and the act of 1791 cannot be understood to apply to children, but to effective militiamen. The claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of FRANCOIS PEPIN for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that there was a voyager of that name in Vincennes; the time of his arrival or departure is not known, nor any other circumstances concerning him. The claim is rejected.

The claim of ALEXIS ROULEAUX for a militia donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant lived at Vincennes before and after the Americans took possession of the country; that he was a blacksmith, and kept a shop of his own; was a single man, and lived with one Cornoyer. He cannot be considered the head of a family, therefore the claim is rejected.

The claim of JACOB PEA for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant did militia duty at Vincennes in the years 1785, 1786 and 1787, and then went away; it is not known whether he was at Vincennes in the year 1790. By the usual construction of the act of 1791, in favor of militiamen, those only who, having done militia duty, were found on the roll on the 1st of August, 1790, are entitled to the grant of one hundred acres. The claimant, in this case, being absent long before, and at that time, cannot be entitled. The claim is rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JOSEPH PATTERSON for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Joseph Patterson was an effective militiaman at Vincennes, in the year 1786; was wounded by the Indians, at the battle on Embarras creek, in the same year; staid at Vincennes some time, and went away to have his wounds cured, and has since died. This case cannot be considered as embraced by the law of 1791, for reasons assigned in the foregoing case. The claim is rejected.

The claim of JOHN RICHARDSON for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that the claimant lived in and did militia duty at Vincennes in the years 1785 and 1786, and went away in 1787. This case cannot be considered as coming within the purview of the act of 1791, for the reasons assigned in the foregoing cases. The claim is rejected.

The claim of EDMUND HOGEN for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant came to Vincennes in the year 1786, did militia duty therein for about a year, and then went away. This case not being considered as embraced by the law of 1791, for the reasons assigned in the foregoing cases, the claim is rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JOHN GLASS for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that John Glass came to Vincennes in the year 1785; that he was in the battle on Embarras creek with the Indians; that he piloted General Harmar from the mouth of the Pigeon, on the Ohio, to Vincennes, and died in the latter end of the year 1788. The claim is rejected for the foregoing reasons.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JOEL BAKER for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Joel Baker came to Vincennes in the year 1785, and did militia duty therein; was in the battle of Embarras in 1786; some time afterwards he went on a hunting party with some Indians, and was heard of no more; common report says he was killed by the Indians. The claim is rejected for the same reasons as above.

The claim of the HEIRS OF ANTOINE RIMBEAULT for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Antoine Rimbeault was living with his father in Vincennes when the Americans took possession of the country; that his said father left Vincennes before that event; that he continued to live, with the rest of the children, in the father's house, after the said father had gone away; that Pierre, the eldest brother, was married, but whether he lived with Antoine is not known; that Pierre was killed by the Indians; that Antoine afterwards went on La Balme's expedition against Detroit, in the fall of the year 1780, and was also killed by the Indians. From which statement, no circumstance appears which could constitute Antoine Rimbeault the head of a family. The claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JEAN BAPTISTE TRUDELL for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Jean Bte. Trudell came to Vincennes with General Clark, from the Illinois, when he came to take possession of the country, but had lived there before; that he remained in Vincennes many years after the country was taken; that he was not married, nor did he possess a house of his own, though sometimes he lived by himself, and sometimes he boarded with others. The claim is rejected.

The claim of JAMES TALBERT for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that claimant did militia duty at the river Dechis station, about six miles from Vincennes, in the year 1790, but whether he was enrolled is not known; that he stood his draught when Colonel Hamstrawck marched up the Wabash, in the fall of that year. No evidence is adduced to prove that claimant did militia duty before or on the 1st of August, 1790. For the want of such evidence, the claim is rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JEAN MARIE BARROIS for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Jean Marie Barrois lived at Vincennes before and after the Americans took possession of the country, was a single man, and kept house himself. The same witness, being re-examined, said, that he sometimes lived by himself, and sometimes with his brother; that he never had a family. By a liberal construction of the second section of the act of Congress of 1791, relating to donations, former commissioners have granted four hundred acres of land to such unmarried men as kept house with working people or servants, viewing them as real heads of families. But, in the opinion of the present commissioners, such a departure from the letter, if not the spirit, of the law, which seems to have had in view husbands and fathers only, cannot be justified without the aforesaid circumstances being clearly established. In the present case, no such thing is made apparent; and the vague expression of the witness, that Jean Marie Barrois kept house, (tenoit ménage;) which is even explained away by these words, "he lived sometimes by himself and sometimes with his brother," repels the idea of a permanent mode of life, can hardly mean any thing else than that Jean Marie Barrois boarded himself, and does not constitute him the head of a family, either in a strict or in an enlarged sense. The claim is therefore rejected.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JEAN MOISE MALBOUEF for a donation of four hundred acres.

It is proved that Jean Moise Malbouef was in Vincennes thirty-six or thirty-seven years ago; that he had a house and lot, and was the head of a family, and lived therein until about the year 1787 or 1788, when he went away, and has never returned. Another witness proves that he married in the year 1785, and was a hunter. Another, that he was a day laborer, and sometimes hunted; that he had a house and lot of his own on and before the year 1783, wherein he lived by himself, but had no family until the year 1785, when he married, at the falls of Ohio. The general and vague expression that Jean Moise Malbouef was head of a family on and before the year 1783, used by one witness, is explained away by the circumstantial evidence of the other two, who state facts not to be mistaken. The commissioners cannot see that Jean Moise Malbouef was head of a family, within the meaning of the act of 1791. The claim is rejected, for reasons assigned in the preceding case.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JOSEPH ST. MARIE RACINE for a donation of four hundred acres.

One witness proves that Joseph St. Marie Racine lived at Vincennes before the Americans took possession of the country, but he does not know whether he was alive when that event took place; that he was never married, but kept house. Another states the same circumstances, with this difference only, that he believes he was alive when the country was taken by the Americans. The want of positive proof that Joseph St. Marie Racine was living when the country came into possession of the Americans, (for the vague expression of one of the witnesses, that he believes he was, is far from establishing that fact,) would be a reasonable ground of rejection; but the fact being well established that he was a single man, and the total want of evidence of every circumstance which would induce a belief that he lived at the head of working people, or other dependants, forbids the liberal extension of the law to this case. The claim is therefore rejected, for the same reasons as in the preceding cases.

G.

SPECIAL CASES.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JOSEPH PANCAKE for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Joseph Pancake was an effective militiaman at Vincennes, 1786; that he was with and under deponent's (John Small's) command, in the same year, at the engagement with the Indians on Embarras, where he was killed.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JACOB HOWELL for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Jacob Howell was an effective militiaman at Vincennes, in the year 1786; that he commanded a party at the engagement with the Indians on Embarras, wherein he was killed.

The claim of the HEIRS OF ALEXANDER WILSON for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Alexander Wilson came to Vincennes in the year 1784; that he lived and did militia duty therein until the year 1786, when he was killed by the Indians in the Embarras engagement.

The claim of the HEIRS OF DANIEL SULLIVAN for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Daniel Sullivan came to Vincennes in the year 1785, where he did militia duty until the year 1790; in the month of April of which year he was killed by the Indians.

The claim of the HEIRS OF JACOB TEVEBAUGH for a militia donation of one hundred acres.

It is proved that Jacob Tevebaugh came to Vincennes in the year 1785, did militia duty therein until the year 1790, and that, in the month of April of the same year, he was killed by the Indians, with Daniel Sullivan.

Preceding commissioners have construed the provisions of the act of 1791, relating to militia grants, strictly, rejecting the claim of those who had left the country before the 1st of August, 1790, and although they had done militia duty for years before; and granted one hundred acres to such as, however recently arrived in the country, happened to be on the muster roll on that day. The present commissioners entertain some doubts on the correctness of that construction, and were inclined to believe that more liberality would accord better with the intentions of Congress. They could not entirely reject the idea that the clause of the act of 1791 in favor of militiamen went to provide a reward of one hundred acres of land for every man who, not having received the donations allotted to the heads of families, had done militia duty during their residence in the country, since it had come under the American Government; and that the enrolment on the 1st of August, 1790, was required as evidence of the performance of that duty, rather than a condition indispensable for obtaining the bounty. Fully sensible, however, of the importance and necessity of a uniform system of decisions, they have hitherto made no innovations therein in relation to militia claims, and have rejected those which were predicated upon performance of militia duty not extended to the first of August, 1790. But the foregoing claims present themselves under a very different aspect. The several persons in whose right the bounty of one hundred acres is demanded by their representatives, not only did militia duty, but lost their lives; some in the actual performance of that duty, and all by the hands of the common enemy. To have peremptorily rejected them would have savored of injustice; to have confirmed them would, perhaps, have been too great a deviation from the letter, if not the spirit, of the law and mode hitherto adopted in the decisions on land claims. Under these circumstances, the commissioners, under a strong impression of the equity of the claims alluded to, have deemed it proper to lay the whole, in the form of a special report, under the view of Congress, who alone can grant the relief which the law puts (perhaps) out of the power of the commissioners to award; and feel no hesitation in expressing their opinion that the respective claimants ought to receive the bounty of one hundred acres, earned at the expense of the blood of their fathers and relatives.

LAND CLAIMS IN THE MISSOURI TERRITORY.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE, December, 1, 1812.

SIR: In obedience to the requisitions of an act of Congress respecting claims to land in the Territories of Orleans and Louisiana, I have the honor to transmit a report of the commissioners for ascertaining and adjusting the titles and claims to land in the Territory of Louisiana, (now Missouri,) of all the claims filed with the Recorder which have not been confirmed or granted, in two large bound books, marked and numbered 1 and

2. It is respectfully requested that, when wanted, they may be furnished the Senate, and, at the close of the session, be returned to this office for safe keeping.

I have the honor to be, with great respect,

Sir, your obedient servant,

The Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives of the U. S.

Report of the commissioners for ascertaining and adjusting the titles and claims to land in the Territory of Louisiana, of all the claims filed with the Recorder which have not been confirmed or granted.

JOHN SMITH T., assignee of Seth Hunt, who was assignee of Henry Dodge, deputy sheriff of the district of St. Genevieve, who sold the same as the property of Pierre Belote, claiming five hundred arpents of land, situate on Grande river, in the district of St. Genevieve, produces to the Board a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to Pierre Belote, dated 5th September, 1799; a deed of transfer from Henry Dodge, deputy sheriff, to Seth Hunt, dated 25th April, 1805; a deed of transfer from Seth Hunt to claimant, dated 15th June, 1805.

Bernard Pratte, being duly sworn, says that he wrote the petition annexed to said concession, and believes it to be antedated; believes the same to have been granted in 1801 or 1802; knows positively it was granted before 1803; that Belote did not apply to him for the writing of said petition; does not recollect whether he wrote the same in St. Louis or St. Genevieve, but he believes he wrote it at the request of his (the witness's) brother; that the application was a verbal one; that he does not know of having heard of orders being sent to the Lieutenant Governor not to give any concessions.

Marie Philippe Leduc, being also duly sworn, says that, in 1803, orders were received from the Intendant to the Lieutenant Governor not to give any grants for lands.

The foregoing testimony was taken by the Board on the 19th July, 1806; and on the 9th October, 1809, the foregoing claim was decided on. Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners, who are unanimously of opinion that it ought not to be confirmed.

NATHAN SULLINS.—A claim for nine hundred and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the waters of Missouri, district of St. Louis. Produces a survey of said land, dated 29th November, 1805, and certified the 20th January, 1806.

Testimony taken. August 9th, 1806. Edy Musick, being duly sworn, says that claimant prepared for putting up a cabin in 1801; that in 1804 he completed the same, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day.

November 1st, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners, who are unanimously of opinion that this claim ought not to be granted.

JACQUES CHAUVIN.—A claim for a tract of land, containing, by survey, ten hundred and sixty-three arpents, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Louis. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to him, for such quantity of land as shall be found within certain boundaries therein described, dated 3d September, 1799; also a survey of the aforesaid quantity, taken the 26th January, and certified the 17th May, 1800.

Testimony taken. July 26th, 1806. James Mackay, being duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was settled by claimant in the year 1799, and that he, the said claimant, did, prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabit and cultivate the same; and was then the head of a family.

Testimony taken. November 9th, 1803. Louis Marc, being duly sworn, says, that eight years ago claimant inhabited and cultivated said tract, and that the same has been actually inhabited and cultivated by or for him ever since.

November 1st, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation thereof. The said majority declare, that if the above claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, they would have voted for its confirmation.

MARIE PHILIPPE LEDUC.—A claim for fifteen thousand arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles. Produces a concession for the same from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 7th January, 1800, and a certificate of survey of the same, dated 5th March, 1804.

Testimony taken. May 3d, 1806. Louis Lebeaume, being duly sworn, says that the claimant arrived in the country in the year 1792 and took up his residence at

New Madrid; that, about the end of 1793, he was employed by Government in the arrangement and regulating of the militia of that place; that he remained so about twelve months, and never received any compensation for the same; that Government was then in daily expectation of an attempt by the French to invade the country, and preparing to oppose them; that he afterwards was employed by Government in writing and translating; that he never did receive any compensation for his services in that capacity; that witness, on his return from New Orleans, in the year 1796, found said claimant in Charles D. Delassus's employ, the said Delassus being then commandant of New Madrid; that the said Delassus having come to St. Louis, and taken the command of that post, claimant followed him, and was by him employed as his private Secretary, for which witness believes he received some compensation, but cannot tell what it was.

Auguste Choteau, being also sworn, says that he knew claimant in 1799; that he was then employed with the Lieutenant Governor, Charles D. Delassus, both on public and private business, and acted then as his interpreter; that Delassus sent him to New Madrid on public business; and further, that the Lieutenant Governor, Delassus, informed him (the witness) prior to his (the claimant's) arrival at this place, that he would interfere with Government in his favor.

Albert Tison, being also duly sworn, says that he knew the above claimant at New Madrid, when in the employ of Delassus; that claimant did, some time towards the latter end of 1799, or the beginning of 1800, show him (the witness) a concession, which he informed him he had received from the Lieutenant Governor; that a few days afterwards he again saw the said concession; that the quantity therein specified was that above claimed, and that he verily believes it the one showed him by claimant at the time above mentioned.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. May 3, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and James L. Donaldson. The Board apply to this claim the questions put to Antoine Souldard, and his answers to the same in the claim of David Delausuy; for a copy of which see appendix to this report.

The Board reject this claim. They are, however, satisfied that the concession is neither antedated nor fraudulent.

July 25, 1807: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. On the suggestion of the agent of the United States that there had been an erasure on the above concession, this case was laid over to enable the claimant to produce further proof.

October 8th, 1808: Present, Clement B. Penrose and Frederick Bates, commissioners. The Board, on a re-examination of the erasure alleged to have been made in the concession, are of opinion that the same was given at the time it bears date, 7th January, 1800.

October 30th, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the unanimous opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

For a translation of the concession in this claim, see appendix to this report.

JAMES MACKAY.—A claim for four hundred arpents of land, situate on the rivers Sabine and Bonne Femme, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 31st May, 1797; also a plat of said land, dated December 2d, 1804, and signed Mackay.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. July 31st, 1807. It appears to the Board that, on the petition of the aforesaid concession, the name of the claimant, the place of his residence, the quantity granted, and the situation of land, have been altered and written on erasure; and that the concession refers to the petition, especially as to the situation, name, and quantity granted; and also the aforesaid petition declares that the land prayed for is situate on a saline, which part of said petition appears to be altered and written on erasure. Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. The agent of the United States being also present, objects to the aforesaid concession, on the ground of its being antedated, and otherwise fraudulent; whereupon the Board require further proof of the party.

November 4th, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MACKAY.—A claim for a lot in the town of St. Louis, three hundred feet front, and three hundred feet in depth. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 5th of September, 1799.

Opinion of the Board. November 4th, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MACKAY.—A claim for two hundred and eighty-two arpents, situate in the common of St. Louis. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 9th of October, 1799; survey and certificate dated the 17th of December, 1802.

Testimony taken. July 22d, 1806. Auguste Chouteau, being duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was surveyed in 1804 or 1805; that he never heard of a concession having been granted for the same until the survey was taken; that the said tract is adjoining a tract claimed by the witness; and that the same interferes with a tract claimed by the inhabitants of St. Louis as a common.

Opinion of the Board. November 4th, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MACKAY, assignee of James McDonald.—A claim for eighteen hundred arpents, situate in the district of St. Louis, on the river Desperes. Produces a copy of a deed, certified by claimant to be from an original in his office, dated the 13th of February, 1802, and a plat of survey for the same, dated the 29th of ——— 1802, and certified the 15th of March, 1803.

Opinion of the Board. November 4th, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CLAIBORNE THOMAS, assignee of Edward Butler.—A claim as aforesaid for seven hundred and fifty-six and a half arpents, situate on the waters of the Grand Glaize, district of St. Louis. Produces a certificate of survey, dated February 7, 1806, also a quit-claim from said Butler to claimant, dated June 19, 1804.

Testimony taken. April 7, 1806. William Drennen, being duly sworn, says that the said Edward Butler did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and was then of the age of twenty-one years and upwards.

Opinion of the Board. April 7, 1806: Present John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board grant to Claiborne Thomas, assignee as aforesaid, seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

Testimony taken. November 11, 1809. Benjamin Johnston, being duly sworn, says that Edward Butler first settled on the tract claimed in the year 1801; inhabited and cultivated the same in the years 1802 and 1803; inhabited and cultivated by or for claimant ever since.

Opinion of the Board. November 11, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, Frederick Bates, commissioners. The Board is unanimously of opinion that said tract ought not to be granted.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Joseph Robidoux, deceased.—A claim as aforesaid for one thousand one hundred and fifty and a half arpents, situate in the fields of St. Ferdinand, district of St. Louis. Produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Joseph Robidoux, for the said tract of land, dated April 15, 1796; a certificate of survey of the same, dated April 10, 1797; and a deed of transfer of said land, executed by Joseph Robidoux and his wife, to the said J. Mullanphy, dated January 30, 1805.

Testimony taken. February 4, 1806. Francis Dunean, being duly sworn, says that he was commandant of the village of St. Ferdinand when the tract of land above mentioned was first settled; that all his grants for lands to individuals were merely verbal, as were also his orders of surveys for the same; that, when the said Joseph Robidoux surveyed said land, he met with no opposition, it being generally understood in the village that the same was said Robidoux's property; that he began the settling of the same in the year 1794, and that one Louis Lafleur undertook the cultivating of the same for the said Joseph Robidoux, and did, prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabit and cultivate the same as his agent; and further, that the said tract is composed of several small tracts, purchased by the said Joseph Robidoux from individuals, inhabitants of the said village of St. Ferdinand, by virtue of grants for the same.

Opinion of the Board. February 4, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. It being proved to the Board that the above concession was granted to the said Joseph Robidoux, in consequence of a purchase by him of several lots originally granted to a number of the inhabitants of the said village of St. Ferdinand, the Board confirm to the said John Mullanphy the aforesaid tract of land, bounded as aforesaid, as per the said concession.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. November 13, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed: Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation thereof.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of James St. Vrain.—A claim as aforesaid for four thousand arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, dated November 18, 1799; a survey of the same, dated February 14, 1804, and certified 5th March, 1804; and a deed of transfer of the same from the said James St. Vrain to the claimant, dated November 12, 1804.

Testimony taken. May 3, 1806. Marie Philippe Le Duc, being duly sworn, says that the aforesaid concession is his own hand-writing; that he arrived at St. Louis on the 22d November, 1799, and was on his way from New Madrid at the time the same bears date; that, about eight or ten days after his arrival, he entered with Mr. Delassus as his secretary; that, when with Delassus in that capacity, he was in the habit of writing decrees or concessions; that he wrote several in 1800, '1, and '2, and was then informed by the Lieutenant Governor that such had been promised some time towards the latter end of 1799, and they were accordingly dated of that date. Being asked whether he had written any decrees or concessions in 1803, bearing date prior to the 1st of October, 1800, answered he did not recollect he had; he further said that petitions would remain some time with the Lieutenant Governor before he gave his decree thereon; and that James St. Vrain was for about ten years, captain of a galley up the Mississippi.

Louis Labeaume, being also sworn, says that he believes the petition annexed to the aforesaid concession to be his hand-writing, and that he did, about the time the same bears date, write one for him for the same quantity of arpents; that he saw the aforesaid concession in the possession of the said James St. Vrain some time about October or November, 1800, when he, the said St. Vrain, was preparing to send the same down to New Orleans to have his title completed.

St. Vrain is brother to the Lieutenant Governor Delassus, and holds no other claim of that quantity of land.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Hiacinthe Egliz.—A claim as aforesaid for a piece of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of St. Louis, the quantity of which is not specified. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated October 22, 1799, a certificate of survey of twelve arpents ninety-four perches, dated March 10, 1803; and a deed of transfer of the same, dated February 9, 1805.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. June 14, 1806: Present John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. This claim being unsupported by actual inhabitation and cultivation, the Board reject the same, and remark that the aforesaid concession is not duly registered, but believe it to bear date with the day it was granted.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Toussaint Gendron.—A claim as aforesaid for eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, in the district of St. Charles. Produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 5th of April, 1800; also a conveyance from the said Gendron to claimant, dated the 5th of September, 1803.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Hiacinthe Egliz.—A claim as aforesaid for eight hundred arpents of land, situate at the point of the rivers Mississippi and Merimeck, in the district of St. Louis. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated December 16, 1799; a certificate of survey of three hundred and six arpents, dated 20th February, 1806; and a deed of transfer of the same, dated 9th February, 1805.

Testimony taken. September 6, 1806. Antoine Soulard, being duly sworn, says that he knows of nothing contradicting the date of the concession; and further, that he knows of Zenon Trudeau having promised said Hiacinthe Egliz a concession.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. June 14, 1806. This claim being unsupported by actual habitation and cultivation, the Board reject the same, and require further proof of the date of said concession; they observe that the same is not duly registered: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and James L. Donaldson, commissioners.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Madame (veuve) Rigache.—A claim as aforesaid for one thousand six hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Mississippi, in the district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a concession for the same from Don Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 1st of January, 1800, to the said veuve Rigache; also a plat of survey, dated the 19th of February, 1804, and certified the 8th of March, 1804.

Testimony taken. August 23, 1806. Antoine Soulard, being duly sworn, says that claimant was appointed a tutress to the young ladies of this place, in which capacity she received the promise from the Baron de Carondelet of a compensation of fifteen dollars per month; that she never received it; that he verily believes the above concession to have been granted prior to the 1st day of October, 1800, and as a compensation for her services.

Louis Lebeaume, being duly sworn, says that he wrote the decree of the above concession, and verily believes it was granted at the time it bears date.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Andrew and Baptiste Blondeau Duzey.—A claim as aforesaid for four hundred and eighty arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Dardennes, in the district of St. Charles. Produces to the Board a concession for the same from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 18th of March, 1799; also a plat of survey, dated the 10th of April, 1805, signed Mackay; and a deed of conveyance from Charles Tayon, dated 6th July, 1805.

Testimony taken. August 25, 1806. Isidore Savoye, being duly sworn, says that the aforesaid Jean Baptiste Blondeau settled the said tract of land in the beginning of 1796, raised a crop on it, and lived thereon until the fall of that year, when his wife being very ill, he removed to the village of St. Charles, in order to procure that medical assistance which her situation required; that she died some time after, leaving him with a large family of children; that, in that situation, he determined upon remaining in the said village, and gave up the said tract.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Joseph La Pierre and Joseph Aubuchon.—A claim as aforesaid for an island of eight hundred arpents of land, in the river Missouri. Produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to said Joseph La Pierre and Joseph Aubuchon, said to be granted for pasture, and declared by him, the said Lieutenant Governor, to be unfit for cultivation; said concession dated 23d April, 1798; and a deed of transfer of said land to the claimant dated May 17, 1805.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. May 12, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, for want of actual habitation and cultivation; they are satisfied that said concession is neither antedated nor fraudulent.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Gabriel Cerre.—A claim as aforesaid for an island of eight hundred arpents of land, situate at the mouth of the river Cuivre, in the Mississippi, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated May 25, 1800; and an act of public sale of the effects and property of said Gabriel Cerre, deceased, dated July 28th, 1805.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. July 8, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and require further proof.

Opinion of the Board. November 15, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Augustin Trudell, assignee of Hiacinthe Dehaitre.—A claim for one hundred and fifty acres of land, situate near St. Ferdinand, in the district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a conveyance from Hiacinthe Dehaitre to Augustin Trudell, for one arpent and a half front, on the river St. Ferdinand, and from thence to the river Missouri, dated 20th March, 1805; also, a conveyance from said Augustin Trudell to claimant, for three arpents in front, from said river St. Ferdinand to the said river Missouri, dated 20th of March, 1805.

Opinion of the Board. November 17, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Dennis Tool, assignee of George Fallis.—A claim for seventy-six arpents of land, situate in the fields of St. Ferdinand, in the district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a conveyance from said Fallis to said Tool, dated the 13th June, 1809; also, a conveyance from said Tool to claimant, dated the 25th March, 1805.

Opinion of the Board. November 17, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ABRAHAM KEITHLEY.—A claim for three hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, in the district of St. Charles. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, dated February 4, 1801; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated the 10th of February, 1804.

Testimony taken. February 21, 1806. Isaac Hostetter, being duly sworn, says that the above claimant did actually cultivate the said tract of land, and raised crops thereon, in the years 1800 and 1801; that, in the spring of 1803, he was obliged to abandon the said tract of land, for fear of the Indians, who, at that time, committed depredations in that neighborhood; that, in the fall of the same year, he returned to the same, proceeded to the cultivating of it, living then with the witness, at a distance of about three miles; that, in the course of that year, he dug three wells, there being no water on said land; and that, about two years ago, to wit, in the beginning of 1804, he put up a cabin thereon, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 21, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board are unanimously of opinion that this is a case coming within the spirit of the law and their equity powers; and therefore they grant the above claimant three hundred arpents of land, as per the aforesaid concession.

Testimony taken. August 3, 1807. Isaac Hostetter, being duly sworn, says that the claimant had a wife and two children in the year 1803.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. November 20, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting thereof.

SAMUEL LEWIS.—A claim, under the second section of the act, for one thousand and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river Perouque, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a certificate of a permission to settle from Charles Tayon, dated 27th February, 1806, together with a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 7th of December, 1805, certified to have been surveyed on the 15th of February, 1806.

Testimony taken. July 14, 1806. David Edwards, being duly sworn, says that one John Burnet settled the said tract of land in the year 1801; that, in 1803, towards the latter end of that year, he sold the same to claimant, having previously raised two crops; the claimant then moved on it, and actually inhabited it on the 20th day of December, 1803, and had then a very large stock on the same; and further, that he had, on the said 20th December, 1803, a wife, one child, and one slave.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. July 14, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, for want of actual cultivation by claimant prior to and on the 20th December, 1803.

Opinion of the Board. November 20th, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CHRISTOPHER ZOOMALT.—A claim for seven hundred and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river Perouque, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a certificate of survey of said land, dated 20th January, 1806; also, for permission to settle, a certificate, sworn by James Mackay, commandant, the 21st of October, 1808.

Testimony taken. February 6, 1806. Angus Gellis, being duly sworn, says that the above claimant arrived in this country in the year 1799; that he began the settlement of said land in the year 1801; that, when engaged in cultivating the same, he would inhabit it, but resided with his father after the gathering of his crops; that he had, in the year 1803, about ten arpents of land under fence, and raised one hundred bushels of corn on the same in that year; that his father is advanced in years, and has with him but one son, of about thirteen years of age; and that the distance from his establishment to his father's house is about two miles.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 6, 1806; Present, John B. C. Lucas and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, said land not being actually inhabited on the 20th day of December, 1803; but think it a very hard case.

Testimony taken. August 4, 1807. Henry Zoomalt, being duly sworn, says that the claimant kept his stock of cattle, &c. on the aforesaid land in the year 1801, and has continued to keep and feed the same there until this day; and the deponent further saith that he and the claimant lived and slept on the land aforesaid in the year 1802, while making their crop.

Opinion of the Board. November 18, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Frederic Bates voting for the granting thereof.

DAVID COONRAD.—A claim for eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river Perouque, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a plat and survey of the same, certified to have been made on the 24th January, 1806, and recorded with the surveyor the 14th of February, 1806.

Testimony taken. February 21, 1806. Christopher Zoomalt, being duly sworn, says that the said claimant began his settlement of said tract of land some time in the fall of 1803, moved thereon with his family in the spring of 1804, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day.

Opinion of the Board. November 20, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

PETER TIGUE.—A claim, under the second section of the act of Congress, for seven hundred and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the Dardennes, district of St.

Charles. Produces a certificate of permission to settle, granted by Charles Tayon, commandant of St. Charles, dated February 10, 1806, and a certificate of survey, dated the 3d December, 1805, and recorded with the surveyor on the 10th February, 1806.

Testimony taken. February 14, 1806. William McConnell, being duly sworn, says that the said claimant did cultivate said land in 1802, and did also, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually cultivate the same; that he was then of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, had a cabin built on said land, and six arpents of the same cleared.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 14, 1806. Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and think it a case of equity.

November, 20, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN MCCONNELL (claiming, under the second section of the act of Congress, nine hundred and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river Dardennes, district of St. Charles, produces a certificate of a permission to settle, granted by J. Mackay, commandant, dated Feb. 10, 1806, and a certificate of survey of the said land, dated 27th January, 1806.

Testimony taken. February, 12, 1806. James Boldridge, being duly sworn, says that the above claimant was, some time in December, 1803, of the age of twenty-one, and did then cultivate said tract of land.

Peter Tigue, being also sworn, says that the said land was actually cultivated prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, when he resided with his father; that his improvement and that of his father are joining, and under the same enclosures; that, about two years ago, the claimant married, moved on said land with his family, and has resided thereon to this day.

Opinion of the Board. November 20, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

FRANCIS SMITH.—A claim, under the second section of the act of Congress, for four hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Charles. Produces a certificate of a permission to settle from J. Mackay, commandant of St. Andrew's, dated February 16, 1806; also a certificate of survey of the same, bearing the same date.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 17, 1806. Present Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. In consequence of a grant of two hundred and fifty arpents to claimant, the Board reject this claim.

November 20, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present, John B. C. Lucas, and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM MEEK, assignee of Francis Woods.—A claim as aforesaid for two hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on the river Perouque, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 21st September, 1799, and a plat and certificate of the same, dated 27th December, 1803, certified to have been made the 14th of March, 1803; also a deed of transfer from Francis Woods to claimant dated the 13th June, 1804.

Testimony taken. April 17th, 1806. John Home, being duly sworn, says that one William Linx did, in the spring of 1800, proceed to the improving of said land; cleared a few acres of the same, and moved on it in the month of May of that year, and remained thereon until the ensuing spring, when one Grosjean moved on the same, and made a garden.

David Bryan, being duly sworn, says that he was in company with the aforesaid Francis Woods in the year 1803, when he applied to James Mackay for a concession; that the said James Mackay promised him one; that the said Francis Woods arrived in the country in the year 1800, and that he (the witness) never heard of his, (the said Woods) or any one for him, having applied for a concession before, neither does he know whether the said Woods holds any other claims to lands in his own name in the Territory; and further, that he (the witness) knew the before-named Grosjean on said land, in the spring of 1801, when he sold the same to the said Francis Woods; in the spring of 1802 the said Woods exchanged the said tract for another tract, the property of one

Crow; that, in the month of December, 1803, he (the said Woods) made a second exchange of the tract he had from said Crow for the one he formerly held, and gave said Crow forty dollars to boot; the said tract having augmented in value by the improvements made on the same.

Being interrogated whether said Woods was one of Colonel Boone's followers, he said no, but came into the country with one Hancock; and further, that he (the witness) was present when one Stockdale, who arrived in the country in 1800, applied for a concession, witness believes about the time the said Woods made his application; and that he obtained one, but does not know when.

James Mackay, being also sworn, and being interrogated as to the hand-writing of the petition of the said Woods, said he believed it to be his.

Being asked whether the said concession was signed at the time it bears date, refused to answer; but said that the facts stated in the petition, as ground for concession, were a mere routine.

Opinion of the Board and remarks. April 17, 1806. Present, John B. C. Lucas and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board being satisfied that the aforesaid concession is a fraudulent and an antedated one, reject this claim; they however think it a case of hardship.

November 20, 1809. This claim was decided on. Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

DAVID MCKINNEY.—A claim for five hundred and ninety arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated June 20, 1800, together with a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated the 27th December, 1803, and certified to have been made on the 8th of November, 1803.

Testimony taken. April 14th, 1806. Kinkaid Caldwell, being duly sworn, says, that some time in the year 1800, being at James Mackay's, he was by him informed that one Francis Wayat had arrived from the county of Montgomery, in the State of Kentucky, and had applied for lands in behalf of a number of persons of that country, wishing to remove to this; and that the said Mackay showed the witness a list of the names of the applicants, of whom the said claimant was one. David Bryan, being also sworn, says that the said claimant improved the said land in the year 1804, and raised a crop thereon.

Opinion of the Board. November 29th, 1809. This claim was decided on: Present John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

DAVID KINCAID.—A claim under the second section of the act of Congress, for five hundred arpents of land, situate on the forks of the river Charrette, district of St. Charles. Produces a special permission to settle a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 14th of January, 1803, and certified to have been surveyed the 27th February, 1806.

Testimony taken. April 2d, 1806. Kinkaid Caldwell, being duly sworn, says, that the claimant, having purchased the right of one Francis Woods to the said land, who had then a cabin on the same, did, in the year 1803, proceed to the building of a house; that he had then a family, consisting of himself, wife, and eight children; and that, early in the spring of 1804, he moved on the said land, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day.

Opinion of the Board. November 20th, 1809; Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

NOEL ANTOINE PRIEUR.—A claim for two lots of land, situate in the village of St. Charles, containing one hundred and twenty feet front, and three hundred back, by virtue of an order of survey from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 17th June, 1797.

Testimony taken. August 4th, 1807. Francis Duquette, being duly sworn, says that he knows the lots above described, and that he assisted M. Mackay in surveying the same for the claimant, and that he, the witness, gave the claimant a small house; and that, while in the act of pulling it down, he had one of his legs broken, in consequence of which it was amputated; and the deponent further says that the aforesaid claimant was chaunter of the church in said village, and clerk to the commandant of the same.

Opinion of the Board. November 20th, 1809; Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

NOEL ANTOINE PRIEUR.—A claim, under the second section of the act of Congress, for four hundred arpents of land, on the Dardennes, district of St. Charles. Produces a limited permission to settle from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 3d September, 1801, and a survey of the same taken the 23d December, 1803, and certified the 23d January, 1804.

Testimony taken. August 8th, 1806. Etienne Bernard, being duly sworn, says, that in 1804 claimant began the building of a house on said land, cleared a field, raised a crop, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day; and further, that he had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, a wife and two children.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. August 8th, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas, commissioner. The Board reject this claim for want of actual inhabitation and cultivation prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, and observe that claimant was, under the Spanish Government, a public officer; that, when in the act of preparing for building on said land, in the year 1801, a large piece of timber fell on his leg, and broke it; that, in that situation, he was then obliged to relinquish his plan of building, having no person to assist him, and not being in a situation to employ any one to do it for him. Approved, August 12th, 1806.

November 20th, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOSEPH VOISARD.—A claim of eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, near the river Dardennes, in the district of St. Charles, by virtue of inhabitation the 20th December, 1803.

Testimony taken. August 4th, 1807. Noel Antoine Prieur, being duly sworn, says, that he knows a piece of land owned by claimant which is situate on the river Dardennes, near one George Girtie's land, and that the said claimant cultivated the aforesaid land in the year 1803, and that in the year 1804 he raised corn on said land, and that there have been four crops raised there; and further, that the claimant has about twelve arpents in cultivation.

Opinion of the Board. November 21st, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

GEORGES HOFFMAN, Sen.—A claim, under the second section of the act of Congress, for eight hundred and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river Peruque, district of St. Charles. Produces a certificate of a permission to settle from Charles Tayon, commandant, dated 5th February, 1806; also a plot of survey of the same, dated the 5th of December, 1803, and certificate of the same, dated the 11th February, 1806.

Testimony taken. February 14th, 1806. Nicholas Coontz, being duly sworn, says that one William Harrington put up a cabin on said land, and settled the same in the year 1800.

John Scott, being also duly sworn, says that the above claimant did actually inhabit and cultivate said land in the years 1801 and 1802, and that in that year the above-named William Harrington acknowledged before him that he had sold his right to said land by virtue of his improvement to the above claimant; that, in the said year, 1802, he moved out of it; that, having married in 1801, he returned on said land with his family; has resided thereon to this day. He renounces any other claim to land in his own name in this Territory.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 14, 1806: Full Board. The Board reject this claim, and think it a case of equity.

November 21, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

EDWARD HEMSTEAD, assignee of John Cook.—A claim for two arpents of front, by forty arpents in depth, of land, situate adjoining the field lots of the village of St. Charles, in pursuance of a permission from Charles Tayon, Spanish commandant of St. Charles, to said T. Cook, dated September 18, 1800, which has been produced; also a plat of survey of the same, dated the 16th of February, 1806, and certified to have been recorded with the surveyor the 28th February, 1806; and also a deed of conveyance from John Cook to claimant, dated May 31, 1805.

Testimony taken. August 5, 1807. Nicholas Coontz, being duly sworn, says that, in the year 1798, he, the witness, ploughed part of said tract of land for the use of said Cook, the original claimant; that said Cook did raise corn on the land aforesaid, either in the year 1797 or 1798, and did continue to raise corn during four or five years from that time; and that said Cook was the head of a family at that time, and had a wife and six children.

William McConnell, also sworn, says that the aforesaid land was cultivated in the year 1797, and was cultivated from that time until the year 1801.

Opinion of the Board. November 21, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

STEPHEN JACKSON.—Claiming, under the second section of the act of Congress, four hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate on the river Tuque, district of St. Charles. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated February 15, 1803, together with a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated the 12th of November, 1803, and certified the 13th April, 1804.

Testimony taken. February 10, 1806. William Hancock, being duly sworn, says that he knows the said land; that the same was not cultivated until the fall of 1802, when the said claimant made a garden thereon, and raised turnips; that the said claimant was, in the spring of 1803, prevented from cultivating said land by sickness; and that, having recovered from the same, he was obliged to hire himself to work, in order to be enabled to pay James Mackay the amount of a note he had given him, amounting to forty-eight dollars, dated November 12, 1803, being the price of said concession; that the said James Mackay told the witness, who had applied to him for a concession in favor of said claimant, that the times were changed, and that he was very sorry for it, but that he should have to charge him ten dollars per hundred arpents for said concession; and further, that he, the claimant, had rented from the witness a piece of land on which he resided, being distant from the tract above claimed of one half mile; and that the said Jackson has actually inhabited and cultivated said tract of land from the fall of 1804 to this day. He claims no other land in his own name in this Territory.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 10th, 1806: Full Board. The Board reject this claim, but think it a hard case.

November 21, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ARTHUR BURNS.—Claiming, under the second section of the act of Congress, eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the Femme Osage, district of St. Charles. Produces a survey certified the 15th of February, 1806, and entered on the surveyor's books the 24th February, 1806.

Testimony taken. July 14, 1806. Albert Tison, being duly sworn, says that he saw, held, and read, a special permission to settle, granted by Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to claimant.

Squire Boon, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1800, and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife and eleven children.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. July 14, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

November 21, 1819: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting thereof.

ARTHUR BURNS.—A claim of eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Mississippi, in the district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a concession for the same, from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 25th May, 1800; also a plat of survey of the same, dated the 1st of February, 1804, and certified the 20th March, 1804.

Opinion of the Board. November 21, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JULIUS EMMONS, assignee of John Linsey, who was assignee of William Ewing.—A claim under the second section of the act of Congress, for seven hundred and forty-four arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Mississippi, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a survey of the same, dated 11th February, 1806; a deed of transfer from one William Ewing to said John Linsey, dated October 16th, 1804; and another deed of transfer from said Linsey to claimant, dated January 6, 1806.

Testimony taken. July 15, 1806. William Ewing, being duly sworn, says that the said William Ewing settled the said tract of land in the year 1801, and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife and three children.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. July 15, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas, commissioner. The Board reject this claim for want of permission to settle. Approved the above minutes, July 17, 1806.

November 22, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas, Clement B. Penrose, and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JAMES MACKAY.—A claim of thirty thousand arpents of land. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 13th of October, 1799; a survey of thirteen thousand eight hundred and thirty-five arpents of land, on the river Cuivre, taken May 25th, 1801, and certified 8th March, 1802; a survey of five hundred and forty-five arpents of land, situate on same river, taken 29th December, 1802, and certified 28th February, 1806; another survey of five thousand two hundred and eighty arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, taken the 20th December, 1804, and certified the 28th February, 1806, and, lastly, a survey of ten thousand three hundred and forty arpents of land, taken the 7th February, 1803. The Board having required further proof, the said claimant produced a passport from Zenon Trudeau, to him, as agent of the commercial company of the river Missouri, on a voyage of discovery up said river, undertaken by the orders of the Baron de Carondelet, and which was to last six years; a letter from Don Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, the Intendant General at New Orleans, dated the 20th May, 1799, wherein he much approves of the conduct of claimant as commandant, commends the steps taken by him for the opening of roads and establishing good police regulations, both military and civil, with the view to the aggrandizement of his post, and informing further that he has recommended him very particularly to the then Lieutenant Governor of the province, Charles Dehault Delassus.

Testimony taken. July 22, 1806. George Fallis, being duly sworn, says that, in the year 1799, one John Wealthy built a cabin on a small piece of land, which he fenced in; that he lived on the same for about one year, when he made a present of his improvement to one Keithley, who, having remained on it until Christmas of the year 1801, gave it up to one Rhodes, who afterwards gave it to witness; that the same was afterwards surveyed by claimant, in consequence of a purchase from the said Rhodes; that he, the witness, never heard of a concession for the said tract of land, and that the same was surveyed after his, the witness's, removal from the same; and further, that the said small improvement was surveyed in the aforesaid tract of — on the —.

Objections of the agent of the United States. The agent of the United States objects to the aforesaid concession, on the grounds of its being antedated, and otherwise fraudulent; he also objects to two surveys made on part of the aforesaid concession, one for thirteen thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, the other for ten thousand three hundred and forty, on the grounds aforesaid. Further proof is required of the party.

Opinion of the Board. November 4, 1809: Present John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

BENJAMIN SPENCER.—A claim, under the second section of the act of Congress, for eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Grand Glaize, district of St. Charles. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 5th of May, 1801, and a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 20th March, 1804.

Testimony taken. July 14, 1806. Charles Tremont, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled said tract of land in November, 1803, built a house on the same, dug a well, and actually inhabited it on the 20th day of December, 1803; that, in the year 1804, he had a field under enclosure, and was then working at a saline on said land; and further, that he has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day; and had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, three children.

Opinion of the Board. July 14th, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim for want of actual cultivation on the 20th day of December, 1803.

November 22d, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES KERR.—A claim for twelve hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Dardennes, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated March 4th, 1798; and a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 11th, 1800.

Testimony taken. June 14th, 1806. Andrew Som-malt, being duly sworn, says that one-half of the aforesaid tract of land so conceded is of a very bad quality, and on the frontiers; that the said claimant begun his settlement of the same in the year 1799; that he did, prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabit and cultivate the same, and was at the time of obtaining said concession, the head of a family.

August 6th, 1807. Henry Zomalt, being duly sworn, says that the claimant actually inhabited and cultivated the aforesaid twelve hundred arpents of land since the year 1799 until this day.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. June 14th, 1806: Full Board. The Board, being of opinion that, from a strict interpretation of the act of Congress, and the letter of the Spanish regulations, the quantity of land which could be lawfully granted by the Lieutenant Governor to a new settler cannot exceed the quantity of eight hundred arpents, confirm to the said claimant eight hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, and reject four hundred arpents, the remaining quantity of said concession.

November 22d, 1809: Present, full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation thereof. The said majority do declare that, if the above claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, they would have voted for its confirmation.

JAMES JONES, assignee of George Ayrey, assignee of Thomas Howel, who was assignee of Timothy Kibby.—A claim for six hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on the river Dardennes, district of St. Charles. Produces a notice to the recorder, dated the 5th of August, 1807.

Testimony taken. August 6th, 1807. John Wildan, being duly sworn, says that in the spring of the year 1803 Timothy Kibby built a cabin, and settled on the aforesaid claim on the 17th of November of the same year, and also raised a crop on said claim in the year 1803, and that there have been crops raised on the same every year since. The witness also says that he saw the claimant living on said land in the latter part of the winter of 1805, and that he has been living there ever since.

Opinion of the Board. November 22d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

HENRY STEPHENSON, assignee of Arthur Burns.—A claim, under the second section of the act of Congress, for one thousand and eighty arpents of land, situate on the river Perouque, district of St. Charles. Produces a survey of the same, dated the 7th of December, 1805. The claimant declares that he only purchased the labor of said Burns on said land, and does not claim any title to the aforesaid land through him.

Testimony taken. July 29th, 1806. John Laffeur, being duly sworn, says that one Burns, having raised two or three crops on said land, sold his right to the same to the said claimant, who moved on it in March, 1804, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day. The said Burns had a wife and five children.

Adam Martin, being duly sworn, says that he was present, in July, 1803, when claimant applied for and received permission to settle, from James Mackay, who was then a commandant.

Opinion of the Board. November 22d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CLAIBOURNE RHODES.—A claim, under the second section of the act of Congress, for six hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Mississippi, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a special permission to settle, from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 17th February, 1800; and a survey of the same, taken the 30th December, 1803, and certified the 20th of January, 1804.

Testimony taken. July 16th, 1806. William Ewing, being duly sworn, says that the said claimant did, some time in the fall of 1803, cut house logs, with the intent of building a distillery; that, at that period, the Indians seeming inclined to hostilities, he did not think it prudent to proceed any further in the same.

Samuel Griffith, being also duly sworn, says that, about the time claimant was preparing for the aforesaid distillery, three young men were killed by the Indians at a very small distance from the aforesaid tract; that claimant, fearing a repetition of the same, gave up his plan of said buildings; that the first knowledge he, the witness, had of claimant's intention of building said distillery, was derived from the persons whom he had engaged for the building of the same; that he had, prior to that period, improved another tract of land, situate at the Portage des Sioux; that he cultivated the same for three years consecutively, to wit, in the years 1798, 1799, and 1800; that he did afterwards, at the request of the Lieutenant Governor, and upon the promise of another tract, move out of the same, and relinquish his right thereto, having prior to that complied with the Spanish law and regulations, whereby three years of cultivation vested in the cultivator the right of domain.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. July 16, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas, commissioner. The Board reject this claim, and observe that claimant lived in the Territory on the 20th December, 1803.

Approved the above minutes, July 22d, 1806.

November 24th, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ANDREW REED.—A claim for seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river St. Francois, in the district of Cape Girardeau. Produces a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 29th, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 5th, 1806. Jesse Smith, being duly sworn, says that the claimant is by trade a blacksmith: that he settled the said tract of land, in 1801; that in 1802 he went out of the country; that, having returned in 1803, he raised on said tract of land a crop; that he had a house built on the same, which he did actually inhabit when cultivating the said tract of land; that he went out hunting, but always left in said house or cabin his said utensils or implements of husbandry, and always considered said house as his actual residence; and further, that he raised on said land seventy or eighty bushels of corn in 1803; was then of the age of twenty-one years and upwards.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. May 5th, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the claimant one hundred arpents of land, situated as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

November 25th, 1809. On application, the Board agree to take testimony in the above claim.

Testimony taken. November 25th, 1809. Joseph Coke, being duly sworn, says that, in the year 1801, he went with claimant to a commandant of Cape Girardeau, whom he believes to be Lorimier, but will not be positive as to his name; that said commandant gave permission at that time to claimant to settle.

Opinion of the Board. November 25th, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN MULLANPHY, assignee of Joseph Lacroix, assignee of Francois St. Cir, by a public sale.—A claim for six hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Philip, in the district of St. Louis. Produces a concession for the same from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to Francois St. Cir, dated the 1st of December, 1800; also a plat of survey of the same, dated the 9th of January, 1802, and certified the 2d of March, 1802; and a conveyance from Joseph Lacroix to claimant, dated the 31st of June, 1805.

Opinion of the Board. November 25th, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MORRISON, assignee of James Batey, assignee of John Littlejohn.—A claim for seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river Femme Osage, district of St. Charles. Produces a plat and certificate of survey, dated the 3d, and certified the 12th February, 1806; also a deed of conveyance from said Littlejohn to James Batey, dated the 24th October, 1804; and a deed from said Batey to said Morrison, dated the 18th February, 1806.

Testimony taken. August 6th, 1807. James Vanbibber, being duly sworn, says that Daniel Boon, commandant of Femme Osage district, gave permission to claimant to settle about the last of October, 1803.

David Kinkaid, being duly sworn, says that, on the 23d of October, 1803, he saw the said Littlejohn had a cabin built, and was clearing land on the above claim; and that he was raising corn in 1804.

Opinion of the Board. November 25th, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

DAVID DARST, Junior.—A claim for two hundred and sixty arpents of land, situate on the Femme Osage, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, dated 1st June, 1797, and a certificate of survey of two hundred and sixty-four arpents, dated the 8th of July, 1798.

Testimony taken. February 11th, 1806. William McConnell, being duly sworn, says that he is well acquainted with the above claimant; that he is a cripple, and weakly, and of the age of about fourteen; he further says that he was present when the above concession was granted to claimant; that it was intended as a support for said child. The above tract joins the land conceded to David Darst, the father of the claimant.

Opinion of the Board. November 29th, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ISAAC DARST.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents of land. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 10th of March, 1803, and a plat and certificate of survey, certified the 28th of March, 1804.

Testimony taken. April 7th, 1806: Jonathan Bryan, being duly sworn, says that claimant did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife and three children.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. April 7, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant one thousand arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

November, 29, 1804: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

NATHAN BOONE, assignee of Robert Hall.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 26, 1798, to said Robert Hall, and a certificate of survey of said land, dated 10th January, 1800.

Testimony taken. February 3, 1806. Jonathan Bryan, being duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was settled by the above Robert Hall in December, 1799; that he, the said Hall left the country prior to the 1st October, 1800, and has never returned, and that the above claimant did, prior to and on the 28th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same, being then the head of a family.

August 6, 1807. Isaac Vanbibber, being duly sworn, says that, immediately after Robert Hall left said land, Nathan Boone settled on it, raised a crop in 1800, and has inhabited and cultivated it ever since.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 13, 1806: Full Board. The Board grant the above claimant eight hundred arpents of land, as per the above concession.

December 1, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, being of opinion that this claim ought to be confirmed to Robert Hall, or his legal representatives, under the fourth section of the act of 1807.

JEREMIAH GROJEAN, assignee of George Weiland.—A claim of three hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Don Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 10th of October, 1799, together with a plat and certificate of survey, dated 20th January, 1804; also, a certified copy of a deed of conveyance from said Weiland to claimant, dated the 20th of January, 1801.

Testimony taken. August 6, 1807. James Lewis, being duly sworn, says that he knows the fields near Christopher Clark's, and that the claimant has cultivated the aforesaid land two or three years; and that the field cultivated contains eight or ten acres.

Objection of the agent of the United States. August 6, 1807. The agent of the United States alleges fraud and antedate. The Board require further proof.

Opinion of the Board. December 1, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

Colonel DANIEL BOONE.—A claim for one thousand arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 24th, 1798, and a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 9, 1800; also, a letter from Don Zenon Trudeau to him, dated in the year 1798, inviting him to remove, with his family, to Louisiana, with the promise of a grant of land; and also a commission from Don Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to him, said claimant, dated 11th July, 1800, appointing him commandant of the district of the Femme Osage.

Colonel D. Boone stated to the Board, that, on his arrival in Louisiana, he took up his residence, with his lady, at his son Daniel M. Boone's, in the said district of Femme Osage, and adjoining the lands he now claims; that they remained there until about two years ago, when he moved to a younger son's, Nathan Boone, where he now lives. It is proved that the said claimant is of the age of about seventy years, and his wife about sixty-eight. He further stated, that, having inquired of Charles D. Delassus as to the propriety of improving and settling his land within a year and a day from the date of the concession, as directed by the Spanish laws, he was informed by said Delassus, that, being commandant of the said district, he need not trouble himself about the cultivating of the same as, by the commission he held of commandant of said district, he was not considered as coming within the meaning of said laws.

Testimony taken. February 13, 1806. Jonathan Bryan, being duly sworn, says that he knew Colonel Daniel Boone in this country in the year 1800.

Opinion of the Board. December 1, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES LEWIS.—A claim of four hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, district of St. Charles. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Don Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated September 21, 1799, and a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 20, 1804.

Testimony taken. February 17, 1806. William Linn, being duly sworn, says that the aforesaid tract of land lies on the frontiers, and at great distance from any other plantations; that the claimant actually inhabited and cultivated the same in the beginning of 1804; that, in the spring of that year, he was obliged to leave it, the Indians having about that time killed three white men in that neighborhood; and that he returned on the same in the fall of that year, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day.

Objection of the agent of the United States. August 6, 1807. The agent of the United States alleges against said concession fraud and antedate. The Board require further proof.

Opinion of the Board. December 1, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JACOB GROJEAN.—A claim for four hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, district of St. Charles. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Don Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated September the 20th, 1799; and a certificate of survey of the same, January 20, 1801.

Testimony taken. February 15, 1806. William Linn, being duly sworn, says that the above claimant had a small cabin on said land in December, 1803; that, in the beginning of 1804, he built up a larger one, moved his family on said land, and has to this day actually inhabited and cultivated the same.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 15, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, but think it a case of equity.

Objection of the agent of the United States. August 6, 1807. The agent of the United States alleges fraud and antedate.

Opinion of the Board. December 1, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOSEPH CHARTRAN.—A claim for nine hundred and ninety-eight arpents of land, situate on the river Charrette, district of St. Charles. Produces a survey of the same, dated the 1st February, 1805.

Testimony taken. July 31, 1806. Charles Tayon, being duly sworn, says that, when he was commandant of St. Charles, the above claimant applied to him for permission to settle on vacant lands; that he then submitted the said application to Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, who told him he might grant the said permission; that the said claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1801, and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same, and had then a wife and four or five orphan children, entirely destitute of the means of subsistence, and looking up to the claimant for the same.

August 7, 1807. John B. Leauzon, being duly sworn, says that he knows the land claimed by the said Chartran, situate at the village Charrette; that the same was settled by claimant in the year 1801, and that he has continued to inhabit and cultivate the same ever since; that the said claimant has generally had four orphan children with him looking up to him for support, and whom he has treated with tenderness, and in every respect as a good father would treat his own; that, in 1803, he had three of them with him.

Opinion of the Board. July 31, 1806: John B. C. Lucas attended the Board. The Board grant the said claimant two hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid.

December 1, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JAMES MORRISON, assignee of William McHugh.—A claim for one thousand three hundred and twenty arpents of land. Produces a deed from the said McHugh and his wife, dated 23d April, 1803; and a plat and certificate of survey, dated February 14, 1806, and certified 21st February, 1806.

Testimony taken. August 7, 1807. Jonathan Bryant, being duly sworn, says that he knows the above claim, and that William McHugh settled on it in 1801, and lived in a camp until some time in July of the same year; planted about two acres of corn and tended it; and that he and the greatest part of his family were taken sick and moved away, and that he had a wife and nine children at that time.

William Ewing, being duly sworn, says that the said McHugh had some of his cattle killed by the Indians, and the witness says he saw the Indians carrying away some beef they had killed at the same time; and that he was living in the house with said McHugh, and that he was alarmed, and believes that said McHugh, and the rest of his family were also; that, in consequence, they all moved off; and that they were ten or twelve miles beyond any other settlement; and that the said McHugh had three children killed by the Indians at the place of his last removal, about the year 1804.

Opinion of the Board. December 2, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM DARST.—A claim for four hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of Charrette, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Don Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 10th of October, 1799; also a plat and certificate of survey, dated the 2d of December, 1801, and certified the 17th of September, 1802.

Testimony taken. August 7, 1807. Thomas Smith, being duly sworn, says, that in January, 1804, he went with claimant to said tract, and aided him in clearing some land and planting an apple orchard; and the next fall went back with claimant, built a house, fenced the orchard, and planted turnips; and that there has been nothing done on said land since.

Objection of the Agent of the United States. August 7, 1807. The agent of the United States alleges fraud and antedate. The Board require further proof.

Opinion of the Board. December 2, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN BAPTISTE BELLAND, in the right of his wife, the widow of Peter Peltier, who was assignee of Joseph Robidoux.—A claim for a lot in the village of St. Charles, bounded by the first high street, on one side by Duplessis, on the other by a parade ground, and in the rear by the Missourri. Produces a certified copy of a deed of sale from Robidoux and wife to claimant, dated 26th July, 1804.

Testimony taken. July 31st, 1806. Charles Tayon, being duly sworn, says that a house was built on said lot about ten years ago, by one John B. Senecal, and that the same has been actually inhabited and cultivated to this day.

Opinion of the Board. July 31st, 1806. The honorable John B. C. Lucas attended the Board. The Board reject this claim for want of a duly registered warrant of survey.

December 2d, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

NATHANIEL SIMONDS.—A claim for four hundred and ten arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, district of St. Charles. Produces a special permission to settle, from Charles Dehault Delassus, dated February 4, 1801; and a survey of the same, dated January 3, and certified February 10, 1804.

Testimony taken. July 15, 1806: Zadock Woods, being duly sworn, says that the claimant settled said tract of land in the year 1802; and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same; and had then three children.

August 7, 1807. Isaac Cottle, being duly sworn, says that the claimant moved on the aforesaid land in 1802; raised a crop that year; and that in 1802 his wife died there, and that the claimant did not reside on said land, he believes, for two years after; residing in the intermediate time at St. Louis and St. Charles.

William Farrisworth, being duly sworn, says that the claimant was living on his land in December, 1803, and that the witness heard him chopping wood; also says that the claimant had a son living with him at that time.

Silvenius Cottle, being duly sworn, says that the claimant went on the land claimed in May, 1802, with his family, and built a cabin, and broke up some ground, and that the claimant's wife died in September following; and that he continued to inhabit until the next spring; and that he then left his place, and was absent about one year, and returned to the place in 1804, and has inhabited and cultivated the same ever since.

Jonathan Woods, being duly sworn, says that the claimant moved on his land about the 25th of May, 1802; that he, the witness, saw ground ploughed, corn planted and coming up on said land; that he, the witness, was sick the remaining part of this season; and further says, that the claimant's wife died about the 4th of September, and that he, the witness, was convalescent, and went to the house at that time, and saw claimant there residing, and the claimant brought his family to the witness's house to reside, where one of them died fifteen days after; and that the claimant, with the rest of his family, removed to Warran Cottle's; and that said claimant was, during the greatest part of the summer of 1803, at St. Louis; and that he returned to his land in the latter part of November, 1803, but had no crop growing that fall; and that it has been the place of his residence ever since.

Ira Cottle, being duly sworn, says that, to the best of his knowledge, the claimant resided on said land on the 20th of December, 1803.

Opinion of the Board. July 15, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas, commissioner. The Board grant the said claimant two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there. Approved the above minutes, July 22d, 1806.

December 2d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

FRANCIS ROY.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Mississippi, district of St. Charles.

LOUIS ROY.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid.

BAPTISTE ROY.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid.

JOSEPH ROY.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 29th December, 1799; also a plat and certificate of survey dated 20th January, 1804.

Testimony taken. August 7, 1807: Toussaint Cerre, being duly sworn, says that he knows the above four claimants; that the oldest of them is now twenty-five years of age, and that the youngest is seventeen years of age, and that the above claimants claim no other land in the Territory.

Objection of the agent of the United States. August 7, 1807. The agent objects on account of the claimants being under age at the time the grant bears date. The Board require other proof.

Opinion of the Board. December 2, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that the above four claims ought not to be confirmed.

TOUSSAINT CERRE.—A claim for one thousand arpents of land, situate on the river Mississippi, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 28th of October, 1799; also a plat and certificate of survey, dated 20th of January, 1804.

Opinion of the Board. December 2, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

TOUSSAINT CERRE.—A claim for one hundred and sixty arpents, situate on the river Dardennes, district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 1st of July, 1796; together with a plat and certificate of survey, dated 1st December, 1799, and certified 8th January, 1800.

Opinion of the Board. December 2d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN COOK, assignee of John Vallet.—A claim for four hundred arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles. Produces a survey of the same, taken the 20th February, 1806, and certified the 28th of the same month; and a deed of transfer of the same, dated May 12th, 1803.

Testimony taken. August 29th, 1806. Noel Hebert, being duly sworn, says that he saw the said John Vallet on the said tract of land in the year 1802; that he was then ploughing.

August 8th, 1807. Joseph Sorain, being duly sworn, says that, eight years ago, the said Vallet moved on said land, and continued there about one week; after which he left it, and went to reside in St. Charles; that, in the fall of the same year, he, the said Vallet, went back to the same place, gathered his corn, and took it to St. Charles.

June 29th, 1808. John Vallet, being duly sworn, says that he has no interest in this claim; that he, witness, is the father of seven children, and improved said land in the beginning of the year 1800, and worked thereon until May, 1803, when he sold the same to claimant; and resided thereon during the time of raising his crops, with his wife and children; that, after having been one year on the land, he applied to Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, for permission to settle: said Lieutenant Governor told him, deponent, to take his plough and go on with his work, and nobody should disturb him.

Antoine Marechal, sworn, says that he was on the place claimed in the spring of 1803; then saw corn stalks in a field, which appeared to have been cultivated the year before; and also, at the same time, saw about three-fourths of an acre of land ploughed round the houses for a garden; that he, deponent, inhabited and cultivated the land claimed the last year, 1807.

Opinion of the Board. December 5, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

FRANCIS DUQUETTE.—A claim of four hundred and thirty arpents, situate in the district of St. Charles. Produces a duly registered warrant of survey, dated the 22d December, 1795; a certificate from A. Soulard, that the same does not belong to the domain, having been surveyed by another person, the same dated 17th October, 1799; and an additional warrant of survey of Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, also duly registered, and dated 10th of November, 1799; together with a survey of four hundred and thirty ar-pents, taken the 6th, and certified the 28th of March, 1804.

Opinion of the Board. August 15, 1806: Present John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. This claim being unsupported by actual inhabitation and cultivation, the Board reject it.

December 5, 1809. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners.

FRANCIS DUQUETTE.—A claim for four hundred arpents, situate in the district of St. Charles. Produces a warrant of survey from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated July 1, 1796; and a survey of the same, taken the 26th July, 1800, and certified February 17, 1804.

December 5, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS DUQUETTE, assignee of Isadore La Croix, a foreigner.—A claim of a town lot, situate in St. Charles. Produces a warrant of survey for the same, from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 23d January, 1797; a figurative plat of the same, dated the 10th December, 1799, and certified the 22d December, 1803; together with a deed of transfer of the same, dated the 6th September, 1800.

Testimony taken. August 15, 1806. Francis Fabien, being duly sworn, says that, about seven years ago, the said lot was cleared, and house logs hauled on it for the purposes of building.

Opinion of the Board. December 5, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS DUQUETTE, assignee of Isadore La Croix, a foreigner.—A claim for six thousand arpents of land, in the district of St. Charles, and adjoining the town. Produces a petition for a tract contained within certain natural boundaries therein described; a certificate from Charles Tayan, the then commandant of St. Charles, stating his belief that the land petitioned for will not exceed ten arpents in breadth; a warrant of survey from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 23, 1797, for such a quantity as may be found in breadth, between a tract, the property of said claimant, and the Marias Temsclair, by a depth of forty arpents; together with a survey of four thousand four hundred arpents, taken the 5th September, 1799, and certified May 30, 1803; and a deed of transfer of the same, dated 6th September, 1800.

Testimony taken. August 15, 1806. François Fabien, being duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was cultivated about nine years ago.

Opinion of the Board. August 15, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and remark that, from the papers upon record, it appears that four hundred arpents were intended to be granted by the aforesaid concessions.

December 5, 1809: Present John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ALMOND COTTEL.—A claim for eight hundred and fifty-six arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles, on the river Perouque. Produces a notice to the recorder, dated August 8, 1807.

Testimony taken. August 8, 1807. Ira Cottle, being duly sworn, says that claimant, in the year 1803, lived on the above land, and raised a crop; had also his family with him, but cannot say whether he was there the 20th day of December, 1803; he, said claimant, having moved off said land about that time, and has not returned; and believes he was not there on the 20th December, 1803.

Opinion of the Board. December 5, 1809: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

LOUIS BARRADA, assignee of Francis Saucier.—A claim for a lot in the village of St. Charles, one hundred and thirty feet by three hundred feet. Produces a deed of conveyance from said Francis Saucier to claimant, dated April 24, 1804.

Testimony taken. August 8, 1807. Louis La Marche, being duly sworn, says that eleven years ago said Sau-cier built a house on said land, and that it has been inhabited and cultivated until this day.

Opinion of the Board. December 13, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

LOUIS BARRADA, assignee of Francis Saucier.—A claim for a lot in the village of St. Charles, one hundred and twenty feet by one hundred and fifty feet.

Testimony taken. August 8, 1807. Louis La Marche, being duly sworn, says that about ten years ago said Saucier enclosed said lot for a garden, and that it has been cultivated ever since.

Opinion of the Board. December 13, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ROBERT SPINGER.—A claim for seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles. Produces a plat and certificate of survey, dated September 5, 1805, and certified to be received for record February 28, 1806.

Testimony taken. August 8, 1807. Etienne Bernard, being duly sworn, says that in 1802 the above land was inhabited and cultivated by claimant, and until this day; and that in 1803 he had a wife and one child.

Opinion of the Board. December 13, 1809. Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

IRA COTLE, assignee of Henry McLaughlin, assignee of William Hays.—A claim for six hundred arpents of land, situate on rive Cuivre, district of St. Charles. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, for the same, to said William Hays, dated January 24, 1798; and a certificate of survey, dated January 8, 1800; a deed of transfer of said land, from said William Hays to the said H. McLaughlin, dated May 16, 1800; and another deed of transfer from the said McLaughlin to claimant, dated 31st January, 1805.

Testimony taken. March 24, 1806. Martin Woods, being duly sworn, says that said McLaughlin did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land.

August 8, 1807. Bazile Proulx, being duly sworn, says that Henry McLaughlin lived in 1799 on the land claimed, and remained on the same until 1804.

Opinion of the Board. March 24, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant, assignee as aforesaid, six hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, as per said concession.

December 15, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN STEPHENSON, JUN.—A claim of three hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri river, in the district of St. Charles. Produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated October 10, 1799; and a survey of the same, taken the 9th of February, and certified the 1st of March, 1804.

Testimony taken. August 7, 1806: Antoine Souldard being duly sworn, says that the above concession was granted in the year 1803, as a relief to claimant's father, in consequence of the great loss he met with by the burning of his house; that, in consequence of that, Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, directed him, the witness, to antedate the same, in order to make it agree with the claim of the father.

Auguste Chouteau, being duly sworn, says that, about five years ago, to the best of his recollection, the father of claimant having been robbed by the Indians of all he possessed, and left without even the necessary clothing, he came to this place, where the commandant drew out an instrument of writing, recommending him as an object of charity to the inhabitants.

Colonel Daniel Boone, being some time ago before the Board, when the aforesaid claim was first produced, and being requested to tell what he knew respecting the situation of claimant's father, said that, about three or four years ago, James Stephen, senior, the father of claimant, having had his house destroyed by fire, and his property taken away by the Indians, he did at his request, inform the Lieutenant Governor of the same, praying, at the same time, that he might grant him an additional concession of some two or three hundred arpents of land; that said Stephenson, on his return from St. Louis, informed him, the said Boone, of his success, and told him that the commandant had granted him a concession in the name of his son.

Opinion of the Board. December 15, 1799: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ALEXANDER CLARK.—A claim for eighty arpents of land, situate on Marais des Liards, district of St. Louis. Produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated September 14, 1799; and a certificate of survey of the same, dated April 19th, 1803.

Testimony taken. February 1st, 1806. James Richardson, being duly sworn, says that the tract of land above claimed is adjoining the land on which the said Alexander Clark now resides; that he, the said Alexander, having no water on his land, and having found a spring on the said adjoining land, he applied to Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, for a concession of the same, which was accordingly granted him.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 1st, 1806: Full Board. The Board reject this claim; the said land not being actually inhabited and cultivated prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, nor prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803; they, however, think the case very hard.

December 15th, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN BOLLINGER.—A claim for three hundred arpents of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 20th, 1800; and a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated March 5th, 1801.

Opinion of the Board. December 22d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JACOB MILLER.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on White river, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a certificate of permission to settle, list B, on which said claimant is No. 32; and a plat of survey signed B. Cousin, and signed by Antoine Souldard, as received for record.

Testimony taken. February 11th, 1809. Joseph Neyswanger, being duly affirmed, says that claimant settled in the year 1801, cleared five or six acres, and built a cabin; on the same or the following year claimant sold this improvement, and removed to another tract which he had purchased; which latter was an enclosure and cultivation of about ten acres, a cabin, and stable; inhabitation and cultivation to the present day. Claimant has a wife and one child.

Opinion of the Board. December 22d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ENOS RANDALL, Sen.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents of land, and eighty-five and a quarter perches, situate on the waters of Cape La Cruche. Produces to the Board, as a permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 149; a plat of survey, dated 7th December, 1805, and certified 21st February, 1806.

Testimony taken. February 11th, 1809. Thomas Bull, being duly affirmed, says that said land is situate on the waters of Cape La Cruche; that claimant settled in the year 1806 or 1807, built a cabin, and enclosed five or six acres, and has continued to cultivate and inhabit to the present day; has a wife and one child.

Opinion of the Board. December 22d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM RANDALL.—A claim for seven hundred and seventy-eight arpents twenty-nine perches of land, situate on Hubble's and Randall's creeks, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which said claimant is No. 52; a plat of survey, dated March 2d, 1805, and certified February 13th, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 30th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau.) Thomas Bull, duly affirmed, says that said land was first improved by the establishment of a cabin by witness's brother-in-law, who abandoned the same in two or three months, as public land; in 1801, or 1802, Peter Bellew took possession of and lived in the said cabin for a short time, who, in 1803, left the same; after which claimant made a settlement, in 1804, repaired the roof of the cabin, and planted peach trees, who has ever since inhabited and cultivated the premises; about seven or eight acres now in cultivation; claimant has a wife and two children.

May 31st, 1808. John Abernathie, duly sworn, says that when Peter Bellew left the premises, in September, 1803, he offered for sale merely his labor, disclaiming all right to the soil, intending to place, or having previously placed, his head right on or near White water.

Medad Randall, being duly sworn, says that Peter Bellew left the premises with an intention to keep a stock for witness; some little time after that, claimant observed to Bellew that he wished to settle on this tract thus abandoned; Bellew replied that he might do so, for that he, Bellew, had no claim to it; he was welcome.

Opinion of the Board. December 23d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN MILLER.—A claim for thirteen hundred and twenty-four arpents twenty-one perches of land, situate on White river, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 19, and a plat of survey dated January 3d, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 1st, 1806. George F. Bollinger, being duly sworn, says that the said claimant settled the said tract of land in October, 1803, built a cabin thereon, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; that, in 1804, he cleared about forty acres of the same, and moved his family thereon; and further, that he had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife and nine children, and claims no other lands in his own name in the Territory.

May 30th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau.) Joseph Neyswanger affirmed, says that claimant settled in the year 1803, built a dwelling, cabin, and stable, and cleared and cultivated between fifteen and twenty acres; said improvements have been improved and extended from year to year until the present day; claimant has a wife and twelve children.

Opinion of the Board. December 23d, 1809. Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ISAAC MILLER.—A claim for three hundred arpents of land, situate on White Water creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 30; and a plat of survey dated January 9th, 1806, countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. May 30th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Neyswanger, affirmed, says that claimant settled the land in 1804, and it has been uninterruptedly inhabited and cultivated until the present day; claimant had a wife and two children, his wife lately died.

Opinion of the Board. December 23d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

FREDERICK LIMBAUGH, Senior.—A claim for eight hundred and fourteen arpents forty-two perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 16, and a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 17th, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 1st, 1806. George F. Bollinger, being duly sworn, says that claimant did, in the beginning of 1803, cut house logs; that he cultivated the same in the year 1804; that he was a schoolmaster, and had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, a child; claims no other lands in his own name in the Territory.

May 30th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Neyswanger, affirmed, says that said land was first cultivated in 1800, and the following year; claimant, under the above-mentioned permission, settled said land in October, 1803, and during the following winter built a cabin thereon, and has inhabited and cultivated the premises every successive year to this day; claimant has two sons in Louisiana.

Opinion of the Board. December 23d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

URBAN ASHERBRAUNER.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents and ninety-five perches of land, situate on Castor creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a plat of survey, certified to be received for record February 27th, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. May 30th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Daniel Asherbrauner, being duly sworn, says that claimant improved a tract of land in the year 1800; that the survey of Philip Bollinger afterwards took in the spring of the claimant, which induced him to abandon his improvement, and leave the country in the following year; he again returned in the year 1805, and in that year improved the premises now claimed; settled in the following year, erected a cabin, a mill for the grinding of corn and wheat, and cultivated about three or four acres of land; claimant has continued to inhabit, cultivate, and improve till the present day; has a wife and one child.

Opinion of the Board. December 23d, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN BOLLINGER, son of John.—A claim for five hundred and sixty-one arpents and fifty-one and a half perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 105; and a plat of survey, certified to be received for record February 27, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. May 30, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Daniel Asherbrauner, being sworn, says that said land was first improved in 1803, and inhabited in the following year; he left said tract in the spring of 1805, and again removed thereon in the fall of the same year, since which time he has constantly inhabited and cultivated ten or twelve acres; he has a good dwelling-house, stable, and spring-house, and has a wife and three children.

Opinion of the Board. December 23, 1809; Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CHARLES TAYON, Jun.—A claim for forty-three arpents of land, situate adjoining Charrette village, district of St. Charles. Produces a plat of survey, dated February 17, 1806, and certified February 28, 1806.

Testimony taken. December, 28, 1809. Joseph Chartrand, being duly sworn, says that the land claimed has been inhabited and cultivated for claimant for seven years last past; and that he, witness, as syndic of Charrette village, did, in 1802, give permission to Charles Tayon, Sen. to settle this land; that his permission was to settle on two hundred and forty feet front, by forty arpents in depth, provided so much could be found vacant there; that the survey of Ramsay bounds in the rear the present claim, and interferes with it; said Ramsay commenced cultivation on his claim about two and a half or three years after claimant.

Opinion of the Board. December 28, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

FREDERICK LIMBAUGH, Jun.—A claim for five hundred and twenty-nine arpents of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 17; and a plat of survey, dated January 21, 1806, countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. May 31, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Neyswanger, duly affirmed, says that claimant settled said land in the month of November, 1803, at which time he commenced the building of a house and the clearing of the land, and has inhabited and cultivated the premises to the present day; about fifteen or twenty acres are now in cultivation; claimant had a wife and six or seven children in 1803.

Opinion of the Board. December 29, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting thereof.

MARTIN COTHNER.—A claim for seven hundred and seven arpents seventy-four perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 25; and a plat of survey, certified to be received for record February 27, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. May 2, 1806. George F. Bollinger, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled said tract of land in November, 1803, put up a cabin, and moved his family on the same; and that he did, in 1804, raise a crop thereon, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife and two children, and about fifteen acres cleared.

Opinion of the Board. December 29, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of three hundred arpents.

MARTIN THOMAS.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents ninety-five perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 33; and a plat of survey, certified to be received for record February 27, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. May 31, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Neyswanger, affirmed, says that claimant, in 1806, enclosed about one-fourth of an acre of land, and planted turnip and apple seed.

Opinion of the Board. December 29, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOSEPH NEYSWANGER, Jun.—A claim for five hundred arpents of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 103; and a plat of survey, certified to be received for record February 27, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. May 31, 1809. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Frederick Limbaugh, Sen., being duly sworn, says that said land was first settled in 1804 for claimant, at which time a cabin was built, and stables, and five or six acres were cleared and cultivated; and the premises have been uninterruptedly inhabited and cultivated by or for claimant to the present time; claimant has a wife and one child.

Opinion of the Board. December 29, 1809: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

Opinion of the Board. February 3, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM PATTERSON.—A claim for nine hundred and seventy arpents of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 24, for six hundred and fifty arpents; and a survey of nine hundred and seventy arpents, dated February 27, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 2, 1806. George F. Bollinger, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in October, 1803; built a cabin thereon, and moved his family on the same; that he did, in the year 1804, clear ten acres, raised a crop that year, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; had, on the 23d December, 1803, a wife and nine children.

Opinion of the Board. February 3, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of six hundred and fifty arpents.

DANIEL HELDEBRAND.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents, and ninety-five perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 108, for three hundred arpents; a plat of survey for three hundred and fifty arpents ninety-five perches, signed B. Cousin, and countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General, February 27, 1806, as received for record.

Opinion of the Board. February 3, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM BYRD.—A claim for two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, dated January 24, 1800, and a survey of the same, dated December 25, 1805.

Testimony taken. June 2, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) David Fenel, sworn, says that claimant had a pair of millstones cut on premises in 1803; a cabin built and inhabited; about forty acres are now enclosed, cultivated, and inhabited at this time by John Gibany.

Opinion of the Board. February 3, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ABRAHAM BYRD, JUN.—A claim for two hundred and twenty-five arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces a certificate of a warrant of survey from Henry Peyroux, commandant of New Madrid, dated March 21, 1804, and a certificate of survey dated January 11, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 1, 1806. George Hacker, being duly sworn, says that one Cown settled the said tract of land in 1802; that the same was, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated by claimant; that said claimant held another tract of land in the district of Cape Girardeau, of which he had disposed prior to the 20th December of that year. Abraham Byrd, Sen., the claimant's father, observed that he was in 1803 of the age of eighteen or nineteen, and was doing militia duty in 1803.

Solomon Thorn, being also sworn, says that claimant has done militia duty under him for upwards of six years.

Opinion of the Board. February 3, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM BYRD, SEN., assignee of Jonathan Stoker, assignee of John Johnson, assignee of William Smith.—A claim for four hundred and forty-five arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board a permission to settle, from Henry Peyroux, commandant at New Madrid, to John Johnson, to settle on twelve or fifteen arpents of land, dated 26th August, 1800; a certificate of survey for the same, dated January 11, 1806; a deed of transfer from the said Jonathan Stoker to John Johnson, dated November 17, 1801; and a deed of transfer from said John Johnson to the above claimant, dated December 29, 1802.

Testimony taken. May 1, 1806. Andrew Ramsay, being duly sworn, says that the said John Johnson settled the said tract of land in the fall of 1800; that he built a house on the same, and actually inhabited it.

Solomon Thorn, being duly sworn, says that crops were raised on said land in the years 1801 and 1802, and that claimant did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same; and had then a wife, five children, and nineteen negroes.

June 2, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Andrew Ramsay, Jun., sworn, says that Johnson settled this land the last of the year 1800, or first of the year 1801; built a cabin; cleared, enclosed, and cultivated a small field; premises constantly inhabited and cultivated to the present time, a large field now in cultivation.

James Brady, duly sworn, says that he has been on the lands of the claimant, and supposes that sixty or seventy acres are enclosed and in cultivation.

Opinion of the Board. May 1, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant seven hundred and fifty arpents, situate as aforesaid.

February 6, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM BYRD, SEN. assignee of Jonathan Stoker.—A claim for two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of New Madrid. Produces a certificate of a petition, and a permission to settle from Henry Peyroux, dated March 24th, 1802; a certificate of survey, dated January 11th, 1806; and a deed of transfer of the same executed to claimant by Abraham Byrd, Jun., attorney to the said Jonathan Stoker, dated January 11th, 1804; and the power of attorney of said Stoker to said Abraham Byrd, Junior, to sell said land, dated December 29th, 1802.

Testimony taken. May 1st, 1806. George Hacker, being duly sworn, says that the said Jonathan Stoker settled the said tract of land in the spring of 1802, and raised a crop thereon; and that the same was, prior to and on the 20th of December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated for the use of the claimant, by his negroes, and has been so to this day. This tract is adjoining the tract above claimed by said Abraham Byrd, Senior.

June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Andrew Ramsay, Junior, sworn, says that Stoker settled this land in 1802; cleared, enclosed, and cultivated a field, and inhabited a cabin, which had been previously built; premises constantly inhabited and cultivated to the present time.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM BYRD, SEN.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of New Madrid. Produces a duly certified copy of permission to settle, from Henry Peyroux, commandant of New Madrid, dated March 24th, 1802, and a certificate of survey, dated January 11th, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 1st, 1806. George Hacker, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in 1803, and that the same was, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated by his negroes, and for his use.

June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Andrew Ramsay, Junior, duly sworn, says that claimant settled, cleared, enclosed, and cultivated in 1803; built a house; premises constantly inhabited and cultivated to the present time; upwards of twenty acres now in cultivation; claimant, in 1803, had six children and a wife.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810. Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM BYRD, SEN., assignee of Charles Fenley.—A claim for three hundred and twenty-five arpents of land, situate at Prairie St. Charles, district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board a certified copy of a petition for a concession, dated December 20th, 1800; a certificate of survey of said land; and a deed of transfer from the said Fenley to the said Abraham Byrd, Sen., dated January 17th, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 1st, 1806. Stephens Jones, being duly sworn, says that said Charles Fenley settled the said tract of land in the year 1801, and raised a crop thereon that year, and that he had, prior to his selling of the same to the said claimant, cleared about eight or nine acres; and further, that the same was, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated by claimant's negroes, and for his use; that he had on the same a good cabin and about fifteen acres in cultivation; and, lastly, that the said tract came to the said Fenley by virtue of an exchange, the property of one Bowee.

June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Robert Lane, being duly sworn, says that Fenley settled this land in 1801; cleared, enclosed, and cultivated six or seven acres; built a cabin; and premises have been constantly inhabited and cultivated to the present time; ten or twelve acres now in cultivation.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ABRAHAM BYRD, JUN.—A claim for three hundred and seventy-four arpents forty-nine perches of land, situate on Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 117; a plat of survey, dated December 11th, 1805, signed B. Cousin, countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

MOSES BYRD.—A claim for three hundred and fifty-two arpents of land, situate on Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 119; a plat of survey, dated December 11th, 1805, signed B. Cousin, countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Abraham Byrd, Jun., duly affirmed, says, improvement was made in the year 1807; ten or twelve acres cultivated; a house, stable, spring-house, &c.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN BYRD.—A claim for five hundred and eighty-five arpents and eighty-four perches of land, situate on the waters of Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 118; a certificate of survey of five hundred and eighty-five arpents and twenty-four perches, dated December 30th, 1805; and a quit-claim from one Jacob Myers and Kesiah his wife, late widow of ene Joseph Crutchlow, dated April 12th, 1802.

Testimony taken. April 16th, 1806. Joseph Young, being duly sworn, says that the said Joseph Crutchlow did, prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land; that he died on said land in the year 1801; that the said claimant did, in the year 1802, clear twelve or fifteen arpents of the said tract; cultivated that year, and to this day.

Bartholomew Cousin, being also duly sworn, says that the aforesaid Kesiah Crutchlow, after the death of her husband, obtained from the commandant, Louis Lormier, permission to cultivate the said land; that the said commandant had promised her a concession for the same; and further, that claimant, having purchased the said tract of land, applied for a concession for the same, and obtained the aforesaid concession, so dated as mentioned in list A.

June 2d, 1803. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Young, being duly sworn, says that the premises were improved in the spring of 1800; a house was then built, a small field cleared, and a part cultivated. Since the year 1803 claimant has cultivated a part of this tract. No person was living on this land on the 20th December, 1803, though in cultivation.

Opinions and remarks of the Board. April 16th, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The claimant having had a tract of eight hundred arpents of land confirmed to him under the first section of the act, and the same not being actually inhabited on the 20th December, 1803, the Board reject this claim. They, however, observe that they think it a hard case.

February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN BYRD, assignee of Samuel S. Kennedy.—A claim for four hundred and sixty-eight arpents and fourteen perches of land, situate on the waters of Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 2; a plat of survey of the same; and a transfer of said Samuel S. Kennedy to claimant, dated January 12th, 1805.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN BYRD, assignee of James Arrell.—A claim for two hundred and thirty-four arpents and five perches of land, situate on the waters of Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which James Arrell is No. 131, for three hundred arpents; a plat of survey, dated January 1st, 1806, signed B. Cousin, and countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN BYRD, assignee of Josiah Lee, Junior.—A claim for two hundred and thirty-four arpents of land, situate on the waters of Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which said Lee is No. 121, for two hundred arpents; a plat of survey for two hundred and thirty-four arpents; and a conveyance from said Lee to claimant, dated October 3, 1804.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN BYRD, assignee of William Jackson.—A claim for four hundred and eight arpents and eighty-six perches of land, situate on Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 89; a plat of survey, dated December 30th, 1805, signed B. Cousin and countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Young, being duly sworn, says the premises were improved in the year 1803; a field of several acres cleared, enclosed, and cultivated to this day, but not inhabited; about seven or eight acres in cultivation at this time.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

AMOS BYRD, SENIOR.—A claim for one thousand arpents of land, situate on the waters of a fork of Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 7th, 1798; a plat of survey, dated 29th and 30th November, 1799, and certified December 5th, 1799.

Testimony taken. June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Abraham Byrd, being duly affirmed, says this land was first improved in 1801; in the following years, particularly in 1803, a field of several acres was cleared, enclosed, and cultivated, a house built, and the premises inhabited and cultivated to the present time. Upwards of fifty acres are now in cultivation.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation thereof; but the said majority do declare that, if the said claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, they would have voted for its confirmation.

ANDREW PATTERSON.—A claim for three hundred and fifty-one arpents and fifty perches of land, situate on Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 72, for three hundred arpents; a plat of survey, dated December 2d, 1805, signed B. Cousin, and countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Opinion of the Board. February 6th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

EPHRAIM CARPENTER.—A claim for seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river Saline, district of St. Genevieve. Produces a duly registered general permission to settle on any of the vacant lands, from Peter Delassus Deluziere, dated March 29th, 1793; and an order from the same to remove from the tract he had first settled on to any other part of the public lands.

Testimony taken. June 23d, 1806. Job Westover, being duly sworn, says that claimant had on said tract of land a house; that, in the year 1798, he, the witness, was employed by claimant to lay a floor in said house; that, about two months afterwards, about the time said claimant was preparing to improve and cultivate the said tract, a party of Indians fired at a Mr. Dodge, an inhabitant of that part of the country, and pursued him for several miles; that the settlers, among whom was claimant, being alarmed at the conduct of said Indians, left their settlement; and further, that about a year or eighteen months afterwards, one Philip Emdie moved on said land, and remained thereon during the years 1800 and 1801.

James F. Piller, being also duly sworn, says that he, the witness, arrived in the country in the year 1799; that he purchased said land from claimant, proceeded to the improvement of the same, and lived on it, and raised a crop in the year 1800; that, about the latter part of that year, to wit, Christmas, a Mr. Vallée, surveying a tract of land adjoining the same, surveyed it in, whereupon said witness lost the said improvement, and was obliged to move out; that the said Vallée never paid witness any thing for said improvement so surveyed in; that, in 1802, said witness cultivated again the said tract, raised a crop on the same, one-half of which he gathered, leaving the other half for the said Vallée; that Vallée told witness that the house on said land was the property of the above claimant. Said claimant had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, a wife and child.

Walter Fenwick, being also duly sworn, says that he knew said claimant in the country about nine years ago, and that he remained in it about three or four years.

February 10th, 1810. Stace McDonough sworn, says that the land claimed is situate on the north side of the north fork of the Saline creek, about six or seven miles from its mouth. Witness was on the place claimed in 1798; claimant was then with his family, consisting of a wife and child, and two hired men, and had a house built, which he was living in; had about four acres grubbed, and some fences mauld; that while witness was at the house of claimant, an express came and informed them that the Indians were robbing the settlement, and had whipped three men in consequence of this information: the settlement was abandoned about a year and a half afterwards. Witness was present when claimant and one Jean F. Pillars made an agreement together, which was, that said Pillars might go and settle on the place claimed; that about Christmas of the year 1800, witness was on the place claimed, and found Jean F. Pillars, with his family, then inhabiting it. Witness saw corn stalks in the field adjoining the house, and appearances of its having been cultivated that year; that the year after, said Pillars, with his family, moved off this land, and went to a place about a mile further up the creek, and has continued to inhabit and cultivate the place moved to ever since.

Opinion of the Board. June 23d, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim for want of actual inhabitation and cultivation by claimant, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803.

February 10th, 1810. Present, John B. C. Lucas and Frederick Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

DANIEL BOLLINGER, Senior.—A claim for three hundred and seventy-two arpents of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 161; a plat of survey of the same, signed B. Cousin, and countersigned the 27th February, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 68, for three hundred arpents; a survey of the same, taken the 2d December, 1805, and certified February 26, 1806, and a deed of transfer, dated September 6, 1805.

Testimony and acknowledgements taken. August 15, 1806. Elijah Franks, being duly sworn, says that the said Murphy settled the said tract of land in August 1803, cleared a field, built a house, into which he moved in the fall of that year, and actually inhabited the same prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803; that, in the spring of 1804, he made a nursery of peach trees, and raised a crop that year; and further that the same has been actually inhabited and cultivated to this day; that the said Murphy had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife and child.

June 7, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c. David Ferrell, duly sworn, says that James Murphy and his brother Frank improved this land in the fall of 1803, built a cabin, and lived in it, which said cabin was constantly inhabited until the year 1805; a field of a few acres was cleared, enclosed, and cultivated till the year 1806; between six and eight acres prepared for cultivation.

Ezekiel Able appears before the said commissioner, and relinquishes all claim to the foregoing tract, having sold the same to William Garner, or rather released the same to him, and suffered him to claim under the transfer of James Murphy.

Jeremiah Able also appears before the said commissioner, and relinquishes all claim to the foregoing tract of land to William Garner.

Ezekiel Able, duly sworn, says that there had been some dispute between Frank and James Murphy, both of whom wish to hold the same plantation. Witness was present when Frank agreed that James should keep possession of the land now claimed by Garner, adding that he would go to the other place; saying at the same time that he, (witness,) or any other person might buy, as he (Frank) had no claims to the premises.

John Shields, duly sworn, says, in 1804 was out and settled near the place settled by James, when he heard Frank say that he had given up the premises now claimed to his brother James.

Opinion of the Board. March 2, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of three hundred arpents.

DANIEL HUBBLE.—A claim for two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on Foster's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 56.

Testimony taken. June 3, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Matthew Hubble, duly sworn, says that a small improvement was made on this land in the year 1805; a few peach and apple trees planted.

Opinion of the Board. March 2, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JONATHAN FOREMAN.—A claim for three hundred and fifty three arpents and eighty-eight perches of land, situate on Hubble's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated April 27, 1803; a plat of survey, dated February 4, 1806, and certified February 12, same year.

Testimony taken. June 3, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) John Guething, duly sworn, says that in the spring of 1802 Foreman employed him (witness) to work at his mill; worked seven days; that at this time James Campbell came to the mill, and told witness that he had sold his improvement (by which witness conceived that the mere labor and expense were intended) to Jonathan Foreman, for a cow with calf, or for a cow and calf together, with some other property; that witness gave a quantity of corn to Campbell for the cow, and, on said Campbell's order verbal, received her from Foreman.

David Patterson, duly sworn, says that about January or February, 1802, witness was present at the mill with Campbell and Foreman, who were conversing about the purchase by Foreman of Campbell's improvement, who appeared desirous to sell, on account of his apprehensions of Foreman's mill-dam; witness left them for a short time, and returned, when witness was told that they had bargained; that Foreman had purchased Campbell's improvement, for which he was to let Campbell have a cow with calf, or cow and calf, and a quantity of corn; witness understood that the land, as well as the labor and expense, was conveyed by Campbell to Foreman in this bargain.

John Guething, before sworn, in reply to the question of the interfering claimant, Jeremiah Able, answered: I understood it to be the intention of the parties, and the determination of Campbell, after this sale, to lay his head right on some other place.

Peter Burns, being duly sworn, says that he heard Campbell say he had sold his right of that land to Jonathan Foreman, the land lying above where the mill of Jonathan Foreman now stands; witness also heard said Foreman say that he bought said land; witness never understood that Campbell sold his head right to Foreman, and does not believe that he did. Campbell, after this sale, always believed that he had the privilege to lay his head right elsewhere. In 1801 Campbell lived on this land, and cultivated a small spot of ground in turnips and other vegetables; lived in a cabin which had been previously built.

Opinion of the Board. March 2, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

Opinion of the Board. March 8, 1810. Present: John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

EZEKIEL ABLE, assignee of James Smith.—A claim for six hundred and forty acres of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a plat of survey of four thousand three hundred arpents, dated 22d December, 1805, certified 28th February, 1806; in which survey the tract claimed is included; also an assignment of James Smith and others to Ezekiel Able, dated February 25, 1806.

Testimony taken. June 4, 1808: (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Elisha Welsh, sworn, says, James Smith improved in 1803; cultivated one-fourth of an acre, did not inhabit; cut up brush and piled it.

Opinion of the Board. March 8, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

EZEKIEL ABLE, assignee of Jacob Sharadon.—A claim for six hundred and forty acres of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board an assignment of Jacob Sharadon and others to Ezekiel Able, dated February 25, 1806.

Testimony taken. June 4, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Daniel Brant, sworn as to Sharadon's improvement, says, premises were improved in 1803; one-fourth of an acre chopped, trees deadened, brush piled.

Opinion of the Board. March 8, 1810. Present: John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN McCARTY, assignee of William Murphy, assignee of Alexander Andrews, Jun.—A claim for four hundred and forty arpents eighty perches of land, situate on waters of Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which Alexander Andrews, Junior, is No. 13, for three hundred arpents; a plat of survey, dated 9th December, 1805, signed B. Cousin, countersigned Antoine Souldard, Surveyor General; a deed of transfer from Alexander Andrews, Jun. to said William Murphy, dated 1st August, 1802; and another deed of transfer, from said William Murphy to claimant, dated the 11th February, 1806.

Testimony taken. August 18, 1806. Francis Murphy, being duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was settled in the year 1802, and was also prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated by one Alexander Andrews, Sen., as tenant to the said William Murphy.

Opinion of the Board. August 18, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, Esqrs. The Board reject this claim for want of actual inhabitation by the said William Murphy, and also of a permission to settle.

March 2, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

AQUILLA WATHEN, assignee of Polly Boyd.—A claim for two hundred arpents of land, situate on Caney creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board an affidavit of permission to settle, in favor of Polly Boyd, dated 6th June, 1808.

Testimony taken. June 4, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) James Boyd, duly sworn, says that in 1803, before and after the 20th December, Polly Boyd lived on the premises, and in the following year witness, her father, cultivated flax on the premises for her use.

June 7, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, as aforesaid.) James Boyd, duly sworn, says that in the spring of 1802 witness helped to raise a cabin on that place, and also assisted in clearing about one acre and a half of ground, and in breaking it up and planting it; in the year 1803, old Mr. Andrews raised corn on the premises, by permission of witness, as Polly Boyd's father; in 1804, witness put part of it in flax, pulled and put the flax in the cabin which we had built in 1802, which, or a part of it, continued in said cabin until the present spring.

John Boyd, duly sworn, says that he knows very little more than that what the foregoing witness, his father, has stated.

Robert Green, sworn, says that the claimant employed witness's son, and paid him twenty dollars for raising a cabin on the premises in 1807.

Opinion of the Board. March 2, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

HUGH CRESWELL.—A claim for one hundred and one arpents thirty-one perches of land, situate on Randall's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which the claimant is No. 138, for one hundred arpents; a plat of survey, dated 3d February, 1806, certified 13th February of the same year.

Opinion of the Board. March 8, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas, and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN GIBANY.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents ninety-five perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 129; a plat of survey, dated December 3, 1805, signed Edward F. Bond, countersigned February 28, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. June 4, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Elisha Welsh, duly sworn, says that a cabin was built on the premises in 1804, a small spot cleared, but no cultivation.

Opinion of the Board. March 8, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas, and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CHARLES SEXTON.—A claim for three hundred and fifty arpents ninety-five perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. BAPTISTE GODAIR.—A claim for two hundred and four arpents of land, situate on Ramsay's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 41, for three hundred and fifty arpents; a plat of survey of two hundred and four arpents, dated 21st December, 1805, signed B. Cousin, countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. June 4, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to receive testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Samuel Bradley, duly sworn, says that in 1803 a small brush heap was made, and logs cut for a cabin, and cabin raised in 1804; since which time, it has been constantly inhabited and cultivated; about two acres in cultivation in 1804.

Opinion of the Board. March 8, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM MORRISON, assignee of Jeremiah Thompson, assignee of David McMoutrie.—A claim for four hundred and sixty-four arpents ninety-five perches of land, situate on Gibany's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which David McMoutrie is No. 3, for three hundred arpents; a plat of survey, dated 6th January, 1806, certified to be received for record 26th February, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General; a deed of transfer from said McMoutrie to said Thompson, dated 6th December, 1804; and a deed of transfer from said Thompson to claimant, dated 7th May, 1805.

Testimony taken. June 4, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Worthington, duly sworn, says that premises were first settled and cultivated in spring of 1803, and continued till the fall of same year; after which year it was left vacant.

Opinion of the Board. March 8, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

THOMAS FOSTER.—A claim for two hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on Hubble's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, dated 1st June, 1808.

Testimony taken. June 6th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) David Ferrell, sworn, says that claimant in 1803 built a cabin, cleared, enclosed, and cultivated a field of a few acres, inhabited and cultivated throughout the year 1803, and abandoned until the last winter, when he again took possession.

Opinion of the Board. March 13th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOSEPH WORTHINGTON, assignee of Henry Hall.—A claim for two hundred and eighty-four arpents thirty-one and one-third perches of land, situate on Mill creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a certificate of survey of the same, dated December 20th, 1805, and a deed of transfer of the same, dated December 27th, 1804.

Opinion of the Board. April 17th, 1806. David Ferrell, being duly sworn, says that the said Henry Hall settled the said tract of land in the fall of 1803, and did actually inhabit and cultivate the same prior to and on the 20th of December, 1803, when he had a wife and three children.

Opinion of the Board. April 17th, 1800. Present, John B. C. Lucas and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant, assignee as aforesaid, one thousand arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

March 13th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOSEPH WORTHINGTON.—A claim for one hundred and seventy arpents of land, situate on Ramsay's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 155, for one hundred and fifty arpents; a plat of survey, dated 21st December, 1805, and certified to be received for record 27th February, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Opinion of the Board. March 13th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOSEPH THOMPSON, Junior.—A claim for two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on Cany Creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 95.

Testimony taken. June 6th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Joseph Worthington, duly sworn, says that claimant, in the fall of the year 1803, went on the premises, built a camp, and lived in it for a short time, (not till 23d of December;) deadened and marked trees, and planted peach stones; no other improvement.

Opinion of the Board. March 14th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

SAMUEL DORSEY, assignee of Horace Austin.—A claim for eight hundred and sixty-five arpents sixty-six perches of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which Horace Austin is No. 55, for three hundred arpents; and a survey, dated 15th December, 1805, and certified to be received for record 26th February, 1806, by Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General; also, a deed of transfer from said Horace Austin to claimant, dated May 8th, 1805.

Testimony taken. June 6th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Thomas Foster, duly sworn, says that Austin settled in the fall of 1803, and lived in a cabin previously built; cleared and enclosed a field of three or four acres, and cultivated it the following year, in the fall of which he moved away.

Opinion of the Board. March 14th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of three hundred arpents.

JENNY LOGAN, widow of John Logan.—A claim for four hundred and ninety-one arpents seventy-five perches of land, situate in the district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board a certificate of survey of said land, dated December 18th, 1805.

Testimony taken. April 18th, 1806. Jacob Friend, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1802, and did prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then three children.

June 6th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Jeremiah Simpson, being duly sworn, says that in March 1801, the widow went on this land, which her husband had in his lifetime chosen, finished a cabin which had been before commenced and abandoned, cleared one and a half or two acres of ground, enclosed and cultivated it in March or April, 1802; the widow was married and left the premises; since which time there has been neither inhabitation nor cultivation.

Opinions of the Board. April 18th, 1806: Present, John B. C. Lucas and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant—, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

March 14th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM HAND.—A claim for three hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of Hubble's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 69.

Testimony taken. June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Henry Hand, duly sworn, says that he made brush piles and cut logs on the 7th January, 1803; in the following year, July 4th, he commenced a clearing, and soon thereafter planted corn and turnips; July 7th, 1804, John Taylor took possession of the premises, for the removal of whom, he, witness, applied to Louis Lorimer, Esq., then commandant of Cape Girardeau.

John McCarty, duly sworn, says that a few years ago, perhaps in 1803, he saw an advertisement of claimant, warning all persons against trespassing or intruding on a tract of land which he claimed by improvement, or head right, granted by Louis Lorimer, the commandant of the district. This advertisement was posted up at Foreman's mill.

Charles Demoss, duly sworn, says, in 1803, passing through the land now occupied by John Taylor, he saw brush heaps near a spring; same year, at same spring, saw an advertisement on a tree, forewarning all persons from occupying said land, as it was alleged to be the property of the claimant; saw the advertisement alluded to in M'Carty's testimony at the mill.

Gilbert Hector, duly sworn, says that he, witness, went with claimant to premises in the year 1803 or 1804, to the camp of John Taylor, when claimant, in presence of witness, forewarned said Taylor from making any improvement on said land.

Question by interfering claimant, (Able.)—Did you see an improvement on this land in 1803? Answer.—I saw either turnips or corn cultivated on premises, or perhaps both, and enclosed by a brush fence, either in 1803 or 1804, and before Taylor occupied.

B. Cousin, Esq., states, from a registry which he brought to the Board, that William Hand desired him to annul an entry of location for three hundred arpents on Hubble's creek, for the reason that he should lay his head right arising from the general concession at Cape La Cruche; it further appears from the said registry, that the land thus vacated was then entered for John Taylor.

Opinion of the Board. March 14th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN TAYLOR.—A claim for five hundred and sixty-two arpents seventy-three and a half perches of land, situate on Hubble's and Randall's creeks, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list B, on which claimant is No. 20, for five hundred and fifty arpents, (this claim interfering with the foregoing;) a plat of survey, dated 6th December, 1805, signed B. Cousin, countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken. June 2d, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Samuel Pew, sworn, says he knows the land, lives near it, has passed through it, and knows of no cultivation on the premises in 1803.

David Paterson, sworn, says that he knows this tract of land, and was acquainted with it before Taylor moved to it, and verily believes that there were no improvements on the premises in the year 1803; at this time there are a good square log-house, stable, kitchen, smoke-house, and ten or twelve acres in cultivation.

Opinion of the Board. March 14th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

PETER MENARD.—A claim for four hundred arpents. Produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, for four hundred arpents, dated 5th November, 1798.

Opinion of the Board. March 19th, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN C. HARBISON, assignee of John Hays, sheriff of the district of Cape Girardeau, who sold the following property as belonging to Louis Largeau; produces to the Board a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Louis Largeau, for the same, dated August 26, 1797; a plat of survey, dated December 1, 1797, certified January 1, 1798; and a deed of conveyance from said sheriff Hays to claimant, dated December 7, 1805; a claim for one thousand arpents of land.

Acknowledgments taken. June 7, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, authorized from the Board to take testimony, &c. at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Claimant appeared personally before said commissioner, and acknowledged that, for valuable consideration, he has and does transfer to Anthony Hayden two hundred and fifty arpents of the tract now claimed; and claimant also acknowledges that, for valuable considerations, he has transferred, and does hereby transfer, to Rheineke and Steenback, two hundred and fifty arpents of the tract now claimed.

Opinion of the Board. March 19, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

LOUIS LORIMER.—A claim for eight thousand arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a petition for eighty by one hundred arpents; a concession thereon from the Baron de Carondelet, Governor General of Louisiana, for forty arpents front, by one hundred arpents depth, dated October 26, 1795; an official letter from the said Governor General to Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, ordering him to put claimant in possession of the other forty arpents front, by one hundred arpents depth, petitioned for by him, dated January 26, 1797; a certified copy of a plat of survey of eight thousand arpents, taken October 26, 1797, certified December 11, 1797, signed Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General of the Territory of Louisiana, February 27, 1806.

Translations of the several papers produced by claimant in support of his claim.

Don Louis Lorimer, inhabitant of this district, with the greatest respect due to your lordship, represents, that wishing to establish himself in the same, petitions your lordship to be pleased to grant him eighty arpents of land in front, by one hundred in depth, front to Cypress island, in Cape Girardeau, bounded on its two extremities by the King's domain; a favor which he hopes to merit of your justice.

At the request of the party interested.

JUAN BARNO Y FERRUSSOLA.

To His Lordship the GOVERNOR GENERAL.

NEW MADRID, September 1, 1795.

I consider the petitioner worthy of the favor which he solicits, for being vested with the circumstances required by the instruction.

THOMAS PORTELL.

NEW ORLEANS, October 26, 1795.

The Surveyor, Don Anthony Soulard, shall establish the petitioner on forty arpents in front of the eighty which he demands, by one hundred in depth, on the place mentioned by the above memorial, provided they are vacant, and do not prejudice the neighbors, under the express condition to make the road and regular improvements within the precise term of one year; and this concession to be declared null and void, if, at the precise term of three, the said land is not established; and not being in his power to alienate the same within the said term; under which provisions the diligence of survey shall be made at the continuation, which will be remitted to me in order to provide the petitioner with the corresponding title in form.

EL BARON DE CARONDELET.

NEW ORLEANS, January 26, 1797.

You will give orders to Anthony Soulard to survey for Louis Lorimer the forty arpents more of land which he petitioned for, on the place mentioned, and which will complete the eighty he had demanded; after which, he is to demand it by memorial, which you will recommend with reference to this official letter, in order to give him the decree of concession.

God preserve you many years.

DON ZENON TRUDEAU.

ST. LOUIS, February 26, 1806.

No. 1.—Surveyed in virtue of the decree of His Lordship the Baron de Carondelet, Commandant General of the province, dated 26th October, 1795, and of the official letter by him directed to the Lieutenant Governor, in date of the 26th February, 1797, by him transmitted to me. The said tract surveyed the 26th October, 1797; the certificate of survey delivered the 11th of December, same year.

I certify the present extract to be faithfully copied and translated from the register A. of the surveys in Cape Girardeau district, page 1, No. 1.

ANTOINE SOULARD,

Surveyor General of Territory of Louisiana.

DON LOUIS LORIMER.

Testimony taken. March 20, 1810. Auguste Chouteau, sworn, says that the claimant inhabited and cultivated the land claimed fifteen or twenty years ago, and continued so to do until eight years past; the last time witness saw the place claimed, claimant had made considerable improvements on the land.

Marie Philip Le Duc, sworn, says that he saw claimant on the place claimed, inhabiting and cultivating in 1779; that claimant was then erecting large buildings; witness has seen the place claimed several times since, the last time in 1808; always found claimant on the land inhabiting, and cultivating, and improving the same.

Anthony Soulard, sworn, says that the village of Cape Girardeau is on the tract claimed by Louis Lorimer, as proprietor, and that the inhabitants claim under him.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. March 20th, 1810: Full Board. The Board are unanimously of opinion that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Clement B. Penrose and Frederick Bates, commissioners, declaring that if this claim had not exceeded a league square, they would have voted for its confirmation. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, states as reasons of his opinion, that the order of survey or concession under date of the 26th October, 1795, does not appear to be registered; that the letter of office, under date of the 26th January, 1797, directed to Don Zenon Trudeau, is not an order directed by said Zenon Trudeau to Anthony Soulard, even if it should be construed that the said order is of sufficient authority to make the survey. However, it does not appear that the said order bears registry. He further states, that the quantity of land claimed under these two orders is more than the quantity usually allowed, agreeably to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government; and that no ordinance or copy of ordinance has been shown or exhibited authorizing the Governor to make decrees or orders for such quantity.

LOUIS LORIMER.—A claim for one thousand arpents of land. Produces to the Board a petition to Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, and a recommendation from said Delassus to the Intendant, dated 31st July, 1800.

Opinion of the Board. March 22d, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN HAYS.—A claim for seven hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 71, for four hundred arpents; a plat of survey, dated 18th February, 1806, signed Edward F. Bond, countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General, 28th February, 1806.

Testimony taken. June 7th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Solomon Thorn, duly sworn, says that in 1802 he was on this tract, and saw an improvement, to wit, a cabin and a field in cultivation, with corn, which said improvement witness has been frequently told by claimant was his property; witness has passed this tract every year since 1802, and always observed that it was in cultivation.

Opinion of the Board. March 22d, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN McCARTY, Assignee of Jacob Kelly.—A claim for five hundred and forty-six arpents forty-eight perches of land, situate on Byrd's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to Jacob Kelly, dated 24th January, 1800, for five hundred and fifty arpents; a plat of survey, dated 18th April, 1803, certified May 2d, 1803; and a transfer from said Jacob Kelly to claimant, dated August 30th, 1803.

Testimony taken. June 7th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Solomon Thorn, duly sworn, says that Cavender, son-in-law and tenant of claimant, lived on and cultivated this land in 1803, at which time about thirteen acres were cultivated; a good cabin and fences; premises inhabited and cultivated to the present day; fourteen or fifteen acres now in cultivation.

Opinion of the Board. March 22d, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for a confirmation.

GEORGE HENDERSON.—A claim for three hundred arpents of land, situate on the big bend of the Mississippi, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 82; and also a certificate of permission to settle from Louis Lorimer, commandant of Cape Girardeau district, dated 7th June, 1808, sworn to before Robert Green; a plat of survey, dated 5th February, 1806, signed Edward F. Bond, and countersigned Antoine Soulard, Surveyor General, 28th February, 1806.

Opinion of the Board. March 22, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

NICOLAS REVELLE.—A claim for two hundred arpents of land, situate on Ramsay's creek, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, list A, on which claimant is No. 115.

Testimony taken. June 7th, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at Cape Girardeau, &c.) Solomon Thorn, duly sworn, says that in the year 1801 he saw a field enclosed, (of about one acre,) with a brush fence, and cultivated in corn, cucumbers, and other vegetables, at which time there was a cabin on this tract inhabited, but how long after the witness does not know; said cabin was below the Big Lick, about one hundred yards on the west side of the creek.

Opinion of the Board. March 22, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

THOMAS HUFF.—A claim for five hundred arpents of land, situate on lake Le Bœuf, district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board an order of survey from Henry Peyroux, commandant of New Madrid district, for five hundred arpents, dated 22d May, 1801, and No. 1224; and a survey, signed Joseph Story, for four hundred and ninety-six arpents, without date.

Testimony taken. June 15, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at New Madrid, &c.) Edward Mathews, duly sworn, says that premises were cleared, enclosed, and cultivated in 1801; left the land some time in the same year, when claimant left the country; he left also his property, to wit, working tools, &c., and appeared anxious to return, but never did that witness knows of.

William Smith, duly sworn, says, in the beginning of 1801, he came to the country with two negroes and other property, in which year he cleared, enclosed, and cultivated, to wit: four or five acres of land, and abandoned the premises after making one crop, leaving his working tools and some cattle; after removal, claimant wrote to witness, desiring him to take care of his plantation.

Opinion of the Board. March 26, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

THOMAS HUFF, JUN.—A claim for two hundred arpents of land, situate on lake Le Bœuf, district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board an order of survey from Henry Peyroux, commandant of New Madrid district, dated 22d May, 1801, and No. 1224, for two hundred arpents; and a survey of the same, signed Joseph Story, without date.

Opinion of the Board. March 26, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CHARLES LUCAS, assignee of Phœbe Jones.—A claim for two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on Tywappety, district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board a certified copy of a permission to settle, from Henry Peyroux, commandant of New Madrid district, dated March 24, 1802; a survey, dated the 15th January, 1806; and a deed of transfer of Phœbe Jones to claimant, dated September 4, 1805.

Testimony taken. August 13, 1806. John Tucker, sworn, says that the said Phœbe Jones had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, a child and two slaves.

June 15, 1808. By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at New Madrid, &c.) William Cox, sworn, says that a sugar camp was established on premises in 1802, and continued till 1804.

Opinion of the Board. March 26, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CHARLES LUCAS, assignee of Stephen Jones.—A claim for eight hundred and seventy arpents of land, situate on Tywappety Bottom, district of New Madrid, on the Mississippi. Produces to the Board a certified list of permissions to settle, formerly given, No. 1369, on which Stephen Jones is No. 229, for four hundred arpents dated 21st of March, 1804, and signed Henry Peyroux commandant of New Madrid; a plat of survey of eight hundred and seventy arpents, dated 24th January, 1806, signed Edward F. Bond; and a deed of conveyance from said Jones to claimant, dated 24th June, 1805.

Testimony taken. June 15, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at New Madrid, &c.) William Cox, duly sworn, says that a sugar camp was established in the year 1802, and continued until the year 1804.

Opinion of the Board. March 26th, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CHARLES LUCAS, assignee of Rezin Bowie.—A claim for three hundred and eighty arpents of land, situate on Fish lake, district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board a special permission to settle, from Henry Peyroux, commandant of New Madrid district, dated 19th December, 1800; a survey of the same, dated the 8th June, 1801; and a deed of transfer of Rezin Bowie to claimant, dated October 23, 1802.

Testimony taken. August 13, 1806. William Cox, being duly sworn, says that the said Rezin Bowie arrived in the country in August, 1800; that he immediately proceeded to the building of a house, which he completed; that he sowed turnips, and gathered the same.

John Tucker, being also duly sworn, says that when he, the witness, arrived in the country in the year 1802, he found the said Rezin Bowie on said land, and cultivating the same; that the said land was, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated for the use of the claimant, and has been so to this day; that he has about fifty acres of the same cleared and under cultivation, with an orchard of about eight or nine hundred fruit trees; had a wife and eight children.

Opinion of the Board. August 13, 1806: Full Board. The Board reject this claim; the said tract not being actually inhabited and cultivated by the claimant.

March 26, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas, and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CHARLES LUCAS, assignee of David Bowie.—A claim for two hundred arpents of land, situate on Big Swamp, district of New Madrid. Produces to the Board a certificate of a special permission to settle, from Henry Peyroux, commandant of New Madrid district, dated May 22, 1801, and a survey dated the 9th June, 1801; together with an acknowledgment of sale from said D. Bowie to claimant, dated October 23, 1802.

Testimony taken. August 13, 1806. William Cox, being duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was, prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabited and cultivated by the said David Bowie.

John Tucker, being also duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was, prior to and on the 20th day of October, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated for the use of the claimant, who had about four or five acres of the same sowed in oats; and further, that the said David was, on the 1st day of October, 1800, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards.

June 15, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner, authorized from the Board to take testimony at New Madrid, &c.) William Cox, duly sworn, says premises were inhabited and cultivated in 1800, and constantly till this day; about ten or fifteen acres now in cultivation. Bowie, in 1803, had three negroes.

Opinions of the Board. August 13, 1806: Full Board. The Board reject this claim, for want of a duly registered warrant of survey.

March 26, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ARUND RUTGERS.—A claim for seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river Dardennes, district St. Charles. Produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 14th April, 1799; a plat of survey for seven thousand and fifty-five arpents ninety-four perches, dated 1st February, 1800, and certified 5th March, same year. The concession in this claim was given for the building of a mill.

Testimony taken. Peter Provenchere, sworn, says that he (witness) was on the premises the 24th or 25th May, 1803; then saw a large dwelling house on premises, and a large field cleared and ready to be fenced in, timber cut, hewed, and hauled for a mill, and mill-dam; that, in the preceding November, he (witness) by order of claimant, paid Thomas Howell for doing a part of the above work; claimant returned to this country from the United States about the 2d June, 1803, with a number of workmen, and went immediately on the land claimed with said workmen; inhabited and cultivated the land that year, and has continued to inhabit and cultivate said land ever since; claimant has continually, from the 2d June, 1803, been working on premises, in erecting mills; said mills not yet completed, as the dam has been once or twice carried away by high waters; claimant's whole family moved on premises in July, 1805, and have continued on the same ever since; claimant himself, with his workmen and servants, resided on premises from June, 1803, to the present day.

John Alexander Mickau, sworn, says that he (witness) was on the premises about the 1st of December, 1803; that there were several houses actually built on the premises, and a great quantity of land cleared; that he saw a number of workmen then at work on the place; premises appeared to have been improved some time previous to this, as witness saw a store-house was built, and a store kept on premises; also saw a quantity of hewed timber, and the building of a mill far advanced; witness says that claimant was not on the premises at that time, but saw his overseer; thinks that claimant, with his family, resided on the place in 1804.

Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that he received a letter dated 1799, from claimant, written at Red Banks, or Lexington, Kentucky; the concession in this claim was therein enclosed, and he was requested to survey the land; witness received said letter in the year 1800; that Mr. Mackay, witness's deputy, surveyed said land, whose return was dated at the time the survey was made; that although the survey may not have been made at the time it bears date, it still bears date near the time application was made to him (witness); that the returns of surveys were made by Mr. Mackay on loose sheets of paper; witness always recorded them on his books, and then destroyed them as useless; that he (witness) generally regarded the time in dating his certificates of survey when application was made to him, for survey if recollected, and did not regard the time of the return of his deputy.

Opinion and remark of the Board. April 3, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose voting for the confirmation of a league square; Frederick Bates, commissioner, declaring that he would have voted for a confirmation, had this claim not have exceeded eight hundred arpents.

JOHN WELDON.—A claim for five hundred arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles. Produces to the Board a notice of claim.

John Weldon, the claimant, personally appears before the Board, and renounces all claim to certain land, as surveyed in his name, on the river Missouri; survey dated 17th November, 1803, certified 27th December, 1803, and recorded in book D, page 108, of the Recorder's office.

Claimant produces also, as a permission to settle, a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to him, for five hundred arpents, dated 20th December, 1799.

Testimony taken. March 30th, 1810. John McConnell, sworn, says that the claimant inhabited a tract of land, situate on the waters of the Dardennes, about one or two miles from the inhabitation of Arund Rutgers, in the winter of 1802; in the spring following cultivated, and has continued to inhabit and cultivate said land ever since; claimant had a wife and four children in 1802 and 1803.

Opinion and remarks of the Board. April 3, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; but the Board do declare that they would have voted for the granting of five hundred arpents, had this claim not been embraced in the tract claimed by Arund Rutgers, under the first section of the act of 1805.

JOSEPH PARISH.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river St. Francis, district of Cape Girardeau. Produces to the Board a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 28, 1806.

Testimony taken. May 5, 1806. Robert A. Logan, being duly sworn, says that claimant did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate said tract of land, and had then a wife and seven children.

My 30, 1803. David Logan, sworn, says that in January, 1801, or 1802, he applied to Louis Lorimer, commandant of Cape Girardeau, for permission for claimant to settle on vacant land, who then gave the permission asked.

Opinions of the Board. May 5, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant five hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

April 5, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM HAYS, deceased, (the heirs of.)—A claim for one thousand arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles. Produces to the Board, as a special permission to settle, a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 24, 1798; and a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 10, 1800.

Testimony taken. February 11, 1806. Joshua Dodson, being duly sworn, says that the said William Hays did clear and raise a crop on said land in the year 1799, and that he did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same.

April 7, 1809. John B. Callaway, sworn, says that he, witness, came to this country in the fall of 1799; then found William Hays inhabiting and cultivating the land claimed, and he continued so to do until 1804, when witness left this country; returned again in 1806, and found the representatives of claimant inhabiting and cultivating the same, and they have continued so to do ever since.

Opinions of the Board. February 11, 1806: Full Board. The Board grant the heirs of William Hays, deceased, one thousand arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

April 10, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation; but the said majority do declare, that, if this claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, they would have voted for its confirmation.

LOUIS COURTOIS, Sen.—A claim for seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river Merri-mack, district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a concession for the same from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 5th January, 1800; a plat of survey, dated 18th January, 1804, and certified 29th January, same year.

Testimony taken. October 25th, 1808. Benito Vasquez, sworn, says that about twenty-eight years ago he often saw claimant and family going towards the Merri-mack, where it was said, and then alleged, that they resided; saw them passing for six years, but never was at their improvement.

Opinion of the Board. April 10, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JADUTHAN KENDALL, assignee of Richard Glover.—A claim for two hundred and fifty arpents of land, on Sandy creek, district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, dated 30th June, 1808, and an assignment from Glover to claimant, dated 27th March, 1806.

Testimony taken. October 26, 1808. David Boyles, duly sworn, says Glover settled this tract in 1803; built a house, planted peach trees, and continued to inhabit and cultivate during that and the following years.

Opinion of the Board. April 10, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

AMABLE PARTENAY, assignee of Theresa Colman.—A claim for two thousand five hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Establishment, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board, an order from Manuel Perez, Lieutenant Governor, to Henry Peyroux, commandant of St. Genevieve, to concede, provided it is vacant, a tract of land of fifty arpents square, situate on the river Establishment, at the side towards the Mississippi, adjoining land of Thomas Clem, to Francis Colman, dated 12th May, 1788, a concession from said Henry Peyroux for the same to Francis Colman, dated May 15, 1788; a plat of survey, dated February 21, 1806, certified to be received for record 28th February, 1806; and a transfer from Theresa Colman to claimant, dated 29th January, 1806.

Testimony taken. November 14, 1808. Baptiste Bequet, sworn, says that twenty years ago Francis Colman had a house built on the tract claimed, and enclosed a field.

Opinion of the Board. April 11, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN FERRY.—A claim for eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Charles. Produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 11th January, 1800; a plat of survey, dated 26th January, 1804, certified the 5th March, same year, in which survey the land is said to be situated on the Mississippi, but, on examination thereof, it appears evidently to be a mistake, since, if it were so, the land must be situated on the east side of the Mississippi.

Testimony taken. January 28, 1809. Warner Gilbert, sworn, says that he knows the land claimed, and that it is situated on the Missouri, about twelve miles above the mouth; and that, about three years ago, apple trees were planted on the same, and land cleared; that there was a nursery fenced in; claimant resided with witness on an adjoining tract of land in 1802, and raised a crop with him.

Objection of the Agent of the United States. April 14 1810. The agent of the United States objects to this concession, as being antedated.

Opinion of the Board. April 14, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

WILLIAM RUSSELL, assignee of George Pursley.—A claim for one thousand one hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of Point Labadie creek, district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, and a deed of transfer from George Pursley to claimant, dated September 2, 1807.

Testimony taken. October 28, 1808. Aaron Colvin, sworn, says that George Pursley, seven years ago, built a cabin on the tract claimed, and commenced clearing some ground, but never finished it; he knows of nothing else being done on the land by or for him, said Pursley.

Ambrose Boles, sworn, says that George Pursley was living on the tract claimed in April, 1803; had a garden fenced in, and some things growing in it, when he was driven off by the Indians. For permission to settle, see Mackay's list.

January 17, 1810. Peter Pritchett, duly sworn, says that Pursley inhabited and cultivated the land claimed in the spring of 1803; that he, witness, saw vegetables growing at that time on said land; that, on or about the 3d of April, same year, the Indians killed a man by the name of Ridenhour, in the same settlement; that the settlement in consequence of said Ridenhour being killed, broke up. Witness says that George McFall, by permission of said Pursley, inhabited said land in the fall of said year; that Pursley's family, in the year 1803, consisted of his wife and four or five children; witness says that the inhabitants generally returned to the settlement in the fall of 1803.

Opinion of the Board. April 16, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

SAMUEL HODGES, Jun.—A claim for two hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Louis. Produces to the Board a concession for the same from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated March 2, 1798; and a plat of survey, dated October 20, 1802, certified December 17, same year.

Testimony taken. April 3, 1810. Jacob Seely, duly sworn, says that William Davis made an improvement to the east, adjoining Gilbert Hodges's survey, on the place claimed, in the fall of 1801, or spring of 1802; built a still-house in the fall of 1803; witness cut rail timber for William Davis, said William Davis living then on the premises, and carrying on his distillery; in 1804 a mill was built on the land for said Davis. Davis resided on premises in 1802, 1803, 1804.

Elias Mills, sworn, says that in 1806 he was at the distillery of William Davis.

Opinion of the Board. April 16, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS VALLE, Senior, (the representatives of.)—A claim for seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Saline, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a survey and plat of the same, taken September 15, 1797, and a certificate of the same, dated November 16, 1805; also a certificate from Anthony Souldard, Surveyor General, stating that he has seen, and had in his possession, a concession for the aforesaid tract of land; said concession granted by Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, and bearing date the 9th day of September, 1796.

Testimony taken. June 20th, 1806. Baptiste Vallé, being duly sworn, says that about the year 1798, or 1799, he saw the aforesaid concession; and further, that the same having been sent down to New Orleans to procure a complete title, he saw the receipt of the person who took the same down to that effect; that about 1798, or 1799, two farms were laid out on said land, and a number of buildings erected on the same.

Israel Dodge, being also sworn, says that the said tract of land was settled in the year 1797, forty or fifty arpents cleared, and that the said tract has been actually inhabited and cultivated for the use of the said Francis Vallé, or his representatives, from that period to this day. A large stock has always been kept on the same.

December 1, 1807.—Francis Vallé, Junior, one of the representatives aforesaid, being duly sworn, says that the concession was sent to New Orleans, and that Don Zenon Trudeau wrote to the deponent's father that he had made a search in the office at New Orleans for the concession, and that it could not be found; and that the said concession is not now in the possession of any of the said representatives, to the best of the deponent's knowledge and belief.

Opinions and remark of the Board. June 20, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim for want of a duly registered warrant of survey.

April 17, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation of one league square; but the said majority declare, that if this claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, they would have voted for its confirmation.

FRANCIS VALLE, Senior, (the representatives of.)—A claim for one thousand arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Saline, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a concession (not duly registered) from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated December 25, 1799. Said concession intended as a complement of the aforesaid seven thousand and fifty-six arpents, granted, as appears by reference to the foregoing claim, and whereof six thousand and fifty-six arpents only could be surveyed: the said one thousand arpents granted for cutting of woods to enable claimants to carry on salt works; also, produces a survey of said one thousand arpents, taken December 15, 1800, and certified the 15th of May, 1801.

Opinions and remarks of the Board. June 20, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim; they are satisfied that it was granted at the time it bears date.

April 16, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS VALLE, Senior, (the representatives of.)—A claim for a town lot of two arpents square in the town of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a permission to settle from Antonio Doro, dated September 22, 1785, (not duly registered.) Not inhabited and cultivated.

Opinion of the Board. April 17, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

FRANCIS VALLE, Junior.—A claim for seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river Establishment, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, (not duly registered,) dated July 4, 1796; and a survey of the same, dated April 4, 1799, and certified July 6, 1799.

Testimony taken. June 20, 1806. Joseph Pratt, being duly sworn, says that claimant did, in the year 1796, build a house and out-houses on said tract of land; that he cleared about forty acres of land, which he did actually cultivate, and has now about fifty acres under cultivation, in three separate parks; and further, that the same was, prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabited and cultivated, and has continued to be so to this day.

Opinions and remarks of the Board. June 20, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, for want of a duly registered warrant of survey, and claimant being under age at the time he obtained said concession.

April 17, 1810. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation of a league square. Frederick Bates, commissioner, declares that, if this claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, he would have voted for its confirmation. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, states, as reasons of his opinion, 1st, that the warrant or order of survey does not bear registry; 2d, that the quantity is greater than that generally allowed by the known Spanish regulations; 3d, that the grantee was under age at the time the grant was made, and that the regulations contemplate no other persons to whom lands may be granted but families or heads of families. Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, refers to the first section of the act entitled "An act respecting claims to lands in the Territories of Orleans and Louisiana," passed the 3d of March, 1807.

FRANCIS VALLE, JUN.—A claim for seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate in the district of New Bourbon, on the river Aux Vases. Produces to the Board a petition to Don Morales, the Intendant General at New Orleans, for the above quantity of land, for the purpose of building a saw-mill, dated the 10th March, 1802, together with a recommendation from Pierre D. Deluziere, commandant of the district of New Bourbon, to the said Intendant General, stating that the claimant is worthy of the grant solicited; also, an order by the said Morales to Peter Derbigny, translator, to have the petition and recommendation translated, and then to be transmitted to the fiscal for examination.

Testimony taken. December 1, 1807. Thomas Dodge, being duly sworn, says that Francis Vallé, Jun. began to build a mill and a cabin on said tract in July, and finished it in November, 1802, and that it was inhabited from that time until this day for claimant; was cultivated in 1803, and ever since; that the mill has worked ever since it was completed, when there was a sufficiency of water.

Opinion of the Board. April 17, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

EZEKIEL ESTES, alias EASTRIDGE.—A claim for six hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on Grand river, district of St. Genevieve, by virtue of a verbal permission from Francis Vallé, commandant of St. Genevieve district. Produces to the Board a certificate of survey of said land, dated January 29, 1806.

Testimony taken. January 29, 1806. Michael Hart, being duly sworn, says that the said Ezekiel Eastridge did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and that he was at that time the head of a family.

Benjamin Crow, being also duly sworn, says that claimant began the improving of said land in 1803; built a cabin in 1804, and was, on the 20th day of December, 1803, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards.

Opinion of the Board. April 20, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

MICHAEL RABER.—A claim for nine hundred and twenty-two arpents of land, situate on the waters of the Joachim, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated February 26, 1806.

Testimony taken, July 5, 1806. Edward Butler, being duly sworn, says that he was present when the commandant granted the above claimant permission to settle on vacant lands; that the said claimant did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife and two children.

Opinions of the Board. July 5, 1806: Present, James L. Donaldson, commissioner. The Board grant the said claimant three hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there. Approved the above minutes July 7, 1806.

April 20, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

THOMAS DONAHOE, assignee of Rowland Meredith, assignee of Jesse Evans.—A claim for three hundred arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to the said Jesse Evans, (not duly registered,) dated December 14, 1797, a survey of the same, taken September 28, 1799, and certified the 10th October of the same year; also a deed of transfer of the same from Jesse Evans to Rowland Meredith, dated April 19, 1804; and a deed of transfer from said Rowland Meredith to claimant, dated February 14, 1806.

Opinions and remarks of the Board. June 24, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. This claim being unsupported by actual cultivation and inhabitation, the Board reject the same. They observe that the said Jesse Evans claims no other land in his own name in the Territory, and that the aforesaid concession (also not duly registered,) was granted at the time the same bears date.

April 20, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

BEDE MOORE.—A claim for nine hundred and thirty-five arpents and eighty-five perches of land, situate on the Saline, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a certificate from Pierre D. Deluziere, commandant of New Bourbon, that he had permitted said claimant to settle on vacant lands, dated December 3d, 1805, and a survey of said land taken the 4th of January, 1806, and certified February 26, same year.

Testimony taken, June 24, 1806. Peter Tucker, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in the fall of 1803, moved his family on the same, and actually inhabited it for about three months of that year; that he cleared and fenced in a few acres; and claims no other land in his own name in this Territory; and had then a wife and two children.

Opinion of the Board. April 20, 1810: Full Board. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of three hundred arpents.

THOMAS McLAUGHLIN.—A claim for nine hundred and eight arpents of land, situate at Bellevue, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 22d of January, 1806, and certified the 5th February same year.

Testimony taken, June 27, 1806. Benjamin Crow, being duly sworn, says that he was present when claimant obtained from the commandant permission to settle on vacant lands; that he began the improving of said land in 1803; made a camp on the same, and had his family on it; but was obliged by sickness to remove from the same; that, in the beginning of 1804, he built a cabin, raised a crop on said land, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, a wife and child.

Opinion of the Board. April 23, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM MIDDLETON.—A claim for seven hundred and fifteen arpents forty-nine perches of land, situate on Cape Cinqhommes, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated the 19th February, 1806, and certified the 28th of the same month and year.

Testimony taken, June 26, 1806. Benjamin Cox, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled said tract of land in the year 1802, built a house on the same, and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same, and was twenty-one years of age and upwards. Camille Lassus, being also duly sworn, says that he was present when claimant obtained permission to settle from commandant.

Opinions of the Board. June 26, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose, and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant one hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

April 23, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

BERNARD LAYTON.—A claim for nine hundred and forty-seven arpents fifty-six and a half perches of land, situate on Cape Cinqhommes, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a special permission to settle, certified by Pierre D. Deluziere, dated December 14, 1805; and a survey of the same, taken the 18th February, 1806, and certified the 25th of the same month and year.

Testimony taken, June 25, 1806. Joseph Manning, being duly sworn, says that the said claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1803; built a house on the same, and was preparing to move on it, when he was detained by sickness; that he moved his family on the same in the spring of 1804; raised a crop thereon, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; had a wife and two children.

Opinion of the Board. April 23, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

LAKIN WALKER, assignee of Isaac Murphy.—A claim for one hundred arpents of land. Produces to the Board a notice of the recorder, and a relinquishment and sale from the said Isaac Murphy to claimant, dated January 16, 1805.

Testimony taken, December 3, 1807. William Murphy, being duly sworn, says that in 1802 Isaac Murphy cut house logs and made rails, and that in 1805, the present claimant built a cabin, and raised a crop in 1806, and has inhabited and cultivated the same ever since; and that he, the witness, obtained permission from Pierre D. Deluziere, commandant of New Bourbon, for Isaac Murphy to settle in the fall of 1800; and said Murphy was of the age of twenty-one years and upwards in 1803.

Opinion of the Board. April 23, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JAMES MANNING.—A claim for one hundred and eighty-two arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a certificate of survey of the same, dated January 21, 1806.

Testimony taken, June 25, 1806. Camille Delassus, being duly sworn, says that he was present when claimant obtained from the commandant permission to settle on vacant lands.

Henry Riley, being also duly sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1803, and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December in that year, actually inhabit and cultivate the same; and had then a wife and child.

Opinions of the Board. June 25th, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant two-hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

April 23d, 1810: Present, John B. C. Lucas and Clement B. Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

MARK MANNING.—A claim for one hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of St. Genevieve. Produces to the Board a permission to settle, certified by Pierre D. Deluziere, commandant of New Bourbon, dated December 5, 1805, and a survey of the same, certified January 20th, 1806.

Testimony taken, June 25th, 1806. Joseph Manning being duly sworn, says, that claimant settled the said tract of land in 1803; built a house on the same; after which, being taken sick, and his family being also in a sickly state of health, he could not move on it until the spring of 1804; and that he has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day; had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, a wife and three children.

Opinion of the Board. April 23d, 1810: Present, Clement B. Penrose and John B. C. Lucas, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

BERNARD CECIL, claiming eight hundred and ninety-four arpents of land, situate on Saline creek, district of St. Genevieve; produces a certificate of permission to settle from Pierre Deluziere, commandant, dated 14th December, 1805; a plat of survey, certified 5th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, April 1st, 1806. Clement Haydon, being duly sworn, says that claimant had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife and four children; that he was then preparing to build a house on said land; that in 1804 he raised a crop on the same, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; that prior to claimant moving on said land, there was a house on what he intended to survey; but that one Hawkins, in surveying the adjoining tract, had surveyed the same; and further, that the family of said claimant was, in the said year 1803, all sick, and thereby had it not in their power to cultivate the said tract.

April 23d, 1810: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JEREMIAH GROJEAN, claiming eight hundred and ninety-six arpents of land, as assignee of James Lewis, produces to the Board a plat of survey, certified the 26th February, 1806, district of St. Charles.

Testimony taken, August 6th, 1807. William Lynn, sworn, says that James Lewis settled on the aforesaid claim in 1802, raised a crop in 1803, and sold the same about September, 1803, to claimant, who moved on said land in the spring of 1804, and has inhabited and cultivated the same to this day; said Lewis had a wife and one child when he moved from said land; and that he remained on the same until spring of 1804.

November 24th, 1809: Present, Lucas and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

BARTHOLOMEW COUSIN, claiming seven hundred and sixty-seven arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, Tywappity Bottom, district of Cape Girardeau; produces a grant for the same from Juan Ventura Morales, Intendant General of Louisiana, dated 28th April, 1802, and found in the abstract of all the concessions and patented grants of lands appertaining to the district of Louisiana, recorded in the registers kept by the Spanish and French Governments of the province of Louisiana since the 2d July, 1756, until the 23d of April, 1802, transmitted to the Board by the Secretary of the Treasury, said grant also accompanied with a certified copy of a plat of survey taken the 13th April, and certified 2d November, 1799; said grant conditioned for the compliance with the 3d, 4th, 6th, 7th and 9th articles of regulations published by the Intendancy the 17th July, 1799.

March 9th, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. The Board ascertain that the alleged grant is not a title made and completed under the provisions of the act of Congress, entitled "An act for ascertaining and adjusting the titles and claims to land within the Territory of Orleans and district of Louisiana."

BARTHOLOMEW COUSIN, claiming six thousand arpents of land, situate on White waters, district of Cape Girardeau; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated 15th October, 1799; a plat of survey, certified 1st March, 1802; said land granted as a compensation to claimant for his services to Government. Claimant also produces a letter from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 15th October, 1799, wherein he acknowledges his claim to the generosity and benevolence of the Spanish Government, for the many services he had rendered the country since his arrival in the same, showing a disposition to do more for him when occasion should offer, and promising to procure him the appointment of interpreter to the district of Cape Girardeau, with a fixed salary annexed to the same; an official letter from the same to the Governor General, dated 25th June, 1802, wherein, after reciting the services rendered by claimant to Government, he recommends him to the said Governor; and one other official letter, from the same to claimant, dated 30th March, 1803, wherein he dispenses him (as far as in his power) with the compliance with the 4th article of the regulations, to wit, settlement and inhabitation.

Testimony taken, August 30, 1806. Anthony Soulard, duly sworn, says that claimant was employed by Government as interpreter of the English language to Louis Lorimer, commandant of that district; that the object of Government was to extend the settlement of said district to the river St. Francis; that Zenon Trudeau, whose favorite claimant was, had recommended him to Delassus; that, some time after, having shown a desire to move from said district, Delassus persuaded him to remain, and promised him an office, with some salaries annexed to the same, together with other compensations for his former services to Government.

August 30, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and remark that they are satisfied that the said concession was granted at the time the same bears date.

March 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. On the motion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, as follows, to wit: Whereas, it appears in the minutes of the former Board that the said Board have remarked, that they are satisfied that the said concession was granted at the time the same bears date; and inasmuch as it does not appear that any suggestion of fraud and antedate was made, either by the agent of the United States, or any of the members of the Board, which, being the case, shows that no question did exist before the said Board as to fraud or antedate, to which this decision, by way of remark, can apply; and whereas any decision, without question, is in itself preposterous, and might be considered as officious, Therefore, resolved, That this remark and decision be rescinded. A question being taken on the motion, it was negatived; and on a question being taken on the claim, it is the unanimous opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

BARTHOLOMEW COUSIN, claiming ten thousand arpents of land; produces a pre-emption right for fifty thousand arpents, granted by Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, March 5, 1800; said land to be paid for in services, or otherwise; also a concession from said Delassus, dated 17th December, 1802, for ten thousand arpents, as compensation for services rendered, being part of the above fifty thousand arpents.

March 13, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

AQUILLA LOW, claiming two hundred and eighty-five arpents and fifty perches of land, situate in Bellevue, district of St. Genevieve.

Testimony taken, December 3, 1807. William Murphy sworn, says, that in the fall of 1800, witness obtained permission to settle from Deluziere, commandant, for Acquilla Low, to settle on vacant land.

Edward Johnson, sworn, says that the son of witness cut house logs on said tract in 1804; heard his son say that he gave up his improvement to said Low; claimant built and moved in a cabin on said tract in 1805; remained in said cabin about three months; moved in it again in 1816, and raised a crop; has continued to inhabit and cultivate the same ever since.

April 24, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

SAMUEL PIERCEALL, claiming one thousand and forty-nine and three-quarters arpents of land, situate on Flat river, district of St. Genevieve; produces a plat of survey, dated 18th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 20, 1806. Ezekiel Estes, duly sworn, says that the said claimant did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife and two children.

Testimony taken, December 3, 1807. James Cunningham, being duly sworn, says that, to the best of his recollection, in 1803 claimant built a house, but did not move therein; raised a crop of potatoes that year; that in the year 1804, the claimant moved upon the said tract, raised a crop, and has inhabited and cultivated it ever since; was a single man in 1803.

James Davis sworn, says that in April, 1803, he passed the cabin belonging to claimant; he was then residing therein; raised a crop that year, and has inhabited and cultivated it ever since, and had then a wife and two children.

February 20, 1806. Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board grant the above claimant nine hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

April 24, 1810. Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

GIDEON W. TREAT, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight arpents of land, situate on the west fork of Prairie Spring creek, district of St. Genevieve; produces a plat of survey, certified 28th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 29, 1806. John McNeal, sworn, says that one Francis Tibaut actually cultivated and raised crops on the said tract of land, in the years 1801 and 1802; that, having sold the same to claimant, he, the said claimant, in the year 1803, had a person who actually cultivated the same on shares, prior to and on the 20th of December of said year; and further, that the said claimant, who was then of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, lived with one Darius Shaw; that he has a tan-yard established on said tract.

Testimony taken, December 3, 1807. Darius Shaw, sworn, says that he was present when Mr. Deselle gave permission, in 1803, to claimant to settle on vacant land; that the land lies about three-quarters of a mile from the New Diggings, but does not know of any mineral having been discovered; said tract adjoins witness.

April 24, 1810. Present: Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM DILLON, assignee of Christopher Anthony, claiming one thousand one hundred arpents of land, situate on waters of St. Francois, district of St. Genevieve; produces a certificate of permission to settle for Christopher Anthony from Delassus Deluziere, dated 7th December, 1805; a plat of survey dated 13th February, 1806, a deed of transfer from Anthony to claimant, dated August 13, 1804.

Testimony taken, February 15, 1806. John Callaway, duly sworn, says that Christopher Anthony did, in January, 1802, cut logs for and laid the foundation of a house; that the said Christopher did that year raise a crop on said land; that the said Anthony's family not having then arrived in the country, he had taken his board with the witness, about a mile distant from said land; that, in the year 1803, one Matthew Logan, a tenant of said Anthony, did actually cultivate said land, and raised a crop thereon, said crop being intended by said Anthony as a compensation to Logan, for work done by him, said Logan, for said Anthony; that, about the latter end of 1803, the said Anthony having completed a house on said land, moved thereon, and did actually inhabit and cultivate the same until about the middle of 1804; that he had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife and three children.

April 24, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted. Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of three hundred and fifty arpents.

JOHN COOPER, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight arpents and sixty-eight perches of land, situate in Bellevue, district of St. Genevieve; produces a plat of survey, certified 23th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, June 27, 1806. Elisha Baker, duly sworn, says claimant settled said tract of land in 1804, raised a cabin, and cultivated a small spot; had, on 20th December, 1803, a wife and child.

April 24, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN McNEAL, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Genevieve; produces two plats of surveys: one for five hundred and forty-four arpents and sixty-two perches, and the other for two hundred and three arpents and fifty-five perches; said surveys certified 28th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 29, 1806. William Bates, duly sworn, says that the said claimant settled the aforesaid tract of two hundred and three arpents and fifty-five perches in the month of March, 1804; raised a crop on the same that year; that in 1805 he moved on it, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day.

April 24, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

NICHOLAS MOORE, claiming two hundred and eighty-five arpents and fifty perches of land, situate on south fork of Saline creek, district of St. Genevieve; produces a notice to the recorder.

Testimony taken, December 3, 1807. Peter Tucker, being duly sworn, says, that claimant went on the land claimed in 1805, and raised a crop; it was inhabited and cultivated that year, and in the year 1806, by claimant; and present year inhabited and cultivated for him.

Clement Hayden, sworn, says, that he, witness, applied to Deluziere, commandant of New Bourbon, in 1803, and obtained for claimant permission to settle.

April 24, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JAMES MOORE, Sen., claiming nine hundred and fifty-one arpents of land, situate on Saline creek, district of St. Genevieve; produces a certificate from Pierre Deluziere that he had permitted claimant to settle on vacant land, dated 14th December, 1805; a plat of survey, certified 1st February, 1806.

Testimony taken, June 24, 1806. Tunis Quich, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled said tract of land in November, 1803; had then a house built on the same; that he moved on it in the beginning of 1804, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day; had, 20th December, 1803, three children.

April 24, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

HUMPHREY GIBSON, Jun., claiming eight hundred and fifty-three arpents fifteen perches of land, situate on river Platin, district of St. Genevieve; produces a plat of survey, certified 20th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, June 27, 1806. Thomas Bear, being duly sworn, says that the said claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1802, and did prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same, and had then a wife, three children, and three slaves.

Joseph Jerred, being duly sworn, says that he was present when the commandant permitted claimant to settle on vacant lands.

June 27, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant four hundred and ten arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

April 24, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOAB LINE, claiming one hundred arpents of land, situate on the western fork of the river St. François, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a permission to settle, from Pierre Deluziere, dated 6th December, 1800.

Testimony taken. September 9, 1806. Michael Hart, being duly sworn, says that claimant settled a tract of land in the spring of 1801, on the waters of the river St. François; that said tract is distant about four miles from said river; that he raised two crops on the same, to wit, in 1801 and 1802, but did not actually inhabit the same; that, in the fall of 1802, he sowed a crop, which witness believes he did not gather; that in the beginning of the winter of that year he left his house, his wife having eloped from him; had about sixteen or seventeen arpents under fence; that, when absent, he still kept on said tract his goods, furniture, and stock, and would often call to see the same; that he, the witness, was present when a survey of one Murphy, taken by virtue of a concession, took in said improvement; that claimant objected to the same, threatening to sue him, but all without effect; that, when said survey took place, he had a crop of grain in his fields.

James Cunningham being also duly sworn, says that he saw the claimant in full possession of said land, in the spring of 1803; that he remained so until the year following, when the survey of said Murphy, by virtue of the aforesaid concession, took in all his improvement to about three arpents, and also that his house was surveyed in, and was taken possession of; he claims no other land in his own name in the territory, and had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife.

May 2, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

SARAH MURPHY, widow and representative of William Murphy, Sen., claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on waters of St. François, district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, to William Murphy, Sen., her deceased husband, dated 1st March, 1798; a certificate from Pierre Delassus Deluziere, dated December 20th, 1805, whereby it appears that a special permission of settlements had been granted to the above claimant, a certificate of survey of seven hundred and ninety-nine and a half arpents of land, dated April 10, 1800.

Testimony taken, January 14, 1806. William Murphy, Jun., duly sworn, says that William Murphy, Sen., the husband of the above claimant, having obtained from the Spanish Government a special permission to establish himself and family on such spot of His Majesty's land as he might think the most suitable to his purposes, and being since dead, the above claimant, in consequence thereof, determined upon availing herself of the above permission so granted as aforesaid; that, accordingly, she sent a younger son to this country with instructions to settle on a certain tract of land, situate on the waters of the river St. François; that the young man accordingly began a settlement, and raised a crop on said land, and put a family on the same; that said family did actually reside upon and cultivate the said tract of land, for the said claimant on the 20th day of December, 1803; that the above claimant and her family, together with three slaves, did arrive in this country some time in the year 1804.

January 14, 1806: Present, Lucas and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board refer this case to Congress, and are of opinion that the above claimant, Sarah Murphy, must have experienced a great hardship in leaving a situation in all probability comfortable, in the State of Tennessee, her former place of abode, in expectation of availing herself of the special permission granted to her late husband, and in pursuance of the then Spanish commandant's promises of encouragement to her other sons in this country.

May 2, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOSEPH MILES, claiming twelve hundred arpents of land, situate on the Saline creek, district of St. Genevieve; produces a certified permission to settle, by Pierre Delassus Deluziere, dated December the 14th, 1805; a plat of survey, certified 3d of February, 1806.

Testimony taken, June 21, 1806. Peter Tucker, sworn, says, that the aforesaid claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1803, built a house on the same, made hay, and actually inhabited it prior to and on the 20th day of December, of that year; and further, that he raised a crop on the same, in the year 1804, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; had, 20th December, 1803, a wife and seven children.

June 21, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose, and James L. Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the above claimant five hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

May 3, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board, that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of five hundred and fifty arpents.

JOHN CARRAWAY and HENRY DODGE, assignees of James James, claiming nine hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river St. François, district of St. Genevieve; produces a plat of survey, certified the 13th of February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 29, 1806. William Johnson, being duly sworn, says that one James James did, some time in the month of October, 1803, clear a piece of land, part of said tract, planted the same in challotes, and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, of that year, actually inhabit and cultivate the same having then a wife and child; that he claims no other land in his own name in the territory.

May 3, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

Testimony taken, at Camp Esperance, July 4, 1808. Francis Vaugine, duly sworn, says that these premises have been constantly cultivated, without interruption, for thirteen years past; during the time of cultivation, this tract has always been inhabited; when crop has been secured, claimant has generally resided on another plantation.

Michel Petersee, sworn, says that there are about forty acres in cultivation; on this tract are two small houses.

July 22, 1811: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOSEPH BOUGY, Jun., claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on Arkansas swamp, district of Arkansas; produces to the Board a concession from Francisco Caso y Luengo, late commandant of Arkansas, dated 6th November, 1802; a plat of survey for eight hundred and twelve arpents, dated 19th March, 1806.

July 22, 1811: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

SAMUEL TREAT, assignee of Joseph Michel, assignee of Joseph Tessier, claiming four hundred and eighty arpents of land, district of Arkansas; produces to the Board a petition and recommendation for a concession from Charles Villemont, late commandant of Arkansas, dated March 17, 1799; a plat of survey, dated 9th April, 1806.

Testimony taken, at Arkansas village, July 5, 1808. William Glass, duly sworn, says that he, witness, cultivated and inhabited this tract in the years 1805 and 1806, and that, from the appearance of the improvements on this tract, he verily believes that they must have commenced before the year 1803; the peach trees appeared to be six or seven years old, and the house was then falling to decay from age.

Christopher Kepler, duly sworn, says that these premises were cultivated in corn eleven years ago; Tessier then lived on this land, and witness knows positively that this tract was inhabited and cultivated during the year 1803, till 20th December, and believes that such inhabitation and cultivation have been continued to this time.

July 22, 1811: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

Testimony taken, at Arkansas village, July 5, 1808. William H. Glass, duly sworn, says ten or twelve acres are now in cultivation; says, further, that there are indications on this tract of former improvements, to wit, the ruins of walls which appear to have been formed some years ago, a part of a dwelling-house; the fields have also vestiges of former cultivation.

Andrew Fagot, duly sworn, says that, in the year 1798, and in every succeeding year until the United States took possession, the hostile and disorderly conduct of the neighboring Indians was such as to render the cultivation of the soil unsafe, except in the immediate vicinity and under the protection of the post. Don Carlos de Villemont told the people desirous of settling themselves in the country that it was improper for them to do so, as his protection could not then be extended to them; the same interruptions, and the same advices, given in the time of Luengo, as during the command of his predecessor; witness believes claimant to be the oldest man in the settlement, where he has resided many years.

Joseph Stillwell, duly sworn, says (not specially in relation to this claim, but as regards the country generally) that, in the year 1798, and until the United States took possession of this post, the inhabitants, from time to time, suffered much and vexatious embarrassment from the marauding, disorderly, and violent inroads of the Indians; the property of the people was frequently stolen, and they were as often under apprehension of personal injury; witness remained in his house on his plantation, but he believes many persons were deterred from encountering similar hazards; a son of the witness has been in those times driven from the field where he was at work, by having a gun presented at him.

July 22, 1811: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

PATRICK ESTES, claiming one thousand and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river St. Francis, district of —; produces a plat of survey, certified 15th January, 1806.

Testimony taken, December 5, 1807. William Murphy, duly sworn, says that he applied to Commandant Deluziere, in 1801, for permission to settle for the persons who came with him to the country; that said commandant told him they might go and settle, and that claimant is one of the persons who came with him; that claimant built a cabin and moved there in 1802; cultivated a garden in 1803, but was not resident on the place in the month of December, that year; that claimant moved back to the same in the winter of 1805, raised a crop in 1806, and moved away again from the same in the winter of 1806, in consequence of his cabin being burnt.

May 29, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

BENJAMIN STROTHER, claiming six hundred arpents of land, situate on Cedar creek, district of St. Genevieve; produces a special permission to settle from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 11th December, 1799; and a survey of the same taken 20th January, and certified 28th May, 1800.

Testimony taken, August 29, 1806. Present, Lucas and Penrose. William Bates, duly sworn, says that claimant began the building of a mill on said tract in the beginning of 1804; that the same was not completed until the beginning of 1805; and that claimant has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day, and was the head of a family.

May 29, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MAXWELL, vicar general of the late province of Louisiana, claiming four leagues square, situate at the fork of Black river, in the district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated November 3, 1799, and a survey of one hundred and twelve thousand eight hundred and ninety-six arpents, dated and certified the 9th day of February, 1806; he also produces an affidavit of Pierre Delassus Deluziere, stating that he was present, in the beginning of 1800, at a conversation which took place between the aforesaid claimant and Charles D. Delassus, then Lieutenant Governor, when the latter inquired of said claimant, where he intended to settle his large concession? Does not recollect the answer; that, a few days after, being at claimant's house, he saw, held, and read the aforesaid concession; a commission of vicar general of the province over the English and American settlers, signed Eng. de Llaguno, dated St. Lorenzo, 22d November, 1794; a letter from the bishop of Orleans, dated May 1, 1799, requesting his attention, as vicar general, to the whole of the clergy of the province, and informing him that he had recommended him to the King; a letter of instructions, founded upon a Spanish supreme consular state at Madrid, directed to claimant, through Lopez Armisto, secretary of the province, wherein the policy of Government towards emigrants is explained, instructing the Governor to grant them lands, and showing a desire that they might be converted to the Roman catholic religion.

Remark and decision of the Board. June 28, 1806; Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The consideration on which this grant was founded being an obligation, on the part of claimant, to bring from Ireland Roman Catholic emigrants, and form a settlement of the same; the claimant alleged as a reason for not having complied with the said obligation, the then existing wars, and the subsequent prohibition of emigration from Ireland. The Board reject this claim, and are satisfied that it was granted at the time it bears date.

May 29, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. On the motion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, as follows, to wit: Whereas it appears in the minutes of the former Board that the said Board have remarked that they are satisfied that the said concession was granted at the time the same bears date; and inasmuch as it does not appear that any suggestion of fraud and antedate was made either by the agent of the United States, or any of the members of the Board; which being the case, shows that no question did exist before said Board as to fraud or antedate, to which this decision, by way of remark, can apply; and whereas any decision without question is in itself preposterous, and might be considered as officious: therefore

Resolved. That this remark and decision be rescinded.

A question being taken on the motion it was negatived; and, on a question being taken on the claim, it is the unanimous opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MAXWELL, claiming three hundred arpents of land, situate on river Gaborie, district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated September 19, 1799; and a survey of two hundred and ninety-nine arpents, certified 26th February, 1806.

June 28, 1806. Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and observe that they believe the concession was granted at the time it bears date.

May 29, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MAXWELL, claiming three thousand arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, at the mouth of the river St. Laurent; produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated September 10, 1799; a survey of the same, certified, 11th March, 1800; claimant produces also an original document of certain proceedings had before the Intendant General, the Assessor General, and an opinion of said Assessor General, and a confirmation of the same, by the Intendant Lopez Angulo, dated New Orleans, 8th July, 1800, reducing the claim of Peyroux to one league square; relating to a claim of land, set up by Henry Peyroux, and sundry inhabitants claiming land adjoining the said Peyroux, the said Maxwell declaring that he is one of said inhabitants, whose claim interferes with Peyroux, as appears by the testimony of Joseph Pratt.

Testimony taken, December 7, 1807. Camille Delassus, duly sworn, says that there was a house built by claimant on the tract, but does not remember in what time; believes that the house was large, and about forty or forty-five feet square, which has been burnt.

Joseph Pratt, duly sworn, says that he knows the land claimed; in 1801 he went with a public surveyor, by order of the commandant of St. Genevieve, for the purpose of ascertaining the distance from the mouth of the river St. Laurent to a place commonly called the Grand Glaize, which was the spot where the claim of Mr. Maxwell was intended to be located upon; that said land adjoined the claim of Peyroux.

June 28, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim and observe that the said concession was granted at the time it bears date.

May 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. The Board declare that from the testimony of Joseph Pratt, they are not satisfied that the survey has been made at the time it bears date; furthermore, John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, declares that he does not concur with the opinion of the former Board, to wit, that the said former Board is satisfied that the concession, or order of survey in the present case, was issued at the time it bears date, the said commissioner wishing at the same time to be understood that he does intend to say that it is antedated, leaving it to stand on such merits as it may possess.

Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, declares that, from the testimony above mentioned, he now has his doubts as to the date of the concession.

It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MAXWELL, assignee of Bernard Pratte, claiming seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river St. Francis, district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, for the same, (not duly registered,) dated October 19, 1799; a survey of the same, certified 19th February, 1806, no condition inserted in said concession; also a deed of conveyance from said Pratte to claimant, dated May 8, 1806, and duly acknowledged the 9th of May, same year. The Board required further proof of the date of said concession, which were not adduced, May 5, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners.

May 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MAXWELL, assignee of Bernard Pratte, who was assignee of Henry Diell, claiming five thousand arpents of land, situate on the river St. Francis, district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, for the same, (not duly registered,) dated December 29, 1799; a survey of the same, certified February 19, 1806; a deed of transfer of the same, dated 14th November, 1805; also a deed of conveyance from said Pratte to claimant, dated May 8, 1806, and duly acknowledged, 9th May, same year; no condition expressed in said concession. May 5, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board require further proof of the date of said concession, which were not adduced.

May 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

THOMAS RUSS, claiming one thousand one hundred and forty-six arpents forty-one perches of land, situate near the Mine a Breton, district of St. Genevieve; produces a survey of the same, certified 28th February, 1806; a certificate under the hand of John Fithial, commandant of Washitaw, that said Russ has been regularly admitted a subject of the King of Spain, dated May 3, 1786.

Testimony taken, December 7, 1807. Baptiste Valle, senior, duly sworn, says that he saw claimant inhabiting and cultivating land in the village of Mine à Breton, from the year 1792 until the year 1798, at which time the witness ceased to do business at that time.

Testimony taken, June 23, 1806. Amable Parteny, duly sworn, says that claimant settled said tract of land in the year 1799, enclosed a park of about four acres, and has actually cultivated the same to this day; and further, that he knows that the commandant was at the mine in the year 1799, when he permitted claimant to settle on public lands, and that said claimant had, on the 20th day of December, 1803, a wife and five children.

June 2, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

RAPHAEL ST. JEMS, BATISTE BEQUET, VITAL ST. JEMS, AND BARTHOLOMEW ST. JEMS, claiming one thousand six hundred arpents of land, situate on the north fork of the river Saline; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 1st February, 1798; a plat and certificate of survey for the same, by Thomas Maddon, dated 16th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, December 7, 1807. John Mary Legrand, duly sworn, says that he knows the tract claimed; that, in 1805, the same was inhabited and cultivated for the use of the claimant; that he knows that claimant laid a claim to that piece of land five or six years ago.

The paper purporting to be a plat and certificate of survey, signed by Thomas Maddon, is not authenticated by the proper surveyor.

June 1, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

WILLIAM GIROUARD, representatives of, claiming forty arpents of land, situate on the river Gaborie, called the fork, district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated December 1, 1797; a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 18th January, 1798, signed A. Soularil, for thirty-two arpents of land; said tract is contiguous, and adjoining to the tract of eighty-six arpents thirty-five perches, claimed by claimant.

June 1, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ADAM JOHNSTON, claiming two hundred and ninety arpents of land, situate on the river St. Francis, district of —; produces a notice to the recorder, dated December 3, 1807.

Testimony taken, December 7, 1807. Camille Delassus, duly sworn, says that some time before 1803, claimant obtained permission from Peter Deluziere, commandant of New Bourbon, to settle on vacant lands.

William Johnston, duly sworn, says that in August, 1803, claimant went on said tract, and marked some trees, and cut down some bushes; that in 1804, claimant built a house, moved on the place since, and lives thereon at this present time; that claimant's family consisted, in 1803, of a wife and one child, and two slaves.

June 1, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN MATTHEWS, claiming one thousand and seventy arpents of land, situate on the north fork of the river St. Francis, district of St. Genevieve; produces a certificate of survey of one thousand and ten arpents and eighty perches of land, dated 13th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 15, 1806. John Callaway, duly sworn, says that claimant settled said land in the year 1802, and raised a crop on the same; that, in the month of September, 1803, after gathering the crop of that year, he went to Carolina for his family, leaving one James Campbell to take charge of his establishment, on which he had left a stock of cattle; that the said Campbell attended to the same during his absence; and that he returned with his family in January, 1804, and has to this day actually inhabited and cultivated the same; he had then a wife and three children.

Testimony taken, December 7, 1807. Camille Delassus, duly sworn, says that in 1802 claimant had permission from P. Deluziere, commandant of New Bourbon, to settle on vacant land.

February 15, 1806: Present, Lucas and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and think it a case of equity.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

HENRY DIELE, claiming four hundred arpents of land, situate on the south side of the river Saline, district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated February 15, 1798.

Testimony taken, December 7, 1807. Camille Delassus, duly sworn, says that in 1798 claimant showed him (witness) a concession, which is the same as the one above stated.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

AARON ELLIOTT, assignee of James Maxwell, claiming seven arpents of land in superficie, situate near the village of St. Genevieve, district of St. Genevieve, produces a concession from Francis Vallé, commandant of St. Genevieve, dated 26th April, 1798; and a deed of conveyance from said Maxwell to claimant, dated 1st November, 1806.

Testimony taken, December 7, 1807. James Maxwell, duly sworn, says that in 1801 he began to get work done on said tract by digging for a well; believes that he went fifty or sixty feet deep, forty of which were a rock; that he grubbed and cleared part of the same, and had pickets hauled for fencing it.

Remark and opinion of the Board. June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. In the concession in this claim it is stated that Francis Vallé, commandant of St. Genevieve, was authorized, by an official letter from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, said to be dated the 10th February, 1795, to give the same, which official letter does not appear on record, nor is it produced.

It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

LOUIS GUITARD, claiming sixteen hundred arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of St. Louis, fifty-one miles north of the town of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession for the same from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 9th November, 1799; a plat of survey of the same dated 5th February, 1804, certified 8th March, same year.

CHARLES LARDOISE, claiming one thousand six hundred arpents of land, situate on waters of river Mississippi, district of St. Louis, seventy-two miles north of the town of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 9th November, 1799; a plat of survey, dated 19th February, 1804, certified 8th March, 1804.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ELIJAH BENTON, claiming six hundred and forty acres of land, situate on the west side of Big river, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a plat of survey, dated 12th February, 1806, and certified by Antoine Soulard, 27th November, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 23, 1808. John Jones, duly sworn, says that claimant built a cabin on said tract of land in the fall of 1804, raised a crop in 1805, and has inhabited and cultivated the same to this day; further says that claimant had a wife and eleven children in the fall of 1804. (Claimant acknowledges that he never had any permission to settle.)

Testimony taken, November 25, 1808: Francis Wide-man, duly sworn, says that in 1799 Francis Vallé, commandant of St. Genevieve, gave him, (witness,) with his family and connexions, as many as he could induce to come to the country, permission to settle, provided they would settle on the frontier, fifteen miles in front of the settlements; that he then wrote to his connexions to come to the country; that claimant came to the country in consequence of this letter, and that he is a brother-in-law to witness.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

BAZIL GEARD, by his agent, Rufus Easton, claiming one league square of land, situate in the district of St. Charles, on the west bank of the Mississippi river, nearly opposite the village of Prairie du Chien; produces to the Board a notice of said claim, dated 23d June, 1807; a concession from Don Carlos Delassus, Lieutenant Governor of upper Louisiana, dated 20th November, 1800, by which it appears that said Lieutenant Governor, Don Carlos D. Delassus, grants to him such quantity of land as he (claimant) demands in his petition, dated 15th October, 1800, to wit, such quantity as has heretofore been granted to faithful subjects according to law and usages, and also a plat representing said claim, dated 3d May, 1807.

Testimony taken. Nicholas Boloin, duly sworn, says that, seven years ago, he was on the place claimed; that there was then on the place a small cabin and a piece of ground enclosed with a brush fence, about ten acres; that a hired man of claimant's was then residing on the place, and that there was corn and other things growing on the land at the same time; that he has known claimant as a trader living at Prairie du Chien twenty-six years.

Pierre Dorien, Sen., sworn, says that in 1796 claimant had a plantation on this side of the Mississippi, on a bayou, nearly opposite to Prairie du Chien, which was generally reputed to be the plantation of claimant; that claimant had on the place a house for his farmer, and also had stock on the place; saw a crop of corn growing at some time; in the following year, deponent was also on said place, which was then cultivated and inhabited by said farmer; that claimant has lived at Prairie du Chien, as a trader, since 1799; that claimant has an Indian woman and children; does not know the number, but knows that he (claimant) raised them as his own.

Robert Dickson, sworn, says that said land was inhabited and cultivated by some of claimant's people ten years ago, and ever since for his use, and that there was a house and barn on said land; that claimant had at least fifty acres in cultivation eight years ago, and ever since; that claimant has never been disturbed in his possession by the Indians around him; that he has heard several Indians say that the land belonged to claimant; that claimant resides a part of his time on the land claimed; says that the original petition to the Lieutenant Governor was written by him (deponent) at the time it bears date.

June 5, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JACOB DONNER, assignee of John a Sturgus and Jacob Horine, claiming sixteen hundred arpents of land, on Platen creek, district of St. Louis; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, to said John Sturgus for fifteen by twenty-five arpents, dated August 21, 1796; a survey of sixteen hundred arpents, dated 20th March, 1797, certified October 5, 1798; a transfer from said John Sturgus to the said Donner, and Jacob Horine, of said tract of land, dated October 15, 1802, and another transfer from said Horine to claimant, dated November 20, 1800.

Testimony taken, June 21, 1806. St. James Bauvais, sworn, says that the said tract of land was settled about eight years ago, by the said John Sturgus, who had then two or three houses on it, and about forty or fifty acres under cultivation; that a mill had been built on said land, which said mill was afterwards carried away by the high freshes, and has since been rebuilt, and further, that the same was, prior to and on the 1st day of October, actually uninhabited and cultivated, and has been so to this day.

June 21, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim for want of a duly registered warrant of survey.

Remark and opinion of the Board. June 5, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. The concession in this claim is for thirty by fifty arpents, and conditioned to build a mill. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Clement B. Penrose voting for a confirmation of fifteen hundred arpents, the said majority declare that they would have voted for a confirmation had not this claim exceeded eight hundred arpents.

June 9, 1810. Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

EDWARD BUTLER and PHILIP ROBERTS, representatives of Anne Skinner, claiming six hundred and forty arpents of land, on the waters of Grand Glaize, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice of said claim to the recorder, dated June 20, 1808.

Testimony taken, September 20, 1808. James Stewart, sworn, says that, in the year 1802, he saw Anne Skinner, Edward Butler, and Philip Roberts, living together on the land claimed, and raised a crop that year; the year following Anne Skinner and Edward Butler raised a crop on the same; says that Anne Skinner was the reputed mother of Edward Butler and Philip Roberts, and that Philip Roberts had a wife and three children in 1803.

June 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN CHANDLER, claiming six hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri river, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, for a tract of land of six hundred arpents, to be taken where the same might be found vacant, dated 17th June, 1803, and reciting a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 11th December, 1797, which is also produced; also a plat and certificate of survey dated the 20th February, 1804, and certified 26th February, same year.

Testimony taken, September 20, 1808. Richard Caulk, sworn, says that he (witness) came to the country in the month of January, 1798; that claimant accompanied him part of the way, and arrived in the country shortly after him, (witness.)

June 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

LAURENCE LONG, the heirs of, claiming six hundred arpents of land, situate in Creve Cœur settlement, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board an order of survey for the same from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Laurence Long, dated the 15th June, 1797; a plat and certificate of survey, dated 5th May, 1798, and certified 17th July, same year.

Testimony taken, September 21, 1810. John Ward, sworn, says a cabin was built on said tract in 1797, and inhabited about six weeks by Oliver Caldwell; that families inhabited the cabin for two different winters by permission from Laurence Long, to wit, the winters of 1798 and 1800 or 1801.

June 12, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

Concession without date; the date above is the date of the petition.

LAURENCE LONG, the heirs of, claiming four hundred arpents of land, situate adjoining John Ward's claim, Creve Cœur settlement, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Laurence Long, for the said land, formerly granted to Robert Baldrige, and surveyed for him, dated 15th March, 1798; a plat and certificate of survey of the same, in the name of Robert Baldrige, dated 20th February, 1798, and certified 30th March, 1798.

Testimony taken, September 21, 1808. John Ward, sworn, says that Laurence Long made sugar on the land in 1799, and one year since.

June 12, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

RICHARD CAULK, claiming four thousand arpents of land, situate on the river Calumet, district of St. Charles; produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated 5th December, 1799; and a survey of the same taken 17th December, 1804, and certified 30th October, 1805.

Testimony taken, July 22, 1806. James Mackay, sworn, says that the aforesaid Thomas Caulk was, for some years, syndic of the Bon Homme settlement, in which capacity he received no compensation; and that he, the witness, verily believes that the aforesaid concession was granted him as a compensation for the same.

July 23, 1806: Full Board. The Board require further proof.

June 12, 1810: Present: Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners.

Remarks and opinion of the Board. The Board believe that there is a mistake made in the taking of the testimony of James Mackay in this claim; that the name of Thomas Caulk, in said testimony, was intended for Richard Caulk. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN WATKINS, claiming seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river Merrimack, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a duly registered concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated 24th July, 1797; and a survey of the same, taken the 18th, and certified the 27th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, September 17, 1806. Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that when claimant left this place for New Orleans, he, the witness, received from him, among other papers left to his charge, the aforesaid concession; that he does not know whether it was granted at the time it bears date, but that he has seen among the official papers of Zenon Trudeau, an order from the Baron de Carondelet to said Zenon Trudeau, to grant said claimant a league square.

September 17, 1806: Present, Lucas and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and are satisfied that the same was granted at the time it bears date.

June 12, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Clement B. Penrose and Frederick Bates, commissioners, declare that the opinion of the former Board, as to the date of the concession in this claim, must be an error, as the said concession bears no date. John B. C. Lucas declares that he does not concur with the opinion of the former Board, so far as it appears by their minutes that they are satisfied that the concession was granted at the time it bears date.

JACQUES ST. VRAIN and ANTOINE SOULARD, claiming about three thousand two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate at the Point of Missouri and Mississippi, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated 20th February, 1799, and a survey of three thousand six hundred and seventy-five arpents, dated 5th November, 1801, and certified 29th December, 1802; granted for a vacherie, and for cutting wood.

Testimony taken, August 23, 1806. Louis Labeaume, sworn, says that, in the month of January, 1799, Antoine Soulard, one of the above claimants, submitted to him a draught of a petition for the aforesaid concession, in order to have the same corrected, in case of any faults of language; that, in the same year, Jacques St. Vrain, one of the said claimants, kept a large stock of cattle, amounting to sixty or eighty heads, on said land, and that he saw a quantity of logs cut.

Manuel Lisa, sworn, says that, in the month of October, 1799, he went on said land, having first obtained leave from claimants to cut rails; that he remained there about two months, during which time he constantly saw St. Vrain's cattle on the same, and got milk from one of his cows.

Jacques Clamorgan, sworn, says that Anthony Soulard, having applied to him concerning a suitable situation for a vacherie, he, the witness, pointed out to him the aforesaid spot.

Auguste Chouteau, sworn, says that Anthony Soulard, having inherited from the estate of his mother-in-law a large stock of cattle, valued as per inventory of said estate, at eight hundred and eighty-four dollars and fifty cents, he sent the same to the said tract of land.

August 23, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board are satisfied that the conditions of the grant have been complied with, and that the same was granted at the time it bears date.

June 13, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, declares that he does not concur in opinion with the former Board, in the present case, respecting the compliance with the condition specified in the concession, nor respecting the satisfaction which the said former Board expresses, that the concession was issued at the time it bears date. The said commissioner declares, at the same time, that he does not intend any thing contrary to the opinion of the said former Board, as before adverted to, but forbears giving any opinion on the said points, and leaves the whole to rest on such written and parole evidence as has been adduced in support thereof.

ANTOINE SOULARD, for the representatives of Gabriel Zenon Soulard, deceased, and in the name of and for James Gaston Soulard, claiming one thousand six hundred arpents of land, situate sixty-two miles north of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to said Gabriel Zenon Soulard and James Gaston Soulard, dated 20th October, 1799; a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 13th February, 1804, and certified 8th March of the same year.

Testimony taken, September 22, 1808. Jacques St. Vrain, sworn, says that, in six or eight months after the time his brother, Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, took command here, he knows of a concession having been given by him to the two sons of Antoine Soulard.

June 14, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. The concession was granted for services rendered by Antoine Soulard, and for the purpose of educating his two sons for His Catholic Majesty's service.

ANTOINE SOULARD, claiming two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Charles; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, granting said land for sugar-making, dated 6th January, 1799; a survey of the same, taken 7th February, and certified 23d August, 1803.

Testimony taken, September 17, 1806. Gregorie Sarpee, sworn, says that in 1799 a sugar camp was established on said land, and sugar made.

September 17, 1806: Present, Lucas and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and are satisfied that the said concession was granted at the time it bears date.

June 14, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, declares, that he does not concur in opinion with the former Board in the present case, respecting the date of the concession; forbearing, at the same time, to give an opinion contrary to the same, and leaves it to rest upon such merit as it may offer in point of authenticity or date.

JESSE RICHARDSON, assignee of James Mackay, assignee of David Cole, claiming four hundred and thirty arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to David Cole, for the same, dated 23d January, 1798; a plat and certificate of survey, dated 15th February, 1805, and certified 10th December, 1805; a certified copy of a deed of transfer from David Cole to James Mackay, dated 14th July, 1799; a deed of transfer from James Mackay to claimant, dated 10th September, 1803.

June 14, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

EDWARD HEMPSTEAD, assignee of Antoine Marechal and Mary Catharine Tibeau, his wife, for himself and the heirs of Francois Moreau, deceased, claiming three hundred arpents of land, situate near the village of St. Ferdinand, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board an order of survey for the same, from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Antoine Marechal and François Moreau, dated 20th November, 1796; also, a deed of conveyance from Antoine Marechal and Mary Catharine Tibeau, his wife, to Edward Hempstead, one of the claimants, for their part of said claim, dated 7th February, 1805.

Testimony taken, September 29, 1808. Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that he knew Antoine Marechal and François Moreau; that they resided in the village of St. Ferdinand from the year 1796 to 1803; and were heads of families, and were farmers.

June 14, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JACOB HORNE, claiming eight hundred arpents of land situate in Rich Woods settlement, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, dated January 5, 1800; a survey of the same, dated November 1, 1803, and certified 15th January, 1804.

Testimony taken, July 5, 1806. Francis Wideman, sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in 1804, and raised a crop on the same; and further, that he had a wife on the 20th day of December, 1803.

June 15, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. The former Board required proof thereof. July 6, 1806.

MICHAEL HORNE, claiming one thousand two hundred and ninety-one arpents and fifteen perches of land, situate in Rich Woods settlement, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 11th and certified 27th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, July 5, 1806. Michael Butdrer, sworn, says that he was present when claimant obtained from the commandant permission to settle on vacant land.

Francis Wideman, sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1804, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day, and had a wife and six children.

June 15, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

PETER DERBIGNY, claiming six thousand arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a notice of said claim to the recorder, dated 6th May, 1808; a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, for the same to claimant, dated 20th September, 1799; a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated January 15, 1801, and certified 5th March, same year.

Testimony taken, October 4, 1808. Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that claimant came to Louisiana with him (witness) in February 1794, and was then the head of a family; and has resided in Louisiana ever since, except during the time of a mission to the city of Washington, as agent for the people of Orleans Territory.

June 15, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

SALMON RUGGLES, claiming four hundred and sixty-one and three quarter acres of land, situate on Bellevue settlement, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board two plats and certificates of survey, the one for four hundred and sixty-one and three-quarter acres, on the waters of Big river; the other for three hundred and five acres, situate on Flat creek, dated February 6, 1806; and both certified to be received for record 25th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, October 6, 1808. Gideon W. Treat, sworn, says that claimant settled on the tract of four hundred and sixty-one and three-quarter acres in the fall of 1802, and raised a crop in 1803, and has inhabited and cultivated the same ever since; in 1803 had a wife.

Moses Austin, sworn, says that in the fall of 1802 he (witness) applied to Don François Valle, commandant of St. Genevieve district, for permission for claimant to settle on vacant lands, which was then granted by said commandant.

June 15, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted; Frederick Bates, commissioner, voting for the granting of two hundred arpents.

SALMON RUGGLES, claiming three hundred and five acres of land, situate on Flat creek, district of St. —; produces to the Board a plat and certificate of survey, dated February 6, 1806, and certified to be received for record, 25th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, October 6, 1808. Moses Austen, sworn, says that, in the fall of 1802, he (witness) applied to Don François Valle, commandant of St. Genevieve district, for permission for claimant to settle on vacant lands, which was then granted by said commandant.

June 15, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

DAVID STRICKLAND, claiming one thousand two hundred and forty-seven arpents of land, situate on Mine à Breton, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 25th, and certified 28th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 29, 1806. William Bates, sworn, says that said claimant settled the said tract of land in 1804, raised a crop on the same that year, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day.

Testimony taken, October 7, 1808. Joseph Decelle, ancient syndic of the Mine à Breton settlement, sworn, says that claimant applied to him (witness) for permission to settle on vacant lands in 1803; witness told him he could not give a permission, as he (claimant) had a concession for land in Bois Bruile; that claimant then asked permission for his son John to settle on the land claimed, which he then gave him. On a written permission being produced to witness, appearing to be a permission to David Strickland to settle, dated 5th December, 1803, witness says it is the same paper; but that since that time it has been cut, and a part taken off, wherein he had revoked the permission given by him to David Strickland, and given one to his son, John Strickland, in consequence of David Strickland having a concession.

June 5, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

MARIE PHILIP LADUC, assignee of Albert Tison, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the —, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated August 5, 1799; a certificate of survey of the same, dated 5th March, 1804, and a deed of transfer from said Albert Tison to claimant, dated 22d November, 1805.

Testimony taken, May 6, 1806. James St. Vreen, sworn, says that he knows positively that the above concession was granted at the time it bears date; that he saw the same in the possession of Albert Tison prior to October, 1800.

May 6, 1806. Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board are satisfied that the above concession is not antedated; they, however, reject the same for want of actual habitation and cultivation prior to and on the 1st of October, 1800. Concession not duly registered.

June 16, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, declares that he does not concur in opinion with the former Board, in the present case, respecting the date of the concession, forbearing at the same time to give an opinion contrary to the same, and leaves it to rest upon such merit as it may offer in point of authenticity or date.

MARIE PHILIP LADUC, assignee of Joseph Laduc, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, for the same, to Joseph Laduc, dated 24th February, 1804, and certified 5th March, 1804; and also an assignment of the same from Joseph Laduc to claimant, dated 18th February, 1806.

June 16, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

PASCAL DETCHEMENDY, claiming one thousand two hundred and fifty-one arpents of land, situate on the river Au Vase, district of St. Genevieve; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated February 20, 1798; a survey of the same, dated 25th and certified 28th February, 1798.

Testimony taken, June 21, 1806. John Geubourd, sworn, says that he saw the land in the year 1799, when claimant had about twenty arpents of the same under cultivation; a house built and outhouses; and that it was, prior to and on the 1st of October, 1800, actually inhabited and cultivated, and has been so to this day; claimant had then a wife and two children.

June 16, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed; Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voting for the confirmation of one thousand two hundred and fifty-one arpents of land, the said majority declare that if this claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents they would have voted for a confirmation.

JEAN PIERRE CABANNE, claiming two thousand arpents of land, to be taken on any vacant land; produces to the Board a notice of said claim to the recorder, dated 31st May, 1808, in which he states his concession to have been lost; produces to the Board a registry of the same in book No. 2, marked B, page 44, lodged in the Recorder's Office.

Testimony taken, October 7, 1808. Claimant, sworn, says that he has not the concession in his hands at present; does not know where it is, and believes it to be lost.

Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that, about the year 1800, he had the concession of claimant in his possession, and then recorded it in the registry, as before stated, in book No. 2, marked B, page 44.

June 18, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. The Board, on examining the registry referred to in the claim, to wit, book No. 2, marked B, find several concessions, of subsequent dates to the one referred to in page 44, in the pages of the Book preceding that number, and, particularly in page 43, one dated 31st March, 1803; and also on examining the said alleged registry, book No. 1, page 27, the Board find a concession dated 21st November, 1803.

MARGARET LACHAISE, claiming a lot of land in the town of St. Louis, being a vacancy between Nicholas Lecompte and Jacques Clamorgan; produces to the Board an order from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to Antoine Soulard, to ascertain the lines of Nicholas Lecompte, that he may survey the vacancy conceded to claimant in 1802, dated 21st November, 1803.

June 18, 1810. Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN PYATT, claiming four hundred and sixty-two arpents of land, situate on the Negro fork of the river Merrimack, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated the 21st January, and certified 17th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 20, 1806. James Richardson, sworn, says that he knew the above claimant on the said tract of land about fifteen years ago; that he raised two crops on the same; that, in the year 1790, he was driven away by Indians; that he remained out until the year 1800, when he went back on said land; that, in 1801, he planted a crop of corn, and was again driven away; that some of the farmers were killed by the Indians in 1803; that, although not residing on said land, he still continued the cultivation of the same, and raised four crops; that, in the year 1805, he went again on said land, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day.

June 18, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

PASCAL DETCHEMENDY, claiming one thousand six hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Establishment, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a concession for the same from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 30th November, 1797; a plat of survey of the same, dated 2d May 1798; and certified 1st November, 1799.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

PASCAL DETCHEMENDY, assignee of Francis Poillevre, claiming sixteen hundred arpents of land, situate on the river Establishment, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a concession for the same from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated the 30th

January, 1800, to the said Poillevre; a plat of survey of the same, dated 3d May, and certified 10th May, 1800; produces, also, an act of sale of the aforesaid property, passed before the commandant, dated 28th April, 1802, to claimant.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES BURNS, assignee of Reuben Middleton, claiming six hundred and forty acres of land, situate on Bois Brulle, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, dated 27th June, 1808.

Testimony taken, October 13, 1808. John Smith, Sen., sworn, says that, in the fall of the year 1804, Reuben Middleton cleared a small piece of ground on the land claimed, raised some turnips, and moved on the place and inhabited and cultivated the same in 1805; and further, that said land has been inhabited and cultivated ever since.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

STEPHEN HANCOCK, claiming four hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board as a special permission to settle, a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated September 21, 1799; and a certificate of survey of the same, dated September 17, 1802.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

EZEKIEL ROGERS, claiming six hundred arpents of land, situate on river Dubois, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus for the same, dated December 17, 1801; certificate of survey, dated March 1st, 1804; the above concession bearing date subsequent to 10th October, 1800.

The above claimant requested that the following circumstance may be entered on the minutes, to wit: that he holds no other title or claim to lands in his own name; and that he did, prior to and on the 1st day of October, 1800, reside upon and cultivate another tract of purchased lands.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JONATHAN HELDERBRAN, assignee of Jesse Cain, assignee of Robert Owens, assignee of John Megar, claiming two hundred arpents of land, situate on the Negro fork of the river Merrimack, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, dated June 20, 1808; produces no assignments or transfers that the Board thought they could receive as such.

Testimony taken, October 13, 1808. William Bellew, sworn, says that, about thirty years ago, John Helderbran made an improvement on the land claimed, and inhabited and cultivated the same for five years, and then sold to John Megar, who, by his tenant, David Helderbran, cultivated the same one year more.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

PIERRE CHOUTEAU, as the legal representative of Joseph Alvarez Hortez, deceased, claiming four thousand eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice of said claim to the recorder; a concession for four thousand six hundred arpents, more or less, from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to Joseph Alvarez Hortez, dated 26th January, 1800; a plat and certificate of survey of four thousand eight hundred and fifty arpents, dated 15th March, 1803, and certified 17th June, same year.

Testimony taken, October 17, 1808. Hyacinthe St. Cyr, sworn, says that, six years ago, Joseph Alvarez Hortez had house logs cut, and a cabin put up, on the tract claimed, and that the same has been inhabited ever since by or for said Hortez; and was cultivated in 1804, and ever since.

Testimony taken, October 19, 1808. Auguste Chouteau, sworn and questioned to that effect, says that Joseph Hortez, deceased, was in Louisiana at the taking possession of the country by the Spaniards, since which he was always employed by the Spanish Government; and in the various offices the duties of which he at various times discharged, the said Hortez possessed the confidence of the superior officers; witness believes that the civil services of said Horteze were never rewarded; as a compensation for the various militia services which he had at different times rendered, he was offered, as witness believes, rank in the army, but declined, and solicited and accepted the lands now claimed as a preferable recompense. The deceased was a Spaniard by birth, but reared in this country a numerous family of children, ten in number.

Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that the concession presented in this case was written or draughted by him, the witness, and completed by the Lieutenant Governor, at the time it bears date; that the lands mentioned therein were given as a compensation for said Horteze's services, rendered the Government in different capacities.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

Frederick Bates, commissioner, declares that, if this claim had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, he would have voted for a confirmation.

NEWTON HOWELL, claiming three hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate below the mouth of Femme Osage river, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder; and a concession for the same from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to claimant, dated 25th May, 1801; claimant was not of age at the time the grant was given.

Testimony taken, October 19, 1808. William Stewart, sworn, says that, in 1804, he, (witness,) by permission from claimant, had a camp on the tract claimed, and made sugar; and that sugar had been made on the same by and for claimant ever since.

James Mackay, sworn, says that, in the fall of 1803, he run a line between claimant and Arend Rutgers; and that he saw claimant, with several other persons, working on the place at the same time.

June 19, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

THOMAS HOWELL, claiming seven hundred and fifty acres of land, situate on waters of Darden, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 9th January, and certified 3d February, 1806.

Testimony taken, October 21, 1808: Daniel Thorn, sworn, says that he saw claimant inhabiting and cultivating the tract in 1802, 1803, and 1804, and in 1803 had a wife and three children.

June 22, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

HENRY CLARK, eldest son of Francis Clark, claiming four hundred arpents of land, situate on Bois Bruille, district of Saint Genevieve; produces to the Board a concession for the same from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to claimant, dated 2d February, 1798; a plat of survey dated 14th February, 1800, and certified 5th November, 1800; claimant is now under age.

June 22, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES VARNUM and RUFUS EASTON, claiming four hundred acres of land, situate between Joachim and Platen creeks, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, an assignment for one half equal part and moiety of this tract, from said Varnum to Easton.

Testimony taken, September 19, 1806. Frederick Connor, sworn, says that in the year 1802 claimant built a distillery on said land; that, in 1803, claimant carried on the business of a distiller, and did, prior to and on the 20th day of December, 1803, actually inhabit said land; that the same was actually cultivated and a crop raised in the year 1804; that he (the witness) did, at the request of claimant, apply to Francis Valle, the commandant of St. Genevieve, for a permission to settle; that the said Francis Valle permitted him, verbally, to settle on vacant lands; and further that the said claimant was, on the 20th of December, 1803, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards.

Same, sworn, 24th October, 1808. Says that James Varnum raised a still-house on the tract claimed, in 1801, put it into operation, and continued to inhabit and distil on the same until 1804; then raised a crop.

June 22, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

Testimony taken, October 24, 1808. Alexander McCoushoe, sworn, says that, ten years ago, he rented from Hypolite Bollon a sugar camp on the tract claimed, and worked it for four or five years.

Joseph Tucker, sworn, says that, in 1799, he saw said Bollon in a camp on the tract claimed.

June 22, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN SUTTON FARROW, claiming three hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river Dubois, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, dated 28th June, 1808; a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 15th January, 1800; a plat of survey, dated 8th February, 1804, certified 1st March, 1804.

Claimant's father being present, says that claimant was not of age in 1800.

June 25, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CALVIN ADAMS, assignee of Patrick Lee, assignee of Joseph Moutard, claiming one thousand three hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on Mill creek, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 16th November, 1805; a deed of transfer, executed before commandant, by Joseph Moutard, to said Patrick Lee, dated 7th November, 1800, and another deed of transfer, executed also before the commandant, by said Patrick Lee to claimant, dated 22d August, 1803.

Testimony taken, September 9, 1808. Auguste Chouteau, sworn, says that the aforesaid Joseph Moutard had no family; that the said tract of land was settled about twelve years ago, by one Cotard, for said Moutard; that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated until the year 1800; that it was well improved; said Moutard had on the same a house and outhouses.

October 25, 1808. David Musick produces a deed of conveyance from said Adams and wife to him, dated 22d January, 1808; said deed on file.

June 25, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted. On comparing the plats of survey, this land appears to be within the tract claimed as the common of St. Louis.

CALVIN ADAMS, assignee of John Dowlin, assignee of John Gilmore, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight acres sixty-eight perches of land, situate on little Rock creek, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a conveyance from John Gilmore to John Dowlin, dated 25th January, 1806; a conveyance from John Dowlin to claimant, dated 28th January, 1806; a plat of survey, dated 12th February, 1806, certified 22d February, 1806.

Testimony taken, October 25, 1808. William Savage, sworn, says that John Gilmore built a cabin on the tract claimed and moved in it in November, 1803, and inhabited and cultivated it in 1804 and 1805.

David Musick produces, as before, the same deed.

June 25, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JULIAN PAPIN BENITO, claiming a lot of land to run from the lines of a lot of ground claimed by Benito Vasques, assignee of Alexis Marie, in the town of St. Louis, to the river; produces to the Board an order of survey from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 14th April, 1803, in which he declares that it may be surveyed, provided it does not injure the public road or the neighbors.

June 26, 1810. Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. This space has been termed the bank of the Mississippi; the lots between the main street and the Mississippi being one hundred and fifty feet only, as appears by the plat of the town St. Louis, recorded by Pierre Chouteau and others, on behalf of the inhabitants of said town, as also in all the old concessions given for said lots: and it appears from said plat, that a nearly similar space of ground exists between the Mississippi and all the other lots that are situated between the Mississippi and main street.

CHARLES GRATIOT, assignee of John Ball, claiming two hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on the river Des Peres, district of St. Louis; produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated 18th December, 1797; a survey of the same, dated 15th March, certified 5th June, 1799; together with a deed of transfer of the same, dated 11th November, 1803.

Testimony taken, September 20, 1806. Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that he surveyed the said tract of land in the year 1799; at which time the said John Ball had a house built on said land, and a field of about five or six arpents fenced.

John E. Allen, sworn, says that the said Ball built his house in the year 1798.

James Mackay, sworn, says, that about seven years ago he saw a house and well on said land, and that the said John Ball claimed no other land in his own name in the Territory.

June 26, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CHARLES GRATIOT, claiming five hundred arpents of land adjoining the foregoing tract, conceded as an augmentation of wood for the use of claimant's saw mill on an adjoining tract; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated 18th January, 1800; a survey of the same, dated 20th November, 1802, certified 5th January, 1803.

September 20, 1806. The Board required further proof. Testimony taken, September 20, 1806. Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that he cannot say when the said concession was granted, but sees nothing that contradicts the date thereof.

June 26, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

SAMUEL PRUIT, claiming nine hundred and six arpents of land, situate on the river Merrimack, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 21st, and certified 26th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 29, 1806. George Sip, sworn, says that one Joseph Horn moved on said tract of land in the beginning of 1803; that he raised a crop on the same and actually inhabited it until the 1st day of October, 1803, when claimant, having purchased the same, with one half of the crop on it, moved thereon, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; that he did that year plant trees; had, on the 20th day of December, a wife and four children, and has now about nine or ten acres under cultivation.

June 26, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

Testimony taken, February 11, 1806. James Baldridge, sworn, says that the said land was, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated by the above claimant, who was then the head of a family.

February 11, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant to John Scott five hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, as per the above concession.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

EDWARD YOUNG, claiming one thousand two hundred and six arpents of land, situate on Creve Cœur, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a certificate of a permission to settle, dated December 10, 1805, and a certificate of survey of said land, dated February 12, 1806.

Testimony taken, 12th February, 1806. John Johnes, sworn, says that the improving of said land never began till 1804, and that claimant has actually cultivated and inhabited the same to this day.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

DANIEL BALDRIDGE, claiming eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river Peruque, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a certificate of a permission to settle, granted by Mackay, dated 9th December, 1805, and a certificate of survey of the said land, dated 11th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 12, 1806. Daniel Kiethley, sworn, says that claimant proceeded to the establishment of said land in 1803; began the building of a cabin, which was completed in 1804, when he married, moved on said land, and raised a crop thereon, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM SPENCE, claiming two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the river Teuque; produces a special permission to settle; a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 15, 1800; and a certificate of survey of the same, dated 28th May, 1804.

Testimony taken, February 14, 1806. David Bryan, sworn, says that claimant did, some time in 1803, cut logs for a cabin, and cleared about two arpents of the said land.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

NATHAN BOON, claiming four hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated December 10, 1799, and a certificate of survey, dated March 28, 1805.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

MATTHEW LOGAN, claiming eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the waters of river St. Francis; produces to the Board a certificate of a permission to settle, signed Peter D. Deluziere, dated December 13, 1805, and a certificate of survey of the same, dated 13th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 15, 1806. John Callaway, sworn, says that claimant did in 1803 cut logs for the building of a cabin; and that in April, 1804, he put up the same; he had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife and one child.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM NORTH, claiming eight hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on Big river; produces to the Board a certificate of survey of said land, dated February 18, 1806.

Testimony taken, Feb. 20, 1806. Ezekiel Eastus, sworn, says that claimant did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said land.

February 20, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the above claimant eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, provided so much be found vacant there.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN STARNETTER, claiming seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the waters of Grand river, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a certificate of survey, dated 18th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 21, 1806. Robert Estes, sworn, says that claimant settled the land claimed in 1802, at which time he actually inhabited the same; that, in the spring of 1803, being obliged to go abroad on business, and having on said land a large stock, he left a person to cultivate and take charge of the same, during his absence; that he returned on the same in 1804, and has actually cultivated and inhabited the same to this day.

February 21, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board conceiving that claimant had no other residence than the said tract of land, and that, when absent, his whole stock was left thereon, consider the same as actual habitation, and therefore grant him seven hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated November 26, 1799; a certificate of survey of the same, dated 1st March, 1804. The claimant holds no other claims to land, in his own name, in the Territory.

July 31, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MEEK, claiming five hundred arpents of land, situate on Charette creek, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 6th June, 1803, and a certificate of survey, dated February 23, 1806.

Testimony taken, April 2, 1806. David Kinkead, sworn, says that the said tract of land was settled by one James Clay in 1802; that the same was neither actually inhabited nor cultivated in 1803; and that, in 1804, claimant bought it from said James Clay, and raised a crop thereon in that year; he claims no other land, in his own name, in the Territory.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ADAM McCORD, claiming eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on Charette creek, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a certificate of survey, dated 28th February, 1803.

Testimony taken, April 2, 1806. William Ramsay, sworn, says that he went on said land in the fall of 1803, built a house, and made a garden; and that he did, in the beginning of 1804, proceed to the improving of the same; raised a crop that year, and actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CLAIBOURNE THOMAS, claiming (as assignee of Charles Gill) seven hundred and fifty six arpents of land, situate on Sandy creek, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a certificate of survey, dated February 7, 1806; and a deed of transfer from said Charles Gill and Mary, his wife, to claimant, dated 4th July, 1804.

Testimony taken, April 4, 1806. William Moss, sworn, says that the said Charles Gill did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land.

April 4, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant, assignee as aforesaid, eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM DRENNON, claiming nine hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on the waters of the Grand Glaize, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a certificate of survey, dated February 22, 1806.

Testimony taken, April 7, 1806. James Gray, sworn, says that claimant did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife and four children.

April 7, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant one thousand and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

ALEXANDER McKINNEY, claiming five hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on the Femme Osage, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated June 20, 1800; and a certificate of survey, dated December 27, 1803.

Testimony taken, April 14, 1806. Kinkaid Caldwell, sworn, says that he saw the claimant's name on Mackay's list.

David Bryan, sworn, says that claimant improved said tract of land, and raised crops on the same.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MARSHALL, claiming seven hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession, signed and dated as in the last claim, with a certificate of survey, also dated as aforesaid.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

PETER SMITH, claiming five hundred arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession for the same from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 24th June, 1800; with a certificate of survey, dated December 27, 1803.

Testimony taken, April 14, 1806. David Bryan, sworn, says that claimant did improve the said land in 1804, and cut house logs; and that he, the witness, raised a small crop of corn on the same.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS WYAT, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated June 20, 1800; a certificate of survey, dated December 27, 1803.

Testimony taken, April 14, 1806. David Bryan, sworn, says that he saw a cabin on said land in 1803; also saw claimant, early in the fall of that year, come on the same.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES MONTGOMERY, claiming three hundred arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a special permission to settle from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 17th June, 1800, and a certificate of survey, dated December 27, 1803.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

SAMUEL MEEK, claiming five hundred arpents of land, situate on Femme Osage, district of St. Charles; produces a special permission to settle from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 10th June, 1803; and a certificate of survey, dated February 27, 1804.

Testimony taken, April 14, 1806. David Bryan, sworn, says that one William Lynn did, some time in 1802, proceed to the improving of said tract, and cleared about seven arpents of the same, and raised a crop; that afterwards, to wit, in 1803, he sold his improvement to claimant, who put up fences in that year; and further, that he, the witness, did raise flax on the same in the year 1804.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JAMES MILLS, representatives of, claiming one hundred and seventy-five arpents forty-seven perches of land, situate on Hubble's creek, district of Cape Girardeau; produces to the Board a plat of survey, signed B. Cousin, and certified to be received for record, 27th February, 1806, by Antoine Souldard, Surveyor General.

Testimony taken, April 15, 1805. James Earle, sworn, says that one Moses Hurley did, some time in the year 1798, settle said tract of land, and actually inhabited and cultivated the same until the year 1801: then he sold the same to the said James Mills, who moved on it, and raised a crop thereon that year; that he had obtained a verbal permission from the commandant Lorimier to settle on the same, and was about obtaining a concession or order of survey for said land when he died in the year 1802.

Testimony taken, June 1, 1808. (By Frederick Bates, commissioner at Cape Girardeau.)

John McCarty, sworn, says that this land was settled and cultivated in the year 1799; a cabin (a very good one) built, and the inhabitation and cultivation continued ever since, to the present time; ten or twelve acre now in cultivation at this time.

April 15, 1805: Present, Lucas and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board are satisfied that the said claimants are entitled by the act of inhabitation and cultivation to the said tract of land, but are obliged to reject it for want of a warrant or order of survey.

August 9, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

DAVID DELAUNEY, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Renaud, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, without any condition expressed in the same, dated January 8, 1800, and a survey of the same, taken 3d January, and certified 15th April, 1804.

Testimony taken, May 2, 1806. Antoine Souldard, being sworn true answers to give, &c.

Question. Were you the surveyor of Upper Louisiana under the Spanish Government?

Answer. Yes.

Question. Was it any part of the duties imposed on you by the Spanish laws and the functions of your office, to obey the orders of the Lieutenant Governor of the province, without any regard to their legality or illegality?

Answer. Yes; the Lieutenant Governor was accountable for it.

Question. From whom did you derive your appointment?

Answer. From the Governor General of Lower Louisiana, Baron de Carondelet.

Question. Is that your hand-writing? (showing him the aforesaid concession.)

Answer. I believe it is.

Question. Do you recollect when that was written, and is it your belief that it was written at the time it bears date?

Here the witness refused to answer; whereupon, he was asked by the Board whether he meant to give similar answers to the questions in all similar cases, and answered, yes.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

DAVID DELAUNEY, claiming seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, without any condition expressed therein, dated May 9, 1800, and a survey of the same, dated December 25, 1803, and certified 20th January, 1804.

Testimony taken, May 2, 1806. Antoine Souldard, sworn, the same questions as in the foregoing claim were put to the deponent, to which he gave the same answers. Further proof required.

James St. Vrain was in the above two claims, sworn, who said that the above two concessions were granted at the time they bear date; that Charles D. Delassus (his, the witness's, brother) informed him that he had been instructed by Gayoso, to grant lands to such respectable French emigrants as should come to this country; that claimant arrived at St. Genevieve, towards the latter end of 1799; that he, the witness, being then there with Delassus, the then Lieutenant Governor, this last informed him (the witness) that he wished much to have claimant at St. Louis, and requested of him (the witness) that he would endeavor to persuade him (claimant) to go to that place; informing him at the same time, that he had it in his power to do much for him, and that he would reward him in lands, having received orders to that effect.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS SOUCIER, claiming eight thousand eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of St. Charles; produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, without any condition expressed in the same, dated September 18, 1799, and a survey of one thousand arpents, dated January 30, 1804, and certified 15th February, 1804; and another survey of one thousand arpents, dated May 1, 1805.

Testimony taken, May 2, 1806. Anthony Souldard, sworn. The same questions being put to him, he gave the same answers.

It was further proved to the satisfaction of the Board, that claimant is father of a family composed of himself, wife, and about fifteen children; was commandant of the Portage des Sioux for about eight years, for which he received no other compensation than the perquisites of office, which were trifling, and seldom paid; and further, that he claims no other land in his own name in the Territory but a farm of four hundred arpents, now under cultivation. Further proof required.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

PETER CHOUTEAU, assignee of Charles Tayon, Jun., claiming ten thousand arpents of land, situate on the river Renaud, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, without any condition inserted in the same, dated October 15, 1799; a survey of the same dated February 6, 1804, and certified on the 25th of the same month and year; and a deed of transfer of the same from the said Tayon to Peter Chouteau, dated January 3, 1804.

In this case the Board required that the age of claimant at the time of obtaining the concession should be proved, which was refused.

May 3, 1806. It appeared from the testimony of Antoine Soulard and Auguste Chouteau, that Mr. Charles Tayon had rendered services to the Spanish Government from the year 1770; that he was second in command at the siege of St. Joseph, which he contributed to take; that afterwards, from his merit, he received a commission of second lieutenant; that he was commandant of St. Charles from the year 1792 to the year 1804, during which time he rendered many services to Government, in operations against the Indians, training the militia, and protecting the district; that he never received any compensation, except eleven dollars a month as lieutenant, and his fees of office, which were trifling and seldom paid, exclusive of the lands claimed by him and family; that he spent a great part of his own property in his public employment, and appeared to have devoted himself to the interests of the province. The Board was satisfied that Mr. Charles Tayon, the father of the original proprietor, Francis Tayon, Jun., was an active and meritorious officer.

May 3, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and is of opinion that, although it appears that the decree is antedated, yet, from testimony and circumstances, it hath not been antedated for fraudulent design, but merely to make the date of the above correspond with the date of the petition; and further, they are satisfied that the said decree or order of survey was issued before the 1st of October, 1800.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

PETER CHOUTEAU, assignee of Elisha Herrington, assignee of Charles Tayon, Jun., claiming five hundred and ten arpents of land, situate on the river Dardenne, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated January 28, 1798; a survey of the same, dated the 8th and certified the 15th January, 1800; a deed of transfer of the same from the said Charles Tayon, Jun., to the said Elisha Herrington, dated 15th September, 1802; and a transfer from the said Elisha Herrington to the claimant, dated January 10, 1804. The age of the said Charles Tayon, Jun., at the time of obtaining said concession, was required to be proved, which was refused.

The Board applies here the aforesaid remarks on the testimony of Antoine Soulard and Augustin Chouteau.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS BEATY, claiming five hundred and forty-eight arpents of land, situate on the river St. Francis, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a certificate of survey of the same, dated February 26, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 5, 1806. Benjamin Pettit, sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1802; and did prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same; had then a wife and three children.

William Johnston, sworn, says that Camille Delassus informed him that, when commandant, by interium of New Bourbon, he had permitted claimant to settle on said tract of land.

May 5, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant three hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

PETER CHOUTEAU, Sen., claiming seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on the river St. Augustin, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated January 8, 1798, and a survey of the same, taken the 17th and certified the 27th December, 1803.

Testimony taken, May 5, 1806. Auguste Chouteau, sworn, says that he understood, about the time the above concession bears date, from his brother, the above claimant, that he had received such a concession; that he knew of his obtaining many concessions.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

May 5, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and are satisfied that it was granted at the time it bears date.

PETER CHOUTEAU, Jun., claiming an island in the river Missouri, called Lasso's island; produces to the Board a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated January 18, 1800, and bearing no terms or conditions whatever.

Testimony taken, May 5, 1806. Marie P. Leduc, sworn, says that claimant was at the time of obtaining said concession, about fifteen or sixteen years of age, and was born in this country.

James St. Vrain, sworn, says that he, the witness, arrived in this country in the year 1793; that, from the intimacy between him and Zenon Trudeau, and, after him, Charles Dehault Delassus, the brother to the witness, he was in the habit of frequently visiting these two commandants; that he heard them repeatedly say that they had received orders from their Government to grant to claimant's father and children lands; that he saw those orders; that he could not say positively that he saw any concession granted to any of claimant's family, prior to October, 1800; that he had heard Peter Chouteau, Sen., claimant's father, say that he had obtained a number of concessions for him and his children, and that, prior to October, 1800, he knows of claimant having obtained a concession for said island, but does not say positively when; knows of many important services rendered by Peter Chouteau, claimant's father, to Government, and believes he never received any other compensation for the same but such concessions as might be granted to him or his children.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

WIDOW DUBREUIL, claiming seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus, dated 6th November, 1799, and a survey and plat of the same, taken February 14th, and certified 5th March, 1804.

Testimony taken, May 6, 1806. James St. Vrain, sworn, says that he applied, at the request of claimant, to the Lieutenant Governor for the said concession; that the same was, to his certain knowledge, granted prior to October, 1800; that claimant is the mother of ten children, one of the oldest inhabitants in the country, and claims no other land in her own name in the Territory; and further, that he verily believes that her late husband never obtained a concession for lands in this country.

May 6, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson. The Board are satisfied, from the above testimony, that the above concession is not antedated.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ANTOINE SAUGRAIN, claiming twenty thousand arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles, produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau to claimant, dated November 9, 1797; a survey of four thousand and six arpents, situate on the waters of the Missouri, dated December 27, 1803, and certified January 28, 1804; and another survey of three thousand arpents, situate on the waters of the Mississippi, dated January 7, and certified February 15, 1804.

Claimant produces a letter from Zenon Trudeau to him, inviting him to the country, dated September 13, 1797.

May 10, 1806: Present, Clement B. Penrose, commissioner. The Board reject this claim, and observe that they are satisfied that the above concession was granted at the time it bears date, and is bona fide, but not duly registered. Approved the above proceedings.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ISRAEL DODGE claiming one thousand arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated February 1, 1798, and a survey of the same, taken 10th and certified 27th February, 1798.

Testimony taken, 10, 1806. Camille Lassus, sworn, says that claimant built a very large house on said land about twelve months ago, to the raising whereof he, the witness, assisted him, the said claimant; that he had then a field under fence, saw some fruit trees on the same, and knows that claimant had, prior to that time, raised a crop of turnips and potatoes on the said land.

August 18, 1810. Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN MULANPHY, assignee of Joseph Lacroix, claiming six hundred arpents of land, situate at the Prairie du Boeuf, district of St. Louis; produces a concession for the same to one Francis St. Cyr from Charles D. Delassus, dated 1st day of ———, 1800, and a certificate of survey of the same, dated 9th January, 1802; a certificate of public sale, by order of commandant, dated 23rd April, 1805; and a deed of transfer of the same from the said Joseph Lacroix to claimant, dated 31st May, 1805.

Testimony taken, May 12, 1806. Pascal Cerré, sworn, says that he never heard of a concession for the aforesaid tract of land until about three or four years ago, when the same was surveyed; and that it never was inhabited or cultivated.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES ST. VRAIN, assignee of Jean Baptiste Ambroise Doval, dit Degroseillier, claiming five thousand and fifty-six arpents; and JEAN BAPTISTE AMBROISE DOVAL, dit Degroseillier, claiming two thousand arpents of land; making, together, a tract of seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Charles: produce a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, for the same, dated November 19, 1799, and a survey of the same, taken 15th February, and certified 20th March, 1804; and a deed of transfer of the same, dated 15th July, 1803.

Testimony taken, May 23, 1806. Charles Sanguinett, sworn, says, that when Zenon Trudeau was commandant, the said Doval informed him that he had the promise of a concession for an island adjoining the witness's land; and that some time afterwards, and upwards of six years ago, he informed him he had received a concession from Charles D. Delassus; that he (the witness) and the said Doval are neighbors, on terms of intimacy, and are in the habit of communicating on their private concerns.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

DANIEL CLARK, claiming five thousand arpents of land, situate at a point of the river Lutre, district of St. Charles; produces a grant for the same from the Baron de Carondelet, dated July 27, 1797; a certificate from Antoine Soulard that the land prayed for and granted as above is not vacant, dated 17th December, 1799; and a new warrant of survey from Charles D. Delassus, in consequence of the above certificate, dated 5th January, 1800; a survey of said five thousand arpents, taken 5th March, and certified 1st May, 1801.

June 16, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. This claim being unsupported by actual inhabitation and cultivation, the Board reject the same, and observe that the above concession is neither antedated nor fraudulent, and that the said last warrant of survey is duly registered.

August 18, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. The concession in this claim from Don Carlos Dehaut Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, is not duly registered, as stated. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

Testimony taken, March 18, 1806. George Wilson, sworn, says that claimant did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife.

July 30, 1808. Thomas Y. Horsley, sworn, says that this tract was inhabited and cultivated in 1802, and constantly until the present time; six or eight acres now in cultivation; a wife and one slave in 1803.

July 26, 1811: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

March 18, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

FRANCES GODFREY, widow of Louis Vandenbenden, claiming four hundred arpents of land, situate on lake St. Mary, and bayou St. Isidore, district of New Madrid; produces to the Board a recommendation for a concession annexed to a petition of the said Francis Godfroy, from Henry Peyroux, dated September 24, 1800; and a certificate of survey of said land, dated February 27, 1806.

Testimony taken, March 10, 1806. George Wilson, sworn, says that the said Francis Godfroy did actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land in 1797, and that the same was, prior to and on the 1st of October, 1800, actually inhabited and cultivated.

July 30, 1808. Benjamin Patterson, sworn, says that this tract was inhabited and cultivated in 1797; one crop raised and abandoned; after which, in the year 1800, it was again inhabited and cultivated for the claimant's benefit, and constantly till this time; twenty or twenty-five acres now in cultivation.

March 10, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board confirm to said claimant four hundred arpents of land, as per the said recommendation and petition.

July 26, 1811: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CLEMENT HADEN, claiming one thousand two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate on Bois Bruile, district of St. Genevieve, by virtue of a permission to settle, granted in October, 1803, and certified December 14, 1805; a certificate of survey of said land, dated 3d February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 4, 1806. Joseph Tucker, sworn, says that claimant arrived in this country in the fall of 1803; went back, and returned with his family in the beginning of 1804; that he then moved on said tract of land, and raised a crop on the same in that year, and has actually inhabited and cultivated it to this day; that the said tract of land was, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabited and cultivated by one Luke Matenly; that the said Luke Matenly did, some time in January, 1804, acknowledge, before the witness, that he had sold his improvement right to the said claimant Haden.

February 4, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant claimant Haden, assignee of Luke Matenly, one thousand arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

August 14, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. Permission stated to be produced not found on record. It is the opinion of the board that this claim ought not to be granted.

DAVID EDWARDS, claiming nine hundred arpents of land, situate on the Dardenne, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a certificate of permission to settle from James Mackay, dated 30th January, 1806, and a certificate of survey of the same, dated 7th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 21, 1806. George Price, sworn, says that claimant did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the said tract of land, and had then a wife.

February 21, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant eight hundred arpents of land, provided so much be found vacant there.

August 14, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. Permission stated to be produced not found on record. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN A. HENTON, claiming seven hundred and eighty arpents of land, situate on Terre Blue, district of St. Genevieve, produces to the Board a certificate of survey of said land, dated 20th of February, 1806.

Testimony taken, February 21, 1806. Jacob Mosteller, sworn, says that claimant did settle said tract of land, and actually inhabit the same, in 1802; that, in the fall of that year, he lost his wife; and that, having been taken sick on the same, and having no one to take care of him, he moved out, but raised a crop thereon in that year.

February 21, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and think it a case of equity.

August 14, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

RICHARD JONES WATERS, assignee of Benjamin Harrison, assignee of George Ruddell, claiming two hundred arpents of land, situate in the district of New Madrid, on a lake adjoining a tract claimed by claimant, as assignee aforesaid; produces to the Board a recommendation from Henry Peyroux, dated December 1, 1800, and a plat of survey, annexed to the tract adjoining, as aforesaid, dated March 1, 1796; also, the assignment from the said Ruddell and Harrison.

Testimony taken, March 10, 1806. Robert McCoy, sworn, says that the family of George Ruddell, in the year 1796, consisted of himself, a wife, six children, and six negroes, whereby, agreeably to the Spanish laws and usages respecting the granting of lands, he was entitled to six hundred and twenty arpents of land; that, in the petition of the said Ruddell annexed to his concession, the quantity of six hundred arpents is prayed for, and the Baron de Carondelet grants "the four hundred arpents he solicits." It is the opinion of the Board that the Baron de Carondelet intended to have granted six hundred arpents instead of four hundred. They are satisfied that there was a mistake in the Intendant, and that his intention was to have granted the quantity prayed for; and it being proved that the same was actually inhabited and cultivated prior to and on the 1st October, 1800, they confirm to the said claimant, assignee as aforesaid, the said two hundred arpents, being the residue of the said tract of six hundred arpents.

March 10, 1806: Present at the decision of the foregoing claim, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners.

August 9, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. The petition and recommendation stated to be produced is not found on record. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JACQUE ST. VRAIN, assignee of Baptiste Delisle, Jun., claiming six hundred arpents of land, and BAPTISTE DELISLE, Jun., claiming two hundred arpents, situate on river Cuivre, district of St. Charles; produce to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus to said Delisle for eight hundred arpents, dated October 9, 1799; a survey of the same, dated 11th February, and certified 20th March, 1804; and a deed of transfer of the same, dated January 5, 1804.

May 28, 1806: Present, Penrose, commissioner. The Board require further proof of the date of the said concession. The Board reject this claim. Approved, 10th June.

August 17, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JACQUE ST. VRAIN, assignee of Paul Dejarlais, claiming six hundred arpents, and PAUL DEJARLAIS, claiming two hundred arpents of land, situate on river Cuivre, district of St. Charles; produce to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus to said Dejarlais for eight hundred arpents, dated July 11, 1800; a survey of the same, dated 11th February, and certified 20th March, 1804; and a deed of transfer of the same, dated 12th December, 1803.

June 28, 1806: Present, C. B. Penrose, commissioner. The Board require further proof of the date of said concession, on behalf of the United States. Approved, 10th June.

Testimony taken, May 28, 1806. Paul Dejarlais, sworn, says that some time in the spring of 1804 Lebeaume called upon him, and told him that if he wanted lands he might have some; to which he (the witness) replied, that if he was to pay nothing for the same he should like to have it; that accordingly, some time in June of that year, (as he believes) Lebeaume gave him a concession for eight hundred arpents of land; that the Spanish officers had not then left the country; and that when the said concession was given him, he gave an assignment of six hundred arpents of the same, for which he did not receive any thing; and further, that he had then a wife and child, and claims no other land in his own name in the territory.

August 17, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANCIS BERTHEAUME, alias Francis Barume, claiming nine hundred and eighteen arpents and thirty perches of land, situate on Apple creek, district of Cape Girardeau; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 24th January, and certified 26th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, June 25, 1806. Camille Lassus, sworn, says that he was present when commandant did permit claimant to settle on vacant land.

Robert Hinckson, sworn, says that claimant cultivated the said tract of land in 1802, and did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same; and had then three children and one slave.

June 25, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant two hundred and seventy arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

August 19, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOSEPH BRAZEAU, claiming three hundred and forty-seven arpents of land, joining a former concession, and granted him as a compensation, beginning at the aforesaid tract granted him by Cruzat, district of ———; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated November 19, 1799; and a survey of the same, forming the whole of the above tract claimed by him, and dated the 28th May, and certified the 21st August, 1803.

July 19, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. This claim being unsupported by actual inhabitation and cultivation, the Board reject the same. They remark that they are satisfied that the aforesaid concession was granted at the time it bears date; but that the same interferes with a tract of land claimed by the inhabitants of the town of St. Louis as a common.

August 19, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

AUGUSTE CHOUTEAU, assignee of widow Rontier, assignee of Joseph Mainville, claiming sixty arpents of land, situate in the Grand Prairie of St. Louis, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a duly registered act of survey, signed St. Ange, and ratified by Peter Piernuss, dated 23d May, 1772.

July 25, 1806: Present, Lucas and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board ascertain this claim to be a French grant completed by Spanish regulations.

August 19, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CHRISTOPHER CARPENTER, representative of John Carpenter, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight arpents sixty-eight perches of land, situate in the district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 17th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, July 29, 1806. Joseph Sips, sworn, says that the said John Carpenter settled the said tract of land in the year 1802; that in 1803 he cleared a field of about four or five acres, and did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same, and had no family but the above claimant.

August 19, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

LEWIS DICKSON, assignee of William Vanburhelow, claiming eleven hundred and forty-eight arpents of land, situate on Cape Cinquhomme, lower end of Bois Bruile, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a certificate of survey of the same, dated December 14, 1805; a certificate from Pierre D. Deluzier, stating that prior to the year 1800 he had permitted claimant to settle on vacant lands, dated 10th December, 1806.

Testimony taken, July 29, 1806. Joshua Fisher, sworn, says that he, the witness, settled the said land in the year 1800; built a cabin, and fenced in about two acres, and lived thereon until March following, when, having sold to claimant, he moved out.

Levi Wiggins, sworn, says that he, the witness, did, in October, 1803, having first obtained claimant's leave to that effect, move on said land; cleared a few acres; planted apple seeds in a corner, which he fenced in; that his object was then the raising of stock, which he did until the spring of 1804; that since that period he has lived on the same, and has now a large stock on it as tenant of the above claimant.

July 29, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim for want of a duly registered warrant of survey.

August 19, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JAMES NORRIS, claiming three hundred and fifty-one arpents of land, situate on Willow's swamp, district of Cape Girardeau; produces to the Board a certificate of permission to settle, dated 23d April, 1802; and a survey of said land, taken 17th, and certified 28th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 13, 1806. William Cox, sworn, says that the said claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1802, and did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same; and had then a wife, three children, and three slaves. The permission stated to be produced not found on record.

August 13, 1806: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board grant the said claimant four hundred and ten arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, provided so much be found vacant there.

August 19, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JOHN DRAPER, claiming seven hundred and forty-seven arpents of land, situate on Dardenne, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated February 12, 1806; and a certificate of permission to settle from James Mackay, dated 23th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, July 12, 1806. Zadock Woods, sworn, says that claimant settled said tract of land in 1802, built a house on the same, and enclosed a few arpents of the same; that he was by profession a well digger, and on the 20th December, 1803, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards.

Certificate of permission stated to be produced not found on record.

August 19, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JEAN PERRY, claiming three thousand arpents of land, situate on river Aux Bœufs, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession, dated July, 1798.

August 23, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. This claim being unsupported by actual inhabitation and cultivation, the Board reject this claim, and observe, that, from a letter in the possession of claimant, now produced to them, they are satisfied that the said concession was granted at the time it bears date.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

STEPHEN BYRD, assignee of Daniel Mullins, assignee of Jesse Bowden, claiming four hundred and twenty-eight arpents of land, situate on the waters of the Mississippi, district of New Madrid; produces to the Board a certified copy of a permission to settle, by Henry Peyroux, certified by Peter A. Laforge, civil commandant of New Madrid, under date of May 14, 1804; and a survey, dated 24th January, 1804, together with a deed of transfer of the same, from Jesse Bowden to said Daniel Mullins, dated 30th March, 1805; and another deed of transfer of the same from said Mullins to claimant, dated 12th July, 1805.

Testimony taken, August 25, 1806. William Smith, sworn, says that the said Bowden raised two crops on said land, having settled the same in 1801; that he did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit the same, and had then a wife and two children, and one slave; and that the same has been actually inhabited and cultivated to this day.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

GEORGE STRINGER, claiming eight hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate in the district of New Madrid; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 10th February, 1806, and certified 23th same month.

August 25, 1806: Present, Lucas, commissioner. This claim being unsupported by inhabitation and cultivation, the Board reject the same.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

MARTIN RUGGLES, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight arpents seventeen perches of land, situate in the district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board two surveys, dated the 1st, and certified the 25th February, 1805.

Testimony taken, August 29, 1806. John McNeal, sworn, says that claimant settled one of the aforesaid tracts, to wit, that one of two hundred and three arpents fifty-five perches, in the spring of 1803; and did, prior to and on the 20th December, 1803, actually inhabit and cultivate the same, and was then of the age of twenty-one years and upwards.

August 29, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim for want of proof of permission to settle. They remark that, independent of the actual settlement of the aforesaid tract, claimant has, at a very great expense, built a very valuable saw-mill on the aforesaid tract of five hundred and forty-four arpents.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. One survey not found on record. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

GUILLEAUME HEBERT, dit Lecompte, claiming one hundred and twenty feet by sixty or seventy feet depth, situate in the town of St. Louis, district of St. Louis, granted for stone quarrying; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, dated 5th September, 1799.

Testimony taken, September 9, 1806. Auguste Chouteau, sworn, says that he did, about seven or eight years ago, quarry stones on said lot by claimant's leave, and paid him five sous per load.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. The Board refer to their remarks made in the claim of Julian Papin Benito; this being similarly situated. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN WATKINS, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a duly registered concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated 6th February, 1797; and a survey of the same, taken 14th November, 1803, and certified 15th April, 1804.

Testimony taken, September 17, 1806. Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that he wrote the aforesaid concession, and that the date of the same is perfectly correct.

September 23, 1808. Antoine Soulard, being re-examined concerning his testimony given in this case, 17th September, 1806, says, that by the term "perfectly correct," he meant that the concession was given at the time it bears date.

September 17, 1806: Present, Lucas and Donaldson, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and are satisfied that the said concession was granted at the time it bears date.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN BAPTISTE LAMARCHE, claiming six by forty arpents of land, situate on the Missouri, district of St. Louis, to be bounded on each side by one Chartrand and Francis Janis, and on the rear by Emilian Forty; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated 18th November, 1798; and a survey of said quantity, taken on the river Merrimack, in consequence of the aforesaid tract having been previously surveyed by another person; the said survey without date.

Testimony taken, September 29, 1806. Toussaint Cerre, sworn, says that the said claimant actually inhabited the said tract of land, as surveyed on the Merrimack, about seven or eight years ago.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

HUGH BRANNON, claiming two hundred and fifty arpents of land, situate in the district of Cape Girardeau; produces to the Board a permission to settle, certified by Louis Lorimier, under the date of July 24, 1804.

Testimony taken, August 22, 1806. Daniel Thorn, sworn, says that the said land lies on a branch of the White waters, about a mile from John May's; that claimant settled the said tract of land in the year 1801, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the said land to this day; had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife.

August 27, 1810: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. Permission stated to be produced not found on record. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JACQUES CLAMORGAN, claiming five hundred and thirty-six thousand nine hundred and four arpents and twenty-nine perches of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of New Madrid; produces to the Board a concession from Charles D. Delassus, the then commandant of New Madrid, dated August 9, 1796, stating the same to be granted for establishing a ropewalk, and forming a Canadian establishment for the purpose of raising hemp, together with a survey of the same, taken the 30th January to the 12th February, and certified the 20th February, 1806.

The Board require further proof.

August 20, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ROBERT SPENCER, assignee of the widow of Louis Hunot, claiming three hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate on the river Cuivre, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 11th December, 1797, to Louis Hunot, and a certified copy of a deed of conveyance from said widow to claimant, dated 16th March, 1804.

On the objection of the agent, alleging fraud and antedate, the Board require further proof.

Testimony taken, August 8, 1807. Noel A. Prierer, sworn, says that he has been ten years and a half in the village of St. Charles, and that Lewis Hunot was then residing in said village, and was the head of a family at that time; and that he, the said Hunot, died five years ago, in this country; and that his widow and children are still residing in it.

George Geaty, sworn, says that in 1798 the said Hunot tried to engage him, the witness, to go and settle with him on the river Cuivre, the said Hunot alleging that he had a concession from Zenon Trudeau for land there, at what he called the Prairie des Butes, but that he refused to go, from his wife's objecting to the distance from the inhabitants.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JOHN BAPTISTE DUBAY, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight arpents and sixty-eight perches of land, situate on the south side of the river Missouri, opposite the town of St. Charles, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, dated 7th September, 1807.

Testimony taken, September 11, 1807. Jacques Chovan, sworn, says that the claimant settled the above claim in 1803, that is to say, he inhabited said land, and that he saw a crop of corn growing on said land in 1803, and that claimant has continued to inhabit and cultivate the same ever since, and that in the year 1803 claimant was the head of a family, but does not know whether he had children; the claimant declares that he never had permission to settle.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

FRANCIS VALLE, the representatives of, claiming seventy arpents of land, being an augmentation of a tract of twenty-five arpents square granted said Valle by Neon de Villiere in 1761, situate in the district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated 9th March, 1798, a plat of survey, dated 15th March, 1798.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

WILLIAM MONTGOMERY, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate on a run which empties itself into the river Platte, two miles from his habitation, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a petition for said land, and a declaration from Francis Valle, commandant of St. Genevieve, directing him to apply to the Lieutenant Governor for the same, dated 12th September, 1803; and a plat and certificate of survey, dated January 13, 1806, for eight hundred acres of land, situate on Terre Blue creek, which empties into Big river.

Testimony taken, December 3, 1807. James Cunningham, sworn, says that the tract which he speaks of is the one situated on the Terre Blue; that claimant began to work in 1805, and that in 1806 there were two houses built on said land, and a saw-mill; the houses have been occupied, and the mill worked occasionally ever since.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

WILLIAM FLYNN, JUN., claiming two hundred and forty arpents of land, situate on the Bois Bruile, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, dated 3d December, 1807.

Testimony taken, December 3, 1807. William Flynn, Sen., sworn, says that in the year 1804, to the best of his knowledge, (recollection) he assisted his son, the claimant, to clear about one quarter of an acre of land, and enclosed the same, and also cultivated turnips thereon the same fall, but does not know whether the crop of turnips was taken off or gathered; does not know the age of his son exactly, but believes him to be about twenty-three or twenty-four years of age at this time; nor does he know whether his son had permission to settle.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

EDWARD PERRY, by his agent Thomas Berry, claiming four hundred arpents of land, situate on the east side of Wild Horse creek, Missouri bottom, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice to the recorder, of said claim, dated 16th April, 1808, and claiming also by virtue of a concession for the same, which is said to be lost.

Testimony taken, April 18, 1808. William Bellew, sworn, says that he was present when claimant obtained a concession from Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor of Upper Louisiana in 1797, for four hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid, and heard the same translated; that claimant was then above the age of twenty-one years; resided in this country but one year, to wit, in 1797, and then left the country; says that he (deponent) had the said concession in his possession, but gave it to some person to return to him, at this time unknown, without any written order from claimant; says that said land is situate on the east side of Wild Horse creek, adjoining the Missouri bottom; that claimant built a house on said place in 1797, had two or three acres in cultivation, and raised a crop of corn the same year, and that the same was cultivated the two following years, and crops of corn raised for claimant's use; that in the year 1801 the said tract of land was surveyed in by Captain James Mackay for his own use, and a tenant put thereon.

On application of Thomas Berry, agent for claimant, it is ordered by the Board, the Honorable Frederick Bates dissenting, that a didimus issue to any judge for the county of Clark, Indiana Territory, where it is alleged the claimant resides, to administer an oath to claimant, so that it may be certified to the Board whether the concession in this case be in his possession, or that the same be lost, or out of his power to obtain it.

September 26, 1808. In the above case, the didimus is returned as taken on the 15th July last, and duly certified, in substance as follows: that claimant did lodge his concession in the hands of William Bellew; that the same is now mislaid or lost, and cannot be produced by claimant; and that he has never sold or transferred the same to any person whatever.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

MARY NICOLLE LEBOIS, claiming two hundred and forty-four and a half arpents of land, situate in the commons of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Don Carlos Dehault Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, for the same, dated 11th May, 1803; a plat and certificate of survey, dated 27th May, 1803, and certified 20th August same year.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ROBERT WILSON, claiming three hundred arpents of land, situate on the waters of Meadow creek, district of Cape Girardeau; produces to the Board a notice of claim to the recorder, dated 30th June, 1808.

Testimony taken, October 10, 1808. Lewis Lathan, sworn, says that claimant inhabited and cultivated the land claimed in 1806, and to this day.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

JACOB KELLY, JUN., claiming three hundred arpents of land, situate on the east side of St. Francis' river, district of Cape Girardeau; produces to the board a notice to the recorder, dated 10th June, 1808.

Testimony taken, October 13, 1808. Isaac E. Kelly, sworn, says that claimant built a half faced cabin on the land claimed in 1801, and then exchanged said land with Jacob Kelly, Sen., who cut house logs on the same in January, 1804, and in March following built a cabin and moved on the same, and has inhabited and cultivated the same ever since.

August 21, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted.

CALVIN ADAMS, assignee of Auguste Charan, claiming two hundred and forty arpents of land, situate at Portage des Sioux, district of St. Charles; produces to the Board the record of a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Auguste Charan, for the same, dated 21st April, 1797; also a transfer of the same from said Charan to claimant, dated 12th November, 1803.

Testimony taken, March 22, 1809. James Peper, sworn, says that Claibourn Rhodes ploughed and planted about one acre and a half of corn in 1798 on the tract claimed, but did not enclose it; sold his labor to one Crosby, who sold it to Louis Gor; has known the land claimed ever since, and nothing has been done on the same by Auguste Charan; Crosby raised two crops on the tract claimed in 1799 and 1800; also heard Rhodes say that he had sold the said land to Calvin Adams; did not know Adams to be in the country until a year or two after the sale to Crosby.

August 22, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ANTOINE SOULARD, claiming one thousand and forty-two arpents of land, situate on the Mississippi, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a certified copy of a plat and certificate of survey of the same, certified at New Orleans, Ximens, 28th April, 1802, which survey is stated to be founded on an order from the Lieutenant Governor, Zenon Trudeau, dated 28th January, 1793; survey dated 15th March, 1798, certified by Antoine Soulard 2d April, same year; also produces a grant from Don Juan Ventura Morales, Intendant ad interim, for the same to claimant, granted on condition that he shall comply with the third, fourth, sixth, seventh, and ninth articles of the ordinance of his Intendency, dated 17th July, 1799; grant dated 28th April, 1802, and found in the abstract of all the concessions and patented grants of land appertaining to the district of Louisiana, recorded in the registers kept by the Spanish and French Governments of the province of Louisiana, since the 2d July, 1756, and until the 3d of April, 1802, transmitted to this Board by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Testimony taken, November 30, 1808. Auguste Chouteau, sworn, says that, about 1798 or 1799, said tract was inhabited and cultivated, for claimant, and has continued so to be ever since; in 1801 had about twenty-five arpents of land in cultivation.

January 13, 1809. On the application of claimant to introduce further testimony, and Auguste Chouteau, formerly a witness in this claim, being present, and stating that he was probably mistaken in the quantity of land cultivated in 1801, the Board are of opinion that this claim be opened and claimant permitted to introduce further evidence.

George Dogget, sworn, says that in the year 1800 claimant had forty acres under fence, and that about thirty-five of which were under cultivation.

William Massey, sworn, says that in 1802 claimant had about forty acres in cultivation, and in 1803 had between fifty and sixty acres in cultivation.

August 24, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. The Board declare that this claim is not a grant made and completed, prior to the 1st of October, 1800.

NOEL MONGRAIN, claiming seven thousand and fifty-six arpents of land, situate on little Saline creek, emptying into the Osage river; produces to the Board a notice of claim, and a certificate from Cheveux Blanc, Chief of the Great Osage nation, in which he declares that he has given to Noel Mongrain, his little brother, for the services that he has rendered him and his nation, one league square of land, situate as aforesaid, dated 20th June, 1797, and acknowledged before Bernard Pratte, one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, for St. Louis district, by said Cheveux Blanc, through his interpreter, Jacques Sonde, 30th June, 1808.

Testimony taken, December 10, 1808. Jacques Sonde, sworn, says that Noel Mongrain was born in the Osage nation, of an Osage woman, the aunt of Cheveux Blanc; that Noel Mongrain has forbidden persons to hunt on the land claimed, and has had persons hunting on the same for ten years past; that the witness drew the instrument of writing from Cheveux Blanc to Noel Mongrain; that the other Indians said it was unnecessary for them to sign it as Cheveux Blanc had the right to give the land, and what he did would be well done; that said Mongrain, when he separated himself from the nation and came to live with the whites, renounced his claim to his part of the Osage country, in common with the other Indians; and that said land was given him for his part.

Pierre Chouteau, Indian agent, sworn, says that in the council which he had the 10th November last, in which a treaty was made between the United States and the Osage, about twelve hundred of the great and little Osage Indians were present, and Cheveux Blanc, the chief, expressly excepted in council from the cession they were then making the land claimed by Noel Mongrain on the little Saline, stating that the said land had been heretofore granted to him, and that all this nation consented to what was done by Cheveux Blanc.

August 24, 1811: Present, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. This claim being neither embraced by the law, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, nor the acts of Congress, the Board decline giving any opinion thereon, and order that a copy of the written evidence accompany the report of this claim.

DIDIER PAPIN, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, on any vacant land; produces to the Board the aforesaid concession.

June 18, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

THEODORE PAPIN, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, on any vacant land; produces to the Board the aforesaid concession.

June 18, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

CHARLES DEHAULT DELASSUS, claiming thirty thousand arpents of land, where the same may be found vacant, produces to the Board an official letter, from the Baron de Carondelet to Dehault Delassus, father of claimant, stating that he had ordered Zenon Trudeau to grant to him a certain tract of land which he had requested, and also a plantation, sufficiently large for their cultivation and establishment, should be granted to his son-in-law and sons, dated 8th May, 1793; produces also to the Board a concession for the same, dated 10th February, 1798, from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor.

June 18, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

ROBERT SLOAN, claiming seven hundred and forty-eight arpents sixty-eight perches of land, situate in Bellevue, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a survey of the same, dated 20th and certified 27th February, 1806; also, a deposition of permission to settle, given April 3, by Joseph Decelle, syndic.

Testimony taken, June 26, 1806. William Ashbrook, sworn, says that claimant settled the said tract of land in the spring of 1804, raised a crop, and has actually inhabited and cultivated the same to this day; and had, on the 20th December, 1803, a wife and ten children.

June 18, 1811: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

PASCAL DETCHEMENDY, assignee of Nicholas Lachance, claiming seventy-four arpents and forty poles of land, situate on the river Gaborie, district of St. Genevieve; produces to the Board a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated 1st September, 1797; a survey, taken 2d October, and certified 1st November, 1797; and a transfer of the same, passed before Joseph Bratt, the then acting commandant, dated April 24, 1801.

June 21, 1806: Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. This claim being unsupported by actual inhabitation and cultivation, the Board reject the same, and observe that this tract is adjoining a tract claimed by said Detchemendy, as assignee of John Windle Engle; that a part of the land said to be cultivated in said claim forms a part of this tract; and that the said two lots or tracts are out lots, and intended merely for cultivation.

June 18, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES McDONALD, claiming three hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate at Marais des Liards, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice of said claim, entered with the recorder 27th May, 1809; also, a copy of a plat of survey of one thousand six hundred arpents, said to be founded on a decree of the Lieutenant Governor, dated 8th December, 1796, made 25th March, 1797, for Louis Honoré, certified by Silas Bent, deputy surveyor general, dated 25th July, 1807, as copied from the records in his office; said McDonald claiming as assignee of Louis Honoré.

Testimony taken, May 30, 1808. James Richardson, sworn, says that he surveyed said land, by directions from Antoine Soulard, surveyor general, in the spring of 1797; that he had the concession on which said survey was made several times in his hands before that time; that said concession was granted by Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Louis Honoré, (father,) for eight by forty arpents; to Francis, (son,) eight by forty arpents; to Baptiste, (son,) eight by forty arpents; to Michel, (son,) eight by forty arpents; to Noel, (son,) eight by forty arpents; making, in the whole, forty arpents square; that he actually saw conveyances, in 1799 and 1800, from Louis Honoré, (father,) Francis, (son,) Michel, (son,) and Noel, (son,) for eight by forty arpents of land each, situate as aforesaid, to James McDonald, and that it appeared to be witnessed; the said parties acknowledged to him (the witness) to have signed a conveyance of their said land to said McDonald, some time after.

Louis Lebeaume, sworn, says that claimant put into his hands, about the year 1800 or 1801, a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Louis Honoré, (father) and sons, for one thousand six hundred arpents of land, situate as aforesaid; that he took a conveyance from Baptiste Honoré, one of the sons, to claimant, for his part of the said concession; at the same time had in his possession conveyances purporting to be from Louis Honoré, (father,) and he thinks two of the sons, to claimant.

Claimant, sworn, says that, in going from the town of St. Louis, on horseback, to his house on said land, in 1805, having then in his saddle-bags, and with him, all the papers, to wit, the concession and conveyances, relating to said claim, his horse ran away with him, threw him, and went off with said bags; that, in search after them, some days after, he found said bags, with the bridle of his horse in them, but that they contained no papers, which were missing, together with some other articles; that he has never since had said papers in his possession, neither does he know where they are.

Claimant declares that he understood the Lieutenant Governor refused to have sales passed before him, and therefore did not apply.

James Richardson says that he knows of neither inhabitation nor cultivation on said land prior to the sale by said Honoré; does not know of Louis Honoré (father) having any other claim, but François, Baptiste, and Noel, had other claims; that claimant settled on said land in the fall of 1799, or spring of 1800, built a cabin, and has inhabited and cultivated the same to this day.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES McDONALD, assignee of Francis Honoré, claiming three hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate at Marais des Liards, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board the same papers as in the aforesaid claims, and the same testimony as aforesaid.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES McDONALD, assignee of Baptiste Honoré, claiming three hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate at Marais des Liards, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board the same papers as in the foregoing claims, and the same testimony as aforesaid.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES McDONALD, assignee of Michel Honoré, claiming three hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate at Marais des Liards, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board the same papers as in the foregoing claims, and the same testimony as aforesaid.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

JAMES McDONALD, assignee of Noel Honoré, claiming three hundred and twenty arpents of land, situate at Marais des Liards, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board the same papers as in the foregoing claims, and the same testimony as aforesaid.

June 4, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

FRANÇOIS DUNNEGANT, claiming one hundred and sixty arpents of land, situate at Fontaine des Biches, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a notice of said claim to the recorder, dated May 14, 1808; and also a concession for the same to claimant from François Cruzat, Lieutenant Governor, dated 6th October, 1782, and registered folio 5, book No. 4, of the book of registry of concessions, for four arpents front by forty arpents deep, situate at Fontaine des Biches, distant about three leagues from St. Louis.

Testimony taken, September 13, 1808. Simon Courant, sworn.

Question by claimant. Do you know the Fontaine des Biches, and where it is situated?

Answer. Yes, I know two of them; they are situate near river Aux Biches. The river Aux Biches is the last river emptying into the Missouri, on the south side towards its mouth, and is the same near which the United States' cantonment at present stands; says that he has not seen the river in twenty years, and it has emptied itself since then into the Missouri considerably lower down; that the springs are situated close to the end of the little rock, (upper one) on the Missouri, near Cold Water; says that what he calls Cold Water is a spring that empties itself out of the rocks, close to the banks of the Missouri, very high up, and falls into the Missouri; that the Fontaine Cold Water is not the Fontaine des Biches, and is near three miles distant above, and the Fontaine des Biches is on the right side of the river La Biche in the Missouri bottom, below the ridge of rocks; that the river which runs by St. Ferdinand, and empties into the Missouri, is what he calls La Biche; and that all the prairie and woods near was called Prairie les Biches, and woods of les Biches; that he knows of no cultivation ever having been done at said springs; that the people generally cut wood in the Missouri bottom, and made camp; but does not know who they were, or whether they were on the land claimed; says that as to danger from Indians, in that neighborhood there always has been until now.

Auguste Chouteau, sworn, says that on the right side of the Missouri, about a league above its mouth on the river, there is a chain of rocks, about a quarter of a mile long; about twenty arpents below said rocks a little river empties itself into the Missouri, called La Biche; and that about four arpents from the bank of the Missouri, and ten arpents on the right side of said river La Biche, there is a spring or springs called Fontaine des Biches, and that the same Fontaine des Biches is now called Belle Fontaine; says that he knows of no settlement made by Dunnegant, the claimant, on the place claimed; that, about the year 1786, claimant was appointed commandant of St. Ferdinand, and continued so from that time until the American Government took place; that from 1782 until claimant was appointed commandant, the Indians were troublesome; and there were orders for the inhabitants of this country not to settle out of the town.

Testimony taken, September 14, 1808. Pierre Chouteau, sworn, says that the spring called the Biche spring is situated a little below the river Aux Biches, which spring is so called because it is situated a little distance from the Glaize aux Biches, and river Aux Biches, and is the same which is now called Belle Fontaine, near the United States' cantonment, and the river called the Aux Biches is the same, now called Cold Water river; says that he has been acquainted with the situation of said spring for thirty-five years past; never heard of any other spring called Aux Biches; that he always knew the same by that name; says that he never knew of any improvement being made at or near said spring, except the improvement of land; that for the last twenty-five years he has not been in that part of the country until the cantonment was built, since when he has been there frequently; that the first time he saw said spring since twenty-five years, was when he went with General Wilkinson to choose a place for a cantonment, and then he saw land, mill, and improvement.

Baptiste Valle, sworn, says that the springs now called Cold Water, behind the United States' cantonment, ten arpents at most from the same, was formerly called Biche springs; never knew of any other springs being called by that name, nor saw any improvement at that place previous to the building of the camp; that twenty-five or twenty-six years past, he hunted there during two years, but has not been there since except last year.

Toussaint Parent, sworn, says that twenty-seven years past, and before he knew the Biche spring, situate about ten or twelve arpents from the Missouri, and about fifteen or twenty arpents from the mouth of the river Aux Biches, never knew of any other springs of that name; at that time there was neither cabin or improvement made at that place, nor has he seen any since.

William Davis, a witness on the part of Massey, sworn, says that François Dunnegant went with him, the witness, to the public sale of land of Ezekiel Lard, deceased, when the same was cried and sold to William Massey; that he did not hear said Dunnegant make any objection to the sale; says that he knows a spring near the Glaize aux Biches, which was near to William Patterson's survey, and about one and a half miles from the cantonment, called Biche spring; that he has been acquainted with the name of said spring about ten years.

The foregoing claim contested by said Dunnegant and William Massey, assignee of Ezekiel Lard.

June 8, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

WILLIAM MASSEY, assignee of Ezekiel Lard, claiming six hundred arpents of land, situate on the Missouri bottom, district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession for one thousand arpents of land, granted by Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to Ezekiel Lard, and dated 10th September, 1797; a plat and certificate of survey of one thousand arpents, dated 5th April, 1798, and certified 18th July, same year; a certified copy of an adjudication at public sale of the effects of Ezekiel Lard, dated 24th April, 1803, to claimant, for six hundred arpents of said land, and certified 23d January, 1806.

Testimony taken, September 13, 1808. Jacques St. Vrain, sworn, says that in 1797 or 1798, Ezekiel Lard erected a saw-mill and grist-mill, and cleared and cultivated a field on the tract claimed, about one and a half arpents from Belle Fontaine, near where the United States' cantonment now stands; that he saw the mill agoing in 1799, and that said tract has always been inhabited and cultivated from its first establishment to this day.

Pascal Cerre, sworn, says that in 1798, Ezekiel Lard went to live on the place claimed; cleared a field in the bottom, between the mouth of what is now called Cold Water creek and Belle Fontaine, and erected a saw-mill the following year; that said land has been inhabited and cultivated until the death of William Musick, which happened about three or four years ago, since which he does not know whether it was cultivated or not; that all the springs under the Bluff, between Cold Water creek and the plantation of witness on the Mississippi, went by the appellation of Lean Froid, since the year 1787; that he has known the land claimed for fifteen or sixteen years past, but knows of no improvement being made on the same, except what he has before stated; that he never heard until lately of a spring called La Biche; but that the St. Ferdinand Fields was called Prairie des Biches, and to the north-east of said Prairie there was a place called Glaize aux Biches; that Cold Water creek and St. Ferdinand creek is the same, which passes through St. Ferdinand and discharges itself into the Missouri near the present United States' cantonment.

Question. By the agent of Francis Dunnegant. Do you know any thing of Francis Dunnegant's circumstances as to property?

Answer. I know that since the year 1787 he has been reputed to be a poor man, but as to character one of the best amongst us.

John Graham, sworn, says that Ezekiel Lard made an improvement on the place claimed in 1797, and began to build a grist and saw-mill in 1798, cleared a field, raised corn, and finished his mills; said land has been inhabited and cultivated ever since.

Antoine Soulard, sworn, says that he knows of a concession being granted to Ezekiel Lard, for the purpose of building a saw-mill, at the time the concession bears date; that said Lard was put in possession of the same by deponent, as surveyor, and for which he, deponent, received his fees of survey; that Zenon Trudeauux, Lieutenant Governor, supported said undertaking by lending to said Lard two hundred dollars, towards assisting him in building said mill; that the said sum of two hundred dollars was reimbursed to deponent, as attorney in fact for Zenon Trudeauux; that at the time of making the survey of said land, there was no objection made to the survey, nor did he know, at that time, of François Dunnegant having a claim, nor does he know of any opposition being made by said Dunnegant to said Lard's claim; says that he never knew of Dunnegant having a claim to said land, until it was known that the American Government was to take possession of the country, and until after the death of Lard.

James Richardson, sworn, says that he has been in this country twenty-one years past; that sixteen years ago deponent was at the place now called Belle Fontaine, and saw no improvement at that time, or appearances of any; that the first improvement he knows of was made by Ezekiel Lard; that said Lard supported himself and family by his milk and farm, having no other resources to this deponent's knowledge.

Nicholas Hebert, dit Lacompte, sworn, says that since forty-five years ago he has been frequently in the Missouri bottom, near the mouth on the right side; knows of a spring called Leanfroid, at the rocks on the Missouri; that the springs where the United States' cantonment at present is, he understood to be called the springs of the Point of the fort; that he has never known them to be called by the name of Fontaine des Biches; that the river which empties itself into the Missouri, at the said cantonment, was formerly called the river of Prairie les Biches; knows of a Grand Glaize about five or six miles below St. Ferdinand, called Glaize des Biches.

Additional testimony of James Richardson: says that he has heard some old inhabitants say that the spring in the village of St. Ferdinand was called Fontaine des Biches; and has heard others say that a spring at Guy Seylee, which is near the spring that tumbles into the Missouri, called Cold Water, was also called Fontaine des Biches.

June 8, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. Statement omitted in the proper place, viz.: WILLIAM MASSEY, claiming six hundred arpents of a tract of one thousand arpents; Morris James, claiming two hundred arpents of the same tract of one thousand arpents; recorded in book D, page 216, of the recorder's office. The representatives of Ezekiel Lard, claiming the remaining two hundred arpents.

It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, voted for the confirmation of one thousand arpents of land. The said majority declare, that if the concession on which the above claims are founded had not exceeded eight hundred arpents, they would have voted for a confirmation.

RODOLPH TILLER, assignee of Benito Vasquez, Jun., claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Louis; produces to the Board a concession from Charles Dehaul Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to the said Benito Hypolite, Antoine Joseph, and Pierre Vasquez, the children of Benito Vasquez, Sen., for eight hundred arpents each, granted to them for the purpose of settling the said Benito Vasquez, Jun., and educating his four younger brothers, who then were minors, and as a compensation for services rendered the Spanish Government by their father, Benito Vasquez, said concession dated the 17th February, 1800; a survey of the aforesaid eight hundred arpents, dated the 27th February, 1806; and a deed of transfer of the same, executed by the aforesaid Benito Vasquez, Jun., dated 11th February, 1806.

Testimony taken, August 25, 1806. Hyacinth St. Cyr, sworn, says that Benito Vasquez, Sen., the father of the said Benito and brothers, told him, the witness, about five or six years ago, that he had received a concession for his children of eight hundred arpents each; that the aforesaid Benito Vasquez, Jun. was, at the time of claiming said concession, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards; that his father, who was a Spaniard by birth, was a confidential officer of Government, that he acted for some time as commandant, by interim, and witness believes never received any compensation for his services.

Charles Gratiot, sworn, says that the said Benito Vasquez, Sen., is by birth a Spaniard; that he was the first militia captain, and acted sometimes as commandant, by interim, and never received any pecuniary compensation for his services.

Testimony taken, May 22, 1808. Jacques Clamorgant sworn, says that he knows that this land was given as compensation to Benito Vasquez, Jun., for services rendered to the Spanish Government by his father; that said Benito, the father, was a confidential person under said Government, and a Spaniard by birth.

August 25, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim; they are satisfied that the said concession was granted at the time it bears date. They remark, that the grant is expressly given to the children, as is said in the body of it, as a compensation for the public services of the father, and that they may locate and establish it in two or three vacant places of the domain, where it shall be convenient.

September 22, 1810: Present, Lucas and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, declares that he does not concur in opinion with the former Board in the present case, respecting the satisfaction which the said former Board expresses, that the concession was granted at the time it bears date.

ANTOINE VASQUEZ claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Louis; produces to the Board the same concession as in the foregoing claims, and same testimony as aforesaid.

August 25, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and remark as aforesaid.

September 22, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, declares as aforesaid.

HYPOLITE VASQUEZ, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Louis; produces to the Board the same concession as in the foregoing claims, and same testimony as aforesaid.

August 25, 1806: Present, Lucas and Penrose, commissioners. The Board reject this claim, and remark as aforesaid.

September 22, 1810: Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Bates, commissioners. It is the opinion of the Board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, declares as aforesaid.

JOSEPH VASQUEZ, claiming eight hundred arpents of land, situate in the district of St. Louis, produces to the Board the same concession as in the foregoing claims; and same testimony as aforesaid.
