The United States of America, and His Majesty The King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, desirous to cement the good Understanding which happily subsists between them, have, for that purpose, named their respective Plenipotentiaries, that is to say: The President of the United States, on his part, has appointed, Albert Gallatin, Their Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of France; and Richard Rush, Their Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of His Britannic Majesty: And His Majesty has appointed The Right Honorable Frederick John Robinson, Treasurer of His Majesty's Navy, and President of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations; and Henry Goulburn Esquire, One of His Majesty's Under Secretaries of State: Who, after having exchanged their respective Full Powers, found to be in due and proper Form, have agreed to and concluded the following Articles.

ARTICLE I.

Whereas differences have arisen respecting the Liberty claimed by the United States for the Inhabitants thereof, to take, dry, and cure Fish on certain Coasts, Bays, Harbours, and Creeks of His Britannic Majesty's Dominions in America, it is agreed between The High Contracting Parties, that the Inhabitants of the said United States shall have for ever, in common with the Subjects of His Britannic Majesty, the Liberty to take Fish of every kind on that part of the Southern Coast of Newfoundland which extends from Cape Ray to the Rameau Islands, on the Western and Northern Coast of Newfoundland, from the said Cape Ray to the Quirpon Islands on the Shores of the Magdalen Islands, and also on the Coasts, Bays, Harbours, and Creeks from Mount Joly on the Southern Coast of Labrador, to and through the Straights of Belleisle and thence Northwardly indefinitely along the Coast, without prejudice however, to any of the exclusive Rights of the Hudson Bay Company: and that the American Fishermen shall also have liberty for ever, to dry and cure Fish in any of the unsettled Bays, Harbours, and Creeks of the Southern part of the Coast of Newfoundland hereabove described, and of the Coast of Labrador; but so soon as the same, or any Portion thereof, shall be settled, it shall not be lawful for the said Fishermen to dry or cure Fish at such Portion so settled, without previous Agreement for such purpose with the Inhabitants, Proprietors, or Possessors of the Ground. And the United States hereby renounce for ever, any Liberty heretofore enjoyed or claimed by the Inhabitants thereof, to take, dry, or cure Fish on, or within three marine Miles of any of the Coasts, Bays, Creeks, or Harbours of His Britannic Majesty's Dominions in America not included within the above mentioned Limits; provided however, that the American Fishermen shall be admitted to enter such Bays or Harbours for the purpose of Shelter and of repairing Damages therein, of purchasing Wood, and of obtaining Water, and for no other purpose whatever. But they shall be under such Restrictions as may be necessary to prevent their taking, drying or curing Fish therein, or in any other manner whatever abusing the Privileges hereby reserved to them.

NOTES

The "documents showing the course and progress of the negotiation" of this convention, which were transmitted to the Senate, are printed in American State Papers, Foreign Relations, IV, 348-407.

There are two signed originals of this convention in the Department of State file; no variances between them have been noticed. Also in the file is a facsimile of the United States instrument of ratification, obtained from the British archives; and with the British instrument of ratification is a certificate of the exchange of ratifications on January 30, 1819, signed and sealed by John Quincy Adams and Charles Bagot.

The original proclamation has not been found; but it was published at the time (e. g., Niles' Weekly Register, XV, 434-36); it states the dates of the respective ratifications and also that they had been exchanged on the day of proclamation.

NOTE REGARDING ARTICLE 2

The northwesternmost point of the Lake of the Woods is in fact about 27½ miles north of the 49th parallel of north latitude. Accordingly, the effect of Article 2 was to provide "that a Line drawn from the said Point due . . . South . . . until the said Line shall intersect the said Parallel of North Latitude, and from the Point of such Intersection due West along . . . the said Parallel . . . shall form the Northern Boundary of the . . . United States . . . from the Lake of the Woods to the Stony [Rocky] Mountains."

That portion of the existing boundary between the United States and Canada which runs from the Lake of the Woods to the Rocky Mountains is shown by the present maps of the International Boundary Commission entitled "International Boundary from the Gulf of Georgia to the Northwesternmost Point of the Lake of the Woods"; the series comprises fifty-nine charts (Sheets Nos. 1 to 59, inclusive), and there is also an Index Sheet and a Profile Sheet. The line showing the summit of the Rocky Mountains appears on Sheet No. 19; the boundary eastwards from the Rocky Mountains to the Lake of the Woods is shown on Sheets Nos. 19 to 59, inclusive; Sheet No. 59 shows the northwesternmost point of the Lake of the Woods and also the turning point adopted in lieu thereof by the treaty of February 24, 1925. The charts are signed by the Commissioners of the United States and of His Britannic Majesty as adopted under Articles 6 and 7 of the treaty signed at Washington April 11, 1908. Sheets Nos. 1 to 19 were published in 1913; Sheets Nos. 20 to 41 were published in 1921; Sheets Nos. 42 to 44 and Nos. 53 to 58 are dated November 17, 1921; Sheets Nos. 45 to 52 are dated April 7, 1922; Sheet No. 59 is dated December 7, 1927.

Originals of the maps of the International Boundary Commission are in the archives of the Department of State; copies are obtainable from the office of the International Boundary Commission in Washington.
